CANADA

ELIZABETH THE SECOND, by the Grace of God of the United Kingdom, Canada and Her other Realms and Territories QUEEN, Head of the Commonwealth, Defender of the Faith.

TO Our Beloved and Faithful the Senators of Canada, and the Members elected to serve in the House of Commons of Canada, and to all whom these Presents may in anyway concern,

GREETING:

D. S. THORSON
Deputy Attorney General

A PROCLAMATION

Whereas We did, by and with the advice of Our Prime Minister of Canada, by Our Proclamation, summon and call together the House of Commons of Canada, to meet at Our City of Ottawa, on Wednesday, the thirty-first day of July, 1974, then and there to have conference and treaty with the Senate of Canada.

Know You That, Nevertheless, for certain causes and considerations, We do will that you and each of you be as to us in this matter entirely exonerated.

And Further Know You That, by and with the advice of Our Prime Minister of Canada, We do hereby command and enjoin you and each of you and all others in this behalf interested, that on Monday, the thirtieth day of September, 1974, at half-past ten o'clock in the forenoon, at Our City of Ottawa, personally you be and appear for the DESPATCH OF BUSINESS, to treat, do, act and conclude upon those things that in Our said Parliament of Canada, by the Common Council of Canada, may, by the favour of God, be ordained.

In Testimony Whereof, We have caused these Our Letters to be made Patent and the Great Seal of Canada to be hereunto affixed.

Witness: The Honourable R. G. Brian Dickson, a Puisne Judge of the Supreme Court of Canada and Deputy of the Right Honourable Bora Laskin, Chief Justice of Canada, Administrator of the Government of Canada.

At Ottawa, this seventeenth day of July in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and seventy-four and in the twenty-third year of Our Reign.

JOURNALS

OF THE

HOUSE OF COMMONS

OF CANADA

OTTAWA, THURSDAY, JULY 24, 1975

2.00 o'clock p.m.

PRAYERS

Mr. Sharp, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copies of correspondence and telegrams relating to the 10% excise tax on boats and motors in excess of 20 H.P.—Sessional Paper No. 301-7/26.

Mr. Loiselle (Saint-Henri), from the Standing Committee on Miscellaneous Private Bills and Standing Orders, presented the Fifth Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

Pursuant to its Order of Reference of Friday, July 18, 1975, your Committee has considered the petition of The Royal Canadian Legion, filed after the time limit specified under Standing Order 90, together with the Twelfth Report of the Clerk of Petitions thereon, presented to the House on Thursday, July 17, 1975.

The Parliamentary Agent stated that the delay beyond the time specified by Standing Order 90 was occasioned, in part, by factors beyond the control of the petitioner. Nevertheless, he stated that it is important that the proposed legislation be allowed to proceed during the present session of Parliament. He therefore respectfully asked that this petition be received.

After hearing the reasons given for the late filing of this petition, your Committee recommends that Standing Order 90 be suspended in relation thereto, and that this petition be received. It also recommends that the charges provided for by Standing Order 91(3)(a) and (c) be waived, due to the benevolent character of The Royal Canadian Legion.

The petition referred to above, together with the Twelfth Report of the Clerk of Petitions, are returned herewith.

A copy of the relevant Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence (Issue No. 4) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 111 to the Journals).

Mr. Baker (Grenville-Carleton), seconded by Mr. McKinley, by leave of the House, introduced Bill C-411, An Act to divide the calendar year into three Parliamentary semesters, which was read the first time and ordered to be printed and ordered for a second reading at the next sitting of the House.

Pursuant to Standing Order 39(4), the following Question was made an Order of the House for a Return:

No. 716—Mr. Stevens

1. In each fiscal year ending March 31, 1972, 1973 and 1974, and for the six month period ending September 30, 1974, what was the aggregate expenditure by the Department of Finance for travel abroad by (a) the Minister of Finance and his immediate staff (b) departmental staff (c) the staff of boards, commissions, tribunals, Crown corporations or other similar agencies reporting to the Minister (d) others whose expenses were paid in part or in whole directly or indirectly by the government?

2. In the case of an expenditure in excess of $200 (a) what was the purpose of the foreign trip (b) what was the furthest destination (c) what is the name of the person(s) who took the trip (d) how long was the person(s) outside the country (e) what was the nature of the expenditure (f) how many others were in the party making the trip?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/716.

Mr. Reid, Parliamentary Secretary to the President of the Privy Council, presented,—Return to the foregoing Order.

The House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Turner (Ottawa-Carleton), seconded by Mr. Sharp,—That Bill C-66, An Act to amend the Excise Tax Act, be now read a second time and referred to a Committee of the Whole.

And debate continuing;

[At 5.00 o'clock p.m., Private Members' Business was called pursuant to Standing Order 15(4)]

By unanimous consent, it was ordered,—That Bills C-213, C-222, C-232, C-279, C-287, C-290, C-292, C-304, C-307, C-336, C-362, C-389 and C-404 be withdrawn, the Orders discharged and the subject-matter of the Bills be referred to the Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections.

By unanimous consent, the House reverted to "Motions".

By unanimous consent, on motion of Mr. Loiselle (Saint-Henri), seconded by Mr. Comtois, the Fifth Report of the Standing Committee on Miscellaneous Private Bills and Standing Orders, presented to the House earlier this day, was concurred in.

(Private Bills)

Bill S-26, An Act respecting Alliance Security & Investigation, Ltd., as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Miscellaneous Private Bills and Standing Orders, was concurred in at the report stage, read the third time and passed.

The Order being read for the second reading and reference to the Standing Committee on Miscellaneous Private Bills and Standing Orders of Bill S-28, An Act respecting The Royal Canadian Legion;

Mr. Francis, seconded by Mr. Reid, moved,—That the Bill be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Miscellaneous Private Bills and Standing Orders.

Mr. Lambert (Edmonton West), seconded by Mr. Loiselle (Saint-Henri), moved in amendment thereto,—That the motion be amended by deleting therefrom all the words after the word "referred" and substituting therefor the following words:

"to a Committee of the Whole House."

And the question being put on the amendment, it was agreed to.

After debate on the motion, as amended, the Bill was read the second time, considered in Committee of the Whole, reported without amendment and concurred in at the report stage.

By unanimous consent, Mr. Francis, seconded by Mr. Loiselle (Saint-Henri), moved,—That the Bill be now read a third time and do pass.

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

Accordingly, the Bill was read the third time and passed.

Debate was resumed on the motion of Mr. Turner (Ottawa-Carleton), seconded by Mr. Sharp,—That Bill C-66, An Act to amend the Excise Tax Act, be now read a second time and referred to a Committee of the Whole.

After further debate, the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to on the following division:

Returns and Reports Deposited with the Clerk of the House

The following papers having been deposited with the Clerk of the House were laid upon the Table pursuant to Standing Order 41(1), namely:

By Mr. Jamieson, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council,—Report of the Operation of the Regional Development Incentives Act for the month of March, 1975, pursuant to section 16 of the Act, chapter R-3, R.S.C., 1970. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-1/324A.

By Mr. Whelan, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council,—Report of Agreements made under the Agricultural Products Co-operative Marketing Act for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1975, pursuant to section 7 of the Act, chapter A-6, R.S.C., 1970. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-1/53.

By the Examiner of Petitions for Private Bills, Sixth Report pursuant to Standing Order 97(2), as follows:

The Examiner of Petitions for Private Bills has the honour to report that the following petitioners have complied with the requirements of Standing Order 93:

The Royal Canadian Legion, of the City of Ottawa, Ontario, praying for the passing of an Act amending its Act of Incorporation empowering it to provide for the revocation and surrender of charters of commands and branches and the control of the disposition of property of commands and branches and making incidental changes to provisions requiring clarification or no longer applicable.

At 10.33 o'clock p.m., the House adjourned until tomorrow at 11.00 o'clock a.m., pursuant to Standing Order 2(1).

Accordingly, the Bill was read the second time, considered in Committee of the Whole and progress having been made and reported, the Committee obtained leave to consider it again at the next sitting of the House.

A Message was received from the Senate informing this House that the Senate had passed Bill C-1,001, An Act to provide an exception from the general law relating to marriage in the case of Richard Fritz and Marianne Strass, without amendment.

(Proceedings on Adjournment Motion)

At 10.09 o'clock p.m., the question "That this House do now adjourn" was deemed to have been proposed pursuant to Standing Order 40(1);

After debate the question was deemed to have been adopted.

Changes in Committee Membership

Notice having been filed with the Clerk of the House pursuant to Standing Order 65(4)(b), membership of Committees was amended as follows:

No. 179

JOURNALS

OF THE

HOUSE OF COMMONS

OF CANADA

OTTAWA, FRIDAY, JULY 25, 1975

11.00 o'clock a.m.

PRAYERS

By unanimous consent, pursuant to Standing Order 43, on motion of Mr. Pinard, seconded by Mr. Wagner, it was resolved,—That the federal government immediately offers all available assistance to the victims of Saint-Bonaventure and assures them of the cooperation of all departments concerned.

By unanimous consent, pursuant to Standing Order 43, on motion of Mr. Smith (Churchill), seconded by Mr. Darling, it was resolved,—That congratulatory messages be sent from this House to those Bands of Treaty Indians adhering to the provisions of The Lake Winnipeg Treaty Number Five and who, early in August, will be celebrating the 100th Anniversary of the signing of The Treaty.

Mr. Trudeau, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copies of the fourth report, dated April, 1975, to the Right Honourable the Prime Minister of Canada, of the Advisory Group on Executive Compensation in the Public Service. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-1/75.

Mr. MacEachen, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copies of Agreement between the International Atomic Energy Agency and the Government of the Republic of Argentina for the Application of Safeguards to the Embalse Power Reactor Facility.—Sessional Paper No. 301-6/208A.

The following Notice of Motion having been called was transferred to Government Orders for consideration at the next sitting of the House pursuant to Standing Order 21(2):

That the Order numbered "Government Business, Number 9" be discharged; and

That the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs be authorized to consider the Government's program of guideline dates for metric conversion.—The President of the Privy Council.

On motion of Mr. Sharp, seconded by Mr. MacEachen, pursuant to Standing Order 75A, it was ordered,—That, in relation to Bill C-2, An Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Bank Act and to repeal an Act to amend an Act to amend the Combines Investigation

Act and the Criminal Code, two sitting days shall be allotted to the consideration of the report stage and the third reading and passage stage of the said Bill;

That, after the disposal of the report stage of the said Bill, the House shall proceed forthwith to the consideration of the third reading and passage stage of the said Bill; and

That, on the second of the said days, at fifteen minutes before the expiry of the time provided for government business in such sitting, any proceeding then before the House shall be interrupted, if required for the purpose of this order, in turn, every question then necessary in order to dispose of the report stage and the third reading and passage stage of the said Bill shall be put forthwith and successively without further debate or amendment.

A question of privilege having been raised on Wednesday, July 24, 1975 in relation to a newspaper article on the conduct of the honourable Member for Kenora-Rainy River;

RULING BY MR. SPEAKER

MR. SPEAKER: In terms of the basic question I have to decide, I do not think it is necessary to hear any further representations. The proposed motions that have been put forward by the honourable Member for York-Simcoe (Mr. Stevens) and the honourable Member for Oshawa-Whitby (Mr. Broadbent) are similar in two very fundamental respects. Both relate to the subject of an investigation by the Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections as to conflict of interest in general terms. I would remind honourable Members that if they seek consideration of a general question of that sort there is nothing to restrict them in their ability to put down a substantive motion at any time and to ask the House to consider the advisability of examining into the question of conflict of interest or even the actions of a particular instance or what might be an example. I differentiate in the fact that what is sought by way of a question of privilege, if it relates to the conduct of an individual Member, must be a specific charge that that Member has in fact done something that abuses the privileges of the House and that Member who puts forward such a motion ought to have the burden of carrying that before the Committee.

This is not to say that no Member in a situation of this sort—I want to repeat and emphasize this—has the power to say that because of this examination or because of the possibility that exists we ought to be able to examine the question of conflict of interest or leakage of budget secrets or whatever the general subject may be. Any honourable Member who wants to move the House to that effect is able to do it by way of a substantive motion.

Procedurally I have to decide whether such a request for a general investigation into the grounds of a specialized motion of privilege gives it precedence over other general motions. My general impression, without going into the details, for reasons which I will elaborate later, is that I will probably not find in favour of a request for a general investigation of the case by the Committee; in other words that the Committee find the facts and that the Committee find out whether such an abuse of the practices of the House has taken place.

I would think that a motion to be a privileged motion would have to be much more specific than that in respect of the conduct of any Member. I think that is a long established precedent of the House and we have to remain with it. On the other hand, I am spared some of the agony that the decision would involve in my opinion by virtue of the fact that it is not another Member who seeks to charge the honourable Member for Kenora-Rainy River (Mr. Reid) with a breach of conduct but rather in the circumstances it is the honourable Member for Kenora-Rainy River himself who in his own motion for privilege seeks to have the Committee examine the conduct of the Montreal Gazette and another paper obviously inviting in the examination of that an examination of the veracity of their statement and therefore an examination of his own conduct as a Member by that Standing Committee. An article has been described in the House as having accused an honourable Member of a breach of the Official Secrets Act and of a breach of his privileges or rights or an abuse of his rights as a Member of this House. The honourable Member stood in his place and denied the accuracy of that article.

Therefore, what is at issue is an alleged use of a national newspaper to accuse falsely a Member of a misuse of his privileges as a Member of this House. Certainly there has been a disposition on all sides of the House to say that if there is a suggestion that such a thing has taken place it is a fundamental interference with the rights of every Member of the House of Commons to operate freely and perform his functions freely. If that question exists in general terms, and in the circumstances which are before me I can scarcely decide otherwise, I cannot see in any way that the Chair ought to interpose itself from a procedural point of view and prevent the House having an opportunity to take a decision in respect of that. I do stress after all that it is in the final analysis a decision of this House which will say whether or not the matter goes to the Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections where the matters that have been discussed and raised by almost all Members who have participated will be possible.

Therefore I have no hesitation under the circumstances to say that in my opinion the honourable Member for Kenora-Rainy River does in fact have a prima facie case of privilege and the House ought now to decide on the disposition of that prima facie case of privilege in the terms of the motion he has put forward.

Whereupon, Mr. Reid, seconded by Mr. Ethier, moved,—That all articles contained in the July 24th and July 25th Montreal Gazette relating to the conduct of the Member for Kenora-Rainy River vis-à-vis the November 18th Budget, including most especially the allegations that the said Member had advance knowledge of the said Budget and conveyed that knowledge to businessmen and the discrepancy in the editing of the Gazette's purported transcript of the proceedings of this House as compared to the report in House of Commons Debates, be referred to the Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections.

Further consideration of the question of privilege was deferred until 2.00 o'clock p.m. this day.

Bill C-66, An Act to amend the Excise Tax Act was again considered in Committee of the Whole and progress having been made and reported the Committee obtained leave to consider it again later this day.

Consideration was resumed on the motion of Mr. Reid, seconded by Mr. Ethier,—That all articles contained in the July 24th and July 25th Montreal Gazette relating to the conduct of the Member for Kenora-Rainy River vis-à-vis the November 18th Budget, including most especially the allegations that the said Member had advance knowledge of the said Budget and conveyed that knowledge to businessmen and the discrepancy in the editing of the Gazette's purported transcript of the proceedings of this House as compared to the report in House of Commons Debates, be referred to the Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections.

Mr. Broadbent, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), moved,—That the motion be amended by deleting therefrom the words "most especially", and also by inserting therein, immediately after the word "businessmen", the following words: "and that the said Member had advance knowledge from official sources of amendments to be proposed to a Bill emanating from the said Budget and conveyed that knowledge to businessmen".

After debate thereon, the question being put on the amendment, it was agreed to.

And the question being put on the motion, as amended, it was agreed to and is as follows:

That all articles contained in the July 24th and July 25th Montreal Gazette relating to the conduct of the Member for Kenora-Rainy River vis-à-vis the November 18th Budget, including the allegations that the said Member had advance knowledge of the said Budget and conveyed that knowledge to businessmen, and that the said Member had advance knowledge from official sources of amendments to be proposed to a Bill emanating from the said Budget and conveyed that knowledge to businessmen, and the discrepancy in the editing of the Gazette's purported transcript of the proceedings of this House as compared to the report in House of Commons Debates, be referred to the Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections.

The House resumed consideration in Committee of the Whole of Bill C-66, An Act to amend the Excise Tax Act and further progress having been made and reported the Committee obtained leave to consider it again at the next sitting of the House.

[At 4.00 o'clock p.m., Private Members' Business was called pursuant to Standing Order 15(4)]

(Notices of Motions)

Notices of Motions Nos. 2, 15, 19, 20, 34 and 37 having been called were allowed to stand at the request of the government.

Mr. Beaudoin, seconded by Mr. Matte, moved,—That, in the opinion of this House, a study should be made on industrial milk-producers in order that the government take the necessary steps to guarantee to these producers prices that would take into account production costs in view of reducing the number of industrial milk-producers who abandon their activities.—(Notice of Motion No. 40).

And debate arising thereon;

The hour for Private Members' Business expired.

A Message was received from the Senate informing this House that the Senate had agreed to the amendment made by the House of Commons to Bill S-26, An Act respecting Alliance Security & Investigation Ltd., without amendment.

A Message was received from the Senate informing this House that the name of the Honourable Senator Robichaud had been substituted for that of the Honourable Senator McElman on the list of Senators serving on the Special Joint Committee on the National Capital Region.

PRAYERS

Pursuant to Standing Order 39(4), the following Question was made an Order of the House for a Return:

No. 1,204—Mr. Korchinski

1. In the past three years, how many employees did each Minister have on staff?

2. What are the total salaries of each Minister's staff?
—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/1,204.

Mr. Reid, Parliamentary Secretary to the President of the Privy Council, presented,—Return to the foregoing Order.

Mr. Sharp, seconded by Mr. Marchand (Langelier), moved,—That, when the House adjourns this day, it shall stand adjourned until a time to be fixed by Mr. Speaker, after consultation with the Government, when the House may meet for the purpose of dealing with any subsequent proceeding on or the giving of Royal Assent to any bill or bills that, at the time of adjournment this day, have been given third reading in this House but have not yet been given Royal Assent;

That, after the giving of Royal Assent to the said bill or bills, or in the event the House does not meet for that purpose, the House shall be adjourned or shall stand adjourned, as the case may be, until October 14, 1975, provided that at any time prior to that date if it appears to the satisfaction of Mr. Speaker, after consultation with the Government, that the public interest requires that the House should meet at an earlier time during the adjournment, Mr. Speaker may give notice that he is so satisfied, and thereupon the House shall meet at the time stated in such notice, and shall transact its business as if it had been duly adjourned to the time;

And that, in the event of Mr. Speaker's being unable to act, owing to illness or other cause, the Deputy Speaker or the Deputy Chairman of Committees shall act in his stead for the purpose of reconvening the House.

And debate arising thereon;

A Message was received from the Senate informing this House that the Senate had passed Bill C-66, An Act to amend the Excise Tax Act, without amendment.

Mr. Speaker communicated to the House the following letter:

GOVERNMENT HOUSE
OTTAWA

July 30, 1975

Sir,

I have the honour to inform you that the Honourable Wilfred Judson, Puisne Judge of the Supreme Court of Canada, in his capacity as Deputy Governor General, will proceed to the Senate Chamber today, the 30th day of July, at 4.45 p.m. for the purpose of giving Royal Assent to certain bills.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your obedient servant,

R. de C. NANTEL

Assistant Secretary to the Governor General.

The Honourable
The Speaker of the House of Commons.

A Message was received from the Honourable Wilfred Judson, Puisne Judge of the Supreme Court of Canada, acting as Deputy Governor General, desiring the immediate attendance of the House in the Senate Chamber.

Accordingly, Mr. Speaker went with the House to the Senate Chamber.

And being returned;

Mr. Speaker reported that when the House did attend the Honourable the Deputy Governor General in the Senate Chamber, His Honour was pleased to give, in Her Majesty's name, the Royal Assent to the following Bills:

Bill C-8, An Act to establish a national petroleum company.—Chapter No. 61.

Bill C-66, An Act to amend the Excise Tax Act.—Chapter No. 62.

Bill C-50, An Act to amend the Agricultural Stabilization Act.—Chapter No. 63.

Bill C-53, An Act to amend the Prairie Grain Advance Payments Act, No. 2.—Chapter No. 64.

Bill C-57, An Act to amend the Federal-Provincial Fiscal Arrangements Act, 1972.—Chapter No. 65.

Bill C-16, An Act to amend certain statutes to provide equality of status thereunder for male and female persons.—Chapter No. 66.

Bill C-63, An Act to amend the Olympic (1976) Act.—Chapter No. 68.

Bill S-25, An Act to amend the Privileges and Immunities (International Organizations) Act.—Chapter No. 69.

Bill C-67, An Act to amend the Customs Tariff, (No. 3).—Chapter No. 70.

Bill C-1,001, An Act to provide an exception from the general law relating to marriage in the case of Richard Fritz and Marianne Strass.

Bill S-24, An Act to incorporate the Canadian Commercial and Industrial Bank.

Bill S-26, An Act respecting Alliance Security & Investigation, Ltd.

Bill S-28, An Act respecting The Royal Canadian Legion.

Debate was resumed on the motion of Mr. Sharp, seconded by Mr. Marchand (Langelier),—That, when the House adjourns this day, it shall stand adjourned until a time to be fixed by Mr. Speaker, after consultation with the Government, when the House may meet for the purpose of dealing with any subsequent proceeding on or the giving of Royal Assent to any bill or bills that, at the time of adjournment this day, have been given third reading in this House but have not yet been given Royal Assent;

That, after the giving of Royal Assent to the said bill or bills, or in the event the House does not meet for that purpose, the House shall be adjourned or shall stand adjourned, as the case may be, until October 14, 1975, provided that at any time prior to that date if it appears to the satisfaction of Mr. Speaker, after consultation with the Government, that the public interest requires that the House should meet at an earlier time during the adjournment, Mr. Speaker may give notice that he is so satisfied, and thereupon the House shall meet at the time stated in such notice, and shall transact its business as if it had been duly adjourned to that time;

And that, in the event of Mr. Speaker's being unable to act, owing to illness or other cause, the Deputy Speaker or the Deputy Chairman of Committees shall act in his stead for the purpose of reconvening the House.

After further debate, the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

Introduction

The purpose of this study is to investigate the effects of various factors on the performance of a system. The study is divided into two main parts: a theoretical analysis and an experimental investigation. The theoretical analysis focuses on the development of a model that can predict the system's behavior under different conditions. The experimental investigation involves the design and execution of a series of tests to validate the model and to determine the range of conditions over which it is applicable. The results of the study are presented in the form of a series of graphs and tables, which show the relationship between the system's performance and the various factors under consideration. The study concludes with a discussion of the implications of the findings and a list of references.

The first part of the study is a theoretical analysis of the system. This involves the development of a model that can predict the system's behavior under different conditions. The model is based on a set of assumptions that are discussed in detail in the following sections. The second part of the study is an experimental investigation. This involves the design and execution of a series of tests to validate the model and to determine the range of conditions over which it is applicable. The results of the study are presented in the form of a series of graphs and tables, which show the relationship between the system's performance and the various factors under consideration. The study concludes with a discussion of the implications of the findings and a list of references.

HOUSE OF COMMONS

OF CANADA

OTTAWA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1975

2.00 o'clock p.m.

PRAYERS

Mr. Lalonde, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copies of a report by the Advisory Committee of the Canada Pension Plan entitled: "The Rate of Return on the Investment Fund of the Canada Pension Plan", dated June, 1975. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-1/83B.

Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), seconded by Mr. Sharp, by leave of the House, introduced Bill C-73, An Act to provide for the restraint of profit margins, prices, dividends and compensation in Canada, which was read the first time and ordered to be printed and ordered for a second reading at the next sitting of the House.

The text of the Message and Recommendation of the Governor General pursuant to Standing Order 62(2) in relation to the foregoing Bill is as follows:

His Excellency the Governor General recommends to the House of Commons a measure to provide for the restraint of profit margins, prices, dividends and compensation in Canada; to provide for the establishment of an Anti-Inflation Board composed of such members as are from time to time appointed by the Governor in Council; to provide for the remuneration and expenses of the members, for the staff of the Board, for the remuneration and expenses of technical assistance, and that members of the Board and persons engaged for technical assistance shall be deemed to be persons employed in the Public Service for purposes of the Public Service Superannuation Act; to provide for an Administrator and one or more Deputy Administrators for the purposes of the measure; to provide for the staff of the office of the Administrator, for the remuneration and expenses of technical assistance and, for persons engaged for technical assistance to be deemed to be persons employed in the Public Service for purposes of the Public Service Superannuation Act; to provide for an Anti-Inflation Appeal Tribunal composed of a Chairman and such other members as are from time to time appointed by the Governor in Council, for the salary and expenses of the Chairman, and for the fees, remuneration and expenses of each other member; to provide for the staff of the Tribunal, for the remuneration and expenses of technical assistance and for persons engaged for technical assistance to be deemed to be members of the Public Service for purposes of the Public Service Superannuation Act; to provide for interest to be paid at a rate prescribed by regulation on any amount held pending disposition of an appeal to the Tribunal; and to provide for the measure to expire on December 31, 1978.

Pursuant to Standing Order 39(4), the following two Questions were made Orders of the House for Returns:

No. 2,885—Mr. Hnatyshyn

In regard to the 96 community pastures operated by PFRA, in each case (a) where is it located (b) what is its size (c) what was its (i) revenue (ii) cost for the years 1972, 1973 and 1974?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/2,885.

No. 3,094—Mr. Beatty

For each of the past five years, what was the government's annual bill for electricity?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/3,094.

Mr. Blais, Parliamentary Secretary to the President of the Privy Council, presented,—Returns to the foregoing Orders.

Bill C-2, An Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Bank Act and to repeal an Act to amend an Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Criminal Code, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs, was again considered at the report stage.

Whereupon, the House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Rodriguez, seconded by Mr. Symes,—That Bill C-2, An Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Bank Act and to repeal an Act to amend an Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Criminal Code, be amended in Clause 18 by

(a) striking out line 45 on page 30

(b) replacing the period (.) at line 14 on page 31 with a semi-colon (;); and

(c) adding immediately after line 14 on page 31 the following subsections:

“(e) make a representation to the public containing exaggerated price claims of a general nature, unless such claims are fully supported by evidence of a substantial nature;

(f) make a representation to the public that, either explicitly or implicitly, arouses or tends to arouse unwarranted expectations of product effectiveness;

(g) make a representation to the public containing claims for product effectiveness that are not fully supported by substantial evidence;

(h) make a representation to the public containing suggestions, either implicit or explicit, of product effectiveness in areas other than those in which the product is intended primarily to have effect;

(i) make a representation to the public that uses the word ‘new’, or any comparable word, to describe a product, unless it is a new product or one that has had a qualitative change in one or more of its active ingredients or parts, in which case the use of the word ‘new’ shall be limited to a period not exceeding six months;

(j) make a representation to the public that uses the word ‘improved’, or any comparable word, unless the change in an existing product is one that can be proven to be beneficial to the user, in which case the use of the word ‘improved’ shall be limited to a period not exceeding six months;

(k) make a representation to the public that ignores, or fails to describe fully, any undesirable side-effects that may result from the use of the product;

(l) and in all cases, products shall be sold on the basis of definable qualities and grades, where that is possible.”.

After further debate, the question being put on the motion, pursuant to section 11 of Standing Order 75, a recorded division was deferred.

By unanimous consent, Motion numbered 5, standing in the name of the honourable Member for York-Simcoe (Mr. Stevens), which is as follows:

“That Bill C-2, An Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Bank Act and to repeal an Act to amend an Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Criminal Code, be amended in Clause 12 by adding to subclause 31.4(5) immediately after line 34 on page 18 the following:

“(c) companies, partnerships, sole proprietorships, and persons are affiliated if between them there exists a contract for a definite or indefinite period, in which one grants to another the right to use a trade mark or trade name to identify the grantee's business related to the sale or distribution of commodities or services pursuant to a marketing plan or system prescribed substantially by the grantor.”

and by striking out the word “and” at the end of paragraph (a) and adding the word “and” at the end of paragraph (b) thereof.”.

And on which a division was ordered deferred June 10, 1975, was withdrawn and the following Motion of the Honourable the Minister of Consumer and Corporate Affairs Mr. Ouellet substituted therefor:

“That Bill C-2, An Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Bank Act and to repeal an Act to amend an Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Criminal Code, be amended in Clause 12 by adding to subclause 31.4(5) immediately after line 34 on page 18 the following:

“(c) A company, partnership or sole proprietorship is affiliated with another company, partnership or sole proprietorship in respect of any agreement between them whereby one party grants to the other party the right to use a trade mark or trade name to identify the business of the grantee, provided

(i) such business is related to the sale or distribution, pursuant to a marketing plan or system prescribed substantially by the grantor, of a multiplicity of products obtained from competing sources of supply and a multiplicity of suppliers; and

(ii) no one product dominates such business."

and by striking out the word "and" at the end of line 29, substituting a semi-colon for the period at the end of line 34 and adding, immediately after such semi-colon, the word "and"."

Mr. Rodriguez, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), moved,—That Bill C-2, An Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Bank Act and to repeal an Act to amend an Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Criminal Code, be amended in Clause 18 by striking out lines 19 to 36 on page 38 and substituting therefor "chance and skill whatever."

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, pursuant to section 11 of Standing Order 75, a recorded division was deferred.

Mr. Rodriguez, seconded by Mr. Leggatt, moved,—That Bill C-2, An Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Bank Act and to repeal an Act to amend an Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Criminal Code, be amended in Clause 18 by adding immediately after line 46 on page 38 the following Section:

"37.2A (1) No person shall offer a product for sale to the public under conditions which enhance, or are intended to enhance, the appearance, colour, or other characteristic of the product in an artificial way or through artificial means, or which are intended in any way to deceive the public as to the true appearance or quality of the product, or both.

(2) No person engaged in the supplying of products to the public shall obstruct the view of cash register windows or, in any other way, whether deliberate or not, conceal the price actually being charged to a customer.

(3) No person shall offer a product for sale to the public that does not have the price per unit clearly indicated on the item or in some other way.

(4) No person shall offer a product for sale to the public at a price which exceeds, in terms of price per unit, the price at which smaller quantities of that same product are offered by the same person.

(5) No person shall offer a product for sale to the public at a price that does not fully reflect the intended consequences of any government subsidy programme then in effect with respect to that particular product.

(6) No person who offers a product for sale to the public shall distribute, or offer to distribute, coupons or stamps of any kind that are redeemable for cash, gifts, or any other consideration.

(7) Any person who violates subsections (1) to (6) is guilty of an offence and is liable

(a) on conviction on indictment, to imprisonment not exceeding five years; or

(b) on summary conviction to a fine in the discretion of the court or imprisonment for not more than one year, or to both."

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, pursuant to section 11 of Standing Order 75, a recorded division was deferred.

Mr. Rodriguez, seconded by Mr. Leggatt, moved,—That Bill C-2, An Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Bank Act and to repeal an Act to amend an Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Criminal Code, be amended in Clause 18 by striking out the proposed subsection 38(5), lines 12 to 14 on page 41, and renumbering the following subsections accordingly.

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, pursuant to section 11 of Standing Order 75, a recorded division was deferred.

Mr. Ouellet, seconded by Mr. Whelan, moved,—That Bill C-2, An Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Bank Act and to repeal an Act to amend an Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Criminal Code, be amended in Clause 19 by striking out line 21 on page 43 thereof and substituting therefor the following:

"may be instituted at any time within two years after the".

And the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

Mr. Ouellet, seconded by Mr. Whelan moved,—That Bill C-2, An Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Bank Act and to repeal an Act to amend an Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Criminal Code, be amended in Clause 12 by adding to subclause 31.4(5) immediately after line 34 on page 18 the following:

"(c) A company, partnership or sole proprietorship is affiliated with another company, partnership or sole proprietorship in respect of any agreement between them whereby one party grants to the other party the right to use a trade mark or trade name to identify the business of the grantee, provided

(i) such business is related to the sale or distribution, pursuant to a marketing plan or system prescribed substantially by the grantor, of a multiplicity of products obtained from competing sources of supply and a multiplicity of suppliers; and

(ii) no one product dominates such business."

and by striking out the word "and" at the end of line 29, substituting a semi-colon for the period at the end of line 34 and adding, immediately after such semi-colon, the word "and".

And the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

[At 5.00 o'clock p.m., Private Members' Business was called pursuant to Standing Order 15(4)]

[Notices of Motions (Papers)]

Mr. Munro (Esquimalt-Saanich), seconded by Mr. McKinley, moved,—That an Order of the House do issue for copies of the Area Programme Summaries for the years 1972-73, 1973-74 and 1974-75, covering such areas as Commonwealth Africa, South America, Francophone Africa, and any other area breakdowns for which Area Programmes have been prepared.—(Notice of Motion for the Production of Papers No. 30).

And debate arising thereon;

The hour for Private Members' Business expired.

Consideration was resumed at the report stage of Bill C-2, An Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Bank Act and to repeal an Act to amend an Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Criminal Code, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs.

Motion numbered 6, standing in the name of the honourable Member for York-Simcoe (Mr. Stevens) having been called, as follows:

That Bill C-2, An Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Bank Act and to repeal an Act to amend an Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Criminal Code, be amended in Clause 12 by adding immediately after line 27 on page 23 the following:

"(2) Notwithstanding the provisions of section 31 of this Act,

(a) forthwith after this Act is assented to in Her Majesty's name, the Governor in Council shall, but otherwise as provided under section 55 of the Supreme Court Act, refer all questions of law and fact concerning the constitutionality of section 31.1 and PART IV.1 and every provision of such section and such PART to the Supreme Court;

(b) until the Supreme Court has certified to the Governor in Council its opinion upon each such question, no provision of such section or such PART shall come into force at the time of commencement provided therefor under this Act or the Interpretation Act and then only to the extent, if any, such provision is in the opinion of the Court within the legislative authority of the Parliament of Canada;

(c) the attorney general of each province shall be notified of the hearing under this subsection in order that he may be heard if he thinks fit."

RULING BY MR. SPEAKER

MR. SPEAKER: If there are no other honourable Members who are anxious to participate in this very interesting discussion the Chair is left very much with the conclusion it had come to at the beginning of the discussion.

I also thank the honourable Member for Edmonton West (Mr. Lambert) for his very spirited intervention on behalf of his colleague on the procedural regularity of this motion. The fact is, and this seems inescapable, that the motion would exceed the scope of the bill in several relevant particulars, not the least of which is that it does indeed appear to use the words, "notwithstanding section 31 of the Act," whereas in fact the bill before us does not propose to amend section 31. Further, the proposed motion uses the words "notwithstanding section 55 of the Supreme Court Act" which again is not before us. In any case, in its intent, it puts within this very statute a section which refers a section of the Act which is before us for interpretation by the Supreme Court before this section can come into force. It further adds, in paragraph (B), what could very well be a purely hypothetical condition, and then in paragraph (C) goes on to attach a condition that the attorney general of each province shall be notified of a hearing under this subsection in order that he may be heard if he thinks fit. The fact of the matter is that it seems to add an indefinite condition, again in paragraph (C).

Basically, however, the major difficulty remains the same. That is to say, it is suggested that the statute, or this particular section of the Act before the House of Commons, be referred to the Supreme Court of Canada for an interpretation, and thereafter, depending upon what the interpretation of that Court might be, this part of the Act might come into force. It would seem to the Chair that even if the clause were to be proposed in respect of a substantive measure before the House rather than simply an amending statute, it would still be offensive, and would go beyond the scope of any bill which this House might enact. It seems to me to be repulsive to any act of Parliament that it should contain within it a condition that the Act must be referred in any part or in any particular to any other body for interpretation before it comes into force. Indeed, power already rests in the hands of any citizen who wants to attack any bill on its constitutionality to take it before the Supreme Court of Canada. But to put such a clause in a statute indicating that an act of Parliament or any clause of an act of Parliament would not come into force until that was done seems to me to go beyond the scope of any statute which comes before it. Certainly it goes beyond the scope of the Bill before us which seeks only to amend certain clauses of another act.

Therefore the Chair has come to the conclusion that the motion is procedurally unacceptable.

Motion numbered 24, standing in the name of the honourable Member for Nickel Belt (Mr. Rodriguez) having been called, as follows:

That Bill C-2, An Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Bank Act and to repeal an Act to amend an Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Criminal Code, be amended in Clause 22 by adding immediately after line 39 on page 46, the following new section:

"45.4 (1) In any conviction for an offence under Part V, or section 46.1, the court may, if it is satisfied that the person convicted has, by reason of the offence, derived revenue that exceeds the revenue he would have derived if he had not engaged in that practice,

(a) make such order as it deems appropriate to require the person to refund to the persons from whom he derived the excess revenue if those persons are reasonably identifiable or, in any other case, generally to persons thereafter acquiring the product from him, an amount equal to the whole or any portion of the excess revenue so derived, as estimated by the court, or

(b) where, in its opinion, an order under paragraph (a) is not practicable, by order, direct the person to pay to Her Majesty in right of Canada as a penalty an amount specified in the order equal to the whole or any portion of the excess revenue so derived, as estimated by the court.

(2) An amount directed to be paid to Her Majesty in right of Canada as a penalty pursuant to paragraph 1(b) is a debt due to Her Majesty and is recoverable as such in any court of competent jurisdiction."

RULING BY MR. SPEAKER

MR. SPEAKER: There apparently being no other honourable Members who wish to contribute to this interesting point, the text of Motion numbered 24 proposes to amend Clause 22 of the Bill. The fact is that Clause 22 of the Bill deals with the collection of statistics and with various aspects of reporting facts and figures. It does not in any way deal with penalties. This motion introduces not only a penalty which does not belong or is any way germane to Clause 22 but, furthermore, introduces a new concept into the penalty provisions as well.

In view of the fact that the amendment proposes to amend Clause 22 and is beyond the scope of that Clause, I have to hold that the amendment is procedurally unacceptable.

I just want to add that when this matter was first raised months ago I made the following remark. I am not going to quote it in detail, but I referred to the procedural difficulty facing Motions numbered 6 and 24 in a general way. The language I used with respect to Motion numbered 24 may have been confusing in that I obviously made a cross reference to some aspects of Motion numbered 6. However, I went on to say this. I do not have the date of my remarks before me but it was sometime ago, certainly long before the recess when the report stage of the Bill was first considered. At that time I indicated that Motion numbered 24 proposed penalties which, in the opinion of the Chair, were not in any way germane to Clause 22 of the Bill which it sought to amend.

Having made that reference at that time, I thought it might have been ample forewarning that, if it was simply a readjustment of the location of the Motion, it might have been adjusted in the interval. In any event, the matter is before the Chair at the present time. The Motion proposes to amend Clause 22. It is obviously well beyond the scope of Clause 22; therefore, with regret I have to rule that it is unacceptable.

And the House having proceeded to the deferred division on the amendment of Mr. Lambert (Edmonton West), seconded by Mr. Baldwin,—That Motion numbered 8 be amended by striking out all the words following the word "following" and by substituting therefor the following:

"and is liable on conviction to a fine in the discretion of the court or to imprisonment for five years, or to both."

And the question being put on the amendment, it was agreed to on the following division:

And the House having proceeded to the deferred division on the motion of Mr. Rodriguez, seconded by Mr. Symes,—That Bill C-2, An Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Bank Act and to repeal an Act to amend an Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Criminal Code, be amended in Clause 18 by

(a) striking out line 45 on page 30

(b) replacing the period (.) at line 14 on page 31 with a semi-colon (;); and

(c) adding immediately after line 14 on page 31 the following subsections:

“(e) make a representation to the public containing exaggerated price claims of a general nature, unless such claims are fully supported by evidence of a substantial nature;

(f) make a representation to the public that, either explicitly or implicitly, arouses or tends to arouse unwarranted expectations of product effectiveness;

(g) make a representation to the public containing claims for product effectiveness that are not fully supported by substantial evidence;

(h) make a representation to the public containing suggestions, either implicit or explicit, of product effectiveness in areas other than those in which the product is intended primarily to have effect;

(i) make a representation to the public that uses the word ‘new’, or any comparable word, to describe a product, unless it is a new product or one that has had a qualitative change in one or more of its active ingredients or parts, in which case the use of the word ‘new’ shall be limited to a period not exceeding six months;

(j) make a representation to the public that uses the word ‘improved’, or any comparable word, unless the change in an existing product is one that can be proven to be beneficial to the user, in which case the use of the word ‘improved’ shall be limited to a period not exceeding six months;

(k) make a representation to the public that ignores, or fails to describe fully, any undesirable side-effects that may result from the use of the product;

(l) and in all cases, products shall be sold on the basis of definable qualities and grades, where that is possible.”.

And the question being put on the motion, it was negatived on the following division:

And the House having proceeded to the deferred division on the motion of Mr. Rodriguez, seconded by Mr. Leggatt,—That Bill C-2, An Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Bank Act and to repeal an Act to amend an Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Criminal Code, be amended in Clause 18 by adding immediately after line 46 on page 38 the following Section:

"37.2A(1) No person shall offer a product for sale to the public under conditions which enhance, or are intended to enhance, the appearance, colour, or other characteristic of the product in an artificial way or through artificial means, or which are intended in any way to deceive the public as to the true appearance or quality of the product, or both.

(2) No person engaged in the supplying of products to the public shall obstruct the view of cash register windows or, in any other way, whether deliberate or not, conceal the price actually being charged to a customer.

(3) No person shall offer a product for sale to the public that does not have the price per unit clearly indicated on the item or in some other way.

(4) No person shall offer a product for sale to the public at a price which exceeds, in terms of price per unit, the price at which smaller quantities of that same product are offered by the same person.

(5) No person shall offer a product for sale to the public at a price that does not fully reflect the intended consequences of any government subsidy programme then in effect with respect to that particular product.

(6) No person who offers a product for sale to the public shall distribute, or offer to distribute, coupons or stamps of any kind that are redeemable for cash, gifts, or any other consideration.

(7) Any person who violates subsections (1) to (6) is guilty of an offence and is liable

(a) on conviction on indictment, to imprisonment not exceeding five years; or

(b) on summary conviction to a fine in the discretion of the court or imprisonment for not more than one year, or both."

JOURNALS

OF THE

HOUSE OF COMMONS

OF CANADA

OTTAWA, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1975

11.00 o'clock a.m.

PRAYERS

Mr. Blaker, from the Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, presented the Sixth Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

Your Committee has considered its Order of Reference dated Friday, July 25, 1975 which reads as follows:

That all articles contained in the July 24th and 25th Montreal Gazette relating to the conduct of the Member for Kenora-Rainy River vis à vis the November 18th Budget, including the allegations that the said Member had advance knowledge of the said Budget and conveyed that knowledge to businessmen, and that the said Member had advance knowledge from official sources of amendments to be proposed to a Bill emanating from the said Budget and conveyed that knowledge to businessmen, and the discrepancy in the editing of the Gazette's purported transcript of the proceedings of this House as compared to the report in House of Commons Debates, be referred to the Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections.

Your Committee held ten meetings and adduced evidence from thirteen witnesses, and has agreed to make the following observations:

1. Your Committee reasserts the principle that the reputation of every Member of the House of Commons must continue to be protected because a reflection upon a Member is a reflection upon the House itself. At the same time, your Committee is conscious of the balance which must be struck between the principle that Parliament should be protected from improper obstruction of its functions and the principle of freedom of speech of the citizen to criticize the institution or membership of Parliament.

2. Your Committee finds there was no evidence before the Committee to indicate that the honourable Member for Kenora-Rainy River had advance knowledge of the contents of the Budget presented November 18th last, as was admitted by the Montreal Gazette's retraction in its issue of July 25th, nor was there any evidence before the Committee to indicate that the honourable Member for Kenora-Rainy River had advance knowledge from official sources of amendments to be proposed to a Bill emanating from the said Budget.

3. Your Committee also finds there was no evidence before the Committee to indicate that the Montreal Gazette in its article of July 24th was acting with malice and notes the apology to the honourable Member for Kenora-Rainy River contained in the July 25th issue of the Gazette in regard only to the time frame within which the alleged events took place. Taking both articles and the evidence heard before your Committee in its totality, however, your Committee finds that the Montreal Gazette fell short of the standards to be expected of a newspaper.

4. Your Committee is also mindful of the issue of budgetary information which has arisen during its proceedings and, while there is no evidence of such information being divulged, stresses the serious traditions relating to the confidentiality of information relating to the Budget and to other financial measures the premature disclosure of which might lead to private gain, and the grave consequences attendant upon a breach.

5. Your Committee also finds that the "edited, unrevised Hansard transcript of House of Commons proceedings" printed in the Montreal Gazette of July 25th last contains serious omissions and should properly have been referred to as "excerpts". Your Committee is compelled to refer to this in order to impress upon the media the need for fair and impartial reporting.

A copy of the relevant Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence (Issues Nos. 25 to 32) is tabled.

Mrs. Appolloni, seconded by Mr. Douglas (Bruce-Grey), by leave of the House, introduced Bill C-412, An Act respecting National Employment of the Handicapped Week, which was read the first time and ordered to be printed and ordered for a second reading at the next sitting of the House.

Mr. Blais, Parliamentary Secretary to the President of the Privy Council, presented,—Return to the foregoing Order.

RULING BY MR. SPEAKER

MR. SPEAKER: Yesterday the honourable Member for Scarborough East (Mr. O'Connell) raised a question of privilege concerning the publication of the draft report of the Special Joint Committee on Immigration Policy. I wish to reiterate at the beginning of my observations today the point I made yesterday and which was referred to by all who took part in the discussions, namely, that the House guards the confidentiality of draft reports of this nature at this stage of a committee's proceedings and the publication of such a report would raise the strongest suggestion that some act has taken place which offends the privileges of the House.

The difficulty about the motion before us is not that it fails to deal with what appears to be a well accepted question of privilege in general terms but rather that it fails to be sufficiently specific. I refer to the absence from the motion of any allegation of misconduct which is specifically complained of in terms of a breach of the privileges of the House. Has there been an action by the publisher of the newspaper involved, or by the radio or television station, which constitutes a breach? The motion does not say. Has there been an action by a Member of the House of Commons or by a member of the other place? The motion does not suggest it. Has there been an action by a staff member, perhaps, here or in the other place? Again, the motion does not suggest it. In other words, it seems to me that what the motion seeks is not an investigation of a prima facie case of privilege but, rather, an investigation to determine whether a prima facie question of privilege exists, or whether a substantive motion would be in order.

There is a second difficulty. It is that the motion, if allowed, would lead to one committee of the House of Commons investigating the work or the operations of another committee, and that is a situation which has been carefully avoided in the past, and for good reason. Moreover, the fact that in this case a committee of the House of Commons would be investigating the work or operations of a joint committee makes it even more difficult and, from a jurisdictional point of view, more awkward. The question may be asked: If this does not constitute a question of privilege, is the House without a remedy in these circumstances? I think all honourable Members would be quick to agree that such is not the case. In the first place a substantive motion can be put forward for an investigation, presumably by joint action in this and the other place. Since it would not, in those circumstances, be under the restriction of privilege, it would likely have more freedom from a procedural point of view. Furthermore, it seems to me that there might not be great difficulty in the committee itself which, since it is a joint committee of both places, can, if it wishes, investigate further into this mishap and may, perhaps, proceed to do so. Of course, I am referring to hypothetical circumstances now; if there was a difficulty posed by the terms of reference in connection with that special joint committee, it seems to me from the attitude expressed on all sides of the House yesterday that there would be little difficulty in getting those terms of reference expanded if, indeed, that were necessary. I would think there would be considerable question as to whether it would be necessary for the committee to get extended terms of reference if it wished to go on and inquire into circumstances surrounding the leak of a confidential report. However, I put that forward only as a suggestion which honourable Members may wish to consider. As I say, because the motion lacks the precision and specific detail alleging conduct which constitutes a breach of the privileges of this House from a procedural point of view, while it deals with a point which in the abstract, or in general terms, certainly touches the privilege of the House, I feel the motion is not sufficiently specific to enable the Chair to grant a question of privilege at this time.

The House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), seconded by Mr. Sharp,—That Bill C-73, An Act to provide for the restraint of profit margins, prices, dividends and compensation in Canada, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs.

And debate continuing;

JOURNALS

OF THE

HOUSE OF COMMONS

OF CANADA

OTTAWA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1975

2.00 o'clock p.m.

PRAYERS

Mr. Speaker informed the House that the Clerk of the House had received from the Chief Electoral Officer a certificate of the election and return of Jacques Lavoie, Esquire, Member for the Electoral District of Hochelaga.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF ELECTORAL OFFICER

To the Clerk of the House of Commons:

This is to certify that pursuant to a writ dated on the twenty-ninth day of August, 1975, and addressed to Mr. Gérard Provost of Montreal, in the Province of Québec, for the election of a member to serve in the House of Commons of Canada for the electoral district of Hochelaga, in the place and stead of Gérard Pelletier, who has resigned, Jacques Lavoie, 3167 Ontario Street East, Montreal, Québec, assistant technician in radiology, has been returned as elected.

Given under my hand and seal of office, this twenty-third day of October, 1975.

J.-M. HAMEL, (L.S.)

Mr. Jacques Lavoie, Member for the Electoral District of Hochelaga, having taken and subscribed the oath required by law took his seat in the House.

The item "Introduction of Bills" having been called under "Daily Routine of Business", the notice standing in the name of the honourable Member for New Westminster (Mr. Leggatt), for leave to introduce a Bill intituled: "An Act for the Parole of Dr. Henry Morgentaler";

RULING BY MR. SPEAKER

MR. SPEAKER: I thank both honourable Members for their intervention. The reference to the citation by the Parliamentary Secretary to the President of the Privy Council (Mr. Blais) has saved me the trouble of making the reference. It seems to me to be a very clear citation.

The reference by the honourable Member for New Westminster (Mr. Leggatt) to the Steven Truscott case indeed challenges the imagination of those students of parliamentary procedure. Fortunately, perhaps, some of these miracles are possible without full explanation of how exactly the arguments were achieved. Again I can only say that it is another indication of the mastery of the proponent of this particular bill that seems in the humble opinion of the Chair to run totally counter to the procedures in the way they are set out so clearly in the citation referred to by the honourable Parliamentary Secretary.

The fact of the matter is that the bill before us at the present time is a proposal to exempt or to except from the operation of the general law one person, namely Dr. Henry Morgentaler. I cannot by any stretch of the imagination be persuaded that this is the subject-matter of a public bill or that it is in any way the alteration of the general law. It is the alteration or the exception for one person of the application of the law, which seems crystal clear to me to be the subject-matter of a private Member's private bill and not a public bill.

The honourable Member put forward some very eloquent arguments about the urgency and the importance of the matter which would certainly go to the merits of the bill and would be part of the entreaty to other Members to support it. Procedurally I feel that despite every careful consideration of the honourable Member's very interesting arguments we are left with no other choice than to decide the matter is really a proper subject-matter not of a public bill but of a private bill.

Pursuant to Standing Order 39(4), the following Question was made an Order of the House for a Return:

No. 2,089—Mr. Howie

From January 1, 1974 to December 31, 1974 in the Department of Regional Economic Expansion (a) how many consultants were hired (b) what were the terms of reference, time and length of the work assignment (c) what amount was paid to each?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/2,089.

Mr. Blais, Parliamentary Secretary to the President of the Privy Council, presented,—Return to the foregoing Order.

The House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), seconded by Mr. Sharp,—That Bill C-73, An Act to provide for the restraint of profit margins, prices, dividends and compensation in Canada, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs.

And debate continuing;

[At 5.00 o'clock p.m., Private Members' Business was called pursuant to Standing Order 15(4)]

[Notices of Motions (Papers)]

Notices of Motions (Papers) Nos. 36, 34, 37 and 39 having been called were allowed to stand at the request of the government.

By unanimous consent, it was ordered,—That motions numbered 15 and 30 be debated successively and at 5.30 o'clock p.m. the question be put on each motion in succession.

The House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Leggatt, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), —That an humble Address be presented to His Excellency praying that he will cause to be laid before this House a copy of all correspondence between the Minister of Justice and the Attorneys General and Ministers of Health of the provinces dealing with the subject of abortion and/or Section 251 of the Criminal Code of Canada. —(Notice of Motion for the Production of Papers No. 15).

And on the motion of Mr. Munro (Esquimalt-Saanich), seconded by Mr. McKinley,—That an Order of the House do issue for copies of the Area Programme Summaries for the years 1972-73, 1973-74 and 1974-75, covering such areas as Commonwealth Africa, South America, Francophone Africa, and any other area breakdowns for which Area Programmes have been prepared.—(Notice of Motion for the Production of Papers No. 30).

After further debate; at 5.30 o'clock p.m., Mr. Speaker interrupted the debate pursuant to Order made this day.

And the question being put on motion numbered 15, it was negatived on the following division:

PRAYERS

Mr. O'Connell, from the Special Joint Committee on Immigration Policy, presented the Second Report of the Committee which is as follows:

On March 3, 1975 and March 5, 1975, the House of Commons and the Senate adopted a joint resolution which empowered your Committee to "...consider the Green Paper on immigration policy tabled by the Minister of Manpower and Immigration in the House of Commons on February 3, 1975;"

Your Committee is of the opinion that it will be unable to complete its enquiry within the time prescribed by its Order of Reference as amended on June 5, 1975. Your Committee recommends therefore that the date of submission of its report be extended until November 14, 1975.

Mr. Basford, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copies of Communiqué issued following the Federal-Provincial Conference of Attorneys General held at Halifax, October 23-24, 1975. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-5/25.

On motion of Mr. Loiselle (Saint-Henri), seconded by Mr. Clermont, it was ordered,—That, pursuant to the provisions of Standing Order 99, the petition seeking the incorporation of Northland Bank and, in French, Norbanque filed after the time limit specified under Standing Order 90, be referred to the Standing Committee on Miscellaneous Private Bills and Standing Orders, together with the Fourteenth Report of the Clerk of Petitions thereon, presented to the House on Monday, October 27, 1975, for any recommendations the Committee deems advisable.

Pursuant to Standing Order 39(4), the following two Questions were made Orders of the House for Returns:

No. 2,909—Mr. Stanbury

As of June 30, 1975 (a) what amount was owing by each country in arrears of payment of the special United Nations assessment for maintenance of the UN Emergency Force and the UN Disengagement Observer Force in the Middle East (b) how much has Canada received on account of its contributions to these forces (c) what amount is owing to Canada on this Account?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/2,909.

PRAYERS

Mr. Loisel (Chambly) for Mr. Loisel (Saint-Henri), from the Standing Committee on Miscellaneous Private Bills and Standing Orders, presented the Sixth Report of the Committee, which was read as follows:

Pursuant to its Order of Reference of Tuesday, October 28, 1975, your Committee has considered the petition seeking the incorporation of "Northland Bank" and, in French, "Norbanque", filed after the time limit specified under Standing Order 90, together with the Fourteenth Report of the Clerk of Petitions thereon, presented to the House on Monday, October 27, 1975.

The Parliamentary Agent stated that the delay beyond the time specified by Standing Order 90 was occasioned, in part, by factors beyond the control of the petitioners. Nevertheless, he stated that it is important that the proposed legislation be allowed to proceed during the present session of Parliament. He therefore respectfully asked that this petition be received.

After hearing the reasons given for the late filing of this petition, your Committee recommends that Standing Order 90 be suspended in relation thereto, and that this petition be received. The consequent charges as provided for by Standing Order 91 (3) (a) and (c) amount to $300.

The petition referred to above, together with the Fourteenth Report of the Clerk of Petitions, are returned herewith.

A copy of the relevant Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence (Issue No. 5) is tabled.

Mr. Lessard, seconded by Mr. Sharp, by leave of the House, introduced Bill C-74, An Act to amend the Regional Development Incentives Act, which was read the first time and ordered to be printed and ordered for a second reading at the next sitting of the House.

The text of the Message and Recommendation of the Governor General pursuant to Standing Order 62(2) in relation to the foregoing Bill is as follows:

His Excellency the Governor General recommends to the House of Commons a measure to amend the Regional Development Incentives Act to extend to December 31, 1981, the date by which facilities must achieve commercial production in order to qualify for development incentives and for a loan guarantee under the Act, the period for which the condition respecting the utilization of manpower services may be effective, and the date by which commercial facilities must achieve commercial operation in order to qualify for a loan guarantee under the Act.

Mr. Brewin, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), by leave of the House, introduced Bill C-415, An Act respecting divorce, which was read the first time and ordered to be printed and ordered for a second reading at the next sitting of the House.

By unanimous consent, on motion of Mr. Sharp, seconded by Mr. Baker (Grenville-Carleton), it was ordered,—That the House shall not sit on November 10, 1975; and

That on the first ten sitting days, commencing November 12, 1975, excepting Fridays and Allotted Days pursuant to Standing Order 58, the House shall not adjourn or commence its evening interruption, as the case may be, until 6.30 p.m. and, on any Thursday affected by this Order, private members business shall be taken up between 5.30 p.m. and 6.30 p.m.

By unanimous consent, on motion of Mr. Loiselle (Chambly), seconded by Mr. Guay (St. Boniface), the Sixth Report of the Standing Committee on Miscellaneous Private Bills and Standing Orders, presented to the House this day, was concurred in.

Ordered,—That there be laid before this House copies of two prototype charts covering the Brown's Bank area off south west Nova Scotia as produced by the Canadian Hydrographic Service.—(Notice of Motion for the Production of Papers No. 55—Mr. Marshall).

Ordered,—That there be laid before this House copies of all material relating to the establishment of a National Advisory Council on Marine Training (NACMT) that will act as the control body for advising government, management and labour about policies, plans and methods to increase recruitment and retention of marine personnel and to improve the national capability in marine training, and to provide names of appointees as representatives from federal and provincial governments.—(Notice of Motion for the Production of Papers No. 57—Mr. Marshall).

The House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Andras (Port Arthur), seconded by Mr. Sharp,—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Labour, Manpower and Immigration.

And debate continuing;

Mr. Speaker informed the House that the Clerk of the House had laid upon the Table the Seventh Report of the Examiner of Petitions for Private Bills, as follows:

Pursuant to Standing Order 97(2), the Examiner of Petitions for Private Bills has the honour to report that the following petitioners have complied with the requirements of Standing Order 93:

Ronald Thomas Curtis, Henry George De Cuyper, Donald Victor Larson and Alan William Scarth, all of the City of Winnipeg, Manitoba; Richard Earl Foster and Gordon Maxwell Sinclair, of the City of Saskatoon, Saskatchewan; Philip Duncan Sampson of the City of Regina, Saskatchewan; George Robert Viereck of the City of Prince Rupert, British Columbia; Robert Alan Willson and Hugh Malcolm Wilson of the City of Calgary, Alberta, praying for the passing of an Act incorporating "Northland Bank" and, in French, "Norbanque".

The Clerk of the House laid on the Table the following Private Bill:

Bill C-1002, An Act to incorporate the Northland Bank.—Mr. Guay (St. Boniface).

The Bill was deemed to have been read the first time and ordered to be printed and ordered for a second reading at the next sitting of the House, pursuant to Standing Order 100(1).

Consideration was resumed on the motion of Mr. Andras (Port Arthur), seconded by Mr. Sharp,—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Labour, Manpower and Immigration.

And, the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to on the following division:

HOUSE OF COMMONS

OF CANADA

OTTAWA, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1975

PRAYERS

Mr. O'Connell, from the Special Joint Committee on Immigration Policy, presented the Third Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

2. Pursuant to its Order of Reference of the House of Commons of Monday, March 3, 1975 and of the Senate of Wednesday, March 5, 1975, the Committee has heard evidence on and has considered Canadian immigration policy.

3. The Committee has interpreted its mandate as being to facilitate and give focus to a national debate on future immigration to Canada. Empowered by its terms of reference "to invite the views of the public" on the issues raised in the Green Paper on Immigration tabled by the Government in February, the Committee held public hearings in Ottawa and across Canada. Submissions of briefs and comments by individuals and organizations were received at the hearings and by mail.

4. In its 35 weeks of operation, the Committee held nearly 50 public hearings in 21 cities in each of Canada's five regions and in the Northwest Territories. More than 400 witnesses presented submissions at these meetings. In addition, the Committee received more than 1,200 letters and briefs from individuals and more than 200 briefs from organizations that did not appear at the hearings. In all, more than 1,800 individuals and organizations submitted their views. A detailed analysis of the views and concerns of the witnesses and the authors of briefs and letters has been prepared and is attached as Appendix A. Among those contributing to the debate were the Minister and officials of the Department of Manpower and Immigration; organizations with a special interest in immigration; academic and non-academic experts including many groups and individuals qualified to speak with authority on immigration law; and many members of the public concerned about issues bearing on immigration policy. The Committee also benefited from meetings and consultations with representatives of some provincial governments.

5. As a supplement to the hearings, groups of members of the Committee paid inspection visits to immigration reception and processing centres in Toronto, Montreal, Vancouver, Fort Erie, Winnipeg, and London, England. Some members visited Washington, D.C., to consult with American officials and to examine United States policy at first hand.

6. The appointment of the Committee was greeted by a surge of public response. Many concerned organizations indicated their wish to participate in the hearings, while objecting that the initial deadline of 31 July set by Parliament for the Committee's report allowed too little time to prepare submissions. The Committee itself felt that, in view of the numbers wishing to present briefs, it needed more time to complete its task. At the Committee's request, Parliament granted a three-month extension to October 31 for presentation of the Committee's report. This made it possible to extend to September 15 the deadline for submitting briefs. While most organizations found it possible to meet this date, briefs received subsequently have been examined. At the last moment, the Committee found it necessary to request a further extension of two weeks to allow for translation and printing of this Report.

7. How representative were the views gathered by the Committee? How effective was the Committee's method of probing public attitudes by holding public meetings across the country? True, some meetings were packed by noisy representatives of extremist organizations with small memberships who often tried to prevent the expression of opinions different from their own. But on no occasion did these groups fully succeed. Even at the rowdiest meetings, the Committee learned about new problems and heard fresh points of view. Moreover, every public meeting provoked a fresh flow of submissions by mail.

8. In view of the volume and comprehensiveness of the responses received, oral and written, the Committee feels confident that it has had ample opportunity to consider carefully the full range of national views on each aspect of immigration policy. Every view had an advocate. The great public concern, the news coverage of hearings and the Committee's paid advertising combined to ensure that many of the Committee's public meetings were well attended. Coping with too many, rather than too few, speakers for the time allowed was a major problem.

9. On balance, the Committee is satisfied with the method it used to sound out public opinion and believes it offered these important advantages:

- it made the Committee aware of the differing regional approaches to immigration across Canada;

- it permitted the Committee to move beyond the conceptual and geographic frameworks of Ottawa and to become exposed to views it might not otherwise have encountered; and

- it provided Committee members and the Canadian public an opportunity for dialogue and open discussion of an important policy issue.

However, some members of the Committee felt that the method had the disadvantage that it elicited the views of unrepresentative and overly emotional individuals.

10. This report will indicate the Committee's reaction to the range of information and opinion it encountered in the course of this dialogue. As will be evident, the issues raised by the Government's Green Paper on Immigration Policy and the data it provided often formed the basis for the national debate in which the Committee engaged. The report, however, reflects much more than the Committee's consideration of the Green Paper. It seeks to identify the areas of broad concern that emerged from its interaction with the public and from other investigations; to express the Committee's views on most of these issues; to make recommendations regarding the retention or modification of specific immigration policies or procedures; and finally to suggest broad guidelines for a future immigration policy for Canada.

Canada Needs Immigrants

11. The Committee is of the opinion that Canada should continue to be a country of immigration. In reaching this central conclusion Committee members were particularly impressed by demographic and economic arguments, as well as by the need to take account of family and humanitarian considerations for reasons specified elsewhere.

Demographic factors

12. Owing to the spectacular decline in the Canadian fertility rate since 1960, immigration is becoming an increasingly important component of population growth. In 1974 Canada's population of 22.3 million grew by 348,000, of which one-half was due to immigration as illustrated in chart 1. (See Appendix B.) The situation of immigration accounting for a large part of population growth is one which Canadians have not experienced since the 1920s. This trend is likely to continue. The Committee was impressed by evidence that even if the decline in the fertility rate were to cease and the current fertility rate of 1.8 births per woman were to be projected into the future, Canada would require net immigration of more than 50,000 a year to prevent a decline in total population after the year 2000. Chart 2 illustrates the implications of various levels of net immigration. (See Appendix B.)

13. It should be noted, moreover, that these are net figures which take account of estimated emigration from Canada. Statistics on annual emigration do not exist and present procedures do not allow for the compilation of reliable figures. However, well-informed estimates suggest that emigration may amount to about one-third of the gross numbers of immigrants, so that it would be reasonable to add 50 per cent to the net figures in chart 2 to transfer them into gross immigration figures. On the basis of this calculation, an annual rate of 75,000 immigrants would be needed at current fertility rates to maintain a population level of 28 million during the first half of the 21st century. Even at this figure the population could be expected to decline by two million by the year 2071. If it were desired to have a stable population throughout the next century, it would be necessary to have a gross rate of immigration of 150,000 a year.

14. The Committee recognizes that these figures involve several assumptions and that the situation could vary considerably over time. But they do reveal the long lead time required if population trends are to be modified. Since the Committee believes that a country as large and thinly populated as Canada cannot afford a declining population, it concludes that Canada must continue to welcome a minimum of 100,000 immigrants a year as long as present fertility rates prevail. The Committee was divided on whether or not to suggest an upper limit either as a figure or as a percentage of the Canadian population. But there was agreement that the Government, when formulating a target each year as called for later in this report, should not treat the minimum figure of 100,000 as an upper limit.

15. The Committee rejected the view contained in some submissions that Canada should close its doors to immigrants. Equally, it concluded that in an age of vastly increased mobility Canada could not afford to have an "open door" policy, and would have to maintain controls over the total number of immigrants coming each year to Canada. The Committee's preference is for a policy of moderation between these two extremes.

16. In the exercise of such a policy the Committee agrees with the Government of Newfoundland which argued that "in this time of increasing world populations, rapidly depleting resources and economic uncertainty, . . . (immigration) must be brought under control and rationally directed . . . to best serve the interests of Canadians" (30:80). To do this properly, account should be taken of long term needs as well as short term pressures. The Committee is well aware that in a time of high unemployment new immigrants may be seen by the unemployed in particular as competing for too few jobs. Committee members are also aware that Canada continues to have an exceptionally high rate of new entrants into the labour force each year, higher indeed than any other industrialized country. In 1972, for example, 320,000 persons entered the labour force making a total of 9,086,000. But this situation will change significantly around 1980 when the annual rate of growth of the labour force will decline rather abruptly from approximately three percent to about two percent. André Raynauld, Chairman of the Economic Council of Canada, stated that this decline to a lower and more normal rate of entrants into the labour force could mean that, without immigration, future economic development might actually be held back by labour shortages (15:14). The Committee accepted Dr. Harvey Lithwick's assertion that "it is disastrous" for a country to tie immigration policy to short-term economic developments. Immigration "is a long term investment in human resources" (48:22). Its conclusion from this body of evidence was that for population reasons it is important to maintain a moderately steady flow of immigration.

Economic factors

17. The Committee was exposed to much conflicting testimony regarding the economic costs and benefits of immigration. It recognized that the evidence for making specific judgments was far from adequate. As Louis Parai had observed in his background study for the Green Paper, The Economic Impact of Immigration,

"The results of previous research do not clearly indicate the economic impact of post-war immigration into Canada. . . in most instances the impact has not been large. The most significant effects . . . are to increase slightly per capita incomes and economic growth . . . and to provide for a more flexible labour force . . ." (p. 73)

18. Contradictory testimony was received regarding the significance of the contribution an expansionist immigration policy could make to economies of scale. In the main, members of the Committee went along with Dr. Raynauld's comment that this argument that immigration should be continued because it contributes to economies of scale was "a very weak one" (15:16). The Committee believes that the benefits of immigration are obvious providing there are reasonable employment opportunities. Of course, immigration causes some special direct costs, as the brief of the Atlantic Provinces Economic Council pointed out, particularly in the fields of education, training and adjustment services. But these costs are balanced by the fact that immigrants arrive with training and experience acquired at no cost to Canada. All of this leads the Committee to the conclusion that Canada would contribute to its own economic well-being by continuing to welcome immigrants in moderate numbers.

19. For this combination of reasons the Committee recommends that immigration in future be treated as a central variable in a national population policy and that this objective be achieved through the establishment of an immigration target to be adjusted from time to time to achieve an even rate of population growth as well as to take account of changing economic conditions and needs. This implies a new commitment to policy planning in the formulation of immigration targets. It also involves recognition of a point strongly made by Dr. Raynauld, "there are very substantial economic consequences from an alteration in the pace of population growth, either from fast to slow or from slow to fast" (15:5). Subsequently under questioning, Dr. Raynauld expressed his views more explicitly:

"It would be desirable not to have too much fluctuation in immigration, no more so than it is desirable to have fluctuations in income and in investment because that generates cycles and instability in the economy that prove to be very costly to Canada" (15:29).

Prejudices Regarding Immigrants

20. A persistent theme of submissions hostile to immigration was the view that immigrants crowd into cities, exacerbating housing shortages, increasing the crime rate, bringing infectious diseases, taxing the welfare roles and government services, and causing unemployment by taking jobs from Canadians. The Mayor of Vancouver made the specific point that "... immigration (to Vancouver) has exerted great pressure on land and therefore on housing prices. . . Immigrants have brought talent, money and culture, but they have not brought land. . . This is primarily a spatial question, not a racial question" (26:6 & 7). The Committee recognizes that all these are problems faced by rapidly growing cities, but concluded that they are caused by the economic, social and cultural dynamism of cities and their attractiveness to Canadians and immigrants alike. In fact, Canadians migrating within Canada from the country to the cities and from province to province are the main impulse for city growth. Chart 3 graphically illustrates interprovincial migration from 1966 to 1971 and shows how mobile Canadians have become. (See Appendix B.) And this chart does not even display the significant movements within provinces, for instance, from the Cariboo country to Vancouver or from Labelle to Montreal.

21. The Committee is convinced that even without immigration Canada's larger cities would face problems inherent in growth. Immigrants are only a tributary flowing into a much larger river of Canadians who have been migrating to the cities in ever increasing numbers throughout the century. This does not mean that the Committee is not sympathetic to the planning needs of cities. It simply feels that immigrants should not be blamed for problems that they have done little to cause, although they may have compounded them. Canadians worried about the quality of life in our cities should look elsewhere than to sharply reduced immigration for a solution to the problems of city living.

22. Similar misconceptions also abound regarding the impact of immigration on social services and benefits and health care. None of the testimony supported with facts the popular notion that newcomers are using these services more than the native-born. If anything, the Committee has the impression that use of such services by immigrants falls below the national average for the obvious reason that many come from countries where such services are traditionally provided by the family. Indeed, it would appear that inter-provincial and rural-to-urban migrants make greater use of government support than persons from abroad.

23. Nor do immigrants participate less actively in the work force than long-term residents. Selection criteria are designed to ensure that newcomers are well equipped to secure employment. The Indo-Can Sikh Association of Prince Rupert spoke for many in saying,

"... East Indians have fared well in finding employment, achieving a high level of family income, purchasing their own homes, and feeling at home in Canada" (09).

Other persons offered explanations for the initial difficulty some immigrants experience in finding satisfactory employment. An economist, himself an immigrant, told the Committee that "... (occupational) mobility is built into the structure of the occupations themselves" (47:38). He was referring to the complex of factors such as job seniority within unions, different techniques for performing a trade which immigrants have learned in their countries, and the like. These factors may complicate the task of an immigrant seeking a steady job.

24. Some submissions contained allegations that immigrants, especially the non-white, contribute disproportionately to the crime rate. Expert testimony did not support this charge. Professor Frederick Zemans of Osgoode Hall said,

"... most immigrants who come to Canada have a strong fear of the legal system itself... and they are very concerned that they should not get into any difficulties or any trouble while in this country" (10:5).

And in a study prepared for the Ministry of the Solicitor General of Canada in 1974 statistics indicated that the crime rate for immigrants was approximately one-half that for native-born Canadians (Report 6/74).

General Objectives

25. The Committee agrees that Canadian immigration policy should meet certain humanitarian needs as well as promote Canada's economic, social and cultural interests. Accordingly, it favours a reaffirmation of the goals of reuniting families and of offering a home to refugees, and recommends that these two groups be treated differently from other immigrants: immediate family members should continue to be exempted from evaluation on the point system, and refugee movements should be given sympathetic consideration appropriate to the nature and circumstances of each case.

26. The Committee recognizes that it has been through the contributions and efforts of successive generations of immigrants that Canada has grown to be the relatively secure, prosperous, free, and satisfying place it is. About four million immigrants have come to Canada since World War II. Their skills, their energies, and their enthusiasm have added immeasurably to every facet of Canadian life, and have created a vibrant multicultural mosaic. The Committee firmly believes that the settlement of post-war immigrants alongside the founding cultures is one of the most positive chapters in Canada's post-war history. It looks to immigration to continue to contribute to the economic, cultural and social well-being of the country.

27. While these objectives remain unchanged, it has become apparent that the present immigration system needs modification and modernizing. It had been assumed that immigration was essentially self-regulating; that is, that fewer people would want to immigrate to Canada when unemployment was high or the economy bad, and so automatically a balance would always be achieved between the number of immigrants applying to come and Canada's economic capacity to absorb them. Experience has proved this assumption false. It is already evident that no matter what happens in Canada there will be substantially increased world migration motivated by a desire for personal betterment. With fewer countries ready to receive immigrants, the pressures on Canada will exceed its capacity to absorb new population.

28. Canadians' attitudes toward the value of growth per se have also changed drastically. No longer synonymous with progress, growth is seen as one of the contributors to urban congestion, environmental pollution and depletion of non-renewable natural resources, thereby threatening quality of life generally.

29. For these reasons, the Committee recommends a shift from the present immigration system, which allows for the admission of everyone meeting certain criteria regardless of numbers, to a more managed system capable of regulating the total flow. However, the proposed system must do this in a fair and non-discriminatory, efficient, and manageable way.

Development assistance and the "brain drain"

30. The Committee considered the arguments contained in some submissions that Canada should regard immigration as one method of helping to alleviate the problems of over-population in other countries, or at least as a way of alleviating the human distress of some few of the world's needy.

31. While affirming Canada's obligation and commitment to working towards human betterment on an international scale, the Committee for a number of reasons agrees with the majority of submissions in rejecting the idea that immigration to Canada should be a factor of any significance in this endeavour. Canada could never take enough immigrants to have a noticeable effect on the poorer countries with exploding populations.

32. The Committee believes that Canada should help improve living conditions in poorer countries through development assistance and by working towards an improved international trading system. To the extent that Canada's efforts and those of other developed countries are successful, they will relieve any developing countries which look to emigration as a solution to their problems of the need to do so. The Committee agrees with the statement of the Interchurch Project on Population that "instead of merely offering an escape from poverty, it would be more realistic for Canada to help end poverty itself in the Third World" (33:98).

33. When considering the nature and extent of Canada's international responsibilities in formulating its immigration policy the Committee also discussed the often raised issue of the so-called "brain drain". Many submissions agreed with the National Union of Students in arguing that by accepting the skilled, educated, young and energetic from developing countries Canada is continuing a "rip-off of . . . people from countries where their skills and training are far more important" (0110). This was presented as an abdication of Canada's international responsibilities and as directly conflicting with our development aid policies. However, some submissions, notably from East Indian and Chinese immigrants, suggested that anxiety about the "brain drain" from developing countries is exaggerated because in some of these countries the number of people receiving advanced education surpasses the number of suitable employment opportunities (30:73-5).

34. The Committee appreciates that this is a complex issue and that there is truth in both sides of the argument. While some countries wish to protect themselves from the emigration of persons with talents and skills important to their development, Canada is committed to the free movement of peoples and ideas. The Committee considers it the responsibility of the country of emigration to take action to protect itself from the "brain drain", and in such situations Canada should refrain from active encouragement of immigrants. Canada's acceptance of immigrants should be without discrimination as to the country of origin.

Non-discrimination

35. The Committee received many submissions concerning the racial and ethnic composition of Canada's population and its rate of change. A number of these, from Canadians and immigrants alike, reflected anxiety about recent and fairly rapid increases in the immigration of non-whites, particularly to the larger cities. Some submissions advocated severe restrictions or a total embargo on immigrants from countries with coloured populations. The Committee also received evidence in testimony of intolerance towards non-whites in some Canadian communities.

36. The Committee sought to identify the sources of racial prejudice evident in these submissions, many of which advocated tight restrictions or a total embargo on non-white immigration. Some persons revealed that the customs and values of newcomers were disturbing to them; this anxiety tended to increase to the degree that the beliefs and lifestyles of immigrants vary from those found in traditional Canadian communities. Others showed an irrational aversion to colour and physical appearance different from their own.

37. The Committee also recognizes that with worldwide economic recession and high unemployment at home, many Canadians may be feeling less secure and more self-protective of a country to which many people across the world want to come. Racial discrimination and hostile attitudes towards minority groups are worldwide phenomena which tend to increase in times of economic stress. With expanding economic opportunities, intolerance should decrease.

38. One point of view put to the Committee was that any decision to restrict the numbers of any ethnic or racial groups would generate anxiety and instability among the members of these same groups who are now in Canada. In the words of an East Indian immigrant contemplating such a move, it would be tantamount to "being told that there are too many East Indians here already" (41:27). A spokesman from the Armenian Congress spoke for many immigrants when he said:

"(A restrictive policy would be) an insult to human dignity in general and to the thousands of people from Asia and Africa who have taken up Canadian citizenship and are working towards a better Canada and World. . . . The Canadians of Asian and African origin will feel more and more estranged from the other Canadians . . ." (16:43 & 44).

39. There is a danger of creating second-class citizens of many foreign-born who have made their homes in Canada. It is evident that the ability of newcomers to adapt readily and successfully to Canadian life is in large part contingent on the esteem in which they are held by their chosen communities, and on the existence of non-discriminatory treatment in employment, housing, and services. The Committee makes this assertion in the confident belief that the majority of the Canadian people are tolerant and generous and not prepared to condone racial hostility and discrimination.

40. Canada has become to a large extent a multi-cultural and multi-racial society. The Committee stresses that Canadians must anticipate that many future immigrants will be coming from non-European countries and many will be non-white. This trend is clear from recent statistics.

As late as 1967 almost 80 per cent of the immigration flow came from Europe, but by 1974 slightly less than 40 per cent of immigrants were European-born. This decline in European immigration reflected in large part the improvement in the European standard of living which makes Canada less attractive than it used to be. Significantly, in 1974, apart from the large-scale emigration from Britain caused by troubled economic conditions there, the highest number of immigrants came from the poorer countries of Europe: Portugal, followed by Italy, Greece, and Yugoslavia. These trends are unlikely to be reversed: Canadians must accept the facts that the country's capacity to attract European immigrants has diminished, and that if we desire immigrants, we must look to other parts of the world.

41. Accordingly, the Committee unanimously recommends that immigration policy continue to be fair and non-discriminatory on the basis of race, creed, nationality, ethnic origin and sex, and that this principle be formally set out in the new Act. It follows therefore that those parts of the present Section 57(g) that give a statutory basis for a discriminatory policy should be excluded from any future Act even though these powers have not been used for many years.

42. In order to promote inter-group understanding, the Committee further recommends public and school education and legislative action to protect Canadians and immigrants alike from racial and ethnic discrimination. As the Students Administrative Council of the University of Toronto said:

"we, as individual Canadian citizens must . . . accommodate our own attitudes and understanding to facilitate the integrating process. Once an immigrant sets foot in this country, he or she is one of us. We, as a country, and the immigrants as individuals, have made a contract" (34:103).

Well-enforced human rights legislation, public education, and community action programs are helpful in inter-group adjustment. Britain, which in the 1960s, experienced serious racial tension, has had extremely favourable results from its human rights legislation and programs.

Managing Immigration Flows

43. The Committee recognizes that the present point system for assessing potential immigrants has had value as an equitable means for selecting among applicants. However, it was never designed as an instrument to regulate the numbers of qualified applicants accepted; rates of immigration were left to vary with the performance of the Canadian economy. The result has been severe fluctuations in rates, as chart 4 illustrates. (See Appendix B) (One peak, however, was caused by the movement of Hungarian refugees). Moreover, the Committee discovered that the apparent responsiveness of immigration flows to Canadian labour demand is partly illusory. The dramatic fluctuations do not indicate the effectiveness of "automatic regulators" such as the labour market so much as they show the effectiveness of administrative measures in turning the immigration tap on and off. Changing the weighting of selection criteria through regulations issued by the Department of Manpower and Immigration remains the most frequently employed regulating device, used recently in the new regulations of October 1974 strongly favouring applicants with either a job offer or a trade falling within one of the few "designated occupations".

44. In the Committee's opinion, such methods are clearly inadequate to meet Canada's present or anticipated needs. Figures show that interest in immigrating to Canada is increasing throughout the world. Canadian Immigration Officers received over 750,000 inquiries regarding the possibility of immigrating to Canada in 1974. If the expected volume of new applications is to be equitably handled, and if Canada is to derive the benefits of balanced population growth, Committee members believe the present system of immigration management must be significantly modified.

45. A principle objective of the new policy should be the regulation of immigration flow to achieve desired population growth. The Committee suggests this could be accomplished by setting an annual target and by developing processes for determining and keeping close to that target. The main indicators used in setting the target should be (1) demographic, such as fertility rate, size, rate of change in size, and age of population, and rate of entry into and exit from the job market; and (2) economic, such as the level of economic activity and rates of employment and unemployment, which have a tendency to move in shorter cycles.

46. Rational population and immigration planning depends on accurate immigration and emigration statistics. The absence of precise figures on emigration from Canada is a serious deficiency and the Committee hopes that a method of monitoring outflows can eventually be developed.

47. The Committee has discussed possible figures as targets for future annual immigration to Canada. (Because of a lack of emigration statistics, targets must be set in gross rather than net terms.) Bearing in mind its earlier proposal that under present conditions Canada must continue to welcome a minimum of 100,000 immigrants a year and that this figure should not be regarded as a maximum, the Committee recommends that the Minister of Manpower and Immigration, after consultation with the provinces, propose an annual target figure.

48. The Government's proposal should be subject to parliamentary scrutiny. This could be accomplished by the Minister each year presenting to Parliament a resolution concerning the target. The Committee suggests that Parliament refer the resolution without debate to the Standing Committee on Labour, Manpower and Immigration where the Minister could explain how the target figure was determined, give an account of the previous year's immigration experience, and offer a three-to-five-year rolling projection of proposed immigration rates.

49. The annual target having been established, the likely number of sponsored applicants for the period can be estimated (the Committee understands this can be done fairly accurately) and subtracted from the target. The resulting figure is the ceiling on the number of independent applicants to be accepted that year. In the Committee's view, because refugee flows are rarely predictable they cannot form part of such calculations.

50. The Committee considers that this combined target and ceiling system would prove flexible and manageable. Limiting the number of independent immigrants admitted each year would very probably give rise to a waiting list of acceptable applicants. Each would be assigned a place in the list and given an approximate date when he could be admitted. About one-quarter of the total number should be admitted each quarter of the year to smooth out the flow. Committee members who consulted with United States officials were told that a control system involving waiting lists can be highly satisfactory from the point of view both of the receiving country and of the immigrants concerned.

51. The annual target is envisaged as an order of magnitude to be aimed at, but because of some unpredictability in the exact number of immigrants sponsored in any one year the target might be overshot or undershot. While a definite ceiling would be placed on the number of independent immigrants—and adhered to—there would be no limit on the number of sponsored immigrants; any such person admissible would have the right to immediate entry. Likewise, the number of refugees accepted in any year would be determined by the government of the day in the light of the situation in their home country and in Canada. Thus, the actual number of immigrants coming to Canada each year could vary somewhat from the target figure.

52. Introduction of this system of targets and ceilings would, in the Committee's opinion, have several advantages over the present system.

—It would reduce the erratic character of post-war immigration to Canada while leaving sufficient flexibility to adapt to changing economic conditions.

—It would provide the tools to manage immigration efficiently to serve Canada's priorities.

—It would help to ensure that the profoundly human problems of immigration control are handled fairly, and in accordance with criteria which are open to public scrutiny.

—It would assist in planning because the full number of independent immigrants approved for entry in any one year could all be expected to come forward.

53. The Committee also gave considerable attention to the selection of a system for allocating the places within the ceiling for independent immigrants. A number of suggestions were made:

—allocation on a first come, first served basis;

—regional ceilings (for example, one third for Europe, one third for the Americas, and one third for Africa and Australasia);

—one and the same ceiling for each country (as in the United States system);

—country-by-country ceilings based on the size of their populations;

—priority to applicants scoring higher on the point system.

54. Having reflected on these choices, the Committee recommends admitting immigrants on a first come, first served basis, it being left to the operation of the immigration system to ensure that undue preference is not accorded applicants from any one country. At the same time the Committee heard complaints that the distribution of offices around the world was uneven, and wishes to express its concern that the distribution not be such as to create de facto discrimination.

Selection Criteria

Sponsored relatives

55. The Committee reaffirms that the reunification of families should be a principle of Canada's immigration policy. The family provides ties of affection and emotional support, and meets the material needs of dependent members. For these reasons the Committee favours the maintenance of the present system under which close, dependent relatives are automatically admissible to Canada providing they meet health standards and do not fall within a list of prohibited classes.

56. At the same time, the Committee attaches importance to another objective of immigration policy—that the skills and talents of immigrants contribute to the Canadian economy—and recognizes that a great many immigrants see Canada primarily as a land of social and economic opportunity. The Committee believes that Canada is enriched by those persons who come as independent immigrants for the sole purpose of participating in the work force and community life, and who have the initiative to take this step even though they lack the support of a relative in Canada. The Committee is concerned that over time the present classes of sponsored and nominated immigrants, given substantial advantages because they have relatives in Canada, would absorb an increasingly larger share of the places available each year in Canada. To ensure that this does not happen and that "new seed" immigrants continue to find a way to enter Canada, all Committee members except one recommend that the present class of nominated immigrant be dropped, and that the ties between members of the non-dependent extended family be recognized in a different way. The nominated category was first introduced in 1967, and in the Committee's opinion has given undue preference to non-dependent relatives seeking to enter Canada. They have received from 15 to 30 points, a substantial part of the minimum of 50 points needed to be eligible for admission, solely through being related to someone in Canada. Of course, such persons could still come to Canada, but they would have to be assessed on a more equal basis with independent applicants.

57. However, the Committee recognizes that relatives can help newcomers in adjusting to their new environment. It therefore proposes that the five points now available to an independent immigrant having a relative in Canada be doubled to ten if that relative is a Canadian citizen. It also recommends that the categories of relatives admissible within the sponsored class be slightly extended.

58. At present, Canadians and landed immigrants may sponsor parents over the age of 60. The basis for this age specification is that such parents usually can be regarded as dependents, not likely to enter the labour force. The Committee suggests a modest extension of this category. Canadian citizens (but not landed immigrants) over the age of 21 should be able to sponsor parents of any age. While some parents undoubtedly would be young enough to enter the work force and therefore not be dependent, there should be a possibility of reuniting any such close relatives desirous of being together. The Committee recommends that this right be limited to Canadian citizens to avoid the possible abuse whereby one of the elder children of a large family could come to Canada and immediately sponsor his parents, who on their arrival could immediately sponsor their other children under the age of 21.

Independent immigrants

59. The Committee recommends that the point system be maintained for evaluating all independent immigrants. The system has shown itself to be generally objective and fair, and ensures that prospective immigrants are assessed according to their ability to integrate socially and economically.

60. The Committee recommends a number of modifications to the allocation of points within the system. However, it has not attempted to work out a comprehensive new point system, believing that this is better done by the Department of Manpower and Immigration when they prepare the new Act and regulations. There is no reason why the points available necessarily should equal 100 or the minimum number of points needed for entry necessarily should be 50, as is now the case. The Committee's comments are intended rather to indicate the specific objectives which it thinks the point system should be designed to meet and to suggest a relative order of magnitude.

(a) Education and training

61. The Committee considers that 20 points for education and training—one point for each year of study—places too much emphasis on educational qualifications. The Chairman of the Economic Council of Canada advised that "between 1961 and 1971 the general level of schooling of the labour force in Canada increased by more than one year on the average", from which he concluded that "we may need fewer skilled people in the future" (15:18). Moreover, the Committee gained the impression that the present allocation of points favours the wealthy and well-educated. It also learned that the ten points now allocated for "occupational skill" include an educational component so that there is a degree of double scoring.

62. For these reasons the Committee favours a reduction from 20 to 12 points for education, one point for each year of successful study. This would continue to give an advantage to applicants who had completed secondary schooling. The qualifications of persons with higher education could still be recognized under "occupational skill." But this proposed reduction would diminish the amount of the advantage now available to those with much formal education, but little practical experience, while assisting those with more modest educational qualifications and a highly desirable set of skills.

63. The Committee further advises that adequate measurement of educational achievement for the purpose of allocation of points can be assured only by ascertaining the equivalence between certificates and degrees received in Canada and the sending countries. Furthermore, because the present appraisal of education is not sensitive to qualitative differences, newcomers on arrival in Canada are frequently faced with difficulty in finding employment in their occupations or professions. Accordingly, consultation should be undertaken with a view to establishing Canadian equivalencies for foreign education and training. Immigration Officers abroad would then be better equipped to assess applicants realistically in this respect, and to advise them about the differences between educational and professional standards and requirements. A newcomer could then expect to enter the work force with a minimum of frustration and delay; and applicants from different parts of the world would receive more equitable treatment.

(b) Occupational skill

64. The Committee considers that practical experience in an occupation is very often no less important than formal educational and training qualifications. Under the present system an applicant receives up to 10 points for what is called "occupational skill"—the number of points allotted is calculated on a complex grid involving differing weights for the number of years of training needed to practice the profession or trade and the intrinsic skill required. The Immigration Officer may vary the total given on this criterion by one point above or below a prescribed norm depending on whether or not he considers the applicant has mastered the skills.

65. Because, for example, a welder with five years experience should be more capable than one just completing trade school, the Committee proposes that additional points—up to eight—be available for the assessment of experience and personal competence. Points allocated should depend on the number of years of practical experience and, if feasible, on the demonstrated quality of an applicant's competence. This means that the 10 points presently available for assessing the training and skill required in an occupation would be retained; but instead of allowing only one point to measure an individual's competence, eight points would be available to measure competence plus experience where that experience contributes to greater competence.

(c) Age

66. Demographic projections indicate a steady trend toward an aging Canadian population with increasing dependency ratios. Also, it is usually easier for younger people to adapt to a new country and find suitable employment. For both reasons the point system should continue to favour young applicants, and therefore the Committee recommends no change in the present practice of awarding points on this criterion.

(d) Language

67. The allocation of five points for competence in one or the other of Canada's official languages should be maintained. The ability to speak one of the official languages of Canada enables the newcomers to integrate more readily and successfully, and to enjoy greater occupational and social mobility.

68. The allocation of 10 points for an applicant speaking both official languages should be maintained, reinforcing the fact that Canada is a bilingual country.

(e) Relative in Canada

69. To compensate for its proposal to drop the nominated class, the Committee recommends that prospective immigrants who have a relative of a certain degree of kinship in Canada be given 10 points if the relative is a Canadian citizen, and five points if the relative is a landed immigrant. Relatives are usually helpful to new immigrants and support them both emotionally and materially in their initial period of settlement and integration into an unfamiliar culture. The additional five points given if the relative is a Canadian citizen recognizes that immigrants who have acquired Canadian citizenship have generally lived longer in Canada and can be more helpful to the new immigrant.

70. The Committee would allot five or 10 points (as the case may be) to an applicant with any of the following relatives in Canada: a son or daughter, a brother or sister, a parent or grandparent, a niece or nephew, an uncle or aunt, or a grandson or granddaughter.

(f) Occupational demand

71. The vast majority of independent immigrants, even those with a relative in Canada, come to this country to work and to improve their standard of living. Unless an immigrant has a reasonable chance of finding employment related to his training or abilities, neither he nor Canadians benefit from his settlement in Canada. In the Committee's judgment it is therefore essential that selection criteria reflect Canada's manpower needs. To that end, the Committee carefully studied the three criteria directly related to employment for which points are allocated.

72. It did not feel any change was needed in the points awarded for occupational demand. A very broad range of job classifications are rated from zero to 15 according to the national demand for the skills involved; this rating is based on the Job Vacancy Survey conducted by Statistics Canada. The figures are adjusted monthly and printed in the Department's occupational demand rating guide. The Committee considers that the Department's calculations might be somewhat improved if the statistical base could be extended to include other information on job vacancies, perhaps from provincial or private employment agency sources. But otherwise it believes this criterion is an important indicator of the employment picture in Canada.

73. Several members of the Committee were troubled by the implications of the fact that the occupational demand rating guide is available only to departmental officials; a number of persons are qualified in more than one occupation and might not be assessed to their best advantage if they are unaware of the varying needs for their different skills. Much of this information reaches the public domain anyway by the immigration grapevine, but often in garbled form. These members felt that because the occupational demand rating is derived from public data, it should therefore be made available to prospective immigrants.

74. Against this position it was argued that this practice would be open to abuse. Training schools which make a business of recruiting persons seeking to immigrate might offer diplomas in whichever occupations were allocated the highest points, or applicants might misrepresent their qualifications to score higher. The need to verify such qualifications would greatly increase the work load at immigration posts. These latter arguments persuaded a narrow majority of members of the Committee that the rating guide should be kept confidential.

75. The Committee, however, was agreed that, so long as the rating guide was not available publicly, the prospective immigrant should be given a description of how the Canadian point system works; the application form should contain an invitation to report each occupation the applicant is skilled in; and the Immigration Officer at the interview should be under instructions to seek full information on the applicant's occupational experience.

(g) Arranged employment and designated occupation

76. Because an arranged job is beneficial to both the immigrant and the employer, the Committee recommends that 10 points continue to be awarded to a person who has obtained a job before departure. To prevent abuse it is important that officials also continue to satisfy themselves that the job offer is valid, and that the prospective employer offers the prevailing salary for the position, and satisfactory working conditions and benefits. As an additional protection, the immigrant should be counselled on his rights before leaving for Canada and advised where to secure help on arrival if needed.

77. The Committee appreciates that awarding points for arranged employment favours those applicants who are close to the Canadian job market, and/or have relatives in Canada who can mediate a job offer. As a technique for assisting the independent immigrant who has no previous connections with Canada and for meeting the manpower needs of the economy, the Committee was impressed by the Department's experience with the recently introduced criterion of "designated occupation". This involves taking occupations in very high demand in specific localities which cannot be filled, and matching these fully documented requirements (which include details of wages, working conditions and the like) with the qualifications of applicants seeking entry to Canada. While neither party is obligated by the arrangement, there is a high probability of a mutually satisfactory match. The Committee encourages the Department to expand and improve this practice and to continue to award 10 points to applicants who so qualify.

78. The Committee further recommends that in times of high unemployment in Canada, it should automatically become mandatory that an independent immigrant have either an arranged job or the skills required in a designated occupation.

(h) Area demand

79. Under the point system as now administered, up to five points are offered depending on where an applicant intends to settle. The precise number of points is allotted on the basis of employment levels in different regions of the country, ignoring more specific local manpower needs as well as the need to encourage people to settle away from large centres of population.

80. Instead of giving points to immigrants for going to major cities like Toronto—in October, 1975, three points were given to any immigrant indicating Toronto as his destination—the Committee proposes that area demand be substantially modified and used experimentally to encourage prospective immigrants to settle in communities where population growth is desired and is compatible with regional development plans. It would be important to work closely with provincial authorities to ensure that they agreed that immigrants were desired and jobs were available in the designated communities, and that the services immigrants require would be provided.

81. Under these circumstances, the Committee thinks a successful applicant should be told about the designated communities and given the opportunity to emigrate immediately (in effect, jumping any queue which might have formed), on condition that he were prepared to take an available job and commit himself to a written contract to remain in the designated locality for at least two years.

82. If, during the contract period, he could not find work in the community, or there were other mitigating factors such as health needs, immigration officials could release him from his obligation. Otherwise, compliance with the contract should be encouraged by delaying the completion of formal landing until the immigrant has taken up employment in the designated locality and has reported to the local Canada Manpower Centre with proof he has done this. A person who failed to honour the terms of the contract in a way which indicated that he misrepresented his intentions when he agreed to it should be "required to depart" from Canada, a new procedure, less drastic than deportation, which is advocated later in this report.

83. The Committee considered offering perhaps as many as ten points as a further inducement to an applicant prepared to settle in a designated community. However, it decided against proposing that any points be awarded for area demand as now proposed out of a fear that this might lead to the entry of marginal immigrants who might fail to adapt successfully when placed in communities where conditions may be particularly difficult for a variety of reasons.

84. As now proposed, the only inducement offered to a prospective immigrant to settle in a designated community is the opportunity to emigrate immediately. This would be attractive only if a waiting list had developed. With a waiting list, an immigrant choosing to settle in a designated community would do so entirely voluntarily since he would be admissible in any event if he were prepared to wait. The Committee urges that this proposal be approached imaginatively, and that consultation with the provinces be undertaken about the various ways of applying the principle which the Committee wishes to promote—that one of the goals immigration can help to serve is regional development.

85. The Committee is under no illusion that its proposal would solve the problems of regional development or urban congestion. It recognizes that incentives must be available to attract Canadians as well as immigrants to areas where people are needed. However, a proposal along these lines could go a little way towards meeting these objectives, and the Committee urges that such a change be implemented on an experimental basis, and carefully monitored.

(i) Personal assessment and discretionary authority

86. Under the point system as now administered, an immigrant can gain up to 15 points for personal assessment. This is determined during an interview by the Immigration Officer following a detailed set of guidelines. In addition, the Officer has an overall discretionary authority to recommend that an applicant without sufficient points be admitted, or an applicant with sufficient points be refused, if there is reason to believe that the points awarded do not accurately reflect the person's chances of successfully establishing himself in Canada. Either recommendation is subject to review and final determination by the officer-in-charge in each immigration post.

87. The Committee feels that there is a degree of confusion between the two procedures, and realizes that there is a subjective element in making a personal assessment. Nonetheless, the officer must make a judgment as to how effectively an applicant would adjust to life in Canada. So, while the Committee accepts the need for giving some points for personal assessment, it suggests that the total be reduced by at least one third.

88. With regard to the overall discretionary authority, the Committee noted that in the vast majority of cases it has been used to admit persons not scoring sufficient points to be otherwise admissible. In 1974 the authority was used some 5,300 times; in about 500 cases applicants scoring sufficient points were rejected; in the remaining 4,800 cases applicants without sufficient points were admitted.

89. The Committee commends this practice and urges the Department to continue to encourage its officers to use their best judgment when it is a matter of admitting applicants showing adaptability, determination, and resourcefulness who might score low on education and training. It also recognizes that occasionally there may be evidence that an applicant is either unsuitable or undesirable in ways that cannot be reflected in specific and quantitative criteria.

90. The Committee believes that, in the end, it is unavoidable and proper that well-trained Immigration Officers and their superiors, familiar with the social and cultural milieu of the applicants they are assessing, should be entrusted with a discretionary authority to make judgments that are important, but of necessity cannot be encompassed within the mechanical administration of the point system.

Refugees

91. No specific provision is made in the Immigration Act and regulations for the admission of refugees. The Minister of Manpower and Immigration, by means of regular administrative directives and special programs which are approved by the government to handle unusual situations, has acted in accordance with the United Nations Convention Relating to the Status of Refugees (1951) and the subsequent Protocol (1967). He has often relaxed the terms of the U.N. definition. The lack of clearly stated guidelines led to the characterization of Canadian refugee policy by Freda Hawkins as "ad hoc, inconsistent, and undisclosed" (33:22).

92. The Committee feels that a clear statement of refugee policy is necessary to guarantee fair and equitable treatment of claimants to refugee status. At the same time, any statutory provisions must allow for the flexibility of response that has been, and will be, needed to handle the number and particularly the variety of refugee problems that arise.

93. The Committee regards the United Nations definition of "refugee" as too narrow and not adequate to accommodate the present-day variety of circumstances and emergencies confronting citizens of many countries. One difficulty is the stipulation that the person be outside his country to qualify as a refugee. Canada has eased this requirement to accommodate Chilians and Ugandans, but the Committee sees a need for firm criteria to reflect contemporary refugee situations in which persons must leave their home countries because they have been stripped of citizenship and denied the right to remain. The definition should also include persons living in their homeland who face persecution or punishment for political reasons, provided their governments allow them to leave.

94. In brief, the definition of refugee should not be so broad as to undermine the humanitarian principles to which Canada holds, nor so narrow that government cannot cope within the Act with the new emergencies that require a fast and efficient response.

95. The Committee studied the possibility of expanding the definition to include persons suffering from poverty and hunger as a result of natural disaster, famine, or war. Such a concept would be impractical since it could include over half the world's present population.

96. In fitting these conclusions into the broad policy proposals for an annual immigration target the Committee also recognizes that the number of refugees accepted from year to year may vary widely, depending on unpredictable world conditions, and on the economic situation within Canada. Accordingly it advises that an annual ceiling on the numbers of refugees permitted entry would introduce an unwelcome and arbitrary limit on the bounds of Canada's humanitarianism, and recommends that refugee flows should normally not be included in the government's annual target.

97. Because of the increasing number and variety of refugee situations, the Committee agreed that "well-founded fears of persecution" cannot always be easily documented. Accordingly, the Committee further recommends that the responsible Ministers should normally report to the appropriate Standing Committee of Parliament on international situations with refugee implications and the government's response.

98. Because refugee situations frequently require immediate action and the provision of safe haven with neither Canada nor the refugee (or claimant to refugee status) being sure of whether they would be willing or able to accept each other, the Committee carefully studied the recommendation of some witnesses that Canada institute a provisional or temporary reception program as Sweden has done.

99. The Committee learned that Swedish acceptance is limited to 1,000 persons per year and even these few cases are subject to individual approval. Canada is in a position to grant what amounts to first asylum by means of a Minister's Permit. The formal establishment of the rights of first asylum might cause problems in the longer term: while international practice permits the option of deporting an undesirable refugee, no country other than his country of origin may be prepared to receive him. The Committee therefore recommends against the establishment of a special category of first asylum.

Prohibited Classes

100. A person who is found to come within the prohibited classes of Section 5 of the Immigration Act is not admissible to Canada. The Committee received many submissions concerning the revision of this section of the Act.

101. It examined the classes which are prohibited and recommends that certain subsections of Section 5, identified below, be amended, and suggests that all subsections be carefully reviewed to ensure that the provisions are up to date. Since these prohibitions apply to anyone entering Canada—prospective immigrants, temporary workers, students, and visitors—the Act should clarify when the prohibitions apply mainly or solely to prospecting immigrants and when they apply to everyone.

Retardation

102. Section 5(a)(i) prohibits the entry of "idiots, imbeciles or morons." The London Council of Women argued that, "A mentally retarded child should be permitted to immigrate with its parents, at any age" (37:10). The Committee agrees that immediate members of a family should not be separated because one member suffers from mental retardation and therefore recommends that sponsored dependents who are mentally retarded be admissible.

Mental illness and epilepsy

103. Section 5(a)(ii) and (iv) prohibit the entry of those who are insane or afflicted with epilepsy. An individual maintained that,

"persons suffering from mental disorders should not be prohibited if they can lead a normal life, particularly victims of nervous breakdowns which are only due to temporary circumstances and are experienced by many people" (I 878).

Because many forms of mental illness and epilepsy can now successfully be treated and controlled, most Committee members agree that a person with a history of such a disease should be admissible providing he can lead a normal and useful life. A minority of the Committee would have eliminated mental illness and epilepsy altogether from the prohibited classes.

Contagious diseases

104. Section 5(b) excludes "persons afflicted with tuberculosis in any form, trachoma or any contagious or infectious disease," and was designed apparently to protect Canadians from dangerous illnesses, or the burden of costly medical treatment. The Committee agrees with several submissions that medical advances can make any such specific prohibitions obsolete, and therefore recommends that this subsection state the general principle to be observed without mentioning any specific diseases.

Crimes of moral turpitude

105. Section 5(d) prohibits the entry of persons who have been convicted of or admit having committed a crime involving moral turpitude. While agreeing with the principle, the Committee believes that the term "moral turpitude" is vague and unsatisfactory. A more adequate definition would be achieved by listing serious offences such as murder, rape, assault, fraud, robbery, hijacking, kidnapping, perjury and smuggling, and by providing guidelines by which other serious crimes could be identified.

Homosexuals

106. Many organizations and individuals called for the removal of any reference to homosexuals and homosexuality in Section 5(e). They argued that homosexual acts between consenting adults are no longer an offence under the Criminal Code, and that the new immigration law should reflect the fact that Canadian attitudes towards homosexuality have changed significantly since the last Act was written. Although a few members of the Committee felt strongly that the prohibition against homosexuals should remain, the majority agrees that it should be removed.

Prostitutes

107. Section 5(e) also prohibits the entry of "prostitutes ... or persons living on the avails of prostitution." The Committee wishes to retain this prohibition, but suggests the term "prostitute" be changed to read "male or female prostitute."

Beggars and Vagrants

108. Section 5(g) prohibits the entry of "professional beggars or vagrants." The Committee recommends that all reference to "vagrants" and "vagrancy" be removed from this prohibition.

Public charges

109. Section 5(h) prohibits the entry of those "who are public charges or who, in the opinion of a Special Inquiry Officer, are likely to become public charges." Although some members of the Committee advocated the removal of this prohibition because they think it is vague and confers unacceptable discretionary powers on the Special Inquiry Officer, the majority favours its retention on the grounds that Canada's social services should not be overtaxed.

Chronic alcoholics

110. Section 5(i) denies entry to persons who are "chronic alcoholics." The Canadian Bar Association recommended that the term be defined as it is in Section 4(1) (b) of the Canada Divorce Act. The Committee agrees, and thinks the definition should read as follows: "A person who is grossly addicted to alcohol and cannot reasonably be expected to be rehabilitated within a reasonably foreseeable period."

Drug addicts

111. Section 5(j) prohibits the entry of persons addicted to a narcotic within the meaning of the Narcotic Control Act, but barbiturates, amphetamines and hallucinogens are not included in this definition. The Committee recommends that this section be redrafted to take account of the latest developments in the field of drugs, and in particular to comprehend drugs that are addictive although they may not be narcotics.

Subversives

112. Subsections 5(l) to (r) of the Immigration Act prohibit the entry of subversives. The Committee believes there is a need for careful definition so as not to exclude law-abiding advocates of extreme views, and with this in mind commends the definition of subversive activity found in the Official Secrets Act which reads as follows:

(a) Espionage or sabotage;

(b) foreign intelligence activities directed toward gathering intelligence information relating to Canada;

(c) activities directed toward accomplishing governmental change within Canada or elsewhere by force or violence or any criminal means;

(d) activities by a foreign power directed toward actual or potential attack or other hostile acts against Canada; or

(e) activities of a foreign terrorist group directed toward the commission of terrorist acts in or against Canada.

The Committee suggests that international terrorism be added to this list.

Non-bona fide immigrants or non-immigrants

113. Section 5(p) prohibits the entry of "persons who are not, in the opinion of a Special Inquiry Officer, bona fide immigrants or non-immigrants." The Canadian Bar Association suggested that the section "should be either deleted in its entirety or amended so that it provides guidelines or criteria to be followed by Special Inquiry Officers as to the meaning of 'bona fide'" (067). The Committee recommends that the prohibition be retained, but that clear guidelines be followed by Special Inquiry Officers in applying it.

Controls and Enforcement

Entry and exit controls

114. The Committee was impressed by the need to improve control over the entry into and stay in Canada of persons who come as visitors with the intention of residing and working illegally. The magnitude of the problem is unknown, but many Canadians expressed a fear that "illegal immigration" is out of control. It seems clear that this fear can foster negative attitudes towards immigrants in general. Moreover, the plight of many illegal aliens is a matter of concern as they are vulnerable to varied forms of intimidation, exploitation, and blackmail.

115. The Committee considered the present system for screening out non-bona fide visitors at ports of entry. A person suspected on certain specified grounds of intending not just to visit Canada but to remain can be refused entry. This can cause not only embarrassment, but genuine hardship to individuals who have come long distances on the understanding that all that is needed to get into Canada is a return ticket. Some bona fide visitors may be refused entry for lack of the means to make their case. Others may eventually emerge from the Special Inquiry procedure free to visit Canada—the Committee was informed that this is true of some 30 per cent of the cases that go to Special Inquiry—but their stay will be marred by their unpleasant experience at the port of entry. On the other hand, there can be no doubt that many "illegals" get through and disappear without any record of their entry.

116. For these reasons the Committee weighed the pros and cons of implementing a comprehensive visitor visa system, excluding only United States citizens, 30 million of whom visit each year, from the requirement of obtaining a time-limited visitor visa before seeking to enter Canada. Prospective visitors should then be accurately informed of Canada's regulations before undertaking a journey and would have the minimum necessary documentation, thus avoiding futile travel. Inspection at ports of entry would be facilitated. However, it is questionable whether officers abroad could better judge visitors' intentions even though they would be working under less pressure than port of entry officers in Canada. And the financial and staff implications of setting up systems and maintaining sufficient officers abroad are considerable. Again, unless a visitor visa system were coupled with an exit monitoring system there would be no way of knowing whether visitors had left Canada.

117. Consequently, the Committee has reservations about the efficacy and practicability of a visa system and recommends that consideration be given first to the establishment of a combined entry and exit card system. If, after careful monitoring, it proved ineffective, a visitor visa system should be reconsidered.

118. With an entry and exit card system everyone entering Canada except Canadian citizens and landed immigrants, and American citizens, would be required to complete a card in duplicate stating name, passport number, country of citizenship, and intended place of sojourn in Canada. The Immigration Officer would check the card against the passport for authenticity, accuracy, and legibility, and date-stamp and code or number the card and its duplicate. The duplicate (possibly secured to the passport for safekeeping) would be surrendered to the Immigration Officer on departure. A computerized match would then indicate which visitors had, and which had not, departed. This procedure would give only a first lead as to where to look for people suspected of having failed to depart, but it would indicate whom to start looking for, and would for the first time provide some firm evidence of the dimensions of illegal immigration. Knowing that authorities had such records would itself discourage some visitors from overstaying.

119. A limited experiment with entry and exit cards was undertaken in Canada a few years ago, and was subsequently dropped. However, the system introduced at that time involved no inspection on departure and departing visitors were simply invited to drop their forms in a box. The Committee does not regard this as an adequate test of the system it has in mind.

120. For this system to be effective, Immigration Officers would have to be able to satisfy themselves that persons claiming to be Canadian residents or American citizens on entering or leaving Canada were telling the truth. This could be accomplished easily and efficiently by having such persons show their passports; however, alternative forms of identification should be considered acceptable for the 70 million Canadians and Americans travelling between the United States and Canada where passports have traditionally not been required.

121. Visitors would continue to be screened at ports of entry. The examination process would scarcely be speeded up, although officers on the primary inspection line would feel under less pressure in the knowledge that the entry and exit control card system were in effect. In this connection the Committee wishes strongly to recommend the establishment of separate inspection lines at international airports, one for Canadian residents and others for visitors and new immigrants. This would speed up the examination process for returning Canadians who in this day of giant aircraft may often be subjected to delays. If this small step were taken it would be possible to place trained Immigration Officers on the primary inspection line for visitors and immigrants, where their experience would be valuable.

122. The proposed entry-exit monitoring system would require additional personnel at ports of exit to check passports and collect exit cards, and inland to process the cards, but these costs would certainly be less than those involved in a visitor visa system requiring substantial personnel abroad.

123. The Committee recommends that an entry-exit monitoring system be complemented by more thorough follow-up, control, and enforcement procedures within Canada with respect to people suspected of remaining illegally. To facilitate this a number of specific steps should be taken:

—Employers should be required to make reasonable inquiries to establish that employees have a right to work in Canada, and be liable to prosecution for employing anyone who is not a Canadian, not a landed immigrant, or not in possession of a valid work permit.

—Visitors should not be permitted to change their status to landed immigrant, student, or worker from within Canada. (Exceptional cases should be handled by Minister's Permit.)

—Attempts should be made to develop additional methods to detect and take action against marriages of convenience by which persons fraudulently acquire the right to become Canadian residents.

—Landed immigrants who leave Canada for an appreciable period of time should be required to apply for a prima facie grant of re-entry from a Canadian Immigration Officer in the country of sojourn. The Officer would determine whether or not the absence was of a temporary nature with an intent of returning to Canada. At present the port of entry officer is required to make a hasty decision on these matters.

—Persons in Canada other than Canadian citizens who counsel, aid, or abet others to enter or remain in Canada illegally should be liable to deportation.

Special Inquiry, appeal and deportation procedures

124. Special inquiry, appeal and deportation procedures comprise some of the mechanisms for controlling in an equitable way the entry into or stay in Canada of persons who have no lawful right to be here, or who are undesirable. In addition to submissions from lawyers, civil liberties groups, and other interested parties, the Committee received testimony from the Chairman of the Immigration Appeal Board and Immigration officials, and visited ports of entry and Canada Manpower and Immigration Centres to observe procedures at first hand.

125. While the Committee does not wish to recommend any fundamental changes in the present system, it has two underlying concerns. First, whether individual justice is best served by a more rigorously legalistic adversary system with precise rules of procedure, of evidence, and of precedence, or by a less formal, more direct attempt to discover and respond appropriately to the facts as each case warrants. Second, courts and legal procedures in general are designed to protect rights, not to grant privileges. Immigration per se is, in this sense, a privilege, extended by the Parliament of Canada. The judiciary, or other independent bodies, should not, as far as possible, become involved in the selection of immigrants, although the current rights of review by the courts should be preserved. Also, the Committee wanted to ensure that procedures in Canada were not of a nature to encourage people to avoid applying for landed immigrant status abroad. It must not be made easier for would-be immigrants to achieve their objectives simply by arriving in Canada as visitors, and then taking their chances.

126. The Committee noted that many submissions recommended safeguards that are already in effect: at Special Inquiries the subject is now informed of his right to retain counsel; he has a right to the services of interpreters at no charge and to witnesses if necessary; he is read the report of charges against him, and is told of the purpose and possible consequences of the inquiry. The Committee rejects the suggestion that Special Inquiry Officers be appointees independent of the Department of Manpower and Immigration. It further recommends no change in the practice that where the inquiry concerns a person seeking to enter Canada, the onus of proof of admissibility lies upon that person, while where it concerns a person already within Canada, the onus of proof that the person is subject to deportation lies on the Minister. It agrees with the Canadian Bar Association (and with actual departmental practice) that "There should be no 'further examination' (by a Special Inquiry Officer) leading to deportation without a formal Special Inquiry hearing".

127. The Committee was told that the powers of search, arrest, detention, and interim release provided for by the Immigration Act are exercised in a manner that adheres very closely to the provisions of the Criminal Code and the Bail Reform Act. The Committee concurs with the Canadian Civil Liberties Association that "it reveals no disrespect to insist that Ministerial assurances are no substitute for legislative safeguards" and recommends that the same safeguards that exist in the Criminal Code and Bail Reform Act be applied to the prehearing detention of "immigration suspects" who have been admitted to Canada and/or have filed appeals (34.42). At the same time, the Committee recommends the assignment of additional immigration staff to investigative and enforcement duties, and the provision of more adequate communications equipment, facilities, and R.C.M.P. support at Canada-United States border crossing points.

128. The Immigration Appeal Board at present is empowered to hear appeals from refusals of sponsorship applications made by Canadian citizens, and from orders of deportation in respect of landed immigrants, persons in possession of valid Canadian visas issued outside Canada, persons who have claimed refugee status and whose appeal has been allowed to proceed by the Board, and persons who have claimed Canadian citizenship and whose appeal has been allowed to proceed by the Board. On appeals from orders of deportation, the Board must first consider the legality of the deportation order; if the order is found to be in accordance with the law, the Board may then consider evidence that the person should nonetheless be allowed to stay in Canada for humanitarian or compassionate reasons.

129. The committee gave careful consideration to the arguments of the Chairman of the Immigration Appeal Board, made in testimony before the Committee, that all aliens should be given a right to apply for leave to appeal to the Board from a deportation or related order on questions of law, fact, or mixed fact and law, together with a right to claim special humanitarian or compassionate relief. It is the Board's exceptional power to grant special relief, to modify the laws of Parliament where the law would be unjustly harsh on individual cases, that the Board Chairman sees as the real raison d'être of the Board and as the justification for extending access to the Board to all persons ordered deported. A minority of the Committee favoured the recommendation of the Immigration Appeal Board. They believed that justice requires that a person ordered deported by an official of the Department should have a right to seek judicial review of this decision. They also thought that the experience of the Board should be recognized and its judgment be accepted on the principle of extending the right to appeal as proposed and on the practicability of the proposal—that it would not cause undue delays.

130. Most members of the Committee rejected the Appeal Board's recommendation for a number of reasons. It was felt that the Board's unique jurisdiction to modify the laws of Parliament should not be extended to visitors without visas who are ordered deported. Even granting only the right to seek leave to appeal would require a process of filing an application, production of the record of the Special Inquiry, written submissions from both parties, and consideration of these by the Board. This process, it was feared, would be unavoidably time-consuming, costly (not just in terms of the Board's time, but also because the subject would have to be detained and accommodated at public expense in the interim), create a backlog, and be largely unwarranted because Special Inquiries are judged to be satisfactory to these purposes. Here, specifically, Committee members did not want to create a situation where a person had more chance of gaining immigrant status by evading the selection process than by going through it. Moreover, the Committee's decision to recommend that students seeking to study in Canada should be required to apply for a visa abroad would somewhat extend the range of the Appeal Board's present jurisdiction. Should a future decision be taken to adopt a system of visitor visas, the Board's jurisdiction as now provided for would actually become larger than the limited extension it is now seeking.

131. The Committee agrees with the Canadian Civil Liberties Association that it is both unnecessary and unfair that a deportation order serve the goal of extradition: unnecessary because a country which wants someone extradited from Canada can request it; and unfair because extradition guarantees the safeguards of a criminal trial while deportation does not. Therefore, the Committee recommends that a person to be deported have the right to choose the country to which he wants to be deported, if that country is prepared to receive him (34:43).

132. Deportation carries with it a stigma and the consequence that, once deported, a person can legally re-enter Canada only by obtaining a Minister's Permit. The Committee found cogent the arguments of the Canadian Bar Association and the British Columbia and Canadian Civil Liberties Associations that there should be an additional, less drastic mechanism for removing people from Canada (067, 047, 34:48-9 respectively). It is unfair that a person having a right to a hearing of his case before a Special Inquiry Officer should forego it, in favour of departing voluntarily simply because the only possible outcome, if his suspected inadmissibility is confirmed, is the harsh one of deportation. The Committee therefore recommends the introduction of a "required to depart" procedure, to be used in cases of minor breaches of the Immigration Act or regulations.

133. A "required to depart" order should carry with it the same provisions for Special Inquiry and appeal as a deportation order now does. The rejection of an appeal of a "required to depart" order should be final. Anyone who fails to obey a "required to depart" order which is not subject to appeal or which has been upheld on appeal should be subject to deportation without further appeal.

134. The Committee considered suggestions that there be various additions to or deletions from the grounds for deportation of persons who are not Canadian citizens. As previously mentioned, it recommends the addition of persons in Canada who counsel, aid, or abet others to come into or remain in Canada illegally. It rejected additions which would be unjustifiably harsh or discriminatory against landed immigrants or which would compromise guaranteed freedoms; for example, immigrants who go on welfare or apply for unemployment insurance within 10 years of arrival, or immigrants who are politically radical. It agreed with suggestions for two deletions: homosexuals, for reasons outlined in the foregoing discussion of prohibited classes; and persons who have been admitted to hospital for treatment of mental diseases, since the threat of deportation has made immigrants fearful of using mental health services. Furthermore, the present provision that any inmate of a penitentiary, reformatory or jail may be subject to deportation should be modified to provide that a landed immigrant is liable for deportation only if he has been convicted of an offence which comes under the class of crimes which would have prohibited his entry into the country, as previously recommended.

135. The Immigration Act provides that Canadian domicile is acquired by a person having his place of residence in Canada for five years after having been admitted as a landed immigrant. The significance of domicile is related to deportation. Landed immigrants without domicile are liable to deportation on a number of grounds, including commission of criminal offences and gaining initial entry illegally or fraudulently. Landed immigrants with domicile are not and, of course, landed immigrants who have requested and have been granted Canadian citizenship are not. While not wishing to see eligible immigrants request Canadian citizenship simply to protect themselves against possible deportation, the Committee is unaware of any valid reason for retaining the concept of Canadian domicile and believes that it is reasonable to offer inducements to encourage landed immigrants to acquire citizenship. It feels that landed immigrants should have certain rights to remain in Canada, including the protection from deportation provided by the powers of the Immigration Appeal Board to grant special relief for humanitarian reasons. But these rights should not be inalienable as they are for Canadian citizens. It therefore recommends that the concept of domicile be deleted from the Immigration Act.

Temporary Workers

136. In Canada, employment visas (usually called "work permits") can be issued to persons who wish to work in Canada on a temporary basis at jobs for which Canadians or landed immigrants with the necessary skills are unavailable for the time required. The employment visa system is designed at the same time to preserve job opportunities for Canadian citizens and landed immigrants and to meet employers' needs for temporary labour which cannot otherwise be filled. Included in the 87,341 work permits issued in 1974 were many different categories of workers—managerial, supervisory, and technical staff on training cycles in international corporations; entertainers; seasonal agricultural and factory workers; domestics; working "visitors" who secured many sorts of casual employment; and others.

137. The Committee was impressed with a number of submissions which expressed concern that certain categories of temporary workers can be exploited by being relegated to unattractive jobs, receiving low wages, working under poor conditions, and being ineligible for social benefits. Witnesses also stated that temporary workers can suffer psychologically from being isolated from their families, perhaps unable to speak the language or understand their rights, and from disillusionment on having to return to economic hardship after becoming acquainted with standards of living in Canada.

138. On the other hand, the Committee noted that protections and safeguards have been instituted in an attempt to ensure that wages and working conditions are at least of a standard deemed adequate for Canadians. Moreover, as a study commissioned by the Law Reform Commission of Canada observed, foreign workers are under no coercion to come to Canada and they are usually satisfied with the arrangement because Canadian wage levels are attractive to them (0240). The Committee recognizes that even during periods of high unemployment in Canada, there will continue to be a need for temporary and particularly seasonal workers in Canada. It therefore concerned itself with trying to identify where the problems lie.

139. Twelve per cent of temporary workers now come to Canada on special programs worked out with their governments. Jamaica and Mexico are the principal countries involved, and from contacts which Committee members have had with these governments it would seem that these arrangements are satisfactory to them.

140. Apart from a few hotel workers, most are seasonal agricultural workers who return to their families and do not expect to settle in Canada. Since they come forward under an inter-governmental agreement, the terms of work and remuneration are specified in detail, enforcement is more comprehensive than Canadian migrant workers enjoy, and the worker has recourse to the assistance of authorities of his country in Canada if his contract is not fully honoured. The Committee believes that these arrangements under which temporary workers come to Canada are satisfactory.

141. Some criticism expressed in testimony seemed to be based on the incorrect assumption that Canada has a "guest worker" program similar to those in a number of countries in Western Europe. While there may be cases in which several extensions to a work permit are granted, the Committee understands that most temporary workers stay for fewer than 200 days and that in 1974 over a third were in Canada fewer than 90 days. The situation with "guest workers" is quite different, and the Committee strongly opposes any movement in that direction in Canada. In this connection some witnesses, including the Canadian Labour Congress, advocated full Canadian compliance with the terms of I.L.O. Convention 97.* The Committee does not disagree, but notes that the Convention is really intended to protect "guest workers" who work in a country other than their country of citizenship on a regular and long-term basis. The Convention is not designed to protect temporary workers, but the relevant provisions should be observed where practicable.

142. A serious complaint was made that Canadian employers have sometimes misrepresented workers' prospects when recruiting them. The Committee was given details of the unfortunate plight of textile workers from Colombia, some of whom gave up regular jobs to come to work in a mill at Louiseville, Quebec. The market for the company's products declined, and after a relatively short stay in Canada, the workers were released. The Committee believes this situation illustrates the danger of bringing workers on temporary work permits to fill positions which are not genuinely temporary and which should be filled by Canadians or landed immigrants. The Department of Manpower and Immigration must insist that work permits are issued only for genuinely temporary needs.

143. There is a corollary to this position. Where a persistent need for labour arises which Canadians are demonstrably not willing to fill in a specific locality, it should be possible, in conjunction with the provincial authorities, to identify the need, allot points for designated occupations, and find immigrants abroad willing to do the work—providing that the wage offered is comparable to that paid for the same job in similar communities in Canada.

144. A suggestion was made by the Canadian Civil Liberties Association that a temporary worker who loses his job should have a period of grace to enable him to arrange his affairs before being required to depart, or to find another job acceptable to Manpower officials (34:40). The Committee agreed courtesy requires that a temporary worker should have a reasonable time to arrange an orderly departure. But it was felt that, while a seasonal worker should be able to take a similar alternative seasonal job in the same locality with the approval of Manpower authorities, it would be inconsistent with the concept of a temporary work permit to allow a person to seek alternative employment as a means of extending his stay.

*A Convention concerning migration for employment which came into force in January 1952 and provides protection for migratory, but not for temporary, workers.

145. The Committee concluded that when filling labour needs for which no Canadians are available, or which Canadians are demonstrably not willing to meet, either now or in the reasonably foreseeable future, the emphasis should always be placed on immigration. It recommends that:

—foreign workers be recruited only for jobs that are genuinely temporary in nature, either because of the nature of the work or because Canadians being trained for the job are not ready;

—temporary workers be issued distinctive social security cards;

—extensions to work permits be granted only in exceptional circumstances;

—more regular and thorough inspection and enforcement of wages and working conditions be carried out in areas under the federal government's jurisdiction and that provincial governments be encouraged to do the same in their jurisdictions;

—greater efforts be made to persuade provincial or local authorities or union locals, whichever has the jurisdiction, to take a more generous approach to the matter of trade certification and apprenticeship of immigrants and so lessen the need for temporary workers;

—an advisory board be appointed, representing the federal government and all provinces in which foreign workers are employed, to protect the rights of those workers;

—temporary workers not be obliged to pay unemployment insurance premiums because they are not eligible to collect benefits.

146. With regard to visitors the Committee agreed with the sentiment expressed by a study for the Law Reform Commission that "visitors should visit, not work" (0240) and recommends that no one be permitted to apply for work permits from within Canada. This would discourage visitors coming in the hope of finding work and staying.

147. The Committee found that the "waiver list" of categories of foreign workers who are permitted to accept jobs whether or not there are Canadian citizens or landed immigrants available is in need of revision. Specifically, it recommends that primary and secondary school teachers be removed from the list, and that the other categories be examined to ensure that the list continues to serve the purpose for which it was designed. It also supports the Government's stated intention to remove the special income tax exemption clauses for teachers when re-negotiating tax treaties with the countries now covered by such provisions.

148. It was brought to the Committee's attention that many temporary workers, while in Canada, gain experience and a familiarity with Canadian society which could make them particularly adaptable and attractive as immigrants. For those temporary workers who desire to become landed immigrants the Committee recommends that when being evaluated abroad their past success in Canada be given recognition in points assigned for "personal assessment." However it is opposed to allowing temporary workers to apply for landed immigrant status while in Canada.

Foreign Students

149. The Committee agrees that Canada should continue to welcome foreign students. It endorses the opinion of the National Union of Students that "The diversity of backgrounds which (foreign students) bring to Canadian universities enriches the cultural milieu" (0110). Study in Canada is consistent with Canada's endorsement of policies of free movement of people and ideas, and enables us to share our specialized skills. And the Committee recognizes that Canadian students studying abroad outnumber foreign students studying here. It feels that study in Canada enables young people to learn about and develop positive impressions of Canada.

150. If these benefits are to continue, however, the Committee believes that energetic action is required to combat abuses, and to this end recommends that all students be required to obtain valid student visas before arriving in Canada. However, the Committee believes that present regulations should be relaxed in one particular: the visa should be valid for the length of the intended period of study in Canada, subject to an annual report to a Canada Immigration Centre with proof that the student has qualified for the next year's program.

151. The Committee notes widespread parental and student anxiety that a large number of foreign students may be displacing some qualified Canadians from many universities and professional schools. In fact, however, the 1974 foreign student enrolment of roughly 32,000 represents less than six per cent of the more than 560,000 total student enrolment in full-time post-secondary education. But, surprising as it may seem, neither the federal nor provincial governments have foreknowledge of or control over the numbers of students accepted by educational institutions in Canada.

152. The Committee believes that there is need for closer scrutiny of colleges and schools accepting foreign students since there is evidence that some institutions are being used simply as a device for gaining entry to Canada. The Committee also suspects that some schools are attractive less for the specialized training which they offer—hairdressing is a case in point—than for the opportunity to work legally or illegally in Canada. The Committee recommends that the federal government seek the cooperation of the provincial governments in devising ways to prevent these and similar abuses.

153. The Government of Quebec, in its submission to the Committee, complained that it did not know how many foreign students were enrolled in provincially supported educational institutions. A system of accreditation, combined with fuller exercise of powers which the provinces now have to limit the number of foreign students any institution can accept would better enable the provinces and the institutions to respond fairly to the needs of both domestic and foreign students.

154. The Committee considered sympathetically the argument that all foreign university students, after successfully completing one year of study, should be permitted to compete for work on an equal basis with Canadian students during the session recesses. It was not easy for the Committee to reach a decision. Under current regulations, students are permitted to work only if a Canada Manpower Centre certifies that no Canadian is available for the job in question. The only exceptions to this rule are students whose jobs are integrally related to their course of study.

155. Committee members recognize that foreign students often need work to finance their course of studies just as Canadians do, that Canada does not want only wealthy foreign students, and that it is demoralizing for a student to be inactive during the recess. Some Committee members felt that since the number of foreign students seeking work is small in relation to the number of Canadian students, granting foreign students the right to compete equally for work would not significantly endanger Canadian students' opportunities and would bring other benefits. However, a majority of the Committee concluded that at times of high unemployment—when Canadian students experience difficulty finding jobs—the present regulations should be put into effect.

156. It has been suggested that inquiries by foreign students about possibilities for work are normally rejected out of hand. The Committee urges that Canada Manpower Centres be directed to extend their services more positively and sympathetically to foreign students seeking work during their recesses.

157. A foreign student appearing before the Committee argued that spouses of students should be admissible to Canada and allowed to work. The Committee appreciates the hardship of enforced separation in the case of married students, and accordingly recommends that spouses of persons on student visas be admissible and be permitted to work while those persons are studying in Canada.

158. Several submissions proposed that foreign students should be able to apply for landed immigrant status while in Canada. The Committee has taken the general position that aliens should not be able to change their status while in the country, and is particularly strong in its views in this instance. It favours a generous approach to foreign study in state-supported institutions as a form of international assistance; this would be undermined if foreign students were not encouraged to return to their homelands. Study in Canada should be for its own sake, and not be a way of immigrating to Canada.

159. A special problem was brought to the Committee's attention by the National Union of Students and a South African student. If foreign students cannot seek landed immigrant status while in Canada, must they go back to their homeland if there has been a change of government and they are in danger of imprisonment or other punishment on their return? The Committee believes existing arrangements or proposals discussed in this Report in the section on refugees are adequate to deal with this problem. It calls attention to the fact that Section 15 of the Immigration Appeal Board Act enables holders of a student visa to appeal any deportation order on just such grounds.

Services for Immigrants

160. During its hearings the Committee received considerable testimony concerning immigrant services and the inadequacy of present arrangements. Most of the services required by immigrants fall within the jurisdiction of the provinces and cities or are provided by voluntary agencies. However, the Committee agrees in part with an Italian immigrant living in Montreal who said: "If Canada decides to accept immigrants, it is Canada's moral obligation to see to their needs and to make sure they do not fall into isolation or become alienated" (16:49).

161. Because so few services for immigrants are the direct responsibility of the federal government, and will in any event not be provided for in the new Immigration Act, the Committee dealt rather briefly with this subject. It does not wish to imply however, that the problems are not serious and in need of urgent attention.

162. Fortunately many problems requiring counselling and settlement assistance have been handled by the members of ethnic communities already established in Canada, and private and public agencies have striven to meet many new needs. But there are serious problems of coordination. As the Jewish Immigrant Aid Services said: "the system which we have is basically a fragmented system, . . . a policy has to be evaluated in terms of closer contact between government departments and the voluntary agencies in serving the immigrants" (33:45). The Committee urges the Department of Manpower and Immigration to give increased attention to the planning, development, and coordination of immigrant services and proposes that the federal government organize tri-level consultations with the appropriate provincial and municipal authorities, using as a model recent tripartite meetings on urban problems.

163. The immigrant's first contact with Canada is normally made in the immigration office abroad. Many submissions dealt with the problem prospective immigrants experience in securing adequate and accurate information. While some witnesses proposed a variety of pre-arrival services from language training to orientation, the Committee believes that all that is essential is good and accurate information and counselling to ensure that an applicant is making an informed decision to immigrate to Canada. Other preparation is of dubious value since only the very exceptional individual will retain information until he is face-to-face with the need for it.

164. The Committee did not have an opportunity to witness counselling abroad, but some members have observed post-arrival counselling procedures at Canada Immigration Centres. The Settlement Branch is directed mainly to helping the family breadwinner find a job and includes language training, rental assistance and small loans where needed. These particular services appear to be well organized and effective, at least in the larger centres.

165. Some immigrants and their families need additional services to adjust to life in Canada and to participate fully at work and in the community. Adequate and consistent funding is crucial for the success of immigrant settlement and service agencies. While the federal government brings immigrants to Canada, jurisdiction over immigration is shared with the provinces, who also benefit from the talents and skills of newcomers. Many witnesses involved in immigrant service organizations advocated federal government funding of private reception, settlement, and social service programs and agencies. The YWCA of Metro Toronto said, "[Funding is needed] particularly to help coordinate the activities of teachers, public health nurses, manpower centres and all other groups who help immigrants but who work in isolation from each other and are not aware of the services needed and available to their clients" (0114). The Committee advises that the federal government should review and expand its programs for support of voluntary agencies.

166. Three areas of services to immigrants were identified by the Committee as warranting special concern.

—As the Toronto School Board, the Board with the largest number of immigrant children, observed, 40 per cent of all immigrants are children, many of them accustomed to different cultures and languages than those found in Canada. There are already some shared-cost language programs for adults. In view of the special needs of many immigrant children, the Committee supports the principle of a federal contribution to the extra cost of educating immigrant children who require special training in English or French or other catch-up programs, providing these funds are clearly earmarked for the school systems.

—Attention was also directed to the particular plight of immigrant women, and especially wives and mothers. When they are not in the work force they have little opportunity to learn the language and make personal contacts, advantages enjoyed by their husbands and their school-aged and working children. Many of them remain in the home isolated by language differences, and can become estranged from the community and even from their own families. It was pointed out that language training is the single most important need of these women. The Committee is aware that federal funds are made available to the provinces to finance courses organized through the adult education division of the schools. But Committee members gained the impression that not enough attention has been paid to this program by the responsible authorities and recommends that it be reviewed.

—A special problem brought to the attention of the Committee was the difficulty faced by immigrants from different cultures in coping with the Canadian legal system. Professor Frederick Zemans of Osgoode Hall and the Director of the Parkdale Community Legal Services said that immigrants often need special help with said consumer and tenant rights, and with women's rights in marriage breakdown situations. The Committee agrees with a Toronto lawyer who suggested that licensed paralegal personnel should be trained to work in immigrant communities because "immigration consultants", frequently untrained travel agents, now working in these communities often give improper advice, overcharge, and take on hopeless cases (10:5-6). The Committee is concerned about these practices and suggests that the federal government consult with the provinces with a view to introducing some regulation in this field. The Committee further feels there is need for a concerted program to develop information, counselling and referral services in major immigrant communities.

167. Many submissions received by the Committee suggested that if Canada's record of successful multicultural adaptation is to be maintained, more attention must be given to the development of programs related to cross-cultural and inter-racial understanding. The Newfoundland Government (30:81) and Dr. André Raynauld, Chairman of the Economic Council of Canada (15:11), for example, believe there is a need to assess the nature and extent of intergroup tensions and to examine the likely impact of future immigration on community relations. The Committee concurs. Should an assessment show a need for significantly expanded national, community, and school programs to promote inter-cultural harmony, the Committee believes the federal government should explore with the provinces ways of encouraging and implementing such programs.

168. The Committee also considers that a federal Human Rights Commission with responsibilities for conciliation, public education programs, and the enforcement of human rights legislation would help to ensure fair and just treatment of racial and ethnic minorities. Human rights laws and multicultural education are essential if intergroup harmony and understanding are to be achieved.

Departmental Organization

169. The Committee received a variety of suggestions for separating Immigration from Manpower and combining it with other related functions of government. Typical of these was the proposal of the Canadian Association of Social Workers that

"immigration could be better handled by a department . . . which could emphasize such cultural and social aspects of immigration as settlement services, citizenship and multi-cultural programs" (0208).

Others advocated maintaining the present link with Manpower.

170. The Committee was divided in its opinion. All members recognized the heavy burden borne by the Minister of the present Department, but while some felt this justified separating the two branches, others argued that Immigration would be the weaker and accorded to a junior and therefore, less influential Minister. Again some felt the link with Manpower led to exaggerated importance being attached to employment considerations, to which others replied that immigrants come essentially to improve their employment opportunities, and the link ensured the necessary collaboration between the two branches. There were other suggestions as well, that a new Department be established, called Immigration and Population, or that immigration be closely linked to regional development in order to put emphasis on human settlement.

171. Of the several proposals put to the Committee, the one which attracted most support was that Immigration be detached from Manpower and the Unemployment Insurance Commission and instead be linked with citizenship, multiculturalism and population to form a new portfolio. It was felt this represented a rational grouping of federal responsibilities, and a Minister with such a portfolio could expect to carry considerable weight in the Cabinet. Also, there was a widespread feeling that serious efforts should be made to strengthen the settlement services within the Immigration Branch.

Federal Provincial Cooperation

172. Federal-provincial cooperation is an area where the Committee feels substantial changes in practice are required. Vigorous efforts are needed to involve the provinces more closely in order to ensure that immigration policy reflects varied regional requirements. The Minister advised the Committee that he is committed to doing this, and it is apparent that serious efforts in this direction are being made. Quebec, the only province with an immigration act and an immigration department, is far ahead of the other provinces in assessing its needs and making them known at the federal level. The Committee is aware that the federal government would welcome other provinces following Quebec's example and hopes that collaboration will develop along the following lines:

- a permanent joint federal-provincial committee to coordinate the development and implementation of immigration policy including a consultative mechanism for identifying "designated communities" and for elaborating deportation and "required to depart" procedures;

- a provincial presence in immigrant selection; this could involve sending officers abroad for counselling and promotional duties under arrangements similar to those provided by the Lang-Cloutier and Andras-Bienvenue Agreements between Ottawa and Quebec;

- collaboration on the scrutinizing teaching institutions receiving foreign students and on fixing the numbers of foreign students accepted by each institution;

- cooperation on immigrant services beginning with a joint evaluation of needs as requested by an ad hoc committee formed by Toronto Mayor David Crombie (041).

173. The Committee paid special attention to the political problem faced by Quebec as a result of the decisive fall in the fertility rate in the last 15 years. In the past, the high fertility rate of French-Canadians had compensated for the consistently small francophone immigration to Canada. To forestall a decline in the size of the French-speaking population in Canada, Quebec has found it necessary in recent years to look abroad more actively for French-speaking immigrants or for immigrants who more readily integrate into the French-Canadian community.

174. The Committee has received submissions from various groups and individuals on this subject. It has also been made aware of communications from the Government of Quebec to the Government of Canada, and has heard, in camera, two senior officials of the Quebec Department of Immigration.

175. The French fact is an essential element in the political and cultural life of Canada. Therefore, the Committee agrees that to the economic, social, and other considerations which normally enter into the formulation and application of immigration policy must be added a concern for the maintenance of the French-Canadian presence in healthy and thriving condition. The Committee realizes that this goal cannot be achieved primarily through immigration policy. But it considers that the Government of Canada should not refrain from any reasonable effort within the limits of its jurisdiction which could contribute to the realization of this objective. For instance, the Committee would approve of increased activity to encourage immigration from Latin American countries because people with a Latin cultural background usually integrate easily into French language communities in Canada.

The Statute and Regulations

176. Under the present system, immigration law comprises mainly statutes enacted by Parliament and regulations introduced by the Government from time to time under the authority granted by the Immigration Act. The Committee sees no alternative but to maintain a balance between a basic act which establishes the framework of principle and regulations which set out the procedures for putting the principles into effect.

177. However, as the Green Paper admitted, "the essential criteria governing admissions to Canada are dispersed through the [present] Act and Regulations [somewhat haphazardly]. This makes it unnecessarily complicated for anyone who merely reads the Act to grasp the fundamental principles and conditions that surround the admission of immigrants and non-immigrants" (Green Paper I, p. 66). Therefore, the Committee recommends that a new Immigration Act contain in its initial provisions a clear statement of principles and objectives including those pertaining to admission, non-discrimination, sponsorship of relatives, refugees, and the prohibition of certain classes of persons. Operational details and procedures should be specified in regulations. These should continue to be published in the Canada Gazette, and presented as well in a form readily accessible to the public and available to prospective immigrants. Significant changes in regulations should be explained and defended before the Standing Committee on Labour, Manpower and Immigration; where possible this should be done before they are put into effect. The Committee objects to the practice of in effect issuing regulations in the guise of confidential departmental directives.

178. The Committee noted that Minister's Permits were used in more than 16,000 instances in 1974 to supersede in special circumstances certain provisions of the Act and regulations; many of these were for refugees. With the new Act there may be considerably less need for recourse to Minister's Permits. Nevertheless, the Committee wishes to see the discretionary power provided by Minister's Permits retained because it allows for an element of flexibility sometimes needed to ensure humane treatment of exceptional cases.

A copy of the relevant Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence (Issues Nos. 1 to 53) is tabled.

PRAYERS

Mr. Loiselle (Saint-Henri), from the Standing Committee on Miscellaneous Private Bills and Standing Orders, presented the Seventh Report of the Committee, which was read as follows:

Pursuant to its Order of Reference of Tuesday, November 4, 1975, your Committee has considered the petition of The Eastern Canada Savings and Loan Company and Central & Nova Scotia Trust Company, seeking to amalgamate for the purpose of continuing thereafter as one corporate entity, filed after the time limit specified under Standing Order 90, together with the Fifteenth Report of the Clerk of Petitions thereon, presented to the House on Friday, October 31, 1975.

The Parliamentary Agent stated that the delay beyond the time specified by Standing Order 90 was occasioned, in part, by factors beyond the control of the petitioners. Nevertheless, he stated that it is important that the proposed legislation be allowed to proceed during the present session of Parliament. He therefore respectfully asked that this petition be received.

After hearing the reasons given for the late filing of this petition, your Committee recommends that Standing Order 90 be suspended in relation thereto, and that this petition be received. The consequent charges as provided for by Standing Order 91(3)(a) and (c) amount to $300.

The petition referred to above, together with the Fifteenth Report of the Clerk of Petitions, are returned herewith.

A copy of the relevant Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence (Issue No. 6) is tabled.

---

By unanimous consent, on motion of Mr. Loiselle (Saint-Henri), seconded by Mr. Comtois, the Report was concurred in.

Mr. Loiselle (Saint-Henri), from the Standing Committee on Miscellaneous Private Bills and Standing Orders, presented the Eighth Report of the Committee, which was read as follows:

Pursuant to its Order of Reference of Tuesday, November 4, 1975, your Committee has considered the petition of IAC Limited, seeking the incorporation of the "Contin-tal Bank of Canada" and, in French, "Banque Continentale du Canada", filed after the time limit specified under Standing Order 90, together with the Sixteenth Report of the Clerk of Petitions thereon, presented to the House on Monday, November 3, 1975.

The Parliamentary Agent stated that the delay beyond the time specified by Standing Order 90 was occasioned, in part, by factors beyond the control of the petitioners. Nevertheless, he stated that it is important that the proposed legislation be allowed to proceed during the present session of Parliament. He therefore respectfully asked that this petition be received.

After hearing the reasons given for the late filing of this petition, your Committee recommends that Standing Order 90 be suspended in relation thereto, and that this petition be received. The consequent charges as provided for by Standing Order 91(3)(a) and (c) amount to $300.

The petition referred to above, together with the Sixteenth Report of the Clerk of Petitions, are returned herewith.

A copy of the relevant Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence (Issue No. 6) is tabled.

By unanimous consent, on motion of Mr. Loiselle (Saint-Henri), seconded by Mr. Comtois, the Report was concurred in.

The House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Drury for Mr. Chétien, seconded by Mr. Lessard,—That Bill C-52, An Act to amend the Public Service Superannuation Act, the Canadian Forces Superannuation Act, the Defence Services Pension Continuation Act, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Superannuation Act, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Pension Continuation Act, the Diplomatic Service (Special) Superannuation Act, the Members of Parliament Retiring Allowances Act, the Governor General's Retiring Annuity Act, the Judges Act, the Tax Review Board Act and the Supplementary Retirement Benefits Act, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Miscellaneous Estimates.

By unanimous consent, it was ordered,—That the motion be amended by deleting therefrom all the words after the word "referred" and substituting the following therefor:

"to the Special Joint Committee on Employer-Employee Relations in the Public Service."

Debate was resumed on the motion, as amended, of Mr. Drury for Mr. Chrétien, seconded by Mr. Lessard,—That Bill C-52, An Act to amend the Public Service Superannuation Act, the Canadian Forces Superannuation Act, the Defence Services Pension Continuation Act, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Superannuation Act, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Pension Continuation Act, the Diplomatic Service (Special) Superannuation Act, the Members of Parliament Retiring Allowances Act, the Governor General's Retiring Annuity Act, the Judges Act, the Tax Review Board Act and the Supplementary Retirement Benefits Act, be now read a second time and referred to the Special Joint Committee on Employer-Employee Relations in the Public Service.

After further debate, the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

Accordingly, the Bill was read the second time and referred to the Special Joint Committee on Employer-Employee Relations in the Public Service.

Bill C-65, An Act to amend the statute law relating to income tax, (No. 2), was read the third time, on division, and passed.

The Order being read for the second reading and reference to the Standing Committee on Regional Development of Bill C-74, An Act to amend the Regional Development Incentives Act;

Mr. Lessard, seconded by Mr. Sharp, moved,—That the Bill be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Regional Development.

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

Accordingly, the Bill was read the second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Regional Development.

PRAYERS

By unanimous consent, pursuant to Standing Order 43, on motion of Mr. Diefenbaker, seconded by Mr. Wagner, it was resolved,—That the ganging up in the United Nations of member countries from Africa in particular and in other parts of the world to bring about the adoption of resolutions in the United Nations which are contrary to the principles inherent in the Charter and which are unjust to the nations against whom they are directed is dangerous to the continued existence, even survival of the United Nations;

And further, that in the opinion of this House the iniquitous resolution passed by the United Nations Assembly last week (and against which Canada cast its vote) which denounced the State of Israel as a racist nation is in the opinion of this House unmerited, untrue and deserving of the unqualified condemnation by this House and by all peoples who believe in freedom and world peace.

Mr. Chrétien, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, delivered a Message from His Excellency the Governor General, which was read by Mr. Speaker, as follows:

JULES LÉGER

His Excellency the Governor General transmits to the House of Commons Supplementary Estimates (A) of sums required for the service of Canada for the fiscal year ending on the 31st March, 1976, and, in accordance with the provisions of "The British North America Act, 1867" recommends these Estimates to the House of Commons.

Ontario.—(Notice of Motion for the Production of Papers No. 62—Mr. Marshall).

The House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Sharp, seconded by Mr. Faulkner,—That Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Broadcasting, Films and Assistance to the Arts.

And debate continuing;

Mr. Sharp, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, from his place in the House, stated that an agreement could not be reached under the provisions of Standing Order 75A or 75B with respect to an allocation of time to the second reading and reference to the Standing Committee on Broadcasting, Films and Assistance to the Arts of Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act and, under the provisions of Standing Order 75c, gave notice of his intention to move a motion at the next sitting of the House that not more than five additional hours shall be allotted for the consideration of the Bill at that stage.

Debate was resumed on the motion of Mr. Sharp, seconded by Mr. Faulkner,—That Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Broadcasting, Films and Assistance to the Arts.

And debate continuing;

By Mr. Sharp, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council,—Supplementary Return to an Order of the House, dated October 14, 1975 (Question No. 2,811) showing: 1. Have any departments set-up or are contemplating setting-up separate English and French language teaching sections within the department separate and distinct from the language school operated by the Public Service Commission and, if so (a) which ones (b) on what date was such decision taken, by whom and for what reasons?

2. How many man-years are the estimated requirements for the purpose of each department as described in Part 1?

3. What is the public service classification and salary range of any and all persons heading up such a section or group?

4. Will such sections, by direct departmental instructional courses, replace any of the teaching functions of the language school and, if so, in what way?

5. Are there to be any redundancies in teaching staff at the language school and, if so, how many, or will there be a transfer to departments of any or most of the teaching personnel of the language school?

6. What is the estimated cost by department of such a reorganization?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/2,811A.

By Mr. Sharp,—Supplementary Return to an Order of the House, dated October 29, 1975 (Question No. 3,092) showing: 1. For each (a) department (b) agency, what (i) statutes (ii) guidelines (iii) regulations govern the giving or withholding of information requested by private individuals or organizations?

2. In each case (a) what is the substance of the (i) statute (ii) guideline (iii) regulation (b) by whom were they prepared or issued and on what date?

3. In each case, what effect has increased computerization had upon the (a) ability to meet private requests for information (b) cost of providing such information (c) frequency with which requests are made?

4. In each case, what is the general practice with respect to the (a) maintenance (b) destruction of manual files when the essential information within them has been computerized?

5. In each case, has the experience with respect to computerization been similar to that noted in the United States by a study for the National Academy of Science which determined that strictly factual files were most likely to be the first to be computerized while those containing subjective information were likely to remain in manual files?

6. In each case, how many computers are (a) owned (b) rented by the government?

7. In each case, approximately what percentage of information stored for more than one month is (a) stored in a computer (b) stored manually (c) both?

8. In each case (a) what is the present annual budget for automated data processing (b) how many man-years of labour are included in this figure?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/3,092A.

By Mr. Sharp,—Return to an Order of the House, dated November 5, 1975, for copies of two prototype charts covering the Brown's Bank area off south west Nova Scotia as produced by the Canadian Hydrographic Service.—(Notice of Motion for the Production of Papers No. 55—Mr. Marshall).—Sessional Paper No. 301-3/55.

Pursuant to Order made Wednesday, November 5, 1975, at 6.30 o'clock p.m., the House adjourned until tomorrow at 2.00 o'clock p.m., pursuant to Standing Order 2(1).

PRAYERS

By unanimous consent, Mr. Andras (Port Arthur), seconded by Mr. Sharp, by leave of the House, introduced Bill C-75, An Act to increase the rate of return on Government Annuity contracts, to increase their flexibility and to discontinue future sales thereof, which was read the first time and ordered to be printed and ordered for a second reading at the next sitting of the House.

The text of the Message and Recommendation of the Governor General pursuant to Standing Order 62(2) in relation to the foregoing Bill is as follows:

His Excellency the Governor General recommends to the House of Commons a measure to increase in the manner prescribed all Government Annuities payable on or after April 1, 1975; to provide for a rate of interest of seven percent for the period commencing April 1, 1975 in determining the value of an Annuity prior to the date on which it becomes payable; to provide for credits to the Government Annuities Account in the circumstance prescribed; and to increase in the manner prescribed the flexibility of Annuities.

The Order being read for the consideration of the Business of Supply;

STATEMENT BY MR. SPEAKER

MR. SPEAKER: Before putting the motion, I note that no point of order was raised about the motion. The use of the allotted day as we know it now is of quite recent duration. To my knowledge it is not therefore the subject of any precedents concerning the motion put forward on an allotted day in so far as it may conflict with the usual business of the House or relate to it. There are precedents of course, that no motion ought to be put before the House which anticipates other business before the House, as well, that the House ought not to pronounce itself on any question which it has already pronounced itself upon.

There is the obvious reference to this program when Bill C-73 has just received second reading and is before the standing committee and, that would raise some questions I am sure as to whether or not in voting on second reading of that Bill the House has already pronounced itself on the question.

There is, of course, the counter-argument that this motion is of broader scope than the particular Bill. That may be so. In addition, there is the reverse of that proposition that when the House pronounces itself on this motion at the end of today or at 9.45 p.m. on Monday evening when the vote takes place, the question may then come up as to whether or not the House having pronounced itself in that fashion is precluded from taking any other kind of vote in respect of Bill C-73. That becomes an even more interesting question if one reflects that this motion is broader than the Bill.

The fact is that the opposition prerogative, as I think all honourable Members would agree, is very broad in the use of the allotted day and ought not to be interfered with. It certainly is not the disposition of the Chair to interfere with it except on the clearest and most certain procedural grounds.

I feel it only fair to indicate that the closeness and similarity of the subject-matter of this motion to the Bill I think, ought to be put forward only with a caveat from the Chair that under no circumstances could the consideration of this motion or the vote upon this motion at 9.45 p.m. on Monday evening be taken in any way to prejudice the progress of Bill C-73.

Pursuant to Standing Order 58, Mr. Broadbent, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), moved,—That this House rejects the Government's anti-inflationary program because it is totally unworkable in terms of controlling prices, because it provides no effective control over profits or professional incomes, and because it is completely unfair to wage and salary earners in Canada.

After debate thereon, at 5.00 o'clock p.m., Mr. Speaker interrupted the proceedings;

And the question being put on the motion, pursuant to Order made Thursday, November 13, 1975, a recorded division was deferred until 9.45 o'clock p.m., Monday, November 17, 1975.

Changes in Committee Membership

Notice having been filed with the Clerk of the House pursuant to Standing Order 65(4)(b), membership of Committees was amended as follows:

Mr. Corriveau for Mr. Abbott on the Standing Committee on Agriculture.

Mr. Francis for Mr. Herbert on the Standing Committee on Miscellaneous Estimates.

PRAYERS

Mr. Jelinek, seconded by Mr. Reynolds, by leave of the House, introduced Bill C-416, An Act to amend the Public Service Staff Relations Act and the Canada Labour Code and to provide for the suspension of strikes in essential services, which was read the first time and ordered to be printed and ordered for a second reading at the next sitting of the House.

The honourable Member for Vancouver Quadra (Mr. Clarke), from his place in the House, asked leave under Standing Order 26 to move the adjournment of the House for the purpose of discussing a specific and important matter requiring urgent consideration, and stated the subject to be the continuing absence of postal service which is creating hardship for all Canadians.

And leave having been granted to propose a motion to adjourn the House in order to discuss the matter, the motion was allowed to stand over until 8.00 o'clock p.m. this day, pursuant to Standing Order 26(9).

The House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Sharp, seconded by Mr. Faulkner,—That Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Broadcasting, Films and Assistance to the Arts.

And debate continuing;

By unanimous consent, it was ordered,—That any recorded division required on the motion for the second reading and reference of Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, be deferred until 9.30 o'clock p.m. this day;

That the recorded division deferred on Friday, November 14, 1975 on the motion of Mr. Broadbent, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), made pursuant to Standing Order 58(9)(a) be taken immediately thereafter; and

That the House then resume debate on the motion of Mr. Clarke (Vancouver Quadra), seconded by Mr. McKinley,—That this House do now adjourn.

Debate was resumed on the motion of Mr. Sharp, seconded by Mr. Faulkner,—That Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Broadcasting, Films and Assistance to the Arts.

After further debate, the question being put on the motion, a recorded division was deferred pursuant to Order made this day.

Pursuant to Standing Order 26, at 8.00 o'clock p.m., Mr. Clarke (Vancouver Quadra), seconded by Mr. McKinley, moved,—That this House do now adjourn.

And debate arising thereon;

At 9.30 o'clock p.m., pursuant to Order made this day, the House proceeded to the taking of the deferred division on the motion of Mr. Sharp, seconded by Mr. Faulkner,—That Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Broadcasting, Films and Assistance to the Arts.

And the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to on the following division:

PRAYERS

Mr. Comtois, from the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs, presented the Eighth Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

Pursuant to its Order of Reference of Monday, October 27, 1975, your Committee has considered Bill C-73, An Act to provide for the restraint of profit margins, prices, dividends and compensation in Canada, and has agreed to report it with the following amendments:

Clause 3

Strike out lines 32 to 35 inclusive, on page 4, and substitute the following therefor:

"(iii) suppliers of services prescribed by the regulations to be professional services,"

Strike out lines 6 and 7 inclusive, on page 5, and substitute the following therefor:

"graphs (a) (i), (ii), (iv) or (v),

(ii) employees, who are members of a profession, of persons whose prices or profit margins are subject to restraint in accordance with guidelines established pursuant to subparagraph (a) (iii), and

(iii) all public sector employees not"

Add immediately after subclause 3(3) on page 5, the following new subclause:

"(3.1) A guideline established by regulation made pursuant to subsection (2) may be made applicable to

(a) all suppliers, persons or employees described in a subparagraph of paragraph (2) (a) or (b) or to all dividends, or

(b) a particular class of suppliers, persons, employees or dividends specified in or in relation to the guideline."

Add immediately before line 24, on page 5, the following subclause:

"(3.2) An order of the Governor in Council made pursuant to subparagraph 3(2)(a)(v) may be made applicable on and after

(a) the day on which the direction was given to the Anti-Inflation Board pursuant to subsection 12(2) with respect to the particular private sector supplier of commodities or services or class of such suppliers to which the order relates, or

(b) a later day that is before the day on which the order is made, if notice of intent to make it applicable on the day on which the direction was given or that later day, as the case may be, was given by a member of the Queen's Privy Council for Canada in the House of Commons on the day on which the direction was given or that later day, as the case may be."

Clause 4

Strike out the heading preceding clause 4, on page 6, and substitute the following therefor:

"APPLICATION"

Strike out line 21, on page 6, and substitute the following therefor:

"prescribed by the regulations for the purposes of that province."

Strike out lines 35 to 37 inclusive, on page 6, and substitute the following therefor:

"entered into, this Act is binding in accordance with the terms of the agreement and the guidelines apply in accordance with the terms thereof with effect on and after the day on and after which the guidelines apply, by virtue of the operation of this Act, with respect to Her Majesty in right of Canada."

Add immediately after line 43, on page 7, the following clauses:

"4.1 (1) Any body that, pursuant to any other Act or law, establishes or approves the prices or profit margins of any supplier or person to whom the guidelines or any provision or provisions of the guidelines apply or that establishes or approves any base from which or basis on which any such price or profit margin is calculated shall, in exercising its powers and performing its duties and functions, apply such of the guidelines as are applicable in the circumstances modified to such extent, if any, as, in the opinion of the body, is necessary to take into account the particular facts of the situation; and, to the extent that those guidelines are inconsistent with any Act or law otherwise governing that body in the exercise of its powers and the performance of its duties and functions, the guidelines prevail.

(2) The Anti-Inflation Board shall not perform the duties and functions or exercise the powers set out in sections 12 and 13 in relation to any price or profit margin that is affected or regulated in a manner referred to in subsection (1).

4.2 Notwithstanding any other Act or any other provision of this Act, no increase in compensation shall be paid to a person pursuant to the Senate and House of Commons Act, the Salaries Act and the Parliamentary Secretaries Act, or any of those Acts, in an aggregate amount or at a rate that would constitute or result in a contravention of the guidelines."

Delete subsection 4(5), on page 7, and renumber the present subsection 4(6) as subsection 4(5).

Add immediately after section 4.2, on page 7, the following heading and subsection:

"AGREEMENTS TO FACILITATE COOPERATION IN ADMINISTRATION AND ENFORCEMENT; BOOKS AND RECORDS"

5. (1) The Minister may, with the approval of the Governor in Council, enter into an agreement with the government of a province for the purpose of facilitating, in such manner as is provided for in the agreement or by or under any law of the province, cooperation between Canada and the province with respect to the administration and enforcement of the guidelines within that province."

Renumber the present Clause 5, on page 7, as Clause 5(2).

Strike out lines 28 to 34 inclusive, on page 10, and substitute the following therefor:

"(d) where, in its opinion, consultations and negotiations under paragraph (c) have failed or are likely to fail to modify an actual or proposed change in prices, profits, compensation or dividends to bring it within the limits of the guidelines and it is not satisfied that there are circumstances that, based on the particular facts of the situation, justify the actual or proposed change in prices, profits, compensation or dividends, refer the matter to the Administrator for consideration by him;"

Add immediately after line 49, on page 10, the following subclause:

"(1.1) Notwithstanding paragraph (1)(c), the Anti-Inflation Board may exercise the powers set forth in that paragraph and paragraph (1)(d) in relation to an actual or proposed change in

(a) a price or profit margin of a supplier or person described in subparagraph 3(2)(a)(iii) or (iv),

(b) a price or profit margin of a supplier declared by order of the Governor in Council pursuant to subparagraph 3(2)(a)(v) to be of strategic importance to the containment and reduction of inflation in Canada, or

(c) the compensation of an employee described in subparagraph 3(2)(b)(ii), of a person carrying on business in the construction industry who employs twenty or more persons in Canada or of a supplier referred to in paragraph (b), whether or not it is of the opinion that the change is likely to have a significant impact on the economy of Canada."

Strike out lines 9 to 14 inclusive, on page 11, and substitute the following therefor:

"(a) by reason of the fact that

(i) such supplier or all or any of such suppliers bargain collectively in association with one or more other suppliers, either directly or through an employer's association, for an agreement as to terms or conditions of employment of all or any of their employees, or

(ii) all or any of the employees of any such supplier bargain collectively in association with employees of one or more other suppliers for an agreement as to terms and conditions of their employment, or"

Strike out line 20, on page 11, and substitute the following therefor:

"graph 3(2)(a)(v) in respect thereof; and the"

Clause 13

PRAYERS

Mr. Basford, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copies of the Terms of Reference, dated November 25, 1975, of the Inquiry into the crash of a Panarctic Oil Limited aircraft on October 30, 1974, at Rea Point, N.W.T. (Judge William Alexander Stevenson—Commissioner). (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-4/120.

The Order being read for the consideration of the report stage of Bill C-73, An Act to provide for the restraint of profit margins, prices, dividends and compensation in Canada, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs;

Motion numbered 1, standing in the name of the honourable Member for York-Simcoe (Mr. Stevens), having been called as follows:

That Bill C-73, An Act to provide for the restraint of profit margins, prices, dividends and compensation in Canada, be amended in subclause 4(1) by striking out line 35 at page 6 and substituting the following therefor:

"and agents of those governments; and in particular, but without restricting the generality of the foregoing, all estimates of expenditures submitted to Parliament for services coming in course of payment during the fiscal year 1975-76 shall not exceed in total budgetary expenditures the sum of $30,000,000,000.00 and in the National Accounts expenditures the sum of $35,500,000,000.00, and all such estimates so submitted for the fiscal year 1976-77 shall not exceed the total budgetary and National Accounts expenditures for the fiscal year 1975-76 as so limited and restrained by an amount that is greater in each case by 8 per cent of such 1975-76 budgetary and National Accounts expenditures: the words "total budgetary expenditures", as used in this subsection, not to include any amount by which the budgetary expenditures in a fiscal year are increased by reason of indexing provisions in respect of public pensions, benefits or allowances."

And a point of order having been raised as to the procedural acceptability of the motion, Mr. Speaker ruled the motion out of order on the grounds that it was beyond the scope of the Bill.

Mr. Stevens, seconded by Mr. Baldwin, moved,—That Bill C-73, An Act to provide for the restraint of profit margins, prices, dividends and compensation in Canada, be amended in paragraph 12(1)(e) by striking out line 28 at page 12 and substituting the following therefor:

"ting inflation and, in particular, shall make explicit such implications of the failure of the federal government to cooperate in combatting inflation by monitoring the respective main and supplementary estimates of expenditures for each fiscal year of such government and publicly commenting, within 21 days after any such estimates are made public, upon any failure, disclosed in such estimates, by such government to combat inflation."

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, pursuant to section 11 of Standing Order 75, a recorded division was deferred.

Mr. Stanfield, seconded by Mr. Lambert (Edmonton West), moved,—That Bill C-73, An Act to provide for the restraint of profit margins, prices, dividends and compensation in Canada, be amended in subclause 26(2) by

"behaviour for a term not to extend beyond April 30, 1977"

(b) striking out line 42 at page 23 and substituting the following therefor:

"term not to extend beyond April 30, 1977."

Mr. Stanfield, seconded by Mr. Lambert (Edmonton West), moved,—That Bill C-73, An Act to provide for the restraint of profit margins, prices, dividends and compensation in Canada, be amended in Clause 46 by striking out subclauses (2), (3), (4) and (5) at page 33 and substituting the following therefor:

"(2) This Act expires on April 30, 1977, or on such earlier date as may be fixed by proclamation."

Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), seconded by Mr. Sharp, moved,—That Bill C-73, An Act to provide for the restraint of profit margins, prices, dividends and compensation in Canada, be amended in Clause 46 by

(a) striking out lines 9 to 11 at page 33 and substituting the following therefor:

"proclamation or a motion for the consideration of the House of Commons that is approved by the House pursuant to subsections (6) and (7) unless, before December 31, 1978 or any earlier date fixed by proclamation or any such motion for the consideration of the House that is so approved by the House, an Order in Council is made to the effect"

(b) adding the following subclauses immediately after line 40 at page 33:

Procedure
where motion filed
with Speaker

"(6) Where, at any time after March 31, 1977 and before July 1, 1977, a motion for the consideration of the House of Commons, signed by not less than 50 members of the House, is filed with the Speaker to the effect that this Act shall expire on a date before December 31, 1978 that is specified in the motion, the House of Commons shall, within the first fifteen days next after the motion is filed that the House is sitting, in accordance with the Rules of the House, take up and consider the motion, and if the motion, with or without amendments, is approved by the House, this Act expires on the date that is specified in the motion.

Time for decid-
ing questions

(7) All questions in connection with any motion taken up and considered by the House of Commons pursuant to subsection (6) shall be debated without interruption and decided not later than the end of the third sitting day next after the day the motion is first so taken up and considered."

And debate arising thereon;

Ordered,—That any recorded divisions in relation to Bill C-73, An Act to provide for the restraint of profit margins, prices, dividends and compensation in Canada, deferred pursuant to section 11 of Standing Order 75 be taken the next day the Bill is again considered.

Consideration was resumed at the report stage of Bill C-73, An Act to provide for the restraint of profit margins, prices, dividends and compensation in Canada, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs;

Debate was resumed on the motion of Mr. Stanfield, seconded by Mr. Lambert (Edmonton West),—That Bill C-73, An Act to provide for the restraint of profit margins, prices, dividends and compensation in Canada, be amended in subclause 26(2) by

"behaviour for a term not to extend beyond April 30, 1977"

(b) striking out line 42 at page 23 and substituting the following therefor:

"term not to extend beyond April 30, 1977."

And on the motion of Mr. Stanfield, seconded by Mr. Lambert (Edmonton West),—That Bill C-73, An Act to provide for the restraint of profit margins, prices, dividends and compensation in Canada, be amended in Clause 46 by striking out subclauses (2), (3), (4) and (5) at page 33 and substituting the following therefor:

"(2) This Act expires on April 30, 1977, or on such earlier date as may be fixed by proclamation."

And on the motion of Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), seconded by Mr. Sharp,—That Bill C-73, An Act to provide for the restraint of profit margins, prices, dividends and compensation in Canada, be amended in Clause 46 by

(a) striking out lines 9 to 11 at page 33 and substituting the following therefor:

"proclamation or a motion for the consideration of the House of Commons that is approved by the House pursuant to subsections (6) and (7) unless, before December 31, 1978 or any earlier date fixed by proclamation or any such motion for the consideration of the House that is so approved by the House, an Order in Council is made to the effect"

(b) adding the following subclauses immediately after line 40 at page 33:

where
with Speaker

"(6) Where, at any time after March 31, 1977 and before July 1, 1977, a motion for the consideration of the House of Commons, signed by not less than 50 members of the House, is filed with the Speaker to the effect that this Act shall expire on a date before December 31, 1978 that is specified in the motion, the House of Commons shall, within the first fifteen days next after the motion is filed that the House is sitting, in accordance with the Rules of the House, take up and consider the motion, and if the motion, with or without amendments, is approved by the House, this Act expires on the date that is specified in the motion.

Time for decid-
ing questions

(7) All questions in connection with any motion taken up and considered by the House of Commons pursuant to subsection (6) shall be debated without interruption and decided not later than the end of the third sitting day next after the day the motion is first so taken up and considered."

And debate continuing;

Mr. Benjamin, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), moved in amendment thereto,—That Motion numbered 5 be amended by deleting therefrom the phrase "50 members" and by substituting therefor the phrase "20 members".

And debate arising thereon;

And the questions being put severally on Motions numbered (3) and (4), pursuant to section 11 of Standing Order 75, recorded divisions were deferred.

And the question being put on the amendment to Motion numbered (5), pursuant to section 11 of Standing Order 75, a recorded division was deferred.

Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), seconded by Mr. Sharp, moved,—That Bill C-73, An Act to provide for the restraint of profit margins, prices, dividends and compensation in Canada, be amended by adding immediately after Clause 46 at page 33, the following Clause:

Transitional

"47. The expiration of this Act pursuant to section 46 does not affect any inquiry, investigation, examination, audit, search or proceeding, whether before the Appeal Tribunal or any court of law, that was instituted before the expiration of this Act or that arises out of any other such inquiry, investigation, examination, audit, search or proceeding that was instituted before the expiration of this Act; and for the purpose of carrying out or completing all such inquiries, investigations, examinations, audits, searches and proceedings, the Chairman and other members of the Anti-Inflation Board, the Administrator and the Chairman and other members of the Anti-Inflation Appeal Tribunal who hold office on the day immediately preceding the day on which this Act expires continue in office and may exercise the powers and perform the duties and functions of the Anti-Inflation Board, the Administrator and the Anti-Inflation Appeal Tribunal respectively."

His Excellency the Governor General recommends to the House of Commons that Bill C-73, An Act to provide for the restraint of profit margins, prices, dividends and compensation in Canada, now before the House, be amended by adding thereto, immediately after clause 46 at page 33, the following clause:

"47. The expiration of this Act pursuant to section 46 does not affect any inquiry, investigation, examination, audit, search or proceeding, whether before the Appeal Tribunal or any court of law, that was instituted before the expiration of this Act or that arises out of any other such inquiry, investigation, examination, audit, search or proceeding that was instituted before the expiration of this Act; and for the purpose of carrying out or completing all such inquiries, investigations, examinations, audits, searches and proceedings, the Chairman and other members of the Anti-Inflation Board, the Administrator and the Chairman and other members of the Anti-Inflation Appeal Tribunal who hold office on the day immediately preceding the day on which this Act expires continue in office and may exercise the powers and perform the duties and functions of the Anti-Inflation Board, the Administrator and the Anti-Inflation Appeal Tribunal respectively."

Mr. Martin, from the Standing Committee on National Resources and Public Works, presented the Sixth Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

Pursuant to its Order of Reference of Wednesday, November 12, 1975, your Committee has considered the Votes under Public Works in the Supplementary Estimates (A) for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1976 and reports the same.

A copy of the relevant Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence (Issues Nos. 40 and 42) is tabled.

Mr. Lang, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copies of Summary of Tendering Procedure for Mirabel Duty Free Shop. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-7/29.

Bill C-73, An Act to provide for the restraint of profit margins, prices, dividends and compensation in Canada, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs, was again considered at the report stage.

A revised Recommendation from His Excellency the Governor General in relation to Bill C-73, An Act to provide for the restraint of profit margins, prices, dividends and compensation in Canada, was presented as follows:

His Excellency the Governor General recommends to the House of Commons a measure to provide for the restraint of profit margins, prices, dividends and compensation in Canada; to provide for the establishment of an Anti-Inflation Board composed of such members as are from time to time appointed by the Governor in Council; to provide for the remuneration and expenses of the members, for the staff of the Board, for the remuneration and expenses of technical assistance, and that members of the Board and persons engaged for technical assistance shall be deemed to be persons employed in the Public Service for purposes of the Public Service Superannuation Act; to provide for an Administrator and one or more Deputy Administrators for the purposes of the measure; to provide for the staff of the office of the Administrator, for the remuneration and expenses of technical assistance and, for persons engaged for technical assistance to be deemed to be persons employed in the Public Service for purposes of the Public Service Superannuation Act; to provide for an Anti-Inflation Appeal Tribunal composed of a Chairman and such other members as are from time to time appointed by the Governor in Council, for the salary and expenses of the Chairman, and for the fees, remuneration and expenses of each other member; to provide for the staff of the Tribunal, for the remuneration and expenses of technical assistance and for persons engaged for technical assistance to be deemed to be members of the Public Service for purposes of the Public Service Superannuation Act; to provide for interest to be paid at a rate prescribed by regulation on any amount held pending disposition of an appeal to the Tribunal; and to provide for the measure to expire on December 31, 1978, or as provided in the said measure. (November 26, 1975).

Whereupon, the House resumed the adjourned debate on the motion of Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), seconded by Mr. Sharp,—That Bill C-73, An Act to provide for the restraint of profit margins, prices, dividends and compensation in Canada, be amended by adding immediately after Clause 46 at page 33, the following Clause:

Transitional “47. The expiration of this Act pursuant to section 46 does not affect any inquiry, investigation, examination, audit, search or proceeding, whether before the Appeal Tribunal or any court of law, that was instituted before the expiration of this Act or that arises out of any other such inquiry, investigation, examination, audit, search or proceeding that was instituted before the expiration of this Act; and for the purpose of carrying out or completing all such inquiries, investigations, examinations, audits, searches and proceedings, the Chairman and other members of the Anti-Inflation Board, the Administrator and the Chairman and other members of the Anti-Inflation Appeal Tribunal who hold office on the day immediately preceding the day on which this Act expires continue in office and may exercise the powers and perform the duties and functions of the Anti-Inflation Board, the Administrator and the Anti-Inflation Appeal Tribunal respectively.”

After further debate, the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

And the House having proceeded to the deferred division on the motion of Mr. Stevens, seconded by Mr. Baldwin,—

That Bill C-73, An Act to provide for the restraint of profit margins, prices, dividends and compensation in Canada, be amended in paragraph 12(1)(e) by striking out line 28 at page 12 and substituting the following therefor:

“ting inflation and, in particular, shall make explicit such implications of the failure of the federal government to cooperate in combatting inflation by monitoring the respective main and supplementary estimates of expenditures for each fiscal year of such government and publicly commenting, within 21 days after any such estimates are made public, upon any failure, disclosed in such estimates, by such government to combat inflation.”

And the question being put on the motion, it was negatived on the following division:

Mr. Chrétien, seconded by Mr. Sharp, moved,—That Supplementary Estimates (A) 1975-76, laid upon the Table, Wednesday, November 12, 1975, be concurred in.

And the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to, on division.

Mr. Chrétien, seconded by Mr. Sharp, moved,—That Bill C-79, An Act for granting to Her Majesty certain sums of money for the public service for the financial year ending the 31st March, 1976, be now read a first time and be printed.

And the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

Accordingly, the Bill was read the first time and ordered to be printed.

Mr. Chrétien, seconded by Mr. Sharp, proposed to move,—That the Bill be now read a second time and referred to a Committee of the Whole House.

And a point of order having been raised by the honourable Member for Edmonton West (Mr. Lambert), as to the acceptability of the Bill.

RULING BY MR. SPEAKER

MR. SPEAKER: I note that no other honourable Members to my right seem to wish to intervene in this very interesting point. There are several on my left who have indicated their desire, but I have refrained from hearing them, a fact which I suppose may give some indication of the position I propose to take.

The practice involved in examining the coming to a decision on the supply of money by Parliament to the government has undergone some changes in the recent past. However, this still leads to the situation in which, as this evening, the House has had to address itself to all stages of a supply bill without debate and without amendment.

Accordingly, as I think all Members who have participated in the discussion have agreed, the strictest interpretation of the rules has to be applied in terms of all clauses of the Bill to which the House is addressing itself.

The practice of including in a supply bill a clause which gives to the government the power to borrow money has been referred to, or defended almost exclusively this evening on the basis of the fact that it has been the practice of the House for many years. The fact of the matter is that, in respect of supplementary estimates, it has become the practice only very recently. Since 1955, I may say to the House, that kind of clause has been presented only in relation to the main estimates or, in some cases, to interim supply. Its occurrence or presence in a bill which is related, as is this Bill, to supplementary estimates is a most recent occurrence, indeed.

If I were to indicate my disapproval, that would probably be not very important. I must go back a year ago to the disapproval of what was suggested or put forward in this House, in unequivocal terms, by the President of the Privy Council (Mr. Sharp). This has already been quoted by the honourable Member for Edmonton West (Mr. Lambert), but the remarks I think bear repeating. This was said by the President of the Privy Council almost exactly one year ago, and it is as follows:

"Mr. Speaker, I agree with the honourable Member that this was a most unusual proceeding. It was one that some of us were not aware of at the time the bill was introduced."

He was referring to the presence in the supplementary estimates supply bill of a clause relating to the borrowing-power of the government. He said:

"... this was a most unusual proceeding. It was one that some of us were not aware of at the time the bill was introduced. I say, however, that a question was raised on a point of order, an explanation given and a vote taken. There was some opposition. However, Mr. Speaker, I want to make it clear that I am not defending the procedure that was followed. I hope we can avoid this sort of thing in future."

There is an historical ground or some justification for including in a supply bill which relates to the main estimates, and even a supply bill that relates to interim supply, a clause which relates to the borrowing-power of the government.

The inclusion of such a clause in a bill for supplementary estimates, as in the Bill before the House tonight, seems to me to be totally without justification, as I understand the remarks and the stand taken by the President of the Privy Council almost exactly one year ago.

I would therefore suggest at this stage, when the supply bill is about to go through all stages before this Parliament without debate or without amendment, that in my view it can only go forward through that sort of process if Clause 5 can be stricken from it.

I might add that according to our Standing Orders there is no provision for debate or amendment, therefore no provision for discussion of any sort. A point of order has been raised, one that was raised a year ago. I take it as a valid point of order and I order that Clause 5 be stricken from the Bill and that the Bill proceed for consideration.

It would be most serious and a grave step to interrupt in any way the process of supply at this time and I do not propose to do so. The borrowing-power clause is Clause 5, and I ordered that it be stricken from the Bill and that we proceed through all the stages of the Bill. But this does not open in any way any clause for discussion, debate or amendment. It should proceed quickly and without discussion through all stages.

When the second reading motion was proposed to the House the honourable Member for Edmonton West raised a point of order. That point of order has been taken and has been decided. I have ordered that Clause 5 be stricken from the Bill and I now put the motion for second reading.

Mr. Chrétien, seconded by Mr. Sharp, moved,—That the Bill be now read a second time and referred to a Committee of the Whole House.

And the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

Accordingly, the Bill was read the second time, considered in Committee of the Whole, reported without amendment and concurred in, on division, at the report stage.

Mr. Chrétien, seconded by Mr. Sharp, moved,—That the Bill be now read a third time and do pass.

And the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

Accordingly, the Bill was read the third time and passed.

Changes in Committee Membership

OF THE

HOUSE OF COMMONS

OF CANADA

OTTAWA, MONDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1975

2.00 o'clock p.m.

PRAYERS

Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), seconded by Mr. Drury, by leave of the House, introduced Bill C-80, An Act to provide supplementary borrowing authority for public works and general purposes, which was read the first time and ordered to be printed and ordered for a second reading at the next sitting of the House.

The Order being read for the consideration of the report stage of Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Labour, Manpower and Immigration;

STATEMENT BY MR. SPEAKER

MR. SPEAKER: Consideration has been given to a number of motions which were Tabled at the report stage. Two, it seems, of the 22 motions which are before the House for consideration appear to be out of order, and perhaps the questions of procedure involved could be discussed when we come to them. I refer to Motions numbered 4 and 6. These two Motions appear to the Chair to introduce into the Bill a concept larger than that originally envisaged in the Royal Recommendation in that they would extend the qualifying period to those who are on strike lawfully and to those who are out of work for the purpose of establishing a self-employed operation. Both would appear to increase benefits by extending the period of qualification. When these Motions are called, honourable Members might be prepared to put forward arguments addressed to the procedural aspects.

Furthermore, the Chair has some concern about Motion numbered 13 in that it appears, by way of amendment, to delete a section which is not proposed to be deleted by the Bill. However, there is the fact that Clause 11 proposes to amend a very similar subclause of the Bill regarding the initial benefit period, and the amendment would delete a second or a different section, but a similar kind of prohibition, with respect to the extended benefit period. It may be that by argument and explanation the Motion can be shown to be in fact in order. I simply caution that when Motion numbered 13 is called, there ought to be some attention paid on both sides to the procedural argument. On balance, it would seem to the Chair that the Motion should probably stand, but there may be a question whether or not it goes beyond the scope of the Bill. The two provisions seem to me to be so related that probably the Motion should stand, but I would simply suggest that when Motion numbered 4 is called there ought to be an argument about the procedural regularity of Motions numbered 4 and 6. When Motion numbered 13 is called it ought to be argued procedurally as well.

The remaining motions seem to be in order. Motions numbered 1 and 2, it appears, ought to be discussed together but voted separately. Motion numbered 1 should be voted first, because it proposes the deletion of a clause; Motion numbered 2 would be voted if that Motion does not carry because it proposes the deletion of a portion of the Clause. Motions numbered 9, 10, 16, 21 and 22 ought to be discussed and voted separately. Motions numbered 7 and 8 should be grouped for debate, I would think, along with Motions numbered 14 and 15, and perhaps all four Motions could be disposed of by a vote on Motion numbered 7. It appears that Motions numbered 11 and 12 ought to be grouped together for discussion, and Motions numbered 17, 18, 19 and 20 could be grouped for debate and disposed of with one vote. Perhaps, while Motion numbered 1 is under discussion, honourable Members could give consideration to that proposition and return to further argument on it as the day progresses.

Mr. Alexander, seconded by Mr. Paproski, moved,—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended by deleting Clause 1.

Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), seconded by Mr. Peters, moved,—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended in Clause 1 by deleting subclause (2) at page 1 and by renumbering subclause (3) as subclause (2).

And debate arising thereon;

Mr. Speaker communicated to the House the following letter:

GOVERNMENT HOUSE
OTTAWA

December 15, 1975

Sir,

I have the honour to inform you that the Honourable Wishart F. Spence, O.B.E., Puisne Judge of the Supreme Court of Canada, in his capacity as Deputy Governor General, will proceed to the Senate Chamber today, the 15th day of December at 8.00 p.m. for the purpose of giving Royal Assent to certain Bills.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your obedient servant,

EDMOND JOLY DE LOTBINIÈRE
Administrative Secretary to the Governor General.

The Honourable,
The Speaker of the House of Commons.

Consideration was resumed at the report stage of Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Labour, Manpower and Immigration.

Debate was resumed on the motion of Mr. Alexander, seconded by Mr. Paproski,—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended by deleting Clause 1.

And on the motion of Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), seconded by Mr. Peters,—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended in Clause 1 by deleting subclause (2) at page 1 and by renumbering subclause (3) as subclause (2).

And the question being put on the motions, pursuant to section 11 of Standing Order 75, recorded divisions were deferred.

Mr. Alexander, seconded by Mr. Baldwin, moved,—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended in Clause 4 by striking out lines 22 to 24 inclusive at page 2.

Mr. Alexander, seconded by Mr. Baldwin, moved,—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended in Clause 5 by striking out lines 19 to 21 inclusive at page 3.

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motions, it was negatived, on division.

Motion numbered 4, standing in the name of the honourable Member for Nickel Belt (Mr. Rodriguez) having been called, as follows:

That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended in Clause 4 by deleting lines 28 to 30 at page 2 and substituting the following therefor:

"nate,

(d) in receipt of temporary total workmen's compensation payments,

(e) engaged in a lawful strike, or

(f) engaged in establishing a business for the purpose of becoming self employed,".

And Motion numbered 6, standing in the name of the honourable Member for Nickel Belt (Mr. Rodriguez) having been called, as follows:

That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended in Clause 5 by deleting lines 21 to 23 at page 3 and substituting the following therefor:

"confinement,

(b) in receipt of temporary total workmen's compensation payments,

(c) engaged in a lawful strike, or

(d) engaged in establishing a business for the purpose of becoming self employed,".

RULING BY MR. DEPUTY SPEAKER

MR. DEPUTY SPEAKER: The honourable Minister, it seems to me, has correctly cited the precedents. Citation 246 of Beauchesne's is clear on the subject and if the honourable Member wishes to consult another author he might read Erskine May, page 508 in the 18th Edition where it is stated that an amendment is out of order if it is irrelevant to the subject-matter or goes beyond the scope of a bill.

The honourable Member knows that in accordance with our practice any expenditure of money has to be accompanied by a Royal Recommendation. When one looks at the Bill one finds that the Royal Recommendation does not specify the enumeration of persons to be included or excluded but is attached to a measure in which one finds these specifications. Even if the honourable Member is tempted to make the argument that the Royal Recommendation is sufficiently open to include the persons he wishes to include by his amendment, in my view the Royal Recommendation is limited by the Bill. The honourable Member's proposal would go beyond the Bill and would create an additional burden on the finances of the country.

I would refer the honourable Member also to page 510 of May's, 18th Edition, paragraph 12, where it is stated that amendments or new clauses creating public charges cannot be proposed.

In the light of all these considerations the Chair must reject the Motions as proposed by the honourable Member. Motions numbered 4 and 6 cannot be accepted.

Mr. Alexander, seconded by Mr. Baldwin, moved,—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended by deleting Clause 6.

Mr. Rodriguez, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), moved,—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended by deleting Clause 6.

Mr. Alexander, seconded by Mr. Baldwin, moved,—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended by deleting Clause 12.

Mr. Rodriguez, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), moved,—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended by deleting Clause 12.

And debate arising thereon;

A Message was received from the Honourable Wishart F. Spence, O.B.E., Puisne Judge of the Supreme Court of Canada, acting as Deputy Governor General, desiring the immediate attendance of the House in the Senate Chamber.

Accordingly, Mr. Speaker went with the House to the Senate Chamber.

And being returned;

Mr. Speaker reported that when the House did attend the Honourable the Deputy Governor General in the Senate Chamber, His Honour was pleased to give, in Her Majesty's name, the Royal Assent to the following Bills:

Bill C-73, An Act to provide for the restraint of profit margins, prices, dividends and compensation in Canada.—Chapter No. 75.

Bill C-2, An Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Bank Act and to repeal an Act to amend an Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act and the Criminal Code.—Chapter No. 76.

Bill S-27, An Act to amend the Canadian Overseas Telecommunication Corporation Act.—Chapter No. 77.

Bill C-76, An Act to wind up The King George V Silver Jubilee Cancer Fund for Canada and to authorize the sale of the assets and securities of the Fund and to transfer the sale proceeds and the balance of moneys to the National Cancer Institute of Canada.—Chapter No. 78.

Mr. Speaker informed the House that he had addressed the Honourable the Deputy to his Excellency the Governor General as follows:

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOUR:

"The Commons of Canada have voted Supplies required to enable the Government to defray certain expenses of the public service.

"In the name of the Commons I present to Your Honour the following Bill:

'An Act for granting to Her Majesty certain sums of money for the public service for the financial year ending 31st March, 1976.'

"To which Bill I humbly request Your Honour's Assent."

Whereupon, the Clerk of the Senate, by Command of the Deputy to His Excellency the Governor General, did say:

"In Her Majesty's name, the Honourable the Deputy to His Excellency the Governor General thanks Her Loyal Subjects, accepts their benevolence, and assents to this Bill."

Bill C-79, Appropriation Act No. 4, 1975.—Chapter No. 74.

Consideration was resumed at the report stage of Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Labour, Manpower and Immigration.

"752.(1) A person who was the defendant in proceedings before a summary conviction court and by whom an appeal is taken under section 748 shall, if he is in custody, remain in custody unless the appeal court at which the appeal is to be heard orders that the accused be released

(a) upon his giving an undertaking to the appeal court, without conditions or with such conditions as the appeal court directs, to surrender himself into custody in accordance with the order,

(b) upon his entering into a recognizance without sureties in such amount, with such conditions, if any, as the appeal court directs, but without deposit of money or other valuable security, or

(c) upon his entering into a recognizance with or without sureties in such amount, with such conditions, if any, as the appeal court directs, and upon his depositing with that appeal court such sum of money or other valuable security, as the appeal court directs, and the person having the custody of the appellant shall, where the appellant complies with the order, forthwith release the appellant.

(2) The provisions of subsections 459(5), (6) and (7) apply mutatis mutandis in respect of a person who has been released from custody under subsection (1)."

Add immediately after line 28, on page 59, the following clause:

"91.1 Subsection 752.2(1) of the said Act is repealed and the following substituted therefor:

"752.2 (1) Where a justice makes an order under section 752.1, either the appellant or the respondent may, before or at any time during the hearing of the appeal, apply to the appeal court for a review of the order made by the justice."

Clause 94

Strike out line 1, on page 61, and substitute the following therefor:

"the exception of subsections 610(3) and 613(5), apply"

Strike out line 19, on page 61, and substitute the following therefor:

"apply mutatis mutandis to the order.

(4) Notwithstanding subsections (1) to (3), where an appeal is taken under section 748 and where, because of the condition of the record of the trial in the summary conviction court or for any other reason, the appeal court, upon application of the defendant, the informant, the Attorney-General or his agent, is of the opinion that the interests of justice would be better served by hearing and determining the appeal by holding a trial de novo, the appeal court may order that the appeal shall be heard by way of trial de novo in accordance with such rules as may be made under subsection 438(1.1) and for this purpose the provisions of sections 729 to 744 apply mutatis mutandis.

(5) The appeal court may, for the purpose of hearing and determining an appeal under subsection (4), permit the evidence of any witness taken before the summary conviction court to be read if that evidence has been authenticated in accordance with section 468 and if

(a) the appellant and respondent consent,

(b) the appeal court is satisfied that the attendance of the witness cannot reasonably be obtained, or

(c) by reason of the formal nature of the evidence or otherwise the court is satisfied that the opposite party will not be prejudiced, and any evidence that is read under the authority of this subsection has the same force and effect as if the witness had given the evidence before the appeal court.

(6) Where an appeal is taken under subsection (4) against sentence, the appeal court shall, unless the sentence is one fixed by law, consider the fitness of the sentence appealed against and may, upon such evidence, if any, as it thinks fit to require or receive, by order,

(a) dismiss the appeal, or

(b) vary the sentence within the limits prescribed by law for the offence of which the defendant was convicted; and in making any order under paragraph (b) the appeal court may take into account any time spent in custody by the defendant as a result of the offence.

(7) The following provisions apply in respect of appeals under subsection (4), namely,

(a) where an appeal is based on an objection to an information or any process, judgment shall not be given in favour of the appellant

(i) for any alleged defect therein in substance or in form, or

(ii) for any variance between the information or process and the evidence adduced at the trial, unless it is shown

(iii) that the objection was taken at the trial, and

(iv) that an adjournment of the trial was refused notwithstanding that the variance referred to in subparagraph (ii) had deceived or misled the appellant; and

(b) where an appeal is based on a defect in a conviction or order, judgment shall not be given in favour of the appellant, but the court shall make an order curing the defect."

Your Committee has ordered a reprint of Bill C-71, as amended, for the use of the House of Commons at the report stage.

A copy of the Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence relating to this Bill (Issues Nos. 29, 32 to 35 inclusive) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 138 to the Journals).

The Order being read for the second reading and reference to the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs of Bill C-80, An Act to provide supplementary borrowing authority for public works and general purposes;

Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), seconded by Mr. Sharp, moved,—That the Bill be now read a second time and, by unanimous consent, referred to a Committee of the Whole.

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

Accordingly, the Bill was read the second time, considered in Committee of the Whole, reported without amendment, concurred in at the report stage, read the third time and passed.

By unanimous consent, the House reverted to "Presenting Reports from Standing or Special Committees".

Mr. Comtois, from the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs, presented the Tenth Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

In accordance with its Order of Reference of Thursday, December 11, 1975, your Committee has considered Bill S-29, An Act to enable The Eastern Canada Savings and Loan Company and Central & Nova Scotia Trust Company to amalgamate, and has agreed to report it without amendment.

A copy of the Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence relating to this Bill (Issue No. 79) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 139 to the Journals).

Mr. McCleave, Joint Chairman, from the Standing Joint Committee on Regulations and other Statutory Instruments, presented the Seventh Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

Your Committee approves in principle the concept of legislation relating to freedom of information and therefore recommends that:

(1) the references given to it by the House on December 19, 1974, i.e. the subject-matter of Bill C-225 (Mr. Baldwin), An Act respecting the right of the public to information concerning the public business, and the Guidelines for Motions for the Production of Papers tabled December 19, 1974, by the President of the Privy Council, be referred to it again in the next Session of this Parliament together with the evidence adduced in relation thereto;

(2) the House consider the advisability of expanding such terms of reference to include an examination of the Official Secrets Act, the Federal Court Act, the Statistics Act, Prerogative Writs, and other laws which are related to the question of freedom of information and the protection of privacy;

(3) the House further consider the advisability of directing the Committee to consider the question of automatic data processing in the above context, with due protection for privacy of persons.

A copy of the relevant Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence (Issues Nos. 13, 15, 17, 19, 22, 32, 41, 45, 47, 48, 50, 52 and 53) is tabled.

By unanimous consent, it was ordered,—That at 9.15 o'clock p.m. this day, the proceedings then before the House be interrupted and that all divisions deferred pursuant to Standing Order 75(11) in relation to Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be then taken and that the bells to call in the Members be sounded for fifteen minutes.

Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Labour, Manpower and Immigration, was again considered at the report stage.

Whereupon, the House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Peters, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre),—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended by deleting Clause 8.

After further debate, the question being put on the motion, pursuant to section 11 of Standing Order 75, a recorded division was deferred.

Motion numbered 10, standing in the name of the honourable Member for Winnipeg North (Mr. Orlikow) having been called, as follows:

That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended in Clause 9 by striking out line 36 at page 4 and substituting the following therefor:

"thereof and the extended benefit period (described in section 34) shall not exceed the maximum".

And Motion numbered 13, standing in the name of the honourable Member for Winnipeg North (Mr. Orlikow) having been called, as follows:

That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended by deleting Clause 11 at page 6 and by substituting the following therefor:

"11. Subsections 33(2) and 36(1) of the said Act are repealed."

And a point of order having been raised as to the procedural acceptability of the Motions, Mr. Deputy Speaker ruled the Motions irreceivable.

Mr. Alexander, seconded by Mr. Paproski, moved,—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended by deleting Clause 10.

Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), seconded by Mr. Broadbent, moved,—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended by deleting Clause 10.

And debate arising thereon;

At 9.15 o'clock p.m., pursuant to Order made this day, Mr. Speaker interrupted the proceedings;

And the House having proceeded to the deferred division on the motion of Mr. Alexander, seconded by Mr. Paproski,—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended by deleting Clause 1.

And the question being put on the motion, it was negatived on the following division:

OF THE

HOUSE OF COMMONS

OF CANADA

OTTAWA, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1975

2.00 o'clock p.m.

PRAYERS

Mr. Comtois, from the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs, presented the Eleventh Report of the Committee which is as follows:

In accordance with its Order of Reference of Friday, December 12, 1975, your Committee has considered Bill C-78, An Act to repeal An Act respecting the Halifax Relief Commission and to authorize the continuation of pensions, grants or allowances paid by the Halifax Relief Commission, and has agreed to report it without amendment.

A copy of the Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence relating to this Bill (Issue No. 79) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 141 to the Journals).

Mr. Comtois, from the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs, presented the Twelfth Report of the Committee which is as follows:

In accordance with its Order of Reference of Monday, July 28, 1975, your Committee has considered the Government's program of guideline dates for metric conversion and reports the same to the House.

Your Committee held nine meetings and was assisted in its deliberations by the evidence adduced from telegrams, letters and briefs submitted by different organizations. Furthermore, your Committee heard the Honourable Donald C. Jamieson, Minister of Industry, Trade and Commerce and the following witnesses:

From the Metric Commission:

Mr. S. M. Gossage, Chairman.

From the Canadian Manufacturers' Association:

Mr. Lyle Doering, Chairman, CMA Metric Committee and Vice-President, Steel Company of Canada Ltd., Toronto;

Mr. Alex Gray, Vice-Chairman, CMA Metric Committee and President, Gray Forgings and Stampings Ltd., Bramalea;

Mr. Roy Phillips, Executive Director;

Mr. Graeme Hughes, Director of Legislation, Technical and Taxation Group;

Mr. John Bramsen, Coordinator Metric Resources Centre;

Mr. Don Jupp, Ottawa Representative.

From the Standards Council of Canada:

Mr. Jean-Paul Carrière, President;

Mr. G. H. Spencer, Director, Metric Conversion.

From the Retail Council of Canada:

Mr. Alasdair J. McKichan, President;

Mr. Robert Berilla, President, Canadian Grocery Distributors' Institute;

Mr. Arthur Southwood, Co-Chairman of the Working Group on Scales in the Retail Food Industry.

From Metric Steel (The Task Force for Metric Conversion in the Canadian Iron and Steel Industry):

Mr. P. M. McCooey, Administrator.

From the Consumers' Association of Canada:

Mrs. M. Lister, Chairman, Metric Advisory Committee.

From the Canadian Federation of Independent Business:

Mr. John F. Bullock, President;

Mr. James R. Conrad, Director, Policy and Research.

From the Canadian Feed Manufacturers' Association:

Mr. Curtis L. Friend, Executive Secretary.

From the American National Metric Council:

Mr. Adrian G. Weaver, Chairman;

Dr. M. O'Hagan, Executive Director.

From the Canadian Labour Congress:

Mr. J. Morris, President;

Mr. Ron W. Lang, Director, Legislation Branch.

Throughout its deliberations, your Committee was ably assisted by Mr. Paul C. Boire, Executive Director of the Metric Commission, who acted as technical advisor to the Committee.

After study of the briefs submitted and extensive questioning of witnesses by the members of the Committee, there appeared to be much support for the approval of the government's program on guideline dates for metric conversion.

Your Committee affirms its support of the policies and principles contained in the White Paper on Metric Conversion tabled in the House of Commons in January 1970.

Your Committee affirms and recommends the voluntary adoption of the International System of Units (SI) as the single coherent system of measurement units to be used in Canada.

Your Committee recognizes that for a voluntary program of metric conversion to be carried out effectively and efficiently there must be an overall program of guideline dates and is of the opinion that the implementation of such a program would be greatly encouraged by support from Parliament and all levels of government.

Your Committee recognizes that dissemination of information to the public on metric conversion is an essential element in the success of a voluntary program and therefore recommends that the Government give consideration to the advisability of providing adequate funds to the Metric Commission to ensure that the public is appropriately informed of the remaining phases of planning, scheduling and implementation of this program.

Your Committee recognizes that financial difficulties may be encountered in changing over to the metric system and therefore recommends that the Government give consideration to the advisability of providing the following for the purchase of parts and other equipment necessary for metric conversion:

- a) exemption from sales tax and import duties;
- b) accelerated write-off privileges;
- c) loans of adequate term at a reasonable rate of interest;
- d) the implementation of a tax credit system for employees who must purchase metric tools.

Your Committee is of the opinion that it is essential that the Metric Commission report progress on the implementation of this program on an annual basis to the House and therefore recommends that an annual report on metric conversion be provided by the Metric Commission and that officials of the Metric Commission appear before this Committee annually.

Your Committee recommends that the House consider the advisability of giving approval to the program of guideline dates for metric conversion.

Your Committee further recommends that the government give consideration to the advisability of bringing forward legislation to provide an additional base for metric conversion.

A copy of the relevant Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence (Issues Nos. 59, 60, 61, 75, 76, 77, 78 and 79) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 142 to the Journals).

A petition was presented by the honourable Member for New Westminster (Mr. Leggatt).

Mr. Lang, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copies of letters, dated December 11 and 12, 1975, addressed by Keith Spicer, Esq., Commissioner of Official Languages to Sylvain Cloutier, Esq., Deputy Minister of Transport, relating to the suspension of three air traffic controllers at Dorval Air Traffic Control Centre. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-7/34.

Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Labour, Manpower and Immigration, was again considered at the report stage.

Whereupon the House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Alexander, seconded by Mr. Paproski,—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended by deleting Clause 10.

And on the motion of Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), seconded by Mr. Broadbent,—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended by deleting Clause 10.

After further debate, the question being put on the motions, pursuant to section 11 of Standing Order 75, a recorded division was deferred.

Mr. Peters, seconded by Mr. Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), moved,—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended by deleting Clause 16.

And debate arising thereon;

A Message was received from the Senate informing this House that the Senate had passed Bill C-21, An Act to amend the Agricultural Products Cooperative Marketing Act, without amendment.

---

Changes in Committee Membership

Notice having been filed with the Clerk of the House pursuant to Standing Order 65(4)(b), membership of Committees was amended as follows:

Mr. O'Connell for Mr. Marchand (Kamloops-Cariboo) on the Special Joint Committee on Employer-Employee Relations in the Public Service.

The following paper having been deposited with the Clerk of the House was laid upon the Table pursuant to Standing Order 41(1), namely:

By Mr. Gillespie, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council,—Report of Uranium Canada, Limited, together with the Report of the Auditor General on the Accounts and Financial Statements, for the year ended December 31, 1974, pursuant to section 75(3) of the Financial Administration Act, chapter F-10, R.S.C., 1970. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-1/407A.

At 6.00 o'clock p.m., the House adjourned until tomorrow at 2.00 o'clock p.m., pursuant to Standing Order 2(1).

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT

PARAGRAPH 46—Subsidization of local transportation by the Post Office Department. (See Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence, Issues Nos. 22 and 24, dated April 17 and 29, 1975).

In the Auditor General's 1973 Report (Paragraph 62) and in Paragraph 46 of his 1974 Report the Auditor General cites this case of subsidization of local transportation by the Post Office Department, in clear contravention of Section 61(1)(c) of the Financial Administration Act,—any appropriation was exceeded or was applied to a purpose or in a manner not authorized by Parliament.

Although a recommended improvement in arrangements for transporting mail between Kenora and Fort Frances would have saved the Post Office Department $11,500 annually, the loss of this mail contract by a bus company would have an adverse effect on the public transportation services provided to residents in the area.

The Committee was informed that if the Post Office Department did not use the bus company, the latter would go out of business.

This arrangement was continued in spite of an initial study by the Post Office Department, which recommended that this contract be terminated and the available alternate means of transport be used.

Your Committee recommends that the Post Office Department should not depart from the system of open tender contracts for mail carrying; and in this regard should adhere to Section 61(1)(c) of the Financial Administration Act which states that appropriations should be applied only in a manner authorized by Parliament.

PARAGRAPH 47—Improper charge to 1973-74 appropriation. (See Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence, Issues Nos. 22 and 24, dated April 17 and 29, 1975).

In late March 1974, a member of the Post Office Department visited suppliers of motor vehicles with which it had entered into contracts.

On April 1, 1974, the Post Office Department informed by telex departmental transportation officials in all regions of Canada that those vehicles had been accepted on their behalf prior to March 31, 1974. The Department then charged Post Office Vote 5 with $748,000 for these vehicles delivered subsequent to April 1, 1974, contrary to the provisions of Section 30 of the Financial Administration Act.

Your Committee concluded that the acceptance and payment after April 1, 1974, was clearly illegal.

Your Committee believes that all departments should know that Parliament has under the provisions of the

Your Committee believes that all departments should know that Parliament has under the provisions of the Financial Administration Act, a serious mandate to control public expenditures; to insist that funds are applied for the purpose authorized by Parliament; and to ensure that payments for goods received, or services rendered prior to the end of the fiscal year, are charged to the appropriate accounts for that fiscal year.

PARAGRAPH 53—Loss of public property at international philatelic exhibition. (See Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence, Issues Nos. 22 and 24, dated April 17 and 29, 1975.)

In May 1973, the Post Office Department participated in an international philatelic exhibition in Munich, West Germany. It was discovered at the end of the exhibition that philatelic items with an estimated value of $62,000 and projection equipment on loan from Information Canada valued at $1,000 had disappeared.

A review committee set up by the Post Office Department found negligence and carelessness on the part of the employees involved.

After a review of this loss, the Post Office Department recommended that no legal action be taken by the Canadian authorities against the Exhibition Management or the German postal authorities; that the legal action regarding the audio visual equipment be continued; and that the management of the Post Office Department clearly define the role and responsibilities of the various branches associated with international exhibitions.

Your Committee strongly endorses these recommendations and stresses the importance of sending only competent, trained and experienced staff to these exhibitions.

PARAGRAPH 62—Post Office retail activities. (See Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence, Issue No. 24, dated April 29, 1975.)

On October 13, 1966, in its Fifth Report to the House, the Public Accounts Committee stated that:

A government department should not initiate or take any action that is not authorized by Parliament even though it contemplates that Parliament may take action to provide that authority. It considers that the actions of government departments must be limited at all times to the legislative authority existing at the time the action is taken.

The Post Office Department has continued the practice of selling various non-postal items to the public, although it has not as yet received Parliamentary authority to do so. Furthermore a suitable accounting system to determine the profitability of these items had not been established, although it is stated that one is being developed.

Your Committee concludes that the Post Office Department has been acting illegally in carrying on the sale of merchandise without the necessary authorization by Parliament.

Your Committee recommends that the Post Office Department obtain the necessary authority to carry on such activity.

PARAGRAPH 63—Increased costs due to delay in awarding contract. (See Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence, Issue No. 24, dated April 29, 1975.)

In February 1973, the Post Office Department opened tenders for 271 special case and table units used in mail sorting. As a result of a delay in awarding the contract, and a failure to follow proper contracting procedures, the Post Office Department incurred an increased cost of $21,950.

The company which submitted the lowest bid, withdrew its offer, after the Post Office Department had determined that it could not meet delivery requirements.

The second lowest bidder had submitted an original bid of $168 per unit. However they had stated that this bid was good for sixty days only, and as a result the bidder increased the bid price to $200 per unit in June 1973 and to $230 per unit in September 1973. The Post Office Department considered this last increase unacceptable and terminated negotiations.

Tenders were then re-invited from other potential suppliers and the final contract was awarded in January 1974, almost a year later, for 271 units at a unit cost of $249. It resulted in an increased cost of $21,950.

The Committee concluded that:

1. No deposit was required from the firms making the bids.
2. No preliminary investigation was made to see if the companies submitting tenders were able to meet their commitments.
3. The second lowest bidder had stipulated that his price was only available for 60 days.
4. Although the second lowest bidder had increased its price, the Post Office had not formally accepted that price and had to get the approval of Treasury Board for entering into this contract, but because of the time sequence and the increased cost of materials and labour, this company stipulated another 15% increase in their tender and at this point negotiations were terminated.

Your Committee is of the opinion that the Post Office Department must accelerate its procedures for the approval of contracts, and keep its lists of potential suppliers up to date so that it is aware of which firms have the capacity to meet its contract requirements. Delays in seeking Treasury Board approval under the tender system can result in increased costs.

VETERANS AFFAIRS DEPARTMENT

PARAGRAPH 68—Cancellation of debts arising from overpayments of allowances. (See Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence, Issue No. 23, dated April 24, 1975.)

Until it was removed by an amendment taking effect on April 1, 1973, the War Veterans Allowance Act contained a limitation on personal property that could be held by veterans otherwise eligible for an allowance.

Because of inadvertent or intentional failure to disclose personal property, many instances of overpayments to veterans had occurred.

Acting upon a written opinion of the Department of Justice, the War Veterans Allowance Board cancelled the balances of 1,134 overpayment accounts totalling $790,000, including 27 accounts for which mortgage security was held.

After a question from the Auditor General, the Board obtained a subsequent opinion from the Department of Justice, which contrary to the first opinion stated that the amendment was not retroactive and that the debts remained outstanding.

Subsequently, the Treasury Board used alternative methods and regulations to cancel the accounts.

Your Committee recommends that the Department of Justice be more careful in issuing opinions.

PARAGRAPH 69—Suspension of recovery of War Veterans Allowance Overpayments. (See Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence, Issue No. 23, dated April 24, 1975).

Prior to November 1, 1973, the War Veterans Allowance Board had been recovering, by monthly deductions, from 2,700 recipients of War Veterans Allowance accumulated overpayments which arose because of veterans' incomes in excess of statutory limits.

On November 1, 1973, after commencing a lengthy review to determine whether or not recovery of overpayments was causing hardship, the Board suspended recovery attempts.

Your Committee is concerned that there was a lack of authority for the suspension of recovery attempts, and recommends that authority should be established before any such action is taken.

REVENUE CANADA (TAXATION)

PARAGRAPH 61—Delays in issuing assessments and inadequate liaison between divisions of the Department of National Revenue (Taxation) resulting in loss of revenue to the Crown. (See Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence, Issue No. 25, dated May 1, 1975)

A failure to collect assessed taxes and interest amounting to $3.6 million was blamed on a too lengthy investigation and a lack of liaison between the Special Investigations Division and the Collections Division of Revenue Canada (Taxation).

During this 16 month investigation the taxpayer had systematically transferred most of his assets to Switzerland, and by February 1971 when assessments for the taxation years, 1966 to 1969 were issued, it was not possible to seize or attach any assets of substantial value.

Your Committee recommends that Revenue Canada take immediate action to revise procedures to eliminate such occurrences and that if necessary the Minister of Finance act swiftly to introduce legislation.

Your Committee also recommends in appropriate cases full disclosure of the names and facts of cases written off be made public.

DEPARTMENT OF NATIONAL DEFENCE

PARAGRAPH 51—Ex gratia payments to members of the Canadian Forces. (See Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence, Issues Nos. 26 and 27, dated May 6 and 8, 1975)

In February 1972, more than 400 members of the Canadian Forces suffered losses or damage to personal property in two fires at the Canadian Forces Base St. Jean, Quebec. Claims totalling $163,000 were filed with the Department of National Defence. Although the Department of Justice issued an opinion that the Department of National Defence was not liable, the latter paid $139,500. However, the Auditor General noted that these payments were not identified as ex gratia by the Department and furthermore payments in excess of $100 were not listed in the Public Accounts of Canada as requested by the Public Accounts Committee in its Second Report to the House in April 1961 (concurrent in by the House, April 26, 1961).

The Auditor General stated that the Department had taken action to prevent the criticism of this omission from recurring.

It is not clear where the problem of authority over ex gratia payments lies.

The Auditor General maintains that the authority to make ex gratia payments vests in the Governor in Council and may not be delegated.

The Department of National Defence officials cite Queen's Regulations and Orders:

210.05 — Compensation in special cases

In the case of loss or damage for which compensation is not otherwise payable under QR&O, the Minister may, notwithstanding anything in this section, authorize the payment of such reasonable compensation as he considers appropriate, having regard to the circumstances. (G)

The Department of National Defence legal officers maintain that article 210.05 issued under the authority of the Governor in Council gives the Minister considerable discretion in awarding compensation and such discretion amounts to a delegation of authority by the Governor in Council to grant ex gratia payments within the context of the Regulations.

The Committee agreed that it was difficult for the Department of Justice to advise the Auditor General, while also acting for the Department of National Defence.

Your Committee therefore recommends that the Auditor General seek outside legal counsel on this problem and report back to the Committee.

PARAGRAPH 45—Canadian Forces base Summerside, P.E.I. (See Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence, Issues Nos. 26 and 27, dated May 6 and May 8, 1975)

The Auditor General is required under Section 61 of the Financial Administration Act to report to Parliament any appropriation that was exceeded or was applied to a purpose or in a manner not authorized by Parliament.

In late 1969, the Department of National Defence reached the conclusion that with the phase-out of the Neptune maritime patrol aircraft, the remaining operational activities of CFB Summerside should be transferred to other Canadian Forces bases under Maritime Command and that this base should be closed in 1970, resulting in an annual saving in excess of $6 million. In December 1969, the Government announced that because of economic considerations, the Base would not be closed before March 31, 1973. On March 23, 1972, the House was advised that the Base was to be retained in its present role.

To meet the additional cost involved in keeping the Base operational, the Treasury Board initially approved an increase of $6.7 million in the National Defence Department's budget in 1971-72 and 1972-73. The ceiling was increased to $7.5 million for 1973-74.

The Auditor General firmly maintains that the additional costs incurred in keeping the Base opened far exceed the costs necessary for fulfilling the defence function in the area. Furthermore, he observes that these appropriations of the Department of National Defence are being applied for a purpose not authorized by Parliament.

The Department of National Defence however is of the opinion that this expenditure for the operation and maintenance of CFB Summerside is a properly authorized charge on its appropriations, since it was approved by Parliament by means of this appropriation that had been authorized through the Main Estimates and Supplementary Estimates.

The Auditor General conceded that there were other votes in Parliament that could have accommodated this sum.

Your Committee entirely agreed with the principle, that any appropriation authorized by Parliament must be spent for the purpose authorized, and recommends that proper authority be sought for future expenditures of this sort.

PARAGRAPH 56—Excess fees paid to retired public servants and members of the Canadian Forces employed by the Department of National Defence under personal service contracts. (See Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence, Issue No. 27, dated May 8, 1975)

The Auditor General drew attention to the situation where retired public servants or retired members of the Canadian Forces and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police have entered into service contracts with government departments and agencies. He noted several cases where the guidelines provided by the Treasury Board for the calculation of fees were exceeded.

There were cases where the fees paid by the Department of National Defence to superannuates far exceeded the current level of salaries held by them prior to retirement.

The Auditor General also revealed a noticeable lack of central control of personal service contracts with the Department. Your Committee has been informed that proper control procedures have been subsequently introduced by the Department.

Your Committee is concerned that the practice complained of is widespread and is expanding.

Your Committee recommends that the Treasury Board consider conducting a study on the use of personal service contracts, and that a directive be developed for the guidance of all departments employing retired employees under contract.

Your Committee further recommends that recovery action be taken in cases of overpayment.

PARAGRAPH 57—Cost of vacant accommodation following closure of Canadian Forces Base Gimli, Man. (See Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence, Issues Nos. 27 and 28, dated May 8 and 13, 1975)

In his 1972 Report, the Auditor General noted that in 1965 the Department of National Defence had entered into an agreement with a development company whereby, for a period of 20 years, the Department guaranteed to this company a gross monthly rental of $14,200 from the leasing of 150 housing units to be constructed at Gimli, Manitoba, primarily to accommodate married personnel assigned to the base. Then for no clear reason that the Auditor General was able to determine, the Department entered into a second agreement with the same company in 1967 to lease the same housing units from this company from 1968 to 1977 at a monthly rental of $19,000, the rental being subject to review and retroactive adjustments every two years to reflect changes in operating costs. This agreement suspended the original agreement, and resulted in an increase in the monthly rental to $22,000 in January, 1970 and a slight reduction to $21,500 in January 1972.

Following the closure of the base in September 1971, the Department in December 1971 declined an offer by the development company to terminate both agreements on payment of $2,000,000. The monthly rental payments continued to be made under the terms of the lease, and for the year ended March 31, 1972, approximately $220,000 was paid for unoccupied units.

During subsequent fiscal periods, rent for the unoccupied units continued, amounting to $255,000 in 1972-73 and to $235,000 in 1973-74.

These units remained unoccupied even though the local businessmen and elected officials of Gimli had approached the Department to open the units to civilians because of improving local conditions.

On February 27, 1974, the Department of National Defence entered into agreements with the principal mortgage holder of the housing project whereby for a payment of $1,661,000 the Department obtained a complete release from its obligations.

Your Committee concludes that although the closing of bases and the shifting of personnel cannot be avoided, tighter administrative control in leasing arrangements on the part of the Department of National Defence is needed if such unproductive expenditures are to be avoided.

PARAGRAPH 59—Overdrawal of rations. (See Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence, Issue No. 28, dated May 13, 1975)

The Canadian Contingent draws rations which are paid for by the United Nations, from a local British Army supply depot. The United Nations underwrites the cost of these rations up to an amount equal to the British army ration scale. However, as this scale is below the ration scale of the Canadian Army, our Cyprus Contingent is authorized by the Department of National Defence to draw supplemental rations from the depot up to the equivalent of the Canadian scale and the extra cost incurred is reimbursed by Canada to the United Nations.

It was reported that the Canadian contingent of the U.N. Force in Cyprus between November 1972 and May 1973 overdraw its ration scale by approximately $60,000. Charges were submitted to Canada by the United Nations for supplemental rations for this period.

When it was brought to the attention of the officials of the Department of National Defence, immediate steps were taken to investigate the matter. An interim departmental report revealed that some of the overdrawals were caused by members of other contingents eating at Canadian messes because of the superior meals.

Your Committee notes that the department has now discontinued the practice of issuing free meals to other contingents.

PARAGRAPH 60—Additional expense incurred because of error in specifications of winter caps purchased for Canadian Forces. (See Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence, Issue No. 28, dated May 13, 1975)

A contract was awarded in 1971 to a manufacturer for the supply of $100,000 men's winter fur caps to the Department of National Defence. It was discovered that because of an error in the specifications, that delivery of 75,000 caps two sizes smaller was accepted by the Department.

The specifications were subsequently amended, but in order to meet requirements, a further 32,550 larger size caps had to be purchased in 1973 at a cost of $102,000.

The Department of National Defence considered this expenditure as an outlay for future requirements and claimed that the wear life of one of these caps is six years. Assuming that 10,000 will be used annually for issues and replacements, the Auditor General estimated that there would be enough caps of the smaller size to last the next 30 years.

Your Committee recommends that the Department of National Defence exercise greater control in its contracting procedures and specifications.

PARAGRAPH 55—Local Initiatives Program. (See Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence, Issues Nos. 29 and 31, dated May 15 and 27, 1975)

Since its Second Report to the House on March 6, 1975, your Committee again reviewed the progress of the Local Initiatives Program under the direction of the Department of Manpower and Immigration and observed that certain changes to the criteria have been made and that corrective action to reduce the Program's shortcomings in some areas had been taken.

However, your Committee was of the opinion that the Department's officials must ensure that the Program's guidelines are properly observed; that simplified but adequate accounting records are maintained for all grants; that proper audit procedures are followed; that control measures are adopted to avoid the duplication of funds for the same project; and that tighter controls are enforced in those projects where improvements and benefits are made to private property.

PARAGRAPH 38—Irregular charge to Canadian Livestock Feed Board Account. (See Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence, Issues Nos. 30 and 34, dated May 22 and June 17, 1975)

During the fiscal year 1973-74, the Canadian Livestock Feed Board authorized special price assistance payments totalling $822,000 to offset increased costs of livestock feeders who were forced to purchase feed grains at higher prices because a series of railway strikes in British Columbia had cut off their regular source of supply.

The Auditor General reported that $822,000 was not a proper charge on the Canadian Livestock Feed Board Account since it did not relate to feed grain purchased by the Canadian Livestock marketing operation of the Board.

The Board's chairman informed the Committee that when the rail strikes occurred, the Board was under considerable pressure to provide assistance to the British Columbia feeders, and obtained a release of 300,000 bushels per week at export prices from the Canadian Wheat Board's export stocks in Vancouver.

Your Committee concluded that the Canadian Livestock Feed Board had no authority under the Livestock Feed Assistance Act to make such payments and therefore acted improperly in using public funds for purposes not intended by Parliament.

PARAGRAPH 78—Errors in Public Service Superannuation Account pension calculations. (See Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence, Issues Nos. 30 and 35, dated May 22 and June 26, 1975)

Since 1962, the Auditor General has reported regularly on the high incidence of error in the Public Service Superannuation pension calculations. The problems arose from the complex nature of the Public Service Superannuation Act and its accompanying regulations which change periodically; the multiplicity of pay records in government departments across Canada; and the length of service of superannuates.

Your Committee was informed by the Department of Supply and Services that for reasons of cost and accuracy, automated systems were not the solution to these problems. Instead, steps were being taken by the Superannuation Branch and the Treasury Board Secretariat to simplify the reporting requirements imposed by the Act and the Regulations.

Your Committee recommends therefore that the Treasury Board Secretariat review those provisions in the Public Service Superannuation Act and its accompanying Regulations that relate to the reporting requirements of superannuation by the employer; and to establish standard reporting procedures to which all government departments and agencies will conform.

PARAGRAPH 64—Cost of unused accommodation. (See Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence, Issue No. 31, dated May 27, 1975)

Your Committee is concerned about those recurring cases in government departments where rent is paid for unused accommodation.

In this particular instance, the Department of Manpower and Immigration was at fault. Because the Department revised its initial space requirements and held up the approval of layout plans, occupancy was delayed by five months. As a result, a rental cost of $61,000 for unused accommodation was incurred.

Your Committee in previous reports to the House has recommended that these rental expenses should be a charge on the department occupying the space and not on the Department of Public Works. Departments would therefore be more careful to avoid these non-productive payments.

PARAGRAPH 50—Overpayments of adjustment assistance to Ugandan refugees. (See Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence, Issue No. 31, dated May 27, 1975)

In 1972, overpayments of $188,500 were made to a group of Ugandan refugees under the adjustment assistance program by the Canada Manpower Centre in Vancouver.

The Auditor General revealed serious deficiencies in this operation in a number of specific areas.

The Department of Manpower and Immigration acknowledged that this particular manpower centre was clearly unprepared to handle this abnormal situation. Extensive use was made of untrained casual staff and the manpower resources of the Howe Street Centre in Vancouver were fully extended.

The Deputy Minister reported that there had been incompetence on the part of the regular staff, and that as a result, transfers and dismissals were made.

The Deputy Minister also reported that recovery action for the overpayments was being undertaken in 23 cases, leaving 299 cases outstanding.

Your Committee is of the opinion that the Department must press the recovery procedure more vigorously.

PARAGRAPH 72—Imported Oil and Petroleum Products Compensation Program. (See Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence, Issue No. 34, dated June 17, 1975)

Your Committee questioned the Auditor General and officials from the Department of Energy, Mines and Resources and the Energy Supplies Allocations Board on this program which was implemented in the 1974 calendar year to cushion the economy from the impact of the rapid increase in the price of foreign crude oil used in Canada. It provides compensation to oil importers for increases in certain elements in the cost of imported crude oil and petroleum products, the main one being increases on or after December 1, 1973, in taxation by governments which are members of OPEC (Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries). In return these importers agree to restrain wholesale prices in accordance with government guidelines.

This is a vast program involving extremely large sums of money, $1.3 billion from the public purse and your Committee was concerned that the setting up of this program and the expenditures were in order and properly audited.

Your Committee was informed by the Auditor General that his office was called initially to meet with officials of Energy, Mines and Resources to work with them in devising an effective program, one related to the actual compensation payments; and secondly the price guidelines.

Your Committee was assured that compensation is being paid, only in respect of oil that is not indigenous to Canada and the regulations from the start specified that fuel supplied to ships or aircraft not registered in Canada engaged in international movements should not qualify for compensation.

To assist them in monitoring this program, providing the extra manpower needed on this assignment, the Auditor General obtained the services of a public accounting firm to give them the expertise needed for this unique assignment.

Your Committee will await the Auditor General's next report on this vast and expensive program to discover how effective the control measures have been.

PARAGRAPH 70—The Establishment of a Special Audits and Enquiries Branch.

PARAGRAPH 71—Financial Management and Control Study. (See Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence, Issue No. 33, dated June 12, 1975)

At this meeting your Committee were joined with members from the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs and the Standing Committee on Miscellaneous Estimates. Your members heard a progress report from the Auditor General and his associates, from the Chairman of the Public Service Commission, plus representatives of the Public Accounting Firms on Executive Interchange, on how the Interchange Canada Program is helping the Auditor General supplement and assist in his undertaking a comprehensive evaluation of financial and management and control systems throughout all of the government departments, agencies and Crown corporations for which the Auditor General has audit responsibilities.

These representatives of the public service and the outside business world gave your Committee a very illuminating insight of the uses made of the Executive Interchange Program, in obtaining the services of senior members of sixteen major firms of chartered accountants across Canada to work on the Financial Management and Control Study. In all a total of 34 joined the Office of the Auditor General under the Interchange Canada Program.

In 1975-76 the Office of the Auditor General will also be sending selected professional personnel for experience with participating firms of chartered accountants.

The Chairman of the Public Service Commission outlined the Commission's role in getting this plan under way, which provides for the temporary transfer of executive personnel between the public service and the private sector, the universities and other levels of government and international agencies.

Your Committee also heard evidence from some of the members of the Accounting firms, who lent their experience and expertise serving on this Executive Interchange Program.

From these representatives of the accounting firms on loan through Executive Interchange, your Committee was given an insight into the wide scope of their plan of action and accomplishment.

A central group is responsible for directing study teams, maintaining liaison with departments, studying the central agencies and reviewing findings and recommendations developed by the study teams.

There are fourteen study teams, each consisting of a partner and manager from a participating firm and a senior auditor from the Audit Office.

These study teams were active and an idea of the scope of their 1974-75 program can be realized, when it is stated that by August 31, 1975 studies were completed on 28 departments and agencies.

The particular areas of study are broad and for the information of the House are listed:

The form of the Estimates and Public Accounts: the appropriateness of these documents as a basis for parliamentary control and the standards of disclosure of financial information included therein.

Budgetary preparation and control: the appropriateness of the systems supporting the resource allocation process and the management of resources during the year.

Financial reporting systems: the adequacy of financial information provided to all levels of management and the appropriateness of the central and departmental systems used to assemble this information.

Financial control of expenditures, revenues, assets and liabilities: the adequacy of the controls to prevent unauthorized or improper expenditures, inappropriate recovery of revenues or the improper use or disposition of assets.

Internal audit: the effectiveness of this function within departments and agencies.

Staffing: the adequacy of the systems for ensuring that persons performing financial functions have the authority, resources, skills and incentive to perform these functions effectively.

Organization: the appropriateness of the manner in which financial management and control responsibilities have been allocated to and within central agencies and departments.

The results of these studies will be a report provided to the deputy head under the headings of background, analysis and recommendations plus the observations of the study teams with respect to any weaknesses in the system of financial management and control within his department. Each deputy head is being requested to inform the Auditor General on any corrective action taken.

Parliament will be informed of these results in the 1975 Annual Report of the Auditor General. In a supplementary volume, there will also be a report on the government-wide findings and recommendations followed by a précis of the results of the examination made in each department and agency and the responses of the deputy head.

Your Committee endorses this wide-ranging program being carried out and is encouraged by the Auditor General's confidence that on the basis of the Report of the Independent Review Committee on the Office of the Auditor General of Canada tabled in the House April 14, 1975, his Office will be launched successfully in 1978, on its second century, and will serve the Office and Parliament itself for years to come.

Your Committee has concluded its review of the Auditor General's 1974 Report, and has observed on those paragraphs where weak administration and the lack of financial controls will require further action by the government departments and agencies concerned.

Your Committee anticipates within the next six months a formal response to the matters raised in this Report from the Secretary of the Treasury Board.

During the course of this review, your Committee was unable to do a more thorough study of the subject areas concerned, because the Public Accounts of Canada for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1974 had not been referred to it by the House.

Your Committee, therefore, recommends that consideration should be given to the advisability of changing the Standing Orders of the House of Commons to provide that the Public Accounts of Canada and the annual report of the Auditor General thereon be automatically referred to your Committee and that, if your Committee has not already been organized, it should be set up within a reasonable period after such referral.

A copy of the relevant Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence (Issues Nos. 22 to 36 inclusive, First Session, Thirtieth Parliament) is tabled.

The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 143 to the Journals).

Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Notice of Ways and Means Motion to amend the Income Tax Act. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-1/308C.

Ordered,—That the document "Summary of the surtax proposal" presented to the House by the Honourable the Minister of Finance be printed as an appendix to this day's Hansard.

Ordered,—That copies of letters, dated December 11 and 12, 1975, addressed by Keith Spicer, Esq., Commissioner of Official Languages to Sylvain Cloutier, Esq., Deputy Minister of Transport, relating to the suspension of three air traffic controllers at Dorval Air Traffic Control Centre, laid upon the Table on December 17, 1975, by the Honourable the Minister of Transport (Mr. Lang), be printed as an appendix to this day's Hansard.

Ordered,—That the House revert to "Routine Proceedings" at 8.00 o'clock p.m. this day.

Ordered,—That any Government Order interrupted this day retain its position on tomorrow's Order Paper.

Pursuant to Standing Order 39(4), the following Question was made an Order of the House for a Return:

No. 3,073—Mr. Rodriguez

1. For each transaction or contract of $1 million or more in the Post Office National Facilities Programme (a) what is the value of the contract or transaction (b) what are the principal features of the transaction (e.g., size and description of land, size of building, quantity of equipment, etc.) (c) what is the name of the company involved (d) who are the principal owners and officers of the company (e) in what manner was the contract let (f) was the contract tendered and, if not, for what reason (g) did the contract go to the lowest bidder and, if not, what are the names of the bidders and the amount of their bid (h) what is the location of the post office involved?

2. What is the basic cost of (a) LSMs (b) CFCs (c) OCRs and, for what reason is there such a wide variation in planned costs of LSMs (e.g., 3 in Winnipeg for $4.7 million, 3 in Scarborough for $4.0 million, 7 in Vancouver for $6.6 million, etc.)?

3. Are land costs excluded for major projects in Toronto and Montreal and, if so, for what reason?

4. What is the (a) maximum (b) minimum number of (i) LSMs (ii) CFCs (iii) OCRs that might be expected to be operating by 1980 and what centres are affected in each case?

5. What are the CUPW staffing estimates associated with each estimate in Part 4 compared to current staffing?

6. What is the breakdown by classification and major job function for each large centre?

7. How many transfers requiring the moving of families of employees are likely to be required to make full job security for present CUPW employees consistent with the estimates in Part 4?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/3,073.

Mr. Blais, Parliamentary Secretary to the President of the Privy Council, presented,—Return to the foregoing Order.

Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Labour, Manpower and Immigration, was again considered at the report stage.

Whereupon the House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Peters, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre),—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended by deleting Clause 16.

After further debate, the question being put on the motion, pursuant to section 11 of Standing Order 75, a recorded division was deferred.

Mr. Alexander, seconded by Mr. Kempling, moved,—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended by deleting Clause 22.

Mr. Orlikow, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), moved,—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended by deleting Clause 22.

Mr. Alexander, seconded by Mr. Kempling, moved,—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended by deleting Clause 36.

Mr. Orlikow, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), moved,—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended by deleting Clause 36.

And debate arising thereon;

[At 5.00 o'clock p.m., Private Members' Business was called pursuant to Standing Order 15(4)]

(Private Bills)

Bill S-29, An Act to enable the Eastern Canada Savings and Loan Company and Central & Nova Scotia Trust Company to amalgamate, as reported (without amendment) from the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs, was concurred in at the report stage.

Mr. Breau, seconded by Mr. Demers moved,—That the Bill be now read a third time and do pass.

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

Accordingly, the Bill was read the third time and passed.

[Notices of Motions (Papers)]

By unanimous consent, Notices of Motions (Papers) Nos. 34, 37, 39, 35, 41 and 42 were allowed to stand at the request of the government.

At 8.00 o'clock p.m. pursuant to Order made this day, the House reverted to "Routine Proceedings".

Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Notice of Ways and Means Motion to provide for an Anti-Inflation Levy. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-1/316.

Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale) laid upon the Table,—Copies of Anti-Inflation Act Regulations. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-1/134.

Mr. Chrétien, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copies of Press Release, dated December 18, 1975, concerning Notes on the Government's Expenditure Reductions. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-7/35.

Ordered,—That the document be printed as an appendix to this day's Hansard.

A Message was received from the Senate informing this House that the Senate had passed Bill C-80, An Act to provide supplementary borrowing authority for public works and general purposes, without amendment.

(Proceedings on Adjournment Motion)

At 10.00 o'clock p.m., the question "That this House do now adjourn" was deemed to have been proposed pursuant to Standing Order 40(1);

After debate, the question was deemed to have been adopted.

Changes in Committee Membership

Notice having been filed with the Clerk of the House pursuant to Standing Order 65(4)(b), membership of Committees was amended as follows:

Messrs. Halliday and Jarvis for Messrs. Baldwin and Lambert (Edmonton West) on the Standing Committee on Management and Members' Services.

Mr. Blais, Parliamentary Secretary to the President of the Privy Council, presented,—Returns to the foregoing Orders.

The Order being read for the consideration of the report stage of Bill C-77, An Act to amend the National Housing Act and the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation Act, as reported (without amendment) from the Standing Committee on Health, Welfare and Social Affairs;

Mr. Gilbert, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), moved,—That Bill C-77, An Act to amend the National Housing Act and the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation Act, be amended in Clause 1 by striking out lines 4 to 6 at page 2 and substituting the following therefor:

"(a) the rentals to be charged by the owner of the rental housing project shall be established by the Corporation and that in so establishing and reviewing such rentals the Corporation shall have regard for the probable family income of the lessees of each family housing unit;"

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, pursuant to section 11 of Standing Order 75, a recorded division was deferred.

By unanimous consent, it was ordered,—That at 3.00 o'clock p.m. this day, the proceedings then before the House be interrupted and that the divisions deferred pursuant to Standing Order 75(11) in relation to Bill C-77, An Act to amend the National Housing Act and the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation Act and Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be then taken.

Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Labour, Manpower and Immigration, was again considered at the report stage.

Debate was resumed on the motion of Mr. Alexander, seconded by Mr. Kempling,—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended by deleting Clause 22.

And on the motion of Mr. Orlikow, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre),—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended by deleting Clause 22.

And on the motion of Mr. Alexander, seconded by Mr. Kempling,—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended by deleting Clause 36.

And on the motion of Mr. Orlikow, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre),—That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended by deleting Clause 36.

After further debate, the question being put on the motions, pursuant to section 11 of Standing Order 75, a recorded division was deferred.

By unanimous consent, Motion numbered 21, standing in the name of the honourable Member for Hamilton West (Mr. Alexander), which is as follows:

That Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, be amended by deleting Clause 38, was withdrawn.

At 3.00 o'clock p.m., pursuant to Order made this day, Mr. Speaker interrupted the proceedings;

And the House having proceeded to the deferred division on the motion of Mr. Gilbert, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre),—That Bill C-77, An Act to amend the National Housing Act and the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation Act, be amended in Clause 1 by striking out lines 4 to 6 at page 2 and substituting the following therefor:

"(a) the rentals to be charged by the owner of the rental housing project shall be established by the Corporation and that in so establishing and reviewing such rentals the Corporation shall have regard for the probable family income of the lessees of each family housing unit;"

And the question being put on the motion, it was negatived on the following division:

Accordingly, the Bill was read the third time and passed.

The Order being read for the consideration of the report stage of Bill C-52, An Act to amend the Public Service Superannuation Act, the Canadian Forces Superannuation Act, the Defence Services Pension Continuation Act, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Superannuation Act, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Pension Continuation Act, the Diplomatic Service (Special) Superannuation Act, the Members of Parliament Retiring Allowances Act, the Governor General's Retiring Annuity Act, the Judges Act, the Tax Review Board Act and the Supplementary Retirement Benefits Act, as reported (with amendments) from the Special Joint Committee on Employer-Employee Relations in the Public Service;

Motion numbered 6, standing in the name of the honourable Member for Bellechasse (Mr. Lambert), as follows:

That Bill C-52, An Act to amend the Public Service Superannuation Act, the Canadian Forces Superannuation Act, the Defence Services Pension Continuation Act, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Superannuation Act, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Pension Continuation Act, the Diplomatic Service (Special) Superannuation Act, the Members of Parliament Retiring Allowances Act, the Governor General's Retiring Annuity Act, the Judges Act, the Tax Review Board Act and the Supplementary Retirement Benefits Act, be amended by adding immediately after line 19 at page 67 the following new Clauses:

"88.1 Section 19 of the said Act is amended by adding thereto the following subsection:

"(5) Notwithstanding subsections (1) to (3) but subject to subsections 20(3) and 24(3), a member may make an election for the purpose of this section at any time before he ceases to be a member."

88.2 Section 20 of the said Act is amended by adding thereto the following subsection:

"(3) The contribution in respect of previous sessions to be made by a member who has made an election under subsection 19(5) shall be at the rate that applies to him in respect of the session in which the election is made." "

And Motion numbered 7, standing in the name of the honourable Member for Bellechasse (Mr. Lambert), as follows:

That Bill C-52, An Act to amend the Public Service Superannuation Act, the Canadian Forces Superannuation Act, the Defence Services Pension Continuation Act, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Superannuation Act, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Pension Continuation Act, the Diplomatic Service (Special) Superannuation Act, the Members of Parliament Retiring Allowances Act, the Governor General's Retiring Annuity Act, the Judges Act, the Tax Review Board Act and the Supplementary Retirement Benefits Act, be amended in Clause 89 by adding immediately after line 20 at page 68 the following:

"(4) For the purposes of this section, a member may elect to contribute to the pension plan under Part III at any time before he ceases to be a member".

And Motion numbered 8, standing in the name of the honourable Member for Bellechasse (Mr. Lambert), as follows:

That Bill C-52, An Act to amend the Public Service Superannuation Act, the Canadian Forces Superannuation Act, the Defence Services Pension Continuation Act, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Superannuation Act, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Pension Continuation Act, the Diplomatic Service (Special) Superannuation Act, the Members of Parliament Retiring Allowances Act, the Governor General's Retiring Annuity Act, the Judges Act, the Tax Review Board Act and the Supplementary Retirement Benefits Act, be amended in Clause 89 at page 68 by adding immediately after line 20 the following new subsection:

"(4) For the purpose of subsection (1), a person who has made an election under subsection 19(5) shall, at the time he ceases to be a member, be deemed to have one year of pensionable service to his credit for each amount that would be derived from the sum or percentage of sessional indemnity that would be applicable in determining his pensionable service if the sessional indemnity received by him in respect of sessions other than the session in which the election is made were the same as the sessional indemnity receivable by him when the election is made." "

And a point of order having been raised as to the procedural acceptability of the Motions, Mr. Speaker ruled the Motions irreceivable.

By unanimous consent, Mr. Sharp for Mr. Chrétien, seconded by Mr. Drury, moved,—That Bill C-52, An Act to amend the Public Service Superannuation Act, the Canadian Forces Superannuation Act, the Defence Services Pension Continuation Act, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Superannuation Act, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Pension Continuation Act, the Diplomatic Service (Special) Superannuation Act, the Members of Parliament Retiring Allowances Act, the Governor General's Retiring Annuity Act, the Judges Act, the Tax Review Board Act and the Supplementary Retirement Benefits Act, be amended by adding after line 11 at page 2 the following new Clause:

"2.1 The definition "salary" in subsection 2(1) of the said Act is repealed and the following substituted therefor:

"salary" means

(a) as applied to the Public Service, the basic pay received by the person in respect of whom the expression is being applied for the performance of the regular duties of a position or office exclusive of any amount received as allowances, special remuneration, payment for overtime or other compensation or as a gratuity unless that amount is deemed to be or to have been included in that person's basic pay pursuant to any regulation made under paragraph 32(1) (b.2); and

(b) as applied to the regular force or the Force, the pay or pay and allowances, as the case may be, applicable in the case of that person as determined under the Canadian Forces Superannuation Act or the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Superannuation Act;" "

The text of the Message and Recommendation of the Governor General is as follows:

His Excellency the Governor General recommends to the House of Commons that Bill C-52, An Act to amend the Public Service Superannuation Act, the Canadian Forces Superannuation Act, the Defence Services Pension Continuation Act, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Superannuation Act, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Pension Continuation Act, the Diplomatic Service (Special) Superannuation Act, the Members of Parliament Retiring Allowances Act, the Governor General's Retiring Annuity Act, the Judges Act, the Tax Review Board Act and the Supplementary Retirement Benefits Act, now before the House, be amended by adding after line 11 on page 2 thereof the following new clause:

"2.1 The definition "salary" in subsection 2(1) of the said Act is repealed and the following substituted therefor:

"salary" means

(a) as applied to the Public Service, the basic pay received by the person in respect of whom the expression is being applied for the performance of the regular duties of a position or office exclusive of any amount received as allowances, special remuneration, payment for overtime or other compensation or as a gratuity unless that amount is deemed to be or to have been included in that person's basic pay pursuant to any regulation made under paragraph 32(1) (b.2); and

(b) as applied to the regular force or the Force, the pay or pay and allowances, as the case may be, applicable in the case of that person as determined under the Canadian Forces Superannuation Act or the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Superannuation Act;" "

And the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

By unanimous consent, Mr. Sharp for Mr. Chrétien, seconded by Mr. Drury, moved,—That Bill C-52, An Act to amend the Public Service Superannuation Act, the Canadian Forces Superannuation Act, the Defence Services Pension Continuation Act, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Superannuation Act, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Pension Continuation Act, the Diplomatic Service (Special) Superannuation Act, the Members of Parliament Retiring Allowances Act, the Governor General's Retiring Annuity Act, the Judges Act, the Tax Review Board Act and the Supplementary Retirement Benefits Act, be amended in Clause 21 by striking out line 31 at page 17 and substituting the following therefor:

"have received during that absence;

(b.2) deeming, for the purposes of the definition "salary" in subsection 2(1), the amount in respect of allowances, special remuneration, payment for overtime or other compensation or annual gratuity, if any, that is to be or to have been included in the basic rate of pay of a person;"

Accordingly, the Bill was read the third time and passed.

Pursuant to Order made earlier this day, the House reverted to "Motions".

On motion of Mr. Sharp, seconded by Mr. Drury, it was ordered,—That, when the House adjourns after Bill C-75, An Act to increase the rate of return on Government Annuity contracts, to increase their flexibility and to discontinue future sales thereof, has received the Royal Assent, it shall stand adjourned until Monday, January 26, 1976, provided always that, if it appears to the satisfaction of Mr. Speaker, after consultations with the Government, that the public interest requires that the House should meet at an earlier time during the adjournment, Mr. Speaker may give notice that he is so satisfied, and thereupon the House shall meet at the time stated in such notice, and shall transact its business as if it had been duly adjourned to that time; and

That, in the event of Mr. Speaker's being unable to act owing to illness or other cause, the Deputy Speaker or the Deputy Chairman of Committees shall act in his stead for the purposes of this Order.

Ordered,—That the sitting be suspended until the ringing of the bells.

At 8.18 o'clock p.m., the sitting was resumed;

A Message was received from the Senate informing this House that the Senate had passed the following Bills, without amendment:

Bill C-77, An Act to amend the National Housing Act and the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation Act;

Bill C-69, An Act to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971;

Bill C-52, An Act to amend the Public Service Superannuation Act, the Canadian Forces Superannuation Act, the Defence Services Pension Continuation Act, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Superannuation Act, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Pension Continuation Act, the Diplomatic Service (Special) Superannuation Act, the Members of Parliament Retiring Allowances Act, the Governor General's Retiring Annuity Act, the Judges Act, the Tax Review Board Act and the Supplementary Retirement Benefits Act; and Bill C-75, An Act to increase the rate of return on Government Annuity contracts, to increase their flexibility and to discontinue future sales thereof.

Mr. Speaker communicated to the House the following letter:

GOVERNMENT HOUSE
OTTAWA

December 20, 1975

Sir,

I have the honour to inform you that the Honourable Wishart F. Spence, O.B.E., Puisne Judge of the Supreme Court of Canada, in his capacity as Deputy Governor General, will proceed to the Senate Chamber today, the 20th day of December at 8.00 p.m. for the purpose of giving Royal Assent to certain Bills.

And on the motion of Mrs. Holt, seconded by Mr. Roy (Timmins), in amendment thereto,—That motion numbered 4 be amended by striking out all the words in Subclause (2) after the words "conducted in Canada".

After further debate, the question being put on the amendment, pursuant to section 11 of Standing Order 75, a recorded division was deferred.

By unanimous consent, Motion numbered 5 standing in the name of the honourable Member for Vancouver-Kingsway (Mrs. Holt), as follows:

That Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, be amended in Clause 1 by adding immediately after line 14, at page 1, the following:

"(2) Notwithstanding the provisions of this Act or Regulations, a periodical shall be deemed to be a Canadian issue of a Canadian periodical if 75% of its Directors and ownership are Canadian and its editing and publication functions are controlled and conducted in Canada."

was allowed to stand.

By unanimous consent, Motion numbered 6 standing in the name of the honourable Member for Surrey-White Rock (Mr. Friesen), as follows:

That Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, be amended by deleting Clause 2, was allowed to stand.

Mr. Friesen, seconded by Mr. Alexander, moved,—That Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, be amended in Clause 3 by striking out line 12 at page 2 and substituting the following therefor:

"of being extended or renewed; or

(c) a written agreement entered into after the coming into force of this section with a Canadian subsidiary of a foreign broadcasting undertaking if the Canadian Radio-Television Commission and the Minister of the Department of National Revenue have approved a plan submitted by the said Canadian subsidiary providing for compensatory payment by such subsidiary by the allocation of funds to Canadian television program production, extension of Canadian television service, development of Canadian talent, or otherwise for the benefit of Canadian broadcasting: the Commission may require as a condition for entering into any such agreement that a percentage, to be stipulated by the Commission, of the voting shares of such subsidiary be beneficially owned by Canadian citizens."

Mr. Friesen, seconded by Mr. Alexander, moved,—That Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, be amended in Clause 3 by striking out line 12 at page 2 and substituting the following therefor:

"of being extended or renewed; or

(c) a written agreement entered into after the coming into force of this section with a Canadian subsidiary of a foreign broadcasting undertaking if not less than seventy-five per cent of the voting shares of the said Canadian subsidiary are beneficially owned by Canadian citizens and a percentage of the gross revenues of the said Canadian subsidiary, to be agreed upon by the said Canadian subsidiary and the Canadian Radio-Television Commission, less only normal advertising agency and sales agencies commissions, is allocated directly to Canadian television program production, extension of Canadian television service, or other broadcasting objectives for the benefit of Canada: an allocation so made to be pursuant to a plan made by the Commission and approved by the Minister of the Department of National Revenue."

Mr. Friesen, seconded by Mr. Alexander, moved,—That Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, be amended in Clause 3 by striking out line 12 at page 2 and substituting the following therefor:

"of being extended or renewed; or

(c) a written agreement entered into after the coming into force of this section with a Canadian subsidiary of a foreign broadcasting undertaking if a sum of money in the amount of twenty-five per cent of the gross revenues of the said Canadian subsidiary less only normal advertising agency and sales agency commissions, is used for Canadian television program production, extension of Canadian television service, educational television or other broadcasting objectives for the benefit of Canada: the method of utilization of such amount to be determined by the Canadian Radio-Television Commission and approved by the Minister of the Department of National Revenue."

Mr. Friesen, seconded by Mr. Alexander, moved,—That Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, be amended in Clause 3 by striking out line 26 at page 2 and substituting the following therefor:

"aircraft not registered in Canada and which fails to observe guidelines for such foreign broadcasting undertaking jointly established by the Minister of the Department of National Revenue and the Canadian Radio-Television Commission."

Mr. Friesen for Mr. Wenman, seconded by Mr. Alexander, moved,—That Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, be amended by deleting Clause 3.

And debate arising thereon, by unanimous consent, the debate was interrupted.

And the House having proceeded to the deferred division on the motion of Mr. Fairweather, seconded by Mr. Coates,—That Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, be amended in Clause 1 by striking out line 12 at page 1 and substituting the following therefor:

"periodical dated after December 31, 1976".

And on the motion of Mr. Fairweather, seconded by Mr. Coates,—That Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, be amended in subclause 4(1) by striking out line 35 at page 2 and substituting the following therefor:

"force on the 1st day of January, 1977".

And the question being put on the motions, it was negatived on the following division:

After debate, the question was deemed to have been adopted.

Changes in Committee Membership

Notice having been filed with the Clerk of the House pursuant to Standing Order 65(4)(b), membership of Committees was amended as follows:

Mr. Clarke (Vancouver Quadra) for Mr. Friesen on the Standing Committee on Public Accounts.

Messrs. Reid, Clarke (Vancouver Quadra) and Kaplan for Messrs. Herbert, McCain and Gray on the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs.

Returns and Reports Deposited with the Clerk of the House

The following papers having been deposited with the Clerk of the House were laid upon the Table pursuant to Standing Order 41(1), namely:

By Mr. Sharp, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council,—Supplementary Return to an Order of the House, dated October 29, 1975 (Question No. 2,985) showing: 1. By year since 1968, when the Prime Minister came to office, how many people have been engaged in public relations on behalf of the government for each (a) department (b) agency (c) board (d) Crown corporation and, in each case, what has been the cost?

2. For the same period, how much money has been spent on advertising on other information programmes not covered in Part 1 and what are the component parts of these costs?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/2,985B.

By Mr. Sharp,—Supplementary Return to an Order of the House, dated October 29, 1975 (Question No. 3,092) showing: 1. For each (a) department (b) agency, what (i) statutes (ii) guidelines (iii) regulations govern the giving or withholding of information requested by private individuals or organizations?

2. In each case (a) what is the substance of the (i) statute (ii) guideline (iii) regulation (b) by whom were they prepared or issued and on what date?

3. In each case, what effect has increased computerization had upon the (a) ability to meet private requests for information (b) cost of providing such information (c) frequency with which requests are made?

4. In each case, what is the general practice with respect to the (a) maintenance (b) destruction of manual files when the essential information within them has been computerized?

5. In each case, has the experience with respect to computerization been similar to that noted in the United States by a study for the National Academy of Science which determined that strictly factual files were most likely to be the first to be computerized while those containing subjective information were likely to remain in manual files?

6. In each case, how many computers are (a) owned (b) rented by the government?

7. In each case, approximately what percentage of information stored for more than one month is (a) stored in a computer (b) stored manually (c) both?

8. In each case (a) what is the present annual budget for automated data processing (b) how many man-years of labour are included in this figure?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/3,092B.

By Mr. Sharp,—Supplementary Return to an Order of the House, dated October 29, 1975 (Question No. 3,093) showing: 1. For each department or agency, what (a) statutes (b) guidelines (c) regulations govern the (i) collection of information (ii) use of information about individuals or organizations?

2. In each case (a) what is the substance of the (i) statute (ii) guideline (iii) regulation (b) by whom were they prepared or issued?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/3,093A.

Whereupon, the House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Friesen, seconded by Mr. Alexander,—That Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, be amended in Clause 3 by striking out line 12 at page 2 and substituting the following therefor:

"of being extended or renewed; or

(c) a written agreement entered into after the coming into force of this section with a Canadian subsidiary of a foreign broadcasting undertaking if the Canadian Radio-Television Commission and the Minister of the Department of National Revenue have approved a plan submitted by the said Canadian subsidiary providing for compensatory payment by such subsidiary by the allocation of funds to Canadian television program production, extension of Canadian television service, development of Canadian talent, or otherwise for the benefit of Canadian broadcasting: the Commission may require as a condition for entering into any such agreement that a percentage, to be stipulated by the Commission, of the voting shares of such subsidiary be beneficially owned by Canadian citizens."

And on the motion of Mr. Friesen, seconded by Mr. Alexander,—That Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, be amended in Clause 3 by striking out line 12 at page 2 and substituting the following therefor:

"of being extended or renewed; or

(c) a written agreement entered into after the coming into force of this section with a Canadian subsidiary of a foreign broadcasting undertaking if not less than seventy-five per cent of the voting shares of the said Canadian subsidiary are beneficially owned by Canadian citizens and a percentage of the gross revenues of the said Canadian subsidiary, to be agreed upon by the said Canadian subsidiary and the Canadian Radio-Television Commission, less only normal advertising agency and sales agencies commissions, is allocated directly to Canadian television program production, extension of Canadian television service, or other broadcasting objectives for the benefit of Canada: an allocation so made to be pursuant to a plan made by the Commission and approved by the Minister of the Department of National Revenue."

And on the motion of Mr. Friesen, seconded by Mr. Alexander,—That Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, be amended in Clause 3 by striking out line 12 at page 2 and substituting the following therefor:

"of being extended or renewed; or

(c) a written agreement entered into after the coming into force of this section with a Canadian subsidiary of a foreign broadcasting undertaking if a sum of money in the amount of twenty-five per cent of the gross revenues of the said Canadian subsidiary less only normal advertising agency and sales agency commissions, is used for Canadian television program production, extension of Canadian television service, educational television or other broadcasting objectives for the benefit of Canada: the method of utilization of such amount to be determined by the Canadian Radio-Television Commission and approved by the Minister of the Department of National Revenue."

And on the motion of Mr. Friesen, seconded by Mr. Alexander,—That Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, be amended in Clause 3 by striking out line 26 at page 2 and substituting the following therefor:

"aircraft not registered in Canada and which fails to observe guidelines for such foreign broadcasting undertaking jointly established by the Minister of the Department of National Revenue and the Canadian Radio-Television Commission."

And on the motion of Mr. Friesen for Mr. Wenman, seconded by Mr. Alexander,—That Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, be amended by deleting Clause 3.

And debate continuing;

Mr. Blais, Parliamentary Secretary to the President of the Privy Council, presented,—Returns to the foregoing Orders.

Mr. Sharp, seconded by Mr. MacEachen, moved,—That this House shall adjourn at 5.00 p.m. on Thursday, February 19, 1976 and shall thereupon stand adjourned until Monday, February 23, 1976 at 2.00 p.m.

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, as reported (without amendment) from the Standing Committee on Broadcasting, Films and Assistance to the Arts, was again considered at the report stage.

Whereupon, the House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Friesen, seconded by Mr. Alexander,—That Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, be amended in Clause 3 by striking out line 12 at page 2 and substituting the following therefor:

"of being extended or renewed; or

(c) a written agreement entered into after the coming into force of this section with a Canadian subsidiary of a foreign broadcasting undertaking if the Canadian Radio-Television Commission and the Minister of the Department of National Revenue have approved a plan submitted by the said Canadian subsidiary providing for compensatory payment by such subsidiary by the allocation of funds to Canadian television program production, extension of Canadian television service, development of Canadian talent, or otherwise for the benefit of Canadian broadcasting: the Commission may require as a condition for entering into any such agreement that a percentage, to be stipulated by the Commission, of the voting shares of such subsidiary be beneficially owned by Canadian citizens."

And on the motion of Mr. Friesen, seconded by Mr. Alexander,—That Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, be amended in Clause 3 by striking out line 12 at page 2 and substituting the following therefor:

"of being extended or renewed; or

(c) a written agreement entered into after the coming into force of this section with a Canadian subsidiary of a foreign broadcasting undertaking if not less than seventy-five per cent of the voting shares of the said Canadian subsidiary are beneficially owned by Canadian citizens and a percentage of the gross revenues of the said Canadian subsidiary, to be agreed upon by the said Canadian subsidiary and the Canadian Radio-Television Commission, less only normal advertising agency and sales agencies commissions, is allocated directly to Canadian television program production, extension of Canadian television service, or other broadcasting objectives for the benefit of Canada: an allocation so made to be pursuant to a plan made by the Commission and approved by the Minister of the Department of National Revenue."

And on the motion of Mr. Friesen, seconded by Mr. Alexander,—That Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, be amended in Clause 3 by striking out line 12 at page 2 and substituting the following therefor:

"of being extended or renewed; or

(c) a written agreement entered into after the coming into force of this section with a Canadian subsidiary of a foreign broadcasting undertaking if a sum of money in the amount of twenty-five per cent of the gross revenues of the said Canadian subsidiary less only normal advertising agency and sales agency commissions, is used for Canadian television program production, extension of Canadian television service, educational television or other broadcasting objectives for the benefit of Canada: the method of utilization of such amount to be determined by the Canadian Radio-Television Commission and approved by the Minister of the Department of National Revenue."

And on the motion of Mr. Friesen, seconded by Mr. Alexander,—That Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, be amended in Clause 3 by striking out line 26 at page 2 and substituting the following therefor:

"aircraft not registered in Canada and which fails to observe guidelines for such foreign broadcasting undertaking jointly established by the Minister of the Department of National Revenue and the Canadian Radio-Television Commission."

And on the motion of Mr. Friesen for Mr. Wenman, seconded by Mr. Alexander,—That Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, be amended by deleting Clause 3.

And on the motion of Mr. McKenzie, seconded by Mr. McKinley, in amendment thereto,—That motion numbered 7 be amended by deleting the proposed paragraph (c) and substituting therefor:

"(c) a written agreement entered into after the coming into force of this section with a Canadian subsidiary of a foreign broadcasting undertaking if the Minister of the Department of National Revenue has approved a plan submitted by the said Canadian subsidiary providing for compensatory payment by such subsidiary by the allocation of funds to Canadian television program production, extension of Canadian television service, development of Canadian talent, or otherwise for the benefit of Canadian broadcasting: the Minister may require as a condition for entering into any such agreement that a percentage, to be stipulated by the Minister, of the voting shares of such subsidiary be beneficially owned by Canadian citizens."

After further debate, the question being put on the amendment, pursuant to section 11 of Standing Order 75, a recorded division was deferred.

And the questions being put on motions numbered 8, 9 and 11, pursuant to section 11 of Standing Order 75, recorded divisions were deferred.

By unanimous consent, Motion numbered 10 standing in the name of the honourable Member for Surrey-White Rock (Mr. Friesen), as follows:

That Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, be amended in Clause 3 by striking out line 26 at page 2 and substituting the following therefor:

"aircraft not registered in Canada and which fails to observe guidelines for such foreign broadcasting undertaking jointly established by the Minister of the Department of National Revenue and the Canadian Radio-Television Commission."

was allowed to stand.

And the House having proceeded to the deferred division on the amendment of Mrs. Holt, seconded by Mr. Roy (Timmins),—That motion numbered 4 be amended by striking out all the words in subclause (2) after the words "conducted in Canada".

And the question put on the amendment, it was negatived on the following division:

JOURNALS

OF THE

HOUSE OF COMMONS

OF CANADA

OTTAWA, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1976

2.00 o'clock p.m.

PRAYERS

Mr. Speaker, laid upon the Table,—Certified copy of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Alberta, 1976, pursuant to subsection (1) of section 19 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act, chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-1/430.

Mr. Chrétien, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, delivered a Message from His Excellency the Governor General, which was read by Mr. Speaker, as follows:

JULES LÉGER

His Excellency the Governor General transmits to the House of Commons the Estimates of sums required for the service of Canada for the fiscal year ending on the 31st March, 1977, and, in accordance with the provisions of "The British North America Act, 1867" recommends these Estimates to the House of Commons.

---

The Estimates, 1976-77, recorded as Sessional Paper No. 301-1/132G.

By unanimous consent, on motion of Mr. Sharp, seconded by Mr. Marchand (Langelier), it was ordered,—That the Report, dated December 1975, by the Chief Electoral Officer of Canada entitled: "An Examination of Possible Ways of Reducing the Election Period", laid upon the Table, Tuesday, February 10, 1976, be referred to the Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections.

Ordered,—That there be laid before this House copies of all correspondence between the Department of Transport and Sky Shops Export Limited of Montreal in respect of an extension and renewal of the lease for the operation of the duty-free shop at Dorval International Airport and of the granting of a lease for the operation of the duty-free shop at Mirabel International Airport.—(Notice of Motion for the Production of Papers No. 65—Mr. MacKay).

Resolved,—That an humble Address be presented to His Excellency praying that he will cause to be laid before this House copies of all pertinent material, minutes of meetings, telegrams, letters, etc. between the government, particularly the Directorate of Public Affairs, the Department of Transport and the Government of Newfoundland and/or the Newfoundland Department of Transport and Communications and/or Memorial University with regard to the 1976-1977 Transportation Development Fellowship Programme offering individual awards of $4,650 plus tuition fees to university graduates across Canada for studies at the master and doctorate levels.—(Notice of Motion for the Production of Papers No. 76—Mr. Marshall).

The honourable Member for Oshawa-Whitby (Mr. Broadbent), from his place in the House, asked leave under Standing Order 26 to move the adjournment of the House for the purpose of discussing a specific and important matter requiring urgent consideration, and stated the subject to be the revelation today of the announced intention by the executive of the Canadian Labour Congress to withdraw from all areas of co-operation with the federal government.

And leave having been granted to propose a motion to adjourn the House in order to discuss the matter, the motion was allowed to stand over until 8.00 o'clock p.m. this day, pursuant to Standing Order 26(10).

The Order being read for the third reading of Bill C-58, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act;

Mr. Chrétien for Mr. Faulkner, seconded by Mr. Richardson, moved,—That the Bill be now read a third time and do pass.

PRAYERS

Mr. Speaker informed the House that he had received from the Honourable Mr. Chief Justice N. T. Nemetz and the Honourable Mr. Justice E. D. Fulton, both of the Supreme Court of British Columbia, the two judges appointed for the trial of a petition pursuant to the Dominion Controverted Elections Act, a certificate of judgment in the matter of an election in the Electoral District of Vancouver East, as follows:

BRITISH COLUMBIA

IN THE MATTER OF THE DOMINION CONTROVERTED ELECTIONS ACT, R.S.C. 1970, CH. C-28 AND IN THE MATTER OF A FEDERAL ELECTION FOR THE ELECTORAL DISTRICT OF VANCOUVER EAST, HOLDEN ON THE 8TH DAY OF JULY, A.D. 1974

BETWEEN:

PADDY NEALE

AND:

ARTHUR J. LEE AND MARY GERTRUDE GIBSON

PETITIONER

RESPONDENTS

To the Honourable the Speaker of the House of Commons, Ottawa, Canada

Sir:

In accordance with provisions of Sec. 57(1) of the Dominion Controverted Elections Act, R.S.C. 1970, Ch. C-28, the undersigned, who were the Judges designated pursuant to the said Act to try the election Petition in the matter referred to, have the honour to certify to you that we have determined that the election held the 8th day of July, 1974, for the election of a Member of the House of Commons in and for the Electoral District of Vancouver East was a valid election and that Arthur J. Lee was duly elected as a Member for the Electoral District at that election.

There having been no charge made in the said Petition of any corrupt or illegal practice in respect of the said election, and there having been nothing in the evidence adduced before us to suggest any such practice, we have no report to make in that regard.

We attach hereto a copy of our Reasons for Judgment.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF WE HAVE HEREUNTO SUB-
SCRIBED OUR HANDS THIS 12TH DAY OF FEBRUARY,

Accordingly, the Bill was read the third time and passed.

By unanimous consent, the House reverted to "Introduction of Bills".

Mr. Andras (Port Arthur), seconded by Mr. Jamieson, by leave of the House, introduced Bill C-85, An Act respecting immigration security, which was read the first time and ordered to be printed and ordered for a second reading at the next sitting of the House.

The House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Lalonde, seconded by Mr. Chrétien,—That Bill C-68, An Act to amend the Medical Care Act, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Health, Welfare and Social Affairs.

And on the motion of Mr. Gilbert, seconded by Mr. Nystrom, in amendment thereto,—That Bill C-68, An Act to amend the Medical Care Act, be not now read a second time but that it be read a second time this day six months hence.

And debate continuing;

A Message was received from the Honourable Jean Beetz, Puisne Judge of the Supreme Court of Canada, acting as Deputy Governor General, desiring the immediate attendance of the House in the Senate Chamber.

Accordingly, Mr. Speaker went with the House to the Senate Chamber.

And being returned;

Mr. Speaker reported that when the House did attend the Honourable the Deputy Governor General in the Senate Chamber, His Honour was pleased to give, in Her Majesty's name, the Royal Assent to the following Bills:

Bill C-41, An Act respecting the stabilization of net proceeds from the production and sale of western grain and to amend certain statutes in consequence thereof.—Chapter No. 87.

Bill C-78, An Act to repeal An Act respecting the Halifax Relief Commission and to authorize the continuation of pensions, grants or allowances paid by the Halifax Relief Commission.—Chapter No. 88.

Changes in Committee Membership

Notice having been filed with the Clerk of the House pursuant to Standing Order 65(4)(b), membership of Committees was amended as follows:

JOURNALS

OF THE

HOUSE OF COMMONS

OF CANADA

OTTAWA, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 1976

2.00 o'clock p.m.

PRAYERS

Pursuant to Standing Order 43, on motion of Mr. Haidasz, seconded by Mrs. Appolloni, it was resolved,—That this House supports the Canadian Government's position that, as expressed in the House on December 2, 1975 by the Secretary of State for External Affairs, the Final Act of the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe signed at Helsinki in no way confirms the territorial status quo in Europe and that in particular the status of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania as it is at present recognized by Canada has in no way been altered thereby.

Mr. Speaker informed the House that the Clerk of the House had laid upon the Table the Twenty-fourth Report of the Clerk of Petitions, stating that he had examined the petition concerning the enactment of legislation to stop information on Canadians from being given to certain other Countries through Interpol, presented by the honourable Member for Bellechasse (Mr. Lambert) on Wednesday, February 25, 1976, and finds that the petition meets the requirements of the Standing Orders as to form.

Mr. Campbell (LaSalle-Émard-Côte Saint-Paul), from the Standing Committee on Transport and Communications, presented the Eleventh Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

In accordance with its Order of Reference of Wednesday, November 26, 1975, your Committee has considered Bill C-61, An Act to provide a maritime code for Canada, to amend the Canada Shipping Act and other Acts in consequence thereof and to enact other consequential or related provisions, and has agreed to report it with the following amendments:

Clause 3

Strike out lines 20 to 22, inclusive, on page 3, and substitute the following therefor:

"“foreign registered ship” means a ship registered or otherwise documented outside Canada;”

Strike out line 43, on page 3, and substitute the following therefor:

““internal waters of Canada” includes”

Add immediately after line 4, on page 4, the following:

““net tonnage” means the net tonnage of a ship as stated on its certificate of registration or, where a certificate of registration has not been issued in respect of the ship or the net tonnage thereof is not stated on its certificate of registration, means the net tonnage thereof as determined in accordance with regulations made under section BII-49 of the Maritime Code;”

Strike out line 46, on page 5, and substitute the following therefor:

Add immediately after line 3, on page 18, the following new subclause:

"(5) Where an offence is committed by a person under subsections (1) or (2) on more than one day or is continued by him for more than one day, it shall be deemed to be a separate offence for each day on which the offence is committed or continued."

New Clause 15

Add immediately after Clause 14, on page 18, the following new Clause 15:

"15. (1) The Canadian Transport Commission shall cause to be published in the Canada Gazette

(a) a notice of the disposition of each application for a permit made to it pursuant to subsection 10(1), each application for a renewal of a permit made to it pursuant to subsection 10(3) and each application for a licence made to it pursuant to subsection 11(1);

(b) a notice of each order made by it suspending, cancelling or varying the terms and conditions of a permit or licence; and

(c) particulars of each licence issued by it pursuant to subsection 11(4).

(2) A notice or particulars referred to in subsection (1) shall be caused to be published in the Canada Gazette forthwith after the matter to which the notice or particulars relate has been disposed of by the Canadian Transport Commission.

New Clause 16

Add immediately after new Clause 15, the following new Clause 16:

"16. The Canadian Transport Commission shall, within three months after the end of each year and at such other times as the Minister may, in writing, request, submit to the Minister a report in such form and setting forth such information as the Minister may direct, with regard to actions taken by it under sections 10 and 11 during the year or since the last such report and the Minister shall cause each such report together with a report by him on any action taken by the Governor in Council under subsection 11(4) and a compendium of notices and particulars published in the Canada Gazette pursuant to section 15 during the period to which the report relates to be laid before Parliament within fifteen days after receipt by him of the report from the Canadian Transport Commission, or, if Parliament is not then sitting, on any of the first fifteen days next thereafter that Parliament is sitting."

Renumber old Clause 15 as new Clause 17.

Schedule I

Strike out Item 1 on page 19.

Schedule II

Strike out in Item 10 on page 25, the figures "284(1)" and substitute the figures "284(3)" therefor.

Clause BI-2 of Schedule III

Strike out lines 6 to 8, inclusive, on page 27, and substitute the following therefor:

"BI-2. (1) Except where otherwise provided and notwithstanding section BI-I, this Code does not apply to war ships in the service of Canada.

(2) The Governor in Council may, by regulation, exempt ships in the service of Canada, other than those referred to in subsection (1), ships in the service of a province or"

Clause BI-4 of Schedule III

Strike out line 9, on page 28, and substitute the following therefor:

"territorial sea of Canada"

Clause BI-6 of Schedule III

Add immediately after line 12, on page 29, the following subclause:

"(2.1) Notwithstanding subsection (1), a provision of this Code does not apply to a Canadian ship that is within the waters of a foreign state where compliance with such provision would require a person to contravene a law of that foreign state that, by its express terms, applies both to the ships of that state and to all other ships within the waters of that state."

Clause BI-9 of Schedule III

Strike out lines 3 to 14, inclusive, on page 30, and substitute the following therefor:

"BI-9. (1) Where any proceedings are taken under this Code or any other Act of Parliament, against a foreign registered ship, or against the master or owner of a foreign registered ship as such master or owner, notice in writing of such proceedings shall forthwith be given to the consular officer for the state in which the ship is registered or otherwise documented at or nearest to the port where the ship is for the time being, and such notice shall specify the grounds on which the proceedings have been taken.

(2) Subsection (1) does not apply where, before notice is given in accordance with that subsection, security has been given in respect of the proceedings taken under this Code or any other Act of Parliament and the ship to which those proceedings relate has been released from detention or arrest.

Clause BI-20 of Schedule III

Add immediately after line 27, on page 37, the following subclause:

"(1.1) No person who knows or who ought reasonably to know that a ship has been arrested as provided in subsection (1) shall give clearance in respect of that ship unless he has reasonable grounds to believe that the ship has been released from arrest."

Strike out line 32, on page 37, and substitute the following therefor:

Your Committee has ordered a reprint of Bill C-61, as amended, for the use of the House of Commons at the report stage.

A copy of the Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence relating to this Bill (Issues Nos. 29, 30, 31, 32, 34, 35, 36 and 37) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 145 to the Journals).

Mr. Herbert, from the Special Joint Committee on Employer-Employee Relations in the Public Service, presented the Sixth Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

In accordance with its Order of Reference of the House of Commons of Tuesday, October 22, 1974 and of the Senate of October 23, 1974 a Special Joint Committee of the Senate and the House of Commons considered Parts I, II and III of the documents entitled Employer-Employee Relations in the Public Service of Canada, prepared by Mr. Jacob Finkelman, Q.C., Chairman of the Public Service Staff Relations Board. This Joint Committee was duly organized Wednesday, November 13, 1974 and held forty public meetings between that date and Thursday, June 19, 1975. Thirty-one briefs, including two reports by Mr. Finkelman entitled Supplementary Observations and Recommendations, have been received and considered by your Committee. A variety of interested parties have participated, including: bargaining agents representing employees in the Public Service of Canada; unions representing views outside the Public Service of Canada; the Treasury Board Secretariat representing the Government as employer; employer groups in the private sector; the Chairman of the Public Service Staff Relations Board and the Chairman of the Public Service Commission; personnel and labour relations specialists; university professors; and interested individuals.

THE INTERIM REPORT

In the course of these hearings, your Committee was persuaded by the evidence of several witnesses, and especially by that of Mr. Finkelman, that the Public Service

Staff Relations Board was not properly constituted to carry the burden of the various responsibilities placed on it by the Act and that the capacity of the Public Service Staff Relations Board to handle its work load effectively and expeditiously was seriously constrained by its part-time membership. To mitigate these pressing administrative and operational difficulties, your Committee prepared an Interim Report and in it recommended the consolidation of the several functions of the Public Service Staff Relations Board. Your Committee recommended as well that members of the Public Service Staff Relations Board be able to sit in panels, and that sufficient full-time members be appointed to enable the Public Service Staff Relations Board to handle the matters referred to it with dispatch. This Report was laid before the Senate and before the House of Commons on May 29, 1975.

A Bill (Bill C-70), was given first reading on July 14 and was referred to your Committee for comments and suggestions. Minor technical amendments, unanimously supported by the Special Joint Committee, were made to the Bill and Bill C-70 was approved by Parliament on July 21, 1975.

Your Committee continued to hear representations until July 16, 1975 when it began the final evaluation of the evidence which had been placed before it.

Altogether 31 persons or organizations made representations and 49 persons appeared before the Committee and were questioned by members. The names of persons appearing before the Committee and of persons and organizations submitting briefs are listed in Appendix A.

SCOPE AND LIMITATIONS OF THE COMMITTEE'S INVESTIGATION

The task facing your Committee was a formidable one. Employer-employee relations in the Public Service of Canada are governed by several different statutes principally the Public Service Staff Relations Act, the Public Service Employment Act and the Financial Administration Act. These statutes provide for two independent regulatory agencies in the area of Public Service employer-employee relations: the Public Service Commission which derives its authority and responsibility from the Public Service Employment Act; and the Public Service Staff Relations Board which derives its authority from Public Service Staff Relations Act. Although both agencies are concerned with the rights of employees as individuals, the Public Service Staff Relations Board has the additional concern of the relationship of bargaining agents and the employers in collective bargaining. For most employees in the Public Service, the Treasury Board (which derives its authority from the Financial Administration Act) is the employer, working with and through deputy heads on matters relating to personnel management. For other employees, the statutory employer is the agency in which they are employed and these agencies, the "separate employers", also exercise employer status and have responsibilities under the Public Service Staff Relations Act.

From the point of view of employees, and also to a considerable extent from that of the bargaining agents, these statutory divisions of authority and responsibility raise awkward barriers against the logical processes of personnel administration in the Public Service and against the resolution of problems facing individuals and groups of employees. Despite the limitations on the scope of your Committee's inquiry which were imposed by its terms of reference, many witnesses, especially those representing employee interests, urged us to come to grips with any aspect of the total system which required improvement and change.

The problem is perhaps best understood from an historical perspective. From 1918 until 1967, personnel management in the Public Service was based on the Civil Service Act and administered by an independent agency, the Civil Service Commission. In 1967, following a comprehensive study and report by the Preparatory Committee on Collective Bargaining, and detailed consideration by a Special Joint Committee of the Senate and House of Commons, Parliament approved a new statute, the Public Service Staff Relations Act, to accommodate the added dimension of collective bargaining. The Civil Service Act (now the Public Service Employment Act) underwent major amendments. Significant changes were also made in the Financial Administration Act. Responsibilities which had been vested in the Civil Service Commission for fifty years now passed to the Treasury Board, re-cast as the "general manager" of the Public Service and "the employer" in the collective bargaining relationship. The major responsibility under the Public Service Employment Act became that of "staffing", (recruitment, selection, appointments and appeals) and was entrusted to the Public Service Commission. This rearrangement of responsibilities was seen at the time as providing an acceptable accommodation between those concepts and systems which had proved their worth over many decades and the new attitudes towards the regulation of employer-employee relationship which had gradually spread throughout Canada in the post-war period.

In the words of the Report of the Preparatory Committee on Collective Bargaining which was published in July, 1965:

"When the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act was passed in 1948, there was no apparent desire on the part of the Public Service employee organizations to have their relationship with the Government regulated by the legislation. Within a few years, it was being argued by some associations that the Public Service should be brought within the ambit of the Act and by others that a system of collective bargaining and arbitration designed specifically for the Public Service would be preferable. By about 1960, the latter view had become clearly dominant."

The formula of accommodation between the old and the new, which was devised in 1965 by the Preparatory Committee, and which led to the present legislative format, is of fundamental importance to the character and quality of employer-employee relationships in the Public Service. Your Committee has had to consider whether it should resist or respond to the request for a re-evaluation of the relationship between the present Public Service Staff Relations Act and the Public Service Employment Act. In reaching our conclusions in this regard, we considered both the terms of reference given to Mr. Finkelman when he undertook his study and the terms of the orders of reference given to us by the Senate and the House of Commons. Both are included in Appendix B of this report.

Guided by these terms of reference, your Committee has heard the views of interested groups and persons on the Finkelman recommendations. This report constitutes our assessments, conclusions and recommendations on the major submissions made to us.

PUBLIC SERVICE EMPLOYMENT ACT

In his first appearance before your Committee, the Chairman of the Public Service Staff Relations Board, Mr. Finkelman, said:

"Although a number of the bargaining agents urged that I recommend a substantial expansion of their role in regulating appointments to and within the Public Service, I decided that, whatever the merits of such changes, I had no mandate to undertake policy initiatives that would alter, in any substantial manner, the traditional responsibility of the Public Service Commission for regulation of the merit principle. If in the course of time such an alteration is to be made, the preparation for such a major shift in public policy will need to be much broader based than my investigation."

Your Committee heard representations from bargaining agents for expansion of the scope of collective bargaining into areas now administered by the Public Service Commission. On December 4, 1974, Mr. Carson, Chairman of the Public Service Commission, urged the Special Joint Committee to review the entire Public Service Employment Act rather than only those sections relating to Mr. Finkelman's recommendations. Over the course of the Committee hearings the mood of the bargaining agents, realizing the scope and implications of their demands, changed. The Public Service Alliance of Canada at its appearance before the Special Joint Committee requested the establishment by the Government of a committee to study the Public Service Employment Act and make recommendations within two years.

In May of 1975, the Public Service Commission appeared again before the Committee and supported the altered Alliance view. The Public Service Commission had modified its approach and, in its second submission to the Special Joint Committee, recommended that:

(a) a review of the Public Service Employment Act and the role of the Commission be undertaken by a special task force; and

(b) immediate amendments to the Public Service Employment Act should be limited in the meantime to necessary technical adjustments.

Your Committee concluded that the comprehensive re-evaluation of personnel management in the Public Service of Canada implicit in a review of the Public Service Employment Act was beyond our scope and resources.

Because of these representations and of the consensus reached as to the need for a comprehensive study of the issues and the alternatives, which must be thoroughly assessed before Parliament can deal with the Public Service Employment Act, your Committee recommends:

1. That a special task force be established to review the Public Service Employment Act and the role of the Commission in personnel management and employer-employee relations in the Public Service; and

2. That the review include an examination of the role assigned the Public Service Commission and its relationship to the Treasury Board Secretariat and the Public Service Staff Relations Board.

3. That the review entail a study of the relationship of the Public Service Commission and the departments and agencies; and consider the development of an audit system for performance accountability with respect to matters delegated to departments and agencies under the Public Service Employment Act.

We are satisfied that Parliament, at the earliest opportunity, should correct certain problems which the Public Service Commission indicated it has encountered in its administration of the Public Service Employment Act, as it now reads.

Your Committee therefore recommends:

4. That because two or three years may elapse before the aforementioned review results in legislative changes, certain revisions to the Public Service Employment Act be made immediately to allow the Public Service Commission to operate efficiently under the present statute and that the Public Service Commission, after consultation with the bargaining agents and the employer, develop proposals for such revisions.

5. That Parliament consider the proposed changes to the Public Service Employment Act as soon as possible, bearing in mind their relationship to changes recommended in the Public Service Staff Relations Act.

COLLECTIVE BARGAINING IN THE PUBLIC SERVICE: FACTS AND FIGURES

The Government of Canada is the largest employer in the country. Though not all government employees are public servants, there were in April, 1975, almost 250,000 public servants represented under the Public Service Staff Relations Act by fourteen different bargaining agents in 104 bargaining units.

According to evidence presented to the Committee, between the introduction of collective bargaining in the Public Service in 1967, and November 30, 1975, there have been 449 collective agreements—73.9% (332) by voluntary agreement; 15.1% (68) following arbitration; 8.6% (39) following conciliation; and 2.4% (11) following a legal strike.

Though Parliament has several times enacted back-to-work legislation for disputes falling under the Canada Labour Code, at no time has such action been necessary for the 11 lawful strikes under the Public Service Staff Relations Act. There have been however more than 50 unlawful strikes, since collective bargaining was introduced to the Public Service of Canada in 1967 and more appropriate means appear to be necessary to curtail unlawful activity.

If the record had been different then we might have very well concluded that the assumptions underlying collective bargaining in the Public Service of Canada ought to be changed.

The Public Service Alliance is the largest Public Service union, representing some 165,000 employees. The next largest union is the Canadian Union of Postal Workers which represents 23,000 employees. The Professional Institute of the Public Service has been certified to bargain on behalf of approximately 17,000 employees. Other certified bargaining agents are: the Letter Carriers' Union of Canada, 16,500 employees; the Canadian Postmasters' Association, 8,200 employees; the Association of Postal Officials of Canada, 3,600 employees; Local 2228, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, 2,700 employees; the Federal Government Dockyards Trades and Labour Council, 2,600 employees; the Economists, Sociologists and Statisticians Association, 2,300 employees; the Research Council Employees Association, 2,200 employees; the Canadian Air Traffic Control Association, 2,150 employees; the Council of Graphic Arts Unions of the Public Service of Canada, 1,250 employees; the Canadian Merchant Service Guild, 1,000 employees; the Professional Association of Foreign Service Officers, 1,000 employees; and the Syndicat général du cinéma et de la télévision, 400 employees. Statistical tables reflecting significant developments in the collective bargaining structures and process from 1968 to 1975 are shown in Appendix C.

THE PUBLIC'S INTEREST IN PUBLIC SERVICE BARGAINING

The aim of collective bargaining is to reconcile the interest of employed persons in improving the terms and conditions of their employment with management's interest in obtaining operational efficiency.

In the Public Service, it is important that this reconciliation be effected in such a way as to ensure that services for which taxes are paid be not interrupted. It is the increasing interruption of such services, sometimes even to the degree of imperilling the public interest that now causes serious concern.

Some witnesses before your Committee argued that it is wrong for public services ever to be disrupted and it is wrong, therefore, for the Government to condone disruption by permitting public servants to strike in any circumstances. Others argued that only when they are allowed to engage in free collective bargaining, including resort to strike, can public servants obtain satisfactory conditions of employment.

The right to strike, however, is not an issue confined to the federal public service. Your Committee estimates that there are well in excess of 2,000,000 persons employed in public services in Canada. Of these, 250,000 in the employ of the Federal Government are subject to the Public Service Staff Relations Act. The rest include persons employed by federal Crown Corporations, provincial governments and Crown Corporations, municipalities, school boards and hospital boards. In varying degree and with certain important exceptions, these employees too have the right to strike, as do employees governed by federal and provincial labour laws in the private sector who provide services which may be considered essential by the public. It is therefore to be assumed that a large proportion of the work-force engaged in providing services which affect the public interest in Canada supports the continuation of the right to a withdrawal of services.

Some who believe the right to strike in the Public Service of Canada should be withdrawn tend to disregard the achievements of the parties since 1967. Apart from the recent actions by certain union leaders, the Public Service unions which have been certified as bargaining agents under the Public Service Staff Relations Act deserve, with few exceptions, public appreciation on several counts.

They have overcome the inherent organizational fragmentation and geographical dispersion of their constituents and brought them together into stable and enduring national bargaining units for the purposes of collective bargaining.

They have written viable constitutions to govern their internal affairs which adopt and preserve within their organizations the democratic traditions of this country. Despite the immediate climate of the collective bargaining relationships and the tensions generated by disputes, their leaders have generally operated within the law and have endeavoured to restrain those who counselled otherwise. Public Service unions have brought to the negotiating table a respect for rational arguments, institutions and processes producing an approach to settlements good enough to merit study by many other jurisdictions.

There is a need to recognize and give credit as well to those who have represented the employer, both in achieving the structure of relationship which was recommended in the Report of the Preparatory Committee on Collective Bargaining and in maintaining day-to-day relationships in departments and agencies, where collective agreements are interpreted and administered.

Considering our terms of reference, the immediate requirements for change, the evidence of the interested parties and the record of collective bargaining in the Public Service of Canada, your Committee concludes that there is much merit in the system created by the legislation enacted in 1967. After all the evidence was heard and debated, Parliament added new dimensions to collective bargaining in Canada. In the future, the assumptions underlying collective bargaining may change but your Committee's mandate and direction focused on finding solutions to today's problems. Therefore, our purpose was to strengthen and improve the collective bargaining process in the Public Service of Canada wherever possible.

It is perhaps appropriate that your Committee's study should have been conducted during the course of the longest strike that has occurred since the collective bargaining in the Public Service became law. We have been obliged to consider very carefully whether Parliament in 1967, in its concern that public servants should not be deprived of rights granted to others, went too far. Experience over the past eight years allows us to examine the consequences of granting the right to strike for the Public Service. Your Committee decided to determine where to draw the line between the rights of public servants and the rights of the public: at what point the public, through the Government and then Parliament, should be prepared to intervene in the collective bargaining process; and, if intervention is appropriate, whether it should be by a continuing statutory prohibition or by an ad hoc response to a particular situation.

Your Committee concluded that where the activities of the parties engaged in collective bargaining do not adversely affect the public interest, the collective bargaining process should be free to operate without government intervention. But when the public interest becomes adversely affected, Government and Parliament should be prepared to intervene.

The assumption upon which Parliament granted the right to strike in the Public Service of Canada in 1967 was that the safety and security of the public were assured. The exception to the right to strike for some "designated" employees made it possible for Parliament to grant that right to most public servants since their services were not essential to the safety or security of the public.

The requirement to ensure that services affecting the safety or security of the public be uninterrupted remains unquestioned. None of the bargaining agents appearing before the Committee disagreed with the concept of "designated employees"; that is, that certain persons performing duties relating to the safety or security of the public should be denied the right to strike.

Your Committee therefore concludes:

6. That the general principle of collective bargaining law governing the Public Service of Canada is sound and the rights granted should not be withdrawn merely to overcome inconvenience.

7. That the bargaining agents, subject to the conditions of the statute and the recommendations to follow, continue to be able to choose arbitration or conciliation-strike, as the method of dispute resolution.

8. That there is a need for additional procedural and substantive amendments to the law governing the collective bargaining relationship, and more appropriate remedies for unlawful activity.

With respect to the national economic or social impact of a strike by public servants, or indeed by any other group of employees, your Committee has no doubt that where the welfare of the community as a whole is concerned, the right to strike is not sacred and its suspension is the responsibility of the Government and Parliament or the appropriate Legislature.

The continued protection of the national economic or social interest can be provided by statute at the cost of a total denial of some rights now available to persons providing services to the public; or it can be protected by granting a statutory right to strike and imposing on Government and Parliament the responsibility of determining when a strike has so affected the public interest that the right must be suspended.

Your Committee recognizes that the public interest can be adequately protected by Government and Parliament determining when and where the public interest is adversely affected. When Parliament is dissolved, the Governor-in-Council should be similarly empowered.

Your Committee therefore recommends:

9. That when Parliament is dissolved, the Governor-in-Council be empowered to suspend the right to strike, whenever in its opinion a strike is adverse to the public interest.

In order to provide additional mechanisms to facilitate settlements, the Committee examined the techniques available under the Canada Labour Code and endorses the provision enabling the establishment of Inquiry Commissions. Your Committee therefore recommends:

10. That the President of the Privy Council, upon the recommendation of the Public Service Staff Relations Board, acting on his own initiative or upon application, may refer a dispute or difference between employer and employee that exists or is apprehended to exist to an Inquiry Commission for investigation and report to the President of the Privy Council.

DESIGNATED EMPLOYEES

Both Mr. Finkelman, in his report, and the Treasury Board, in its representations to the Committee, proposed that the definition of designated services should be extended. In some of the representations from organizations outside the public service, suggestions were made which would have broadened the definition to include "essential services". Your Committee feels that the phrase "essential services" is too difficult to define and would lead to the inclusion of most public servants. In other words the right to strike would be granted to public servants only to be denied by another process. In balance, we conclude that some extension of designated services beyond safety or security is necessary, to ensure that "health" be included, and to add a new dimension that of protection of public property.

Your Committee does not believe that it is the desire or in the interest of any employee or bargaining agent to indirectly damage or destroy public property, to jeopardize national treasures, or to expose to risk the outcome of important experiments through the withdrawal of services. The results of such destruction would in some circumstances interfere with a return to work despite a settlement. We accept the assurances of the representatives of the bargaining agents that appeared before us that special arrangements can and will always be made to guarantee protection. We do not doubt the good faith of those making these representations but we believe that the public should have statutory assurance in these areas and that such minimum protection no longer be a subject of bargaining. Your Committee therefore recommends that the law be revised to provide for the designation of employees:

11. To protect members of the public against an imminent threat to their health, where the withdrawal of services would pose such a threat.

12. To ensure the continuation of important experiments particularly long-term experiments or research where the withdrawal of services would place them in jeopardy.

13. To maintain the necessary physical environment for the security of national treasures.

14. To ensure that temperature of all public buildings does not fall below 50 Celsius. (The maintenance of temperature at 50 Celsius will have no detrimental effect on the employees' strike nor will it provide any assistance to the employer to continue operations.)

Though the bargaining agents all agreed that the concept of designation was valid there was criticism of the number of people designated, the identification of the persons designated and the designation process itself. It was argued that the compilation of the list of designated employees should be left to the parties to negotiate. This view assumes that the prime concern of the parties is to protect the public interest. Experience does not necessarily support this view. Instead, it shows that the public interest tends to become secondary to the primary subject of bargaining terms and conditions of employment. Eight years of experience has shown that the designation process has become integrally related to the negotiation process with all the devices of strategy, advantage, timing, play and counter-play. In some circumstances the employer has inflated its list on the assumption that in subsequent bargaining some designations would be lost. On the other hand, the record also reveals that too often the initial response of bargaining agents to the employer's proposed list of designated employees was to object to every position on the list. In other circumstances, for strategic reasons, bargaining agents have agreed to proposed designations that would otherwise have been unwarranted.

Your Committee deplores these techniques. These manoeuvres have produced a lack of confidence on the part of employees in the integrity of the process. We therefore conclude that the process by which employees are designated under the Act is unsatisfactory.

Under the present legislation, the designation process becomes operative only where the bargaining unit has chosen the conciliation - strike route as the dispute resolution mechanism and the designation has application and effect only during the period in which a legal strike occurs in that cycle of bargaining. Your Committee believes that employees should be designated because they perform duties protecting the public interest and not because of the dispute resolution process chosen; and further that if the duties of a position are designated, the incumbent should be required to perform those duties until a case can be made that justifies the removal of the "designation" status.

Later in this report, the penalties recommended for unlawful activities are set out and distinctions are drawn between designated and non-designated employees. Designated employees or those accessory to preventing designated employees from performing their services should be subject to the appropriate penalties whenever they unlawfully withdraw their services.

After eight years of experience with the designation process, one might reasonably expect the system to have matured and stabilized. On the contrary, we find that there is neither stability nor continuity in the existing processes of designation. In order to improve the designation process and to ensure that the public interest is protected under the collective bargaining process your Committee recommends:

15. That the Public Service Staff Relations Act be amended to require the designation of all employees whose functions involve the provision of services which in accordance with this Act are to be provided without interruption.

16. That the bargaining agents and the employers continue to be required to determine, by agreement, the employees in the bargaining units who are to be designated.

17. That the Public Service Staff Relations Board continue to be empowered to make determinations regarding the appropriateness of a "designation" where the parties cannot reach agreement.

18. That, where necessary, the techniques of examination, mediation and reference to established precedent be employed to resolve disagreements in connection with the determination of designated employees and to assist in what will be initially an extensive task.

19. That permanent lists of designated employees for each bargaining unit be filed with the Public Service Staff Relations Board.

20. That the Public Service Staff Relations Board establish appropriate processes for ensuring that the lists of positions and incumbents are kept up to date and for dealing with proposed amendments in the lists submitted to it by the employer or the bargaining agents concerned.

21. That the incumbents of the designated positions be informed by the Public Service Staff Relations Board of their obligation under the Act with special reference to the penalties for unlawful activity.

22. That the processes referred to in Recommendation 20 distinguish among proposals which involve a change in incumbent, a new position comparable to a position previously designated, and a position in respect of which the employer cannot rely on a precedent.

PROSECUTION OF OFFENCES UNDER THE ACT

During the course of the hearings and deliberations of this Committee the largest outbreak of unlawful strike activity in the eight-year history of the legislation took place. Between October 1974 and September 1975, the Treasury Board sought consent from the Public Service Staff Relations Board, as required by the provisions of Section 106 of the Act, to prosecute some 2,300 employees in 6 bargaining units for unlawful strike activity before the courts. Approximately 940 of these were alleged to be designated employees. Insofar as we can ascertain, in most cases where consent has been granted, the employer has initiated prosecutions in the courts. The judicial process has proven to be cumbersome and expensive, and the court decisions lacked uniformity.

The present two-stage process with its substantial costs, delays, fragmented administration, absence of precedents, and inconsistent penalties has led all parties to agree that the present system for dealing with unlawful activity is not working well and is inappropriate.

At first it was suggested that all prosecutions should be taken directly to the courts, thereby increasing the number of forums and simultaneous hearings. Arguments opposing this suggestion pointed to: judges unfamiliar with the public service and the relevant statutes, lawyers with insufficient time to prepare for such a mass of separate actions, an inability to group respondents or to make procedural arrangements on a national basis, and the lack of precedent or deterrent value.

In the context of this analysis, Mr. Finkelman suggested that allegations of unlawful activities by designated employees be heard by the Board and that those of non-designated employees be heard by the courts after consent is obtained.

This led to a proposal carefully considered but not accepted by the Committee which suggested that in cases of unlawful activities by designated employees, the employer should have three alternatives:

(a) To impose discipline, subject to the review by the Board of the appropriateness of the discipline, or its extent, through the grievance procedure.

(b) To seek remedial action by application to the Board, the Board to be empowered to impose a monetary penalty or to direct that disciplinary action be taken against the employee.

(c) To seek consent to prosecute an employee in the courts, the Board to be empowered to substitute for consent, on its own initiative or on request of an employee, a penalty or a direction that disciplinary action be taken in accordance with option (b).

Under this proposal, the employer would be entitled to resort to only one of these alternatives with respect to an employee involved in any one offence. On its face, this model appears to allow the employer complete freedom in the selection of the alternative, in that, theoretically all offences could still give rise to consent to prosecute proceedings and determination by the courts.

The existing consent to prosecute proceeding is one of the main characteristics of the present process and has been found to be cumbersome.

Your Committee believes that what is required is a procedure that reduces reliance on "consent proceedings" and on the courts. To achieve this objective, your Committee concludes that the statute should identify three procedural options for dealing with unlawful activity:

(i) Disciplinary action by the employer, reviewable through the grievance process and adjudication.

(ii) Prosecution of an offence before the Public Service Staff Relations Board, and disposition of the case by the Board.

(iii) Prosecution of an offence in the courts and disposition of the case by the courts.

Your Committee is convinced that minor infractions of the statute should be dealt with directly by the employer, that is, utilization of the traditional authority of the employer to deal with employee misconduct. If the employer's imposition of penalties is fair, the basic objective of deterring future unlawful activity will be served. In the view of your Committee, in other cases of unlawful activity, the Public Service Staff Relations Board should be provided with the necessary authority to deal with any infraction of the legislation. Resort to the courts should be limited to those cases considered to be serious offences.

With respect to those classes of action which we believe should continue to be subject to prosecution in the courts, the question arises as to whether prosecution should be dependent upon the consent of the Public Service Staff Relations Board. In this matter, we were persuaded by evidence presented to us by the Board's Chairman, Mr. Finkelman, who in addition to his experience in the administration of his section of the Public Service Staff Relations Act, was both architect and administrator of similar provisions of the Ontario Labour Relations Act. In a submission made to us on June 5, 1975, Mr. Finkelman reflected on his reluctance to recommend removal of the "consent to prosecute provisions" of the Act.

"One of the reasons for my hesitation is that such an approach would represent a sharp departure from a pattern that prevails in the legislation applicable to the private sector in most jurisdictions in Canada. Even if we were to conclude that such a requirement had outlived its usefulness in industrial relations generally, I believe the elimination of the requirement insofar as it relates to employees in the federal Public Service alone would open the door to a charge that such employees were being discriminated against, particularly so since in the public sector, the employer is both employer and government."

To achieve the general aim of limiting the involvement of the courts and placing greater emphasis for this responsibility on the parties concerned and on the Public Service Staff Relations Board, your Committee recommends:

23. That three procedural remedies be available for dealing with unlawful actions:

- (i) Disciplinary action by the employer, reviewable through the grievance process and adjudication.
- (ii) Prosecution of an offence before the Public Service Staff Relations Board, and disposition of the case by the Public Service Staff Relations Board.
- (iii) Prosecution of an offence in the courts after obtaining consent to prosecute from the Public Service Staff Relations Board and disposition of the case by the courts.

24. That the statute provide a schedule of offences and penalties applicable to the class of offence.

MAXIMUM PENALTIES FOR UNLAWFUL ACTIVITY

Your Committee has identified the following classes of actions which, under the present Act, are unlawful. These are:

- (a) Declaration, authorization or incitement of unlawful strike.

- (b) Discrimination against employees or employee organizations prohibited under the Act.

- (c) Participation of employees in an unlawful strike.

- (d) Intimidation of employees

- (e) Other prohibited acts by unions, employers or representatives thereof.

Having identified the nature of the offences your Committee constructed a schedule of penalties suitable to the infraction. Your Committee further decided that if the offence involves designated employees, it should in whatever class it falls, be regarded as more serious and should therefore attract more severe penalties than similar offences which do not involve designated employees.

Our recommendations with respect to the classes of offences which should be identified in the Act, the procedural options which should be available to the injured party in prosecuting an alleged offence, and the maximum penalties which the act should prescribe for each offence, are set out below. In determining the scale of the maximum penalty which should apply, your Committee reviewed and utilized those provided in Section 190 of Part V of the Canada Labour Code (which of course does not contain references to designated employees). With respect to offences which did not involve designated employees, our recommendations adhere generally to those established by the Code. However, we have recommended that the maximum penalties, where the infractions involve designated employees or interfere with the performance of duties by designated employees, be at least double those imposed against non-designated employees.

So that unlawful activity may be dealt with more effectively, your Committee recommends:

25. That unlawful offences under the Act be dealt with by identifying the party, the nature of the illegal activity, the available option and the forum before which the hearing would take place, and also the maximum penalties for each unlawful activity. (See Schedule 1)

Your Committee heard references on the practices which secure the termination of unlawful activity in exchange for a waiver of prosecution or disciplinary action. However, your Committee deplores such agreements where services affecting the safety or security of the public have been interrupted by an unlawful strike or lockout and therefore recommends:

26. That where "designated employees" have interrupted or impaired services by an unlawful strike or there has been an unlawful lockout and no action has been initiated by the employer or bargaining agent against the contravening parties, then a Special Commissioner whose office shall be independent should be empowered to initiate legal proceedings.

27. That the Special Commissioner's authority to initiate proceedings be limited to the period beginning 15 days after the date of the alleged contravention, and terminating 45 days later.

28. That the Special Commissioner should not be able to initiate any action against any person if a proceeding in respect to that offence has already been initiated.

In its consideration of the deterrent effect of fines on unlawful activity, your Committee recognized the difficulty associated with the concept of a fine which is imposed on the Government as employer. To constitute a deterrent, a fine must have the effect of penalizing the offender. In the case of the Government as employer, the financial impact of a penalty would be insignificant. Moreover the Government, in its role as custodian of the Consolidated Revenue Fund, simply removes the money from one pocket and puts it into another. The solution to this problem, in the opinion of your Committee, is to convert the nominal economic penalty into a real political penalty by applying the technique now provided in the Act (Section 21) for the enforcement of an order of the Public Service Staff Relations Board, that is by tabling a report of the Public Service Staff Relations Board in Parliament.

Your Committee also concludes that in cases of unlawful activity it would be useful to identify in the reference, in the case of the employer, where appropriate, the offending department or agency; and in the case of the union, where appropriate, the offending local.

Your Committee therefore recommends:

29. That fines levied by the Public Service Staff Relations Board on employees, or officials of the employer, or on a bargaining agent, be recoverable if necessary by an order of the court.

30. That where the employer is in contravention, the Public Service Staff Relations Board should be required to provide the Minister through whom it reports to Parliament, with a description of the offence, and the Minister should be required to table the Public Service Staff Relations Board's report in Parliament within a prescribed period.

31. That where the action has been taken in the case of the employer by a department or agency, or in the case of a bargaining agent by a component, division or local of the bargaining agent, the department, agency, component, division or local should be identified.

Your Committee also concludes that the additional remedy of issuing cease and desist orders be attached to the declaration of unlawful strike presently provided by statute at Section 103 of the Public Service Staff Relations Act. The Public Service Staff Relations Board now has the authority, upon application, to find that certain activities constitute an unlawful strike. This procedure should be expanded, in accordance with Mr. Finkelman's recommendation, to include unlawful lockout. Because there is no remedy attached to the present procedure which is merely declaratory, your Committee recommends:

32. That the Public Service Staff Relations Board, upon application, and when it finds that there is an unlawful strike or lockout, be empowered to issue a cease and desist order in all cases of violation.

33. That such order be filed in court and entered in the same manner as a judgment and be enforceable as such.

CLASSIFICATION

Under the present statute, classification standards are established unilaterally by the employer, although the employer consults with the interested bargaining agent before implementation and before undertaking changes. Evidence presented to your Committee by the Treasury Board and the bargaining agents was divergent in relation to the effectiveness of the consultative process. In his original recommendations, Mr. Finkelman concluded that "it is not feasible to make classification bargainable at this time". Instead he recommended a formalized consultation process and mediation as a first step to eventual negotiation. However, after reviewing the evidence presented to your Committee, which indicated that the unions were prepared to negotiate classification standards outside the normal process of collective bargaining, Mr. Finkelman, in subsequent representations to your Committee, proposed that classification should be bargainable as follows:

(a) in the context of a separate bargaining cycle corresponding to the proposed consultation cycle: and as well

(b) in an ordinary round of negotiations where proposals for a revision in the relevant classification standard were included in the demands of the bargaining agent.

Conciliation boards would be prohibited from dealing with references relating to the revision of a classification standard. However, all classification disputes would be referable to arbitration, whether they arose in the context of ordinary bargaining or "separate cycle" bargaining. Resort to strike or lockout to resolve classification disputes would be prohibited. Mr. Finkelman also endorses proposals made by the Public Service Alliance for the arbitration of disputes arising out of the negotiation of a new or revised classification standard on a "sequential" basis. This can be done by identifying the chronological order of the development or redevelopment of a standard, identifying the sequence of decision points which occur in this process, and providing for reference to arbitration of disputes arising at any of the decision points.

Though he accepted the view of the bargaining agents that the legislation should be amended to provide for bargaining on classification standards "at this time", Mr. Finkelman was insistent that a break-in period of "systematic consultation" with recourse to mediation should be imposed by law. The parties, including the Public Service Staff Relations Board, required this time to accustom themselves to the process before eventually engaging in the negotiation and arbitration of classification standards.

During the course of our examination of the extension of the scope of bargaining to include classification standards, and our evaluation of Mr. Finkelman's recommendations and of the representations made to us on this subject by the several bargaining agents and the Treasury Board, your Committee participated in the evolution of a "model" which drew its inspiration from many sources. In our view, an approach to the problem has been devised which, to some extent may have reduced the employer's apprehension on the one hand and on the other attracted widespread support from bargaining agents, who in their initial propositions had not come to grips fully with the complexity of the undertaking.

Your Committee is of the opinion that the law should provide for some extension of the scope of bargaining so as to include classification standards, and recommends as follows:

34. That, having regard to the established jurisdiction of bargaining agents in the Public Service, bargaining classification standards be interpreted to mean the determination of the relative worth of jobs within an occupational group.

35. That provision be made in the law for the bargaining of classification standards following the three-year period after promulgation.

36. That collective agreements incorporating classification standards be treated as "special agreements having their own duration".

37. That in accordance with regulations made by the Public Service Staff Relations Board, disputes arising in negotiations and involving the development or redevelopment of a classification standard be subject to reference to and arbitration by the Board.

38. That the provisions of the Act relating to the appointment of conciliation boards or conciliators not apply in cases of disputes arising out of the negotiations of classification standards, but that the Board be empowered to appoint a mediator.

39. That resort to strike or lockout to resolve classification disputes be prohibited.

40. That arbitration of the pay plan attached to a classification standard be dealt with by the Public Service Staff Relations Board only with the consent of both parties.

The bargaining agents all supported the view that adjudication should be broadened to include classification grievances. This proposal was concurred in by representatives of Treasury Board. Your Committee therefore recommends:

41. That classification grievances which are not resolved in the grievance process should be referable to adjudication.

TECHNOLOGICAL CHANGE AND LONG-TERM LAYOFF

Modernization, technological change and economic adjustment to the market, or indeed any significant modification in the way in which goods are produced and distributed or services provided may seriously affect the terms and conditions of employment and the security of employees. The computer revolution and advances in transportation technology, agriculture or health are all obvious examples. Currently in the Public Service the automation of mail sorting is the largest and most evident example of "technological change" which may have a serious impact on the employees involved.

In April 1974, the Post Office dispute on technological change erupted into an unlawful strike which was resolved by an informal agreement. Your Committee heard several briefs from bargaining agents, especially from the postal unions, demanding that the impact of technological change on terms and conditions of employment be made negotiable.

Historically, employers have had the right to terminate an individual's employment temporarily or permanently, or to employ him in a less attractive position. The Report of the Task Force on Labour Relations (1968) whose studies and report preceded the revision of the federal labour law in 1971, used the term "industrial conversion" to emphasize the way in which any modification or modernization of industry can threaten the security of employees. In its report, the Task Force wrote:

"The term industrial conversion embraces all major changes that may have a permanent disruptive effect on the employment relationship. It covers far more than technological change or automation, since these are only one set of forces at work leading to such disruption . . .

Industrial conversion has a vital part to play in a dynamic growing economy. Change is essential to society and to individual enterprises. To society, change is the key to the increased productivity necessary to meet latent public needs and unsatisfied desires . . .

But industrial conversion is not without cost to those caught in its path. There is no evidence to suggest that change in general produces a net reduction in employment; but it is the cause of worker displacement and on-the-job disruption. The costs for those adversely affected can be great, and to them it is of little comfort that society as a whole, their employer, and even their fellow workers may benefit from the change. They want to know that is going to be done to protect them."

When the Federal Labour Code was modified in 1971, the statute imposed an obligation on employers to give notice and to re-negotiate "terms and conditions, or security of employment" when a significant number of employees would be affected by the "technological change".

In his Supplementary Observations and Recommendations, Mr. Finkelman wrote:

"In a public service where units are service-wide and very large, the question arises what would be a significant number of employees in any particular circumstances? Under the Code, the power to make regulations specifying the number of employees or the method of determining the number of employees to be deemed to be "significant" for the purposes of the technological provisions of the Code is vested in the Governor in Council on the recommendation of the Canada Labour Relations Board. In short, the legislation recognizes that there is a "political" element involved. If the same formula were applicable in the public sector, should the political consideration be left to the Governor in Council, in effect the employer, or should it be vested exclusively in the reconstituted Public Service Staff Relations Board?"

With respect to the provisions of the Labour Code which relate to the right of employees to strike where their interests are threatened by technological change, Mr. Finkelman wrote:

"...the Code provisions contemplate that a collective agreement can be reopened during its lifetime and the union can resort to a strike if it cannot reach satisfactory agreement through negotiation with the employer. Whatever the merits or otherwise of the provisions of the Code in respect of the private sector, they would, if applied to the public sector, expand the opportunity for legal strike action and thereby increase the threat of deprivation of public services."

During the period in which representations were being made to your Committee on this subject by Mr. Finkelman, there was a dispute over technological change between the Treasury Board Secretariat and the Canadian Union of Postal Workers. The parties eventually agreed that any dispute arising out of the impact of technological change on employees in the bargaining unit during the term of the collective agreement would be dealt with by reference to a Special Arbitration Tribunal established by the Chairman of the Public Service Staff Relations Board. The award of the tribunal would be final and binding on the parties. The capacity of the employer to implement change is inhibited only by the prescribed period of notice. In effect, events overtook both the existing legislation and the work of your Committee.

Your Committee concluded that unless there is a capacity to establish duration dates that make sense in relation to the issues negotiated, the agreements or awards might well prove exercises in futility because they might lapse before their purposes were achieved. For example, we were advised that the conversion of manned lighthouses to automated lights is taking five years. While it may be desirable for the law to stipulate that these special agreements should be read and interpreted in the context of the operative collective agreement, except where their provisions conflict with or supersede a provision of the ordinary collective agreement, the parties or the arbitrator must have the capacity to establish an appropriate duration. However, we would also suggest that, if the law is to provide for "special agreements" of long duration in circumstances where that appears appropriate, it would probably need to provide as well for a "re-opener" mechanism, on application of one of the parties to the Board, to order renegotiation after a prescribed period of time where circumstances so warrant.

Another problem faced by your Committee involved the question of whether or not the employer should be relieved of the responsibility to give notice if, in the employer's judgment, the provisions of the collective agreement already provide appropriate protection. We conclude that the answer is "No". Notice should be provided in all cases of technological change, defined as we recommend. If adequate notice has been provided prior to or during negotiations, or if the employer asserts and the union agrees that no new or different forms of protection are needed to protect the particular situation, the matter could be disposed of without negotiation. However, in the absence of initial agreement on the matter, negotiations should take place and in the course of time would be followed by a special agreement or by impasse and arbitration. In our judgment, such an approach will provide a workable procedural link between protections provided in the ordinary collective agreement and additional or special protections which may be necessary to deal with a particular area of change.

With respect to the present involvement of the Public Service Commission in the area of technological change, and its existing jurisdiction over lay-off, recall and reassignment, the Finkelman proposals would transfer authority for lay-off from the Commission to the Treasury Board and permit lay-off to be bargained and arbitrated. However, recall (i.e. the placement of lay-offs in vacant positions) would be left to the Commission, subject to whatever preferences might be established by statute. The relationship between the Public Service Employment Act and the Public Service Staff Relations Act, in this matter, will form part of the review contemplated in Recommendations 1, 2 and 3.

In relation to long-term lay-off, the Finkelman recommendations are consistent with and constitute an inherent dimension of our recommendations. These recommendations are not applicable to temporary "off-duty" status where there is no loss of job security or need for reappointment. Your Committee supports the concept recognized by all parties in the various collective agreements of "entitlement to pay for services rendered".

Your Committee recommends:

42. That changes in technology, operations, organization or any other dimension of the structure or character of the employer's resources to provide service to the public be recognized as a prerogative of the employer.

43. That the employer be obliged to bargain the impact of adverse changes on employees which may occur as a consequence of the employer's actions referred to in Recommendation 42 above, including the advance notice of such changes and the details to accompany the notice.

44. That the Public Service Staff Relations Board have the authority and responsibility to provide for a mediator to assist the parties where there are differences.

45. That the Public Service Staff Relations Board be empowered to arbitrate or to establish an arbitration tribunal to arbitrate unresolved disputes arising out of negotiations undertaken to deal with technological change.

46. That resort to strike or lockout to resolve technological change disputes be prohibited.

47. That the statute prohibit the employer from laying off an employee during the period of notice recommended in Recommendation 43 above, and that the parties be empowered to negotiate, and the arbitrator to establish where relevant, the compensation to be paid to employees whose job security will be or has been adversely affected by the changes.

48. That any agreement reached or arbitration award made as a result of negotiations involving technological change be treated under the law as a "special agreement" (or award) superseding the provisions and term of the ordinary collective agreement entered into by the parties and operative for such period as may be prescribed in the special agreement or award.

THE ROLE OF PAY RESEARCH IN COLLECTIVE BARGAINING IN THE PUBLIC SERVICE

The desirability of the compilation and availability of precise, independent data on compensation and other conditions of employment outside the Public Service which can be used at the negotiation table is accepted by all. Nevertheless it remains necessary to distinguish between the general concept and any specific application of this concept in the context of negotiations and arbitration. Most witnesses acknowledged the good work of the Pay Research Bureau, but a number of important questions were raised:

(a) Should the Pay Research Bureau be detached from the Public Service Staff Relations Board?

(b) Can the existing reports of the Bureau be made available to bargaining agents in other public service jurisdictions, and the private sector as they are now generally available to employers in these jurisdictions?

(c) Should the Bureau expand its survey activities into occupational areas not required by the federal Public Service?

(d) Should the Pay Research Bureau or other agency undertake research in the criteria enunciated under Section 68 of the PSSRA?

Neither the Director of the Pay Research Bureau nor Mr. Finkelman favoured detaching the Bureau from the Public Service Staff Relations Board at this time. Both anticipated a changing and expanding (more "national") role for the Bureau but stressed the need for time during which the role would evolve and also time for the interested parties, both within and outside the Public Service, to work out the necessary details. Evidence given by the Director of the Bureau suggests that most of the participating employers would not object to the release of Pay Research Bureau reports to bargaining agents in the public sector. A letter received by your Committee from the Canadian Manufacturers' Association indicated the Association's willingness to support wider distribution of Pay Research Bureau reports in the public sector.

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association, the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and the Toronto Board of Trade, the Canadian Labour Congress and the Canadian Union of Public Employees all supported the Bureau's present surveys and reports, the idea of expanding the Bureau's area of research and wider distribution of its reports to all areas of collective bargaining where disputes are resolved by arbitration, (essentially the public sector).

Representations were made urging action which would enshrine the principle of "fair comparison" and which would place a statutory obligation on the employer, and on the Public Service Staff Relations Board in its role as arbitrator, to establish terms and conditions of employment comparable to those paid in Canada by "good employers". Some witnesses saw this kind of statutory commitment as a guarantee which would be granted to Public Service employees in exchange for withdrawal of the right to strike.

The principle of fair comparison with good employers in the private sector would provide public servants with total incomes, benefits and working conditions equivalent to those provided by jointly selected good employers.

In its examination of this principle your Committee noted that if there is merit in the principle, it is in the potential effect on reducing the power struggle inherent in the adversary process. Your Committee rejected the notion of using this principle as the basis of a model of compulsory arbitration and the removal of the right to strike.

After lengthy consideration, your Committee observed that the principle of fair comparison shifts the power struggle from specific wage issues to disputed over the "good employers" to be jointly selected. The unions' interest in selection would be toward the "best employer", while the Government's position would be toward the average employer. The Government, as employer, it is argued, would base its posture on the idea that anything more would be both inflationary and unfair to the Canadian taxpayer. It was also noted that the Government, as employer, believes that its present pay policy results in equitable pay scales, benefits and job security. The employer's substantiation of this is its ability to attract and retain the employees it requires. These factors as well as productivity, profitability and regional disparities would need to be recognized in any definition of good employer.

Your Committee concludes that although opposing positions are inherent in the fair comparison model, such a model may be useful in contributing to a more cooperative mood between the parties based on fair treatment and communication. Albeit that a change in collective bargaining style cannot be legislated, your Committee concludes that mechanisms such as communication and pay research techniques which assist in the resolution of disputes should be improved and enhanced.

Development of a climate of trust and confidence requires effort, time, information, and a willingness to communicate. We applaud the efforts which have been made in the Public Service to establish and facilitate the work of Labour Management Committees and we recommend that more resources be committed by both parties to extend the coverage of these committees and to make them more effective. We support the continuing work of the National Joint Council and its impressive record of accomplishment in dealing with service-wide issues. We are encouraged by the work of the Advisory Committee on Pay Research, but were discouraged to learn that some of the bargaining agents in the Public Service system have refused to participate in the Advisory Committee and by so doing have neither contributed to nor profited from the Bureau's research. Evidence given to your Committee by the Director-General of the Bureau indicates that the Advisory Committee, composed of representatives of the employer and bargaining agents, provides a satisfactory structure for determining the Bureau's program and balancing program priorities. Technical problems arising in connection with surveys which relate to particular negotiations are dealt with in sub-committees whose membership is determined by the particular survey activity under consideration. We urge the involvement of all of the parties to collective bargaining in planning the Bureau's research program and utilizing data procured in its surveys.

The Pay Research Bureau, including the Bureau's Advisory Committee which assists it in planning its programs and reporting priorities, is a very important part of the communication system established by the employer and bargaining agents in the Public Service and can play a most important role in reducing the areas of difference. We support the strengthening of the Advisory Committee and greater utilization of it by the parties.

These positive attributes of employer-employee relations in the Public Service, which reduce rather than increase tensions, have not been emphasized as much as they should have been. We urge the Public Service Staff Relations Board to use its influence and its prestige both to publicize what has been accomplished and to encourage and develop better systems of communication amongst the parties with a view to blunting the sharper edges of the adversary relationship wherever possible.

If this approach were to be taken, we believe some of the posturing which has characterized both initial demands and counter-offers — posturing which tends to mislead both employees and the public — might be reduced and bargaining in good faith facilitated. If more attention were paid and more acceptance given to the data of the Pay Research Bureau, similar improvements could be made. Accordingly, we recommend

49. That the purpose of the Pay Research Bureau continue to be that of supporting the collective bargaining process, to assist in the resolution of employer-employee disputes in the Public Service of Canada, and where appropriate to provide data to assist the collective bargaining process generally in the public sector.

50. That the independent character of the Pay Research Bureau which has always been operationally independent of the government, the employer and the bargaining agents in the Public Service of Canada, continue to be maintained under the administrative control of the Public Service Staff Relations Board.

51. That the Advisory Committee on Pay Research established to assist the Pay Research Bureau in the determination of program priorities and methods continue in this role and that the Board encourage the involvement of all Public Service bargaining agents and all Public Service employers in the work of the Committee with a view to widening the support which the Bureau provides to the collective bargaining process.

52. That the Pay Research Bureau's activities, methodology and information receive greater publicity so that its value and importance may receive wider recognition from employees in the Public Service of Canada as well as from the general public, thereby influencing the collective bargaining process and assisting in the resolution of employer-employee disputes.

53. That wherever possible and without detracting from its primary purpose, the Pay Research Bureau be encouraged to make available its reports for public distribution.

54. That the Pay Research Bureau be empowered to co-operate with similar agencies in other jurisdictions in Canada towards the most efficient and effective gathering, presentation and distribution of employment data. (This recommendation recognizes the necessity of close collaboration with other jurisdictions to ensure that mutual needs are met, methodologies are aligned and that the cost of expanded activities and/or additional resources are recoverable or payable. The Committee is hopeful that such expanded activity could take place over time if in fact this is what governments, employers and bargaining agents desire).

55. That, in order to achieve the aim of the above recommendations, the Public Service Staff Relations Act provide for a Pay Research Bureau, subject to the direction and regulation of the Public Service Staff Relations Board, to collect, analyze, present and make available data relating to terms and conditions of employment and related matters in public and private employment.

56. That, recognizing the complexity of the issues faced by the Public Service Staff Relations Board in the discharge of its responsibilities including the rendering of arbitration awards within the terms of reference established by Section 68 of the Public Service Staff Relations Act, the Public Service Staff Relations Board be encouraged to undertake to improve the arbitration process.

MANAGERIAL AND CONFIDENTIAL EXCLUSIONS

This is an issue upon which there was division between the representatives of the employer and of the employee associations. Your Committee heard two main opposing arguments:

(a) That many exclusions were unnecessary and designed to reduce the strength of bargaining agents; and

(b) That the employer's capacity to manage the service efficiently was seriously compromised by the restricted size of its "management team".

Your Committee believes that if collective bargaining is to work it is essential that each side in the relationship have proper representation, and that the law and its administrators must ensure that individuals are not caught in circumstances which generate significant conflicts of interest.

Your Committee concludes that persons exercising effective control over employees, especially in relation to other persons who are members of a bargaining unit, should be properly identified as management and should be excluded from bargaining units and from membership in unions which represent employees as bargaining agents.

Your Committee, to give expression to its conclusions with respect to the central issue of where, in the widely varied operational environments of the Public Service, the line between "employee" and "management" should be drawn, recommends:

57. That the paragraph of the Act which defines "person employed in a managerial or confidential capacity" be amended to read as follows:

"persons employed in a managerial or confidential capacity" means any person who

(a) Is employed in a position confidential to the Governor General, a Minister of the Crown, a judge of the Supreme or Federal Court of Canada, the deputy head of a department or the chief executive officer of any other portion of the Public Service;

(b) Is employed as a legal officer in the Department of Justice;

(c) Is employed as an officer or employee on the payroll of the Treasury Board;

(d) Is directly involved on behalf of the Public Service Commission in a formal process of

(i) Appointments

(ii) Consultation, or

(iii) Redress

prescribed by or under the Public Service Employment Act;

(e) Effectively participates in the determination of government policies or programs, or participates in the approval of plans of organization;

(f) exercises effective control over employees;

(g) (i) Is directly involved on behalf of the employer in the process of collective bargaining or consultation prescribed by this Act or exercises appointing authority on behalf of the employer; or

(ii) Is primarily engaged in the administration of personnel policies or programs other than a person whose duties are of a routine or clerical nature;

(h) Is a person to whom the persons identified in sub-paragraphs (c), (d), (e), (f) or (g) are directly accountable in respect of the duties described in such sub-paragraphs; or

(i) Is engaged in confidential duties under the exclusive direction and control of a person or persons identified in sub-paragraphs (b), (c), (d), (e), (f), (g) or (h), other than a person in a support capacity whose confidential duties relate solely to the processing of grievances at the first level in the grievance procedure established under this Act, and includes any other person who, in the opinion of the Board, should not be included in a bargaining unit by reason of a conflict between his duties and responsibilities to the employer and any interest he might have as a member of a bargaining unit.

INCOMPETENCE AND INCAPACITY AND DISCIPLINARY ACTION

Evidence submitted to your Committee reflected the difficulty in drawing the line between behaviour requiring disciplinary action and involuntary infractions which may be traced to incompetence or incapacity. The 1967 legislation divides the third party involvement in these matters between the Public Service Employment Act and the Public Service Staff Relations Act. The authority of the Public Service Commission under the Public Service Employment Act relates to circumstances where the employer proposes to release or demote an employee for incompetence or incapacity. The authority of adjudicators under the Public Service Staff Relations Act applies to disciplinary action.

This overlap has led to a variety of legal arguments respecting the jurisdiction of the Public Service Employment Act and the Public Service Staff Relations Act in a particular case. Moreover, there is confusion as to the procedure to be followed by management. In their appearances before your Committee, the bargaining agents sought the elimination of this divided authority by bringing releases for incompetence and incapacity within the jurisdiction of the Public Service Staff Relations Board.

Your Committee has studied the problem and supports the elimination of this divided authority, but recognizes that this consolidation should not interfere with the Public Service Commission's appointing authority.

We therefore recommend that:

58. Where the action of the employer results or will result in the termination of employment of an employee from a position in the Public Service, and the reasons alleged by the employer are misconduct, abandonment of position, incompetence or incapacity, the employee should be entitled to grieve the termination action.

59. Where the employee's grievance has not been dealt with to his satisfaction at the final level, he should be able to refer it to the Public Service Staff Relations Board for adjudication.

60. The adjudicator should be empowered to rescind the termination where he upholds the employee's grievance, or substitute other action if the employer's action was not well-founded but he should not be empowered to recommend or effect an alternate appointment.

61. The Public Service Commission should on request re-appraise every employee whose employment in a position in the Public Service has been involuntarily terminated to assess whether the employee is suitable for appointment to another position.

62. An employee found suitable for appointment following re-appraisal should be entitled to have his name entered on any appropriate eligibility list and for a period of time (e.g. one year) enter closed competitions.

63. Where the employee is appointed within the period referred to in Recommendation 62 above, ordinary rules of continuity of employment should apply to him.

64. None of the procedures referred to above involving redress of grievance and opportunity for re-employment should apply to an employee who is offered and accepts another position in lieu of termination.

UNION VOTING PROCEDURES

Union voting procedures, particularly strike and ratification votes, have received considerable attention. The present Public Service Staff Relations Act is silent with respect to the conduct of votes by bargaining agents.

The Ontario Labour Relations Act (Section 63) places an obligation on unions conducting a strike or ratification vote to ensure that "ballots are cast in such a manner that the person expressing his choice cannot be identified with the choice expressed". The Ontario Act does not protect the rights of all members of the bargaining unit to vote.

Your Committee recommends:

65. That where a bargaining agent conducts a strike vote, or submits a proposal for a collective agreement to its membership for approval,

(a) The vote should be carried out by secret ballot in accordance with procedures prescribed by regulations of the Public Service Staff Relations Board; and

(b) A breach of the regulations of the Board in this respect should constitute a contravention of the Act, and the union or persons concerned should be subject to the appropriate penalties;

66. That where a bargaining agent conducts a strike vote or submits a proposal for a collective agreement to the members of the unit for ratification, every member of the unit should be entitled to vote, and any act by a union or union official, or any other person, to prevent a member of the bargaining unit from voting should constitute an offence under the Act.

Recent events have also aroused great public concern with respect to the role of conciliation boards and their reports in the resolution of strikes in the Public Service. We have considered at length how to ensure that the contribution which a conciliation board makes might be enhanced. A conciliation board report, whether it is unanimous, a report of a majority of the board, or a report of its chairman, contributes to a settlement.

Your Committee recognizes that, following the publication of a conciliation board's findings, the employer may make an offer which is an improvement over the conciliation report.

The question facing your Committee in relation to the issue was whether or not the statute should require a conciliation board report to be placed before the members of a bargaining unit for approval or rejection, and, if so, when. Your Committee recognizes this as a problem but was not able to agree on an acceptable solution.

CASUAL EMPLOYEES

Government departments and agencies engage casual employees to help meet work fluctuations, for special short-term projects, as replacements for employees on leave or training, for seasonal requirements, and for other similar purposes. Presently, casuals are appointed by the Public Service Commission and are covered by the Public Service Staff Relations Act after six months of employment. Up to six months, casual employees' terms and conditions of employment are governed by Regulations made pursuant to the Financial Administration Act. On the whole, the benefits and the protections of the Regulations are not as generous as those provided by collective agreements.

In 1969 the Treasury Board directed departments to extend to casual employees the benefits of collective agreements from the first day of employment where it is known that the period of employment will exceed six months.

The bargaining agents in their representations to your Committee opposed the six month exclusion from the Public Service Staff Relations Act. Mr. Finkelman initially proposed a reduction to 120 days in any continuous period of 12 months and that students hired during their school vacation period be excluded from collective bargaining. Following representations by the Public Service Commission respecting the appointment process concerning casuals, Mr. Finkelman revised his recommendation from 120 days to 60 days.

Your Committee concludes that there is a continuing need in the Public Service of Canada for persons to discharge temporary duties of indefinite duration. What is left to determine is the status of casual employees; the method of termination of employment and their terms and conditions of employment.

Your Committee recommends:

67. That students hired during their school vacation period be excluded from collective bargaining.

68. That the review of the Public Service Employment Act recommended at Recommendations 1, 2 and 3 determine the process applicable to the appointment of casuals.

69. That the matter of length of casual service and its relationship to permanent or indeterminate appointment also be dealt with by the review recommended at Recommendations 1, 2 and 3.

70. That the employer be able to release a casual employee without notice and without redress.

71. That after working 60 days in any continuous period of 6 months, casual employees be subject to the terms of the appropriate collective agreement.

72. That after working 60 days in any continuous period of 6 months, a casual employee will qualify for any retroactive pay due for days worked during the retroactive period.

A copy of the relevant Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence (Issues Nos. 1 to 40 inclusive, 42 and 47) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 146 to the Journals).

Mr. MacDonald (Cardigan), seconded by Mr. Andras (Port Arthur), by leave of the House, introduced Bill C-86, An Act to amend the Veterans Insurance Act and Returned Soldiers' Insurance Act, which was read the first time and ordered to be printed and ordered for a second reading at the next sitting of the House.

The text of the Message and Recommendation of the Governor General pursuant to Standing Order 62(2) in relation to the foregoing Bill is as follows:

His Excellency the Governor General recommends to the House of Commons a measure to amend the Veterans Insurance Act and the Returned Soldiers' Insurance Act to allow, in the manner prescribed, insured persons and beneficiaries to opt for certain variations in the manner of payment under contracts of insurance; and to deem designated beneficiaries, under prescribed circumstances, to be surviving spouses of the insured.

The Order being read for the second reading and reference to the Standing Committee on Labour, Manpower and Immigration of Bill C-85, An Act respecting immigration security;

Mr. Andras (Port Arthur), seconded by Mr. Gillespie, moved,—That the Bill be now read a second time and, by unanimous consent, referred to a Committee of the Whole.

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

Accordingly, the Bill was read the second time, considered in Committee of the Whole, reported without amendment, concurred in at the report stage and, by unanimous consent, read the third time and passed.

[At 5.00 o'clock p.m., Private Members' Business was called pursuant to Standing Order 15(4)]

[Notices of Motions (Papers)]

By unanimous consent, Notices of Motions (Papers) Nos. 34, 37, 39, 35, 41 and 42, having been called, were allowed to stand at the request of the government.

(Private Bills)

The Order being read for the consideration of the report stage of Bill S-30, An Act to incorporate Continental Bank of Canada, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs;

And a point of order having been raised by the honourable Member for Edmonton West (Mr. Lambert).

RULING BY MR. SPEAKER

MR. SPEAKER: The honourable Member for Edmonton West (Mr. Lambert) has put forward a very fascinating argument about the validity of in fact having a report stage in respect of Private Members' Private Bills.

The analogy, if it were not expressed in Standing Order 116, would probably be understood in any case, but in order to make it perfectly clear Standing Order 116 says, and it has been referred to many times, that except as otherwise provided the provisions of the Standing Orders as to public bills apply to private bills. If that Standing Order were not there it might be interesting to note that there would be, I suppose, no regulation which would say that a private bill has to be read a first, second and third time, that there are restrictions on second reading amendments, that the bill can only be amended in detail when it gets to the standing committee, and that the stages of the bill can only be taken on different days without leave, and so on.

The fact of the matter is that there is no specific provision that I can see as I have been scanning through the arguments and research dealing with private bills which would provide for the regular and orderly dealing with private bills. It is done only by virtue of the fact that all of those regulations which apply to public bills have to apply to private bills as well. Since that sets up the first reading, second reading and third reading stages of the bill it would seem to me to be unacceptable to argue that it would not apply to the report stage of the bill in the same way.

If by analogy, therefore, private bills proceed from one stage to another because of Standing Order 116 making applicable all of the rules in respect of public bills to private bills, surely that must also apply to the rules as they relate to the report stage unless, of course, there is some provision which indicates that report stage is not at the disposition of the Member.

I think this is the point. It is not a question as to whether the stage follows automatically. What we are dealing with here is whether honourable Members ought to enjoy the same privileges under Standing Order 75 relating to report stage amendments with private bills as they do with public bills. It is a question of the right of the Member. A Member, it would seem to me, has the right as given to him by Standing Order 116 in every way to put down notice to require a report stage, to require 48-hour notice between the placing of the bill on the Order Paper and the beginning of report stage, and 24-hours' notice of any amendment to be given. In order to take that right away from Members it would seem to me there would have to be very clear authority somewhere for it.

The honourable Member alludes to the fact that Standing Order 116 only applies except as herein otherwise provided, and refers to Standing Order 109 which is a notice provision requiring 24-hours' notice of an amendment. The fact is I must take that only as a requirement as to notice and not as to substance. Besides that, it is exactly identical to the 24-hour notice requirement in respect of a report stage amendment, and therefore it can scarcely be taken as a departure from the Standing Orders as they relate to report stage amendments.

I therefore must conclude that since Standing Order 116 is really the only authority for setting up all of the other stages and prescribing the manner in which to deal with Private Members' Bills, I have to accept that the same Standing Order provides in exactly the same way for the report stage of private bills as it exists in fact for public bills.

The hour for Private Members' Business expired.

By unanimous consent, the House reverted to "Routine Proceedings".

By unanimous consent, the Notice of a Ways and Means motion with respect to an Anti-Inflation Levy laid upon the Table on Thursday, December 18, 1975, was withdrawn.

The House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Lalonde, seconded by Mr. Chrétien,—That Bill C-68, An Act to amend the Medical Care Act, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Health, Welfare and Social Affairs.

And on the motion of Mr. Gilbert, seconded by Mr. Nystrom, in amendment thereto,—That Bill C-68, An Act to amend the Medical Care Act, be not now read a second time but that it be read a second time this day six months hence.

And debate continuing;

(Proceedings on Adjournment Motion)

At 10.00 o'clock p.m., the question "That this House do now adjourn" was deemed to have been proposed pursuant to Standing Order 40(1);

After debate, the question was deemed to have been adopted.

Changes in Committee Membership

Notice having been filed with the Clerk of the House pursuant to Standing Order 65(4)(b), membership of Committees was amended as follows:

Mr. Holmes for Mr. Schellenberger on the Standing Committee on Indian Affairs and Northern Development.

No. 4,074—Mr. Gauthier (Roberval)

Has the Department of Manpower and Immigration granted any funds in the Constituency of Roberval under the (a) Local Initiatives (b) Opportunities for Youth (c) LEAP programmes and, if so, in each case, what was the (i) amount granted (ii) nature of the project (iii) municipality involved since the beginning of the grants up to and including 1975?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/4,074.

Mr. Blais, Parliamentary Secretary to the President of the Privy Council, presented,—Return to the foregoing Order.

The House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Lalonde, seconded by Mr. Chrétien,—That Bill C-68, An Act to amend the Medical Care Act, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Health, Welfare and Social Affairs.

And on the motion of Mr. Gilbert, seconded by Mr. Nystrom, in amendment thereto,—That Bill C-68, An Act to amend the Medical Care Act, be not now read a second time but that it be read a second time this day six months hence.

And debate continuing;

(At 5.00 o'clock p.m., Private Members' Business was called pursuant to Order made Friday, February 27, 1976)

(Public Bills)

Orders Nos. 34, 4, 10, 24, 37, 38, 41, 43 to 48 inclusive, 50, 52, 54 to 56 inclusive, 58 to 63 inclusive, 66 and 68 to 71 inclusive, having been called, were allowed to stand at the request of the government.

The Order being read for the second reading and reference to the Standing Committee on External Affairs and National Defence of Bill C-272, An Act to provide for the establishment of a Canada-Alaska and Maine Corridors Authority;

STATEMENT BY MR. DEPUTY SPEAKER

MR. DEPUTY SPEAKER: Before proceeding with consideration of Bill C-272, I feel I should inform honourable Members that the Chair has some hesitation about the procedural acceptability of this Bill.

Although the mover, the honourable Member for Laprairie (Mr. Watson) might argue that the proposal is more permissive than mandatory or compulsory, I feel this type of a proposal should better be put in the form of a notice of motion than a bill. It is the opinion of the Chair that if the full purpose of Bill C-272 were achieved, which is to create an authority to advise the government to reach an agreement with the Government of the United States and if such an agreement came about in the end, it would involve an expenditure of millions of dollars. So indirectly the Bill, although it does not do so directly, could create the need for a substantial expenditure of money and thus be a burden on the Crown. Because of the agreement honourable Members have reached so far as proceeding with this Bill is concerned and also because some similar bills have been debated in this House in the past, I am prepared at this time to let the House proceed with the consideration of this Bill but not without registering a caveat about borderline bills of this type which to my mind should be in the form of notices of motions rather than bills.

I do not want these proceedings to be taken as a precedent for the future to be used by honourable Members for the presentation of a similar bill. I think the Chair must become more meticulous in looking at such bills especially those bills that would allow the government, advise, permit or suggest but which at the same time indirectly would have some money implications. This being said I shall put the motion to the House for debate.

Mr. Watson, seconded by Mr. Dupras, moved,—That the Bill be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on External Affairs and National Defence.

And debate arising thereon;

The hour for Private Members' Business expired.

Debate was resumed on the motion of Mr. Lalonde, seconded by Mr. Chrétien,—That Bill C-68, An Act to amend the Medical Care Act, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Health, Welfare and Social Affairs.

And on the motion of Mr. Gilbert, seconded by Mr. Nystrom, in amendment thereto,—That Bill C-68, An Act to amend the Medical Care Act, be not now read a second time but that it be read a second time this day six months hence.

And debate continuing;

(Proceedings on Adjournment Motion)

At 10.00 o'clock p.m., the question "That this House do now adjourn" was deemed to have been proposed pursuant to Standing Order 40(1);

After debate, the question was deemed to have been adopted.

JOURNALS

OF THE

HOUSE OF COMMONS

OF CANADA

OTTAWA, THURSDAY, MARCH 4, 1976

2.00 o'clock p.m.

PRAYERS

Mr. Trudeau, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copies of Order in Council P.C. 1976-507, dated March 4, 1976, ordering the issuance of a writ for a by-election in the Electoral District of St. John's West, Newfoundland. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-7/47.

The Order being read for the consideration of an amendment made by the Senate to amendments made by the House of Commons to Bill S-10, An Act to amend the Feeds Act;

Mr. Whelan, seconded by Mr. Sharp, moved,—That the amendment to the amendments be now read a second time and be concurred in.

And a point of order having been raised by the honourable Member for Red Deer (Mr. Towers), Mr. Speaker reserved his decision.

The House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Sharp for Mr. Marchand (Langelier), seconded by Mr. Ouellet,—That Bill S-8, An Act respecting the use of national safety marks in relation to motor vehicle tires and to provide for safety standards for certain motor vehicle tires imported into or exported from Canada or sent or conveyed from one province to another, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Transport and Communications.

After further debate, the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

Accordingly, the Bill was read the second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Transport and Communications.

The Order being read for the second reading and reference to the Standing Committee on Veterans Affairs of Bill C-86, An Act to amend the Veterans Insurance Act and the Returned Soldiers' Insurance Act;

Mr. MacDonald (Cardigan), seconded by Mr. Lang, moved,—That the Bill be now read a second time and, by unanimous consent, referred to a Committee of the Whole.

And debate arising thereon;

[At 5.00 o'clock p.m., Private Members' Business was called pursuant to Standing Order 15(4)]

(Private Bills)

The Order being read for the consideration of the report stage of Bill S-30, An Act to incorporate Continental Bank of Canada, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs;

And a point of order having been raised by the honourable Member for Kenora-Rainy River (Mr. Reid).

RULING BY MR. SPEAKER

MR. SPEAKER: I return to the original difficulty, the proposal of the honourable Member for Kenora-Rainy River (Mr. Reid) that these motions should all be ruled out of order at the same time, because their combined effect would be an expanded negative at this stage of the Bill. Having listened to argument, I am not persuaded that that ought to be done. The question is, if these motions pass, will there still be an act, and a bank? There is considerable difference of opinion about that, which is exactly the point. Whether the bank survives in the form which the proponents of the Bill want or in some other form is a matter for debate and discussion. I must be persuaded absolutely that there would be no bank as a result of the combined effect of these motions.

Bearing in mind that, individually, each motion ought to be considered. I do not say, because all these motions ought to be considered one at a time, that I am ruling all of them as being in order. Far from it. Some of the motions may clearly offend our procedures in being expanded negatives in respect of the particular clauses to which they refer. That may be the case. But, because one, two or three motions may fall in that category, that does not lead me to conclude that I have power at this stage to so rule on all of them.

To carry the argument further, if three or four motions are out of order for the reasons stated, presumably they will be set aside by the Chair for discussion and argument. That means that the remaining motions are in order, within our procedures.

If the effect of this process is to reduce on the Order Paper the number of motions, some of which are out of order, to a smaller number all in order, then, obviously, that is the right course for the House to follow in this procedure.

For example, to consider Motion No. 1, I can hardly accept the argument that the Bill would fall to the ground, or the bank cease to be a bank as envisaged by the proposer of the Bill, if Motion No. 1 were to carry.

It is in fact an accepting provision which is being taken out. That being the case with one of the motions, it is obvious that argument ought to proceed on each motion individually. Of course, procedural arguments can be raised as we go.

I may say at the same time there has been a suggestion that a point of order will be put forward on the opposite point of view. That is because of some regulation concerning the Bill vis-à-vis a pro forma bill respecting the incorporation of banks. I may give advance warning. I will hear argument and discussion on it, but I must say that if there is any merit to the argument, and I have not examined the details to see whether there is, there seems to be a fundamental difficulty with that argument that this is an improper stage of this legislation to raise that kind of argument.

This Bill has gone through all stages in one House and all but the last two stages in this House. It certainly seems to the Chair to be totally improper to now raise general objections to the form the Bill is in. If that was a valid argument at any time, it ought to have been made at some other stage rather than now at the report stage. I would certainly have to be persuaded there is some reason why this Bill ought to be stopped at this stage when that argument either was not advanced at all or not advanced at the earlier stage when that kind of argument should have been considered.

Having said that, if there is any further consideration of that or any other point of order, I will be pleased to receive it. Otherwise, the House ought to move on to the consideration of these motions seriatim.

The hour for Private Members' Business expired.

Debate was resumed on the motion of Mr. MacDonald (Cardigan), seconded by Mr. Lang,—That Bill C-86, An Act to amend the Veterans Insurance Act and the Returned Soldiers' Insurance Act, be now read a second time and, by unanimous consent, referred to a Committee of the Whole.

After further debate, the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

Accordingly, the Bill was read the second time, considered in Committee of the Whole, reported without amendment, concurred in at the report stage, on division, read the third time, on division, and passed.

The Order being read for the consideration of the report stage of Bill C-61, An Act to provide a maritime code for Canada, to amend the Canada Shipping Act and other Acts in consequence thereof and to enact other consequential or related provisions, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Transport and Communications;

Mr. Marchand (Langelier) for Mr. Lang, seconded by Mr. MacEachen, moved,—That Bill C-61, An Act to provide a maritime code for Canada, to amend the Canada Shipping Act and other Acts in consequence thereof and to enact other consequential or related provisions, be amended in Clause 8 of the French version by striking out lines 16 to 18 at page 12 and substituting the following therefor:

"a) le transport par eau, ou par eau et par voie de surface, des marchandises ou des passagers, ainsi que le remorquage, directement ou avec escale à l'étranger,".

Mr. Marchand (Langelier) for Mr. Lang, seconded by Mr. MacEachen, moved,—That Bill C-61, An Act to provide a maritime code for Canada, to amend the Canada Shipping Act and other Acts in consequence thereof and to enact other consequential or related provisions, be amended in Clause 11 of the French version by deleting subclause (2) at pages 14 and 15 and substituting the following therefor:

"(2) La Commission canadienne des transports ne peut délivrer la licence prévue au paragraphe (1) que si le requérant la convainc

a) qu'il est dans l'intérêt public d'utiliser un navire autre qu'un navire canadien compte tenu de l'usage particulier auquel le navire visé par la demande est destiné;

b) que le navire visé par la demande présente les caractéristiques nécessaires à cet usage."

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motions, it was agreed to, on division.

Mr. Forrestall, seconded by Mr. Crouse, moved,—That Bill C-61, An Act to provide a maritime code for Canada, to amend the Canada Shipping Act and other Acts in consequence thereof and to enact other consequential or related provisions, be amended in Clause 8 by deleting line 20 at page 12 and substituting the following therefor:

"Canada: and, for better ensuring the attainment of the said purposes, any port or place in the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon shall be deemed to be a port or place in Canada, and the Governor in Council may, by order, provide that any other port or place not in Canada shall be deemed to be in Canada."

Mr. Munro (Esquimalt-Saanich), seconded by Mr. Baker (Grenville-Carleton), moved,—That Bill C-61, An Act to provide a maritime code for Canada, to amend the Canada Shipping Act and other Acts in consequence thereof and to enact other consequential or related provisions, be amended in Clause 8 by deleting line 30 at page 12 and substituting the following therefor:

"whether directly or by way of a foreign port or place and when carrying passengers whether or not the passengers leave the ship at a port or place in Canada and if the passengers leave the ship at a port or place in Canada whether they do so definitely or merely for a temporary period;"

And debate arising thereon;

(Proceedings on Adjournment Motion)

At 10.00 o'clock p.m., the question "That this House do now adjourn" was deemed to have been proposed pursuant to Standing Order 40(1);

After debate, the question was deemed to have been adopted.

Changes in Committee Membership

Notice having been filed with the Clerk of the House pursuant to Standing Order 65(4)(b), membership of Committees was amended as follows:

Messrs. Alexander and MacGuigan for Messrs. Fairweather and Marceau on the Standing Committee on Broadcasting, Films and Assistance to the Arts.

Mr. Fairweather for Mr. Alexander on the Standing Committee on Broadcasting, Films and Assistance to the Arts.

JOURNALS

OF THE

HOUSE OF COMMONS

OF CANADA

OTTAWA, FRIDAY, MARCH 5, 1976

11.00 o'clock a.m.

PRAYERS

Mr. Basford, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copies of a Bibliography of Source Materials relating to Bills C-83 and C-84. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-7/48.

Mr. Speaker informed the House that he had received an objection signed by the honourable Members for Northwest Territories, Cape Breton-East Richmond, Regina-Lake Centre, Greenwood, Yorkton-Melville, Nickel Belt, Sault Ste. Marie, Winnipeg North, Timiskaming and Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands, filed pursuant to section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act, chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970, to the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Northwest Territories.

By unanimous consent, it was ordered,—That the document be printed as an appendix to this day's Votes and Proceedings.

Bill C-61, An Act to provide a maritime code for Canada, to amend the Canada Shipping Act and other Acts in consequence thereof and to enact other consequential or related provisions, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Transport and Communications, was again considered at the report stage.

Whereupon, the House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Forrestall, seconded by Mr. Crouse,—That Bill C-61, An Act to provide a maritime code for Canada, to amend the Canada Shipping Act and other Acts in consequence thereof and to enact other consequential or related provisions, be amended in Clause 8 by deleting line 20 at page 12 and substituting the following therefor:

"Canada: and, for better ensuring the attainment of the said purposes, any port or place in the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon shall be deemed to be a port or place in Canada, and the Governor in Council may, by order, provide that any other port or place not in Canada shall be deemed to be in Canada,".

And on the motion of Mr. Munro (Esquimalt-Saanich), seconded by Mr. Baker (Grenville-Carleton),—That Bill C-61, An Act to provide a maritime code for Canada, to amend the Canada Shipping Act and other Acts in consequence thereof and to enact other consequential or related provisions, be amended in Clause 8 by deleting line 30 at page 12 and substituting the following therefor:

"whether directly or by way of a foreign port or place and when carrying passengers whether or not the passengers leave the ship at a port or place in Canada and if the passengers leave the ship at a port or place in Canada whether they do so definitely or merely for a temporary period;".

After further debate, the question being put on the motions, pursuant to section 11 of Standing Order 75, a recorded division was deferred.

Mr. Forrestall, seconded by Mr. McGrath, moved,—That Bill C-61, An Act to provide a maritime code for Canada, to amend the Canada Shipping Act and other Acts in consequence thereof and to enact other consequential or related provisions, be amended in Clause 10 by deleting lines 31 and 32 at page 14 and substituting the following therefor:

"renewal or terminating later than September 24, 1978."

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, pursuant to section 11 of Standing Order 75, a recorded division was deferred.

Mr. Forrestall, seconded by Mr. McGrath, moved,—That Bill C-61, An Act to provide a maritime code for Canada, to amend the Canada Shipping Act and other Acts in consequence thereof and to enact other consequential or related provisions, be amended in Clause 11 by

- (a) deleting the word "and" in line 6 at page 15
- (b) striking out line 9 at page 15 and substituting the following therefor:

coasting trade of Canada; and

(c) while the ship is operating under the licence, the employees aboard will be Canadian or landed immigrants, and the operator of the ship will comply with the Canada Labour Code, the Immigration Act, the Merchant Seamen Compensation Act and, in general, with the laws, regulations and standards that are applicable to a business or enterprise operated in Canada under federal jurisdiction."

Mr. Forrestall, seconded by Mr. McGrath, moved,—That Bill C-61, An Act to provide a maritime code for Canada, to amend the Canada Shipping Act and other Acts in consequence thereof and to enact other consequential or related provisions, be amended in Clause 11 by adding immediately after line 48 at page 15 the following:

"(6) Any person having an interest therein may make oral or written representations to the Canadian Transport Commission in respect of the issuance, suspension, cancellation or renewal of a licence applied for or issued under this section."

After debate thereon, the questions being put on the motions, pursuant to section 11 of Standing Order 75, recorded divisions were deferred.

Motion numbered 8, standing in the name of the honourable Member for Dartmouth-Halifax East (Mr. Forrestall), having been called, as follows:

That Bill C-61, An Act to provide a maritime code for Canada, to amend the Canada Shipping Act and other Acts in consequence thereof and to enact other consequential or related provisions, be amended in SCHEDULE I at page 19 by inserting therein the following:

- (a) under the heading Item: "1"
- (b) under the heading Act Affected:
"Arctic Waters Pollution Prevention Act R.S., c.2 (1st Supp.)"
- (c) under the heading Amendment:

"The following section is inserted immediately after section 13:

"13.1. In any case where there is exploration for, development or exploitation of the natural resources of a Canadian Arctic area on any land adjacent to the arctic waters, no ship shall be used in the arctic waters in such exploration, development or exploitation or in the transportation of any such natural resources unless it is a Canadian registered ship: except that the Governor in Council may, by order subject to affirmative resolution of Parliament, exempt from the application of this section a ship that is not a Canadian registered ship."

and by renumbering subsequent Items accordingly.

Mr. Acting Speaker ruled the motion out of order on the grounds that it was beyond the scope of the Bill.

OF CANADA

OTTAWA, MONDAY, MARCH 8, 1976

2.00 o'clock p.m.

PRAYERS

By unanimous consent, Mr. Chrétien, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copy of a letter, dated March 3, 1976, from Mr. Justice Kenneth C. Mackay to Messrs. Guy, Vaillancourt, Bertrand, Bourgeois & Laurent, Barristers, Montreal, Quebec.—Sessional Paper No. 301-7/45A.

Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copies of the Recommendations, dated February 26, 1976, of the Anti-Inflation Board regarding suppliers in the construction, grain handling, longshoring, shipping and trucking industries who bargain collectively, together with a paper entitled: "Application of Guidelines to Suppliers who engage in Association Bargaining". (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-1/134C.

Mr. Chrétien, seconded by Mr. Lalonde, by leave of the House, introduced Bill C-87, An Act to amend or repeal certain statutes to enable restraint of government expenditures, which was read the first time and ordered to be printed and ordered for a second reading at the next sitting of the House.

The text of the Message and Recommendation of the Governor General pursuant to Standing Order 62(2) in relation to the foregoing Bill is as follows:

His Excellency the Governor General recommends to the House of Commons a measure to amend or repeal certain statutes to enable restraint of government expenditures, to provide for training allowance rates under the Adult Occupational Training Act to be determined as provided by regulation.

Mr. Lang, seconded by Mr. Basford, by leave of the House, introduced Bill C-88, An Act to amend the Canadian Wheat Board Act (No. 2), which was read the first time and ordered to be printed and ordered for a second reading at the next sitting of the House.

The text of the Message and Recommendation of the Governor General pursuant to Standing Order 62(2) in relation to the foregoing Bill is as follows:

His Excellency the Governor General recommends to the House of Commons a measure to amend the Canadian Wheat Board Act to pay allowances and expenses to members of the Advisory Committee in the manner provided.

By unanimous consent, on motion of Mr. Sharp, seconded by Mr. Gillespie, it was ordered,—That Members of the Standing Committee on External Affairs and National Defence be empowered to travel to Washington, D.C. from March 10, 1976 to March 12, 1976 in relation to the Committee's Order of Reference relating to International Development and that the necessary support staff do accompany them.

The Order being read for the second reading and reference to the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs of Bill C-83, An Act for the better protection of Canadian society against perpetrators of violent and other crime.

Mr. Basford, seconded by Mr. Allmand, moved,—That the Bill be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs.

And debate arising thereon;

Mr. Woolliams, seconded by Mr. Hees, proposed to move in amendment thereto,—That all the words after "That" be deleted and the following substituted therefor:

"Bill C-83, An Act for the better protection of Canadian society against perpetrators of violent and other crime, be not now read a second time but that the subject-matter thereof be referred to the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs, for the purpose of considering a more proper legislative division thereof."

Mr. Acting Speaker reserved his decision as to the acceptability of the proposed amendment.

Debate was resumed on the motion of Mr. Basford, seconded by Mr. Allmand,—That Bill C-83, An Act for the better protection of Canadian society against perpetrators of violent and other crime, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs.

And debate continuing;

Mr. Acting Speaker informed the House that he had received an objection signed by the honourable Members for Norfolk-Haldimand, Kootenay West, Victoria-Haliburton, Perth-Wilmot, Oxford, Elgin, Huron-Middlesex, York-Simcoe, Lambton-Kent, Grey-Simcoe, Winnipeg South Centre, Dauphin and Palliser, filed pursuant to section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act, chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970, to the report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario.

By unanimous consent, it was ordered,—That the document be printed as an appendix to this day's Votes and Proceedings.

(At 5.00 o'clock p.m., Private Members' Business was called pursuant to Order made Friday, February 27, 1976)

(Notices of Motions)

Notices of Motions Nos. 2, 15, 19, 20, 34, 37, 1, 42 and 4, having been called, were allowed to stand at the request of the government.

By unanimous consent, Mr. Kaplan, seconded by Mr. Lachance, moved,—That, in the opinion of this House, the government should consider the advisability of taking immediate steps to establish a service award to past and present members of the Canadian Armed Forces serving in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, along the lines of awards already existing for members of the Canadian Armed Forces serving in the United Nations peace keeping brigades, recognizing that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization servicemen deserve the same recognition.—(Notice of Motion No. 43).

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

Debate was resumed on the motion of Mr. Basford, seconded by Mr. Allmand,—That Bill C-83, An Act for the better protection of Canadian society against perpetrators of violent and other crime, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs.

And debate continuing;

(Proceedings on Adjournment Motion)

At 10.00 o'clock p.m., the question "That this House do now adjourn" was deemed to have been proposed pursuant to Standing Order 40(1);

After debate, the question was deemed to have been adopted.

JOURNALS

OF THE

HOUSE OF COMMONS

OF CANADA

OTTAWA, TUESDAY, MARCH 9, 1976

2.00 o'clock p.m.

PRAYERS

Mr. Crouse, from the Standing Committee on Public Accounts, presented the Fifth Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

In accordance with its Order of Reference of Friday, January 30, 1976: That the Report on the Study of the Accounts of Canada be referred to the Standing Committee on Public Accounts, your Committee gave consideration to this Report and after hearing witnesses and considering the evidence adduced thereon, makes the following report to the House:

Your Committee was assisted in its deliberations by the following witnesses:

From the Auditor General's Office:

Mr. J. J. Macdonell, Auditor General of Canada;

Mr. J. R. Douglas, Assistant Auditor General;

Mr. L. Denis Desautels, Director General, Public Accounts and International Audits.

From Supply and Services Canada:

Mr. J. L. Fry, Deputy Minister of Services and Deputy Receiver-General of Canada.

From the Interdepartmental Committee:

Mr. N. Glenn Ross, F.C.A.—Coopers & Lybrand, Ottawa;

Mr. S. J. Handfield-Jones, Assistant Deputy Minister, Fiscal Policy and Economic Analysis Branch, Department of Finance;

Dr. A. G. Irvine, Director General, Government of Canada Accounting Branch, Supply and Services Canada;

Mr. L. M. McGimpsey, Director, Financial Policy Evaluation, Financial Administration Division, Treasury Board.

From the Office of the Secretary of the Treasury Board:

Mr. G. F. Osbaldeston, Secretary;

Mr. S. Mensforth, Assistant Secretary, Financial Policy Division.

Your Committee observed that the Study of the Accounts of Canada, the first of its kind since 1920, has accomplished much by examining the purposes, principles and practices that govern the form of the Accounts of Canada. Many of the recommendations contained in the Study are in response to concerns raised by your Committee and the Auditor General of Canada in their respective reports of past years to this House.

Many accounting anomalies and inconsistencies in reporting were brought to the attention of your Committee. In the past these have made the Estimates and the Accounts of Canada difficult for parliamentarians and others to understand. Your Committee concludes that the recommendations contained in the Study of the Accounts, if implemented, would correct many of these difficulties.

After careful examination of the Study and having been assured by the Auditor General that the measures being proposed are sound and in accordance with current accounting standards and principles, your Committee hereby endorses the 41 recommendations contained in the Study of the Accounts of Canada.

Your Committee therefore recommends that the Treasury Board should implement these recommendations as soon as it is technically possible to do so.

Your Committee further recommends that the accounting principles and practices contained in the Study be formally enunciated in the introductory notes of Volume I of the Public Accounts of Canada, to coincide with the implementation of the recommendations. Thereby the recommendations would be incorporated in the notes as an integral part of the summary financial statements of the Government of Canada.

There are, however, certain specific areas where your Committee is not satisfied that sufficient attention has been given and where further study is necessary by the appropriate authorities. These areas are:

the accounting of current and future loans to other governments;

the accounting of current and future loans to government-controlled organizations whose financing is unrealistic and who therefore may not be in a position to repay such loans;

the classification of Crown corporations under Schedules C and D of the Financial Administration Act in accordance with the principles outlined in the Study; and the use of improper or unacceptable accounting principles by Crown corporations.

Your Committee in future will consider very seriously those cases where recorded expenditures are in excess of appropriation authority since this is fundamental to parliamentary control. As a result, your Committee recommends that the Auditor General should clearly identify in his annual report to the House of Commons those cases of over-expenditure.

Because of the high priority it has attached to this highly technical and authoritative study, your Committee recommends that consideration be given to the advisability of having the Treasury Board authorize the publication of the Report on the Study of the Accounts of Canada on a cost recovery basis so that all governments, academic institutions, professional institutes, and other interested groups and citizens could take advantage of this significant body of knowledge.

Your Committee appreciates the regular progress reports received from the Treasury Board Secretariat. These reports have saved the Public Accounts Committee time and effort in their subsequent deliberations. Your Committee would be pleased to receive similar progress reports on the implementation of the Study's recommendations.

A copy of the relevant Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence (Issues Nos. 37, 39 to 45 inclusive, First Session, Thirtieth Parliament), is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 147 to the Journals).

Bill C-61, An Act to provide a maritime code for Canada, to amend the Canada Shipping Act and other Acts in consequence thereof and to enact other consequential or related provisions, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Transport and Communications, was again considered at the report stage.

Mr. Lang, seconded by Mr. Basford, moved,—That Bill C-61, An Act to provide a maritime code for Canada, to amend the Canada Shipping Act and other Acts in consequence thereof and to enact other consequential or related provisions, be amended in SCHEDULE III by striking out lines 28 and 29 at page 59 and substituting the following therefor:

"(2) The Minister shall provide a suitable place for".

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

And the House having proceeded to the deferred division on the motion of Mr. Forrestall, seconded by Mr. Crouse,—That Bill C-61, An Act to provide a maritime code for Canada, to amend the Canada Shipping Act and other Acts in consequence thereof and to enact other consequential or related provisions, be amended in Clause 8 by deleting line 20 at page 12 and substituting the following therefor:

"Canada: and, for better ensuring the attainment of the said purposes, any port or place in the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon shall be deemed to be a port or place in Canada, and the Governor in Council may, by order, provide that any other port or place not in Canada shall be deemed to be in Canada."

And on the motion of Mr. Munro (Esquimalt-Saanich), seconded by Mr. Baker (Grenville-Carleton),—That Bill C-61, An Act to provide a maritime code for Canada, to amend the Canada Shipping Act and other Acts in consequence thereof and to enact other consequential or related provisions, be amended in Clause 8 by deleting line 30 at page 12 and substituting the following therefor:

"whether directly or by way of a foreign port or place and when carrying passengers whether or not the passengers leave the ship at a port or place in Canada and if the passengers leave the ship at a port or place in Canada whether they do so definitely or merely for a temporary period;"

And the question being put on the motions, it was negatived on the following division:

And the House having proceeded to the deferred division on the motion of Mr. Forrestall, seconded by Mr. McGrath,—That Bill C-61, An Act to provide a maritime code for Canada, to amend the Canada Shipping Act and other Acts in consequence thereof and to enact other consequential or related provisions, be amended in Clause 11 by

(a) deleting the word "and" in line 6 at page 15

(b) striking out line 9 at page 15 and substituting the following therefor:

"coasting trade of Canada; and

(c) while the ship is operating under the licence, the employees aboard will be Canadian or landed immigrants, and the operator of the ship will comply with the Canada Labour Code, the Immigration Act, the Merchant Seamen Compensation Act and, in general, with the laws, regulations and standards that are applicable to a business or enterprise operated in Canada under federal jurisdiction."

And the question being put on the motion, it was negatived on the following division:

And the House having proceeded to the deferred division on the motion of Mr. Forrestall, seconded by Mr. McGrath,—That Bill C-61, An Act to provide a maritime code for Canada, to amend the Canada Shipping Act and other Acts in consequence thereof and to enact other consequential or related provisions, be amended in Clause 11 by adding immediately after line 48 at page 15 the following:

"(6) Any person having an interest therein may make oral or written representations to the Canadian Transport Commission in respect of the issuance, suspension, cancellation or renewal of a licence applied for or issued under this section."

And the question being put on the motion, it was negatived, on division.

On motion of Mr. Lang, seconded by Mr. Basford, the Bill was concurred in, as amended, at the report stage, on division, and ordered for a third reading at the next sitting of the House.

The House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Basford, seconded by Mr. Allmand,—That Bill C-83, An Act for the better protection of Canadian society against perpetrators of violent and other crime, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs.

Consideration was resumed on the proposed amendment of Mr. Woolliams, seconded by Mr. Hees,—That all the words after "That" be deleted and the following substituted therefor:

"Bill C-83, An Act for the better protection of Canadian society against perpetrators of violent and other crime, be not now read a second time but that the subject-matter thereof be referred to the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs, for the purpose of considering a more proper legislative division thereof."

By unanimous consent, the proposed amendment was amended to read as follows:

"Bill C-83, An Act for the better protection of Canadian society against perpetrators of violent and other crime, be not now read a second time but that the subject-matter thereof be referred to the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs."

(At 5.39 o'clock p.m., Private Members' Business was called pursuant to Order made Friday, February 27, 1976)

(Public Bills)

Orders Nos. 34, 4, 10, 24, 37 and 38, having been called, were allowed to stand at the request of the government.

The Order being read for the second reading and reference to the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs of Bill C-241, An Act to amend the Criminal Code (cruelty to animals).

Mr. Robinson, seconded by Mr. Dupras, moved,—That the Bill be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs.

And debate arising thereon;

The hour for Private Members' Business expired.

Mr. Sharp, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, from his place in the House, stated that an agreement could not be reached under the provisions of Standing Order 75A or 75B with respect to an allocation of time to the second reading and reference to the Standing Committee on Health, Welfare and Social Affairs of Bill C-68, An Act to amend the Medical Care Act and, under the provisions of Standing Order 75C, gave notice of his intention to move a motion at the next sitting of the House that not more than five hours shall be allotted to the consideration and disposal of proceedings at the said stage of the said Bill.

Debate was resumed on the motion of Mr. Basford, seconded by Mr. Allmand,—That Bill C-83, An Act for the better protection of Canadian society against perpetrators of violent and other crime, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs.

Mr. Woolliams, seconded by Mr. MacLean, moved in amendment thereto,—That all the words after "That" be deleted and the following substituted therefor:

"Bill C-83, An Act for the better protection of Canadian society against perpetrators of violent and other crime, be not now read a second time but that the subject-matter thereof be referred to the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs."

And debate arising thereon;

OF THE

HOUSE OF COMMONS

OF CANADA

OTTAWA, THURSDAY, MARCH 11, 1976

2.00 o'clock p.m.

PRAYERS

Mr. Langlois, from the Standing Committee on Miscellaneous Estimates, presented the Tenth Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

In accordance with its Order of Reference of Tuesday, March 2, 1976, your Committee has considered Vote 15b under Finance, Vote 25b under Privy Council, Votes 5b and 20b under Supply and Services and Votes 10b and 20b under Treasury Board in the Supplementary Estimates (B) for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1976, and reports the same.

A copy of the relevant Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence (Issues Nos. 48 and 49) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 148 to the Journals).

Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copies of a Memorandum of Agreement made March 10, 1976, between the Government of Canada and the Government of the Province of Quebec relating to the Anti-Inflation Programme. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-5/183.

Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), seconded by Mr. Sharp, by leave of the House, introduced Bill C-89, An Act to amend the Anti-Inflation Act, which was read the first time and ordered to be printed and ordered for a second reading at the next sitting of the House.

On motion of Mr. Sharp, seconded by Mr. Drury, it was ordered,—That at 8.00 p.m. this day the House shall take up consideration of objections to the report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Nova Scotia;

That, after completion of consideration of the said report, the House shall take up consideration of objections to the report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for British Columbia, but, if consideration of the report for Nova Scotia has not been completed at 8.40 p.m., the said consideration shall be adjourned and the House shall proceed forthwith to consideration of the report for British Columbia; and

That, after completion of consideration of the said report for British Columbia, the House shall take up consideration of objections to the report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for Alberta, but, if consideration of the report for British Columbia has not been completed at 9.20 p.m., the said consideration shall be adjourned and the House shall proceed forthwith to consideration of the report for Alberta.

The House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Basford, seconded by Mr. Allmand,—That Bill C-83, An Act for the better protection of Canadian society against perpetrators of violent and other crime, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs.

And on the motion of Mr. Woolliams, seconded by Mr. MacLean, in amendment thereto,—That all the words after “That” be deleted and the following substituted therefor:

“Bill C-83, An Act for the better protection of Canadian society against perpetrators of violent and other crime, be not now read a second time but that the subject-matter thereof be referred to the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs.”.

And debate continuing;

[At 5.00 o'clock p.m., Private Members' Business was called pursuant to Standing Order 15(4)]

[Notices of Motions (Papers)]

Notices of Motions (Papers) Nos. 34, 37, 39, 35, 41 and 42 were allowed to stand at the request of the government.

(Private Bills)

The Order being read for the consideration of the report stage of Bill S-30, An Act to incorporate Continental Bank of Canada, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs;

Mr. Saltsman, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), moved,—That Bill S-30, An Act to incorporate Continental Bank of Canada, be amended in Clause 2 by striking out lines 23 to 30 at page 1 and lines 1 to 3 at page 2.

And debate arising thereon;

The hour for Private Members' Business expired.

A Message was received from the Senate informing this House that the Senate had passed the following Bill to which the concurrence of this House is desired:

Bill S-32, An Act to implement conventions for the avoidance of double taxation with respect to income tax between Canada and France, Canada and Belgium and Canada and Israel.—Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale).

Pursuant to Order made this day, the House proceeded to the consideration of objections to the Reports of the Electoral Boundaries Commission.

The following Objection to the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Nova Scotia, filed with Mr. Speaker on Tuesday, February 24, 1976, was considered:

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Act (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Nova Scotia, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on Monday, January 26, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

1. The Commission failed to give and pay proper attention to the physical, social or economic cohesion in many of the new electoral districts created and appeared to ignore and did ignore the question of unity or community of interest and thereby rendering more difficult adequate representation of the people in Parliament.

2. The Commission failed to retain historic and traditional names in some of the proposed changes.

3. And such other objections that the undersigned Members may consider applicable in order to carry out the spirit and terms and conditions of the Act in question.

Signature of Members:

P. Nowlan (Annapolis Valley)
W. Dinsdale (Brandon-Souris)
W. Baker (Grenville-Carleton)
M. Lambert (Edmonton West)
E. MacKay (Central Nova)
Wm. D. Knowles (Norfolk-Haldimand)
G. Fairweather (Fundy-Royal)
J.A. MacLean (Malpeque)
J. Balfour (Regina East)
D. Whiteway (Selkirk)

Consideration of the objection was adjourned.

The following Objections to the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of British Columbia, filed with Mr. Speaker on Wednesday, March 10, 1976, were considered:

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of British Columbia, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 11, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

1. The Commission failed to give adequate attention and consideration to geographical, political, and demographic factors when planning the redistribution of the riding of Kootenay West, factors which are specifically provided for by subsections 13(i) and 13(ii) of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act to be included in the terms of reference of the Commission.

2. The Commission has not adequately taken into consideration the physical difficulties involved in representing the proposed new riding.

3. The Commission has not given adequate consideration to the sentiments expressed by the local populace regarding redistribution, and is thereby in danger of lessening their ability to receive maximum benefit from the representative system of this country.

4. The Commission has not taken adequate account of the peculiar combination of population growth patterns and economic development taking place in Southeastern British Columbia as it affects the redistribution of this riding.

Signatures of Members:

R. Brisco (Kootenay West)
W. Skoreyko (Edmonton East)
H. Johnston (Okanagan-Kootenay)
D. McKenzie (Winnipeg South Centre)

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of British Columbia, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 11, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

The Commission failed to give adequate attention and consideration to geographical, political and demographic factors when planning the redistribution of the riding of New Westminster and others, factors which are specifically provided for by subsections 13(c)(i) and 13(c)(ii) of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act to be included in the terms of reference of the Commission.

Signatures of Members:

S. Leggatt (New Westminster)

A. Hogan (Cape-Breton-East Richmond)
D. Orlikow (Winnipeg North)
E. Broadbent (Oshawa-Whitby)
W. Kempling (Halton-Wentworth)

Consideration of the objections was adjourned.

The following Objection to the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Alberta, filed with Mr. Speaker on Wednesday, March 3, 1976, was considered:

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Alberta, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 18, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

1. In some areas of Alberta, the Commission failed to give special emphasis to geographical considerations, the sparsity and density of the population, and ignored or overlooked the special problems of communication and transportation when the Commission divided the said province into twenty-one (21) new electoral districts.

2. In certain areas of Alberta, the Commission failed to give special consideration and special appreciation to accessibility of one region to another region in many of the rural electoral districts when determining the boundaries of the same.

3. The Commission failed to give and pay proper attention to the physical, social or economic cohesion in many of the new electoral districts created, and appeared to ignore and did ignore the question of unity or community of interest and thereby rendering adequate representation of the people in Parliament a virtually impossible task.

4. The Commission erred by failing to apply, for maximum benefit, the terms and conditions of Section 13(i) and (ii) of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act.

5. The Commission has failed to take into consideration the size of some of the rural constituencies it has created, and the difficulty involved in representing an area that large. Although Alberta's representation has increased from nineteen (19) to twenty-one (21), three go to Edmonton and Calgary, so rural Alberta loses one seat.

6. The Commission has failed to either give any reasons or in other instances adequate detail of reasons for proposed changes in constituency boundaries or the elimination of constituencies as such.

7. The Commission has not established the rationale of the decision to limit the urban city ridings at the boundary limits of the cities of Edmonton and Calgary so as to eliminate a possible urban domination of the adjacent rural populations and then immediately reversed itself in its designation of adjacent constituencies where the rural populations are entirely dominated by those of suburban communities whose demographic interests are wholly urban-oriented.

8. The Commission has failed to take into account the fact that the Metro Edmonton population substantially exceeds that of Calgary yet its proposals accord an equal number of constituencies to both Metro City areas.

9. And such other objections that the undersigned Members may consider applicable in order to carry out the spirit and terms and conditions of the Act in question.

Signatures of Members:

S. Schellenberger (Wetaskiwin)
D. Roche (Edmonton-Strathcona)
B. Hargrave (Medicine Hat)
P. Elzinga (Pembina)

W. Skoreyko (Edmonton East)
A. Malone (Battle River)
M. Lambert (Edmonton West)
G. Towers (Red Deer)

Consideration of the objection was adjourned.

(Proceedings on Adjournment Motion)

At 10.00 o'clock p.m., the question "That this House do now adjourn" was deemed to have been proposed pursuant to Standing Order 40(1);

After debate, the question was deemed to have been adopted.

Changes in Committee Membership

Notice having been filed with the Clerk of the House pursuant to Standing Order 65(4)(b), membership of Committees was amended as follows:

Messrs. Mazankowski, Schellenberger and Robinson for Messrs. Cadieu, Knowles (Norfolk-Haldimand) and Côté on the Standing Committee on Agriculture.

Mr. Orlikow for Mr. Rodriguez on the Standing Committee on Labour, Manpower and Immigration.

Mr. Lambert (Edmonton West) for Mr. Wenman on the Standing Committee on Management and Members' Services.

RULING BY MR. SPEAKER

MR. SPEAKER: In reply to a question of privilege raised by the President of the Privy Council, (Mr. Sharp), I indicated I would want some time to deliberate on the matter. The question arises from certain remarks made in the course of debate on Thursday evening of last week. I shall try to deal with it as briefly as possible but it is an extremely important matter and may require consideration at some length.

The basic rule of the House with respect to the procedure and practice in this regard can be found in Citation 140 of Beauchesne—it is probably familiar to all honourable Members and it reads as follows:

"The rule relating to personal reflections occurring in debate, may be stated thus, namely: that it is doubly disorderly for any member, in speaking, to digress from the question before the House, and to attack any other member, by means of approbrious language, applied to his person and character, or to his conduct, either in general, or on some particular occasion, intending to bring him into ridicule, contempt or hatred, with his fellow members, or to create ill blood in the House."

In addition, there is another precaution which the House has always observed. I would direct attention to Standing Order 35, again one which is no doubt familiar to all honourable Members, and which, paraphrased, says basically that no member shall speak disrespectfully against any other member of the House. The rationale behind this, the practice which has grown up in this respect, has been set out in another citation of Beauchesne, Citation 136, which refers to the Bruce case in 1944. I also refer to the Lacombe case in 1943—the ruling is to be found at page 565 of the Journals of that year. The practice with respect to both these cases illustrates clearly what has grown to be the custom of the House with respect to allegations of any sort against a member or group of members in circumstances where those allegations are challenged.

The rationale behind all these cases is easy to understand. A member who speaks disrespectfully of another in the House, whether the other person is a member of the House or not, is not subject to prosecution; he is immune from prosecution under the ordinary laws of libel and slander. This does not mean, however, that within the House of Commons the rights or protection available in ordinary civil courts are abandoned. The House itself has developed a regime or practice which has grown up to protect members who feel themselves aggrieved by an allegation; it is a protection in the form of a challenge that the allegation either be substantiated or explained or qualified sufficiently, or withdrawn.

The question therefore becomes whether the language used by the honourable Member for York-Simcoe (Mr.

Stevens) on Thursday night was a transgression of the terms of Standing Order 35, in other words, whether it can be described as being unparliamentary language or whether, in the light of the precedents, it constitutes an allegation which, having been challenged by the raising of a question of privilege last Friday, ought to be withdrawn, qualified or pursued by way of a substantive motion. The intervention of the honourable Member for Grenville-Carleton (Mr. Baker) relied rather heavily on the fact that in the past, on the two most prominent occasions on which I have had to make a ruling in this area, I have tended to lean in favour of allowing vigorous and strong language in the Chamber and I must say, having looked at some of the precedents over the weekend, I find that most of the stuff which has been disallowed in the past, and which might offend members with relatively weak stomachs, involves language which I find to be not only appropriate but rather stimulating.

In addition, may I say that the word "illegal" which is the subject-matter of this particular controversy, is one which was referred to by the honourable Member for Grenville-Carleton in the course of an argument to which the honourable Member for Winnipeg North Centre (Mr. Knowles) gave support in delivering his contribution, that is to say, the case which arose a few years ago where the government was accused by the opposition of going beyond its statutory authority by using drawing rights, if I remember correctly, in order to pay its obligations under a statute to certain grain farmers. Not only was the word "illegal" constantly used in that debate but it seems to me it would not be an unparliamentary term in that particular context—it was used frequently and the whole subject-matter of the debate concerned the allegation that the bill was retroactive justification or legalization of acts which had been committed by the government and which were illegal. That was the whole substance of the argument and in my view, use of the term, in that context, was not only parliamentary but essential to the debate.

The question I have to ask now, however, is this: does the same term offend the standing order in the different context in which it was uttered on Thursday night? It cannot be denied that the expression was used by the honourable Member for York-Simcoe in a much different context, a very narrow context referring to the action of ministers with respect to the judges' affair, which was referred to specifically. Since those actions have been the subject-matter of constant attention and attack in this House for eight consecutive sitting days there can be no doubt as to the context or about the actions which were involved; there would not, I think, be much value in speculating on how many meanings or contexts that word might have in other circumstances. In the circumstances in which the honourable Member for York-Simcoe used it last Thursday night there could, after those eight days of concentrated discussion here, really be no doubt. Therefore, I find it had a very narrow context with respect to the ministers involved. It also had a very narrow context with respect to the actions which were referred to.

The term "illegal" or "illegality" has been an integral part of those discussions over the eight days. The government expressed the view that the actions of ministers have not been illegal and made much of the fact that the courts did not find those actions illegal. The position of the opposition has been, if I may summarize briefly, first, that it lacks the information to make such a judgment but would perhaps make it, if it had the information, or, in the alternative, that the distinction between "illegal" and "improper" is really not as important as the government has made it out to be. In either case, the definition of "illegal" has been an extremely urgent and important matter in the entire debate. There are differences of opinion, of course. No one even suggests that there should be any restriction on the right of members, or, in this case, on the right of the honourable Member for York-Simcoe to hold a contrary opinion. No one need question that. What we are talking about is solely the right to express that opinion and whether Standing Order 35 and the practice which has grown up over the past in any way circumscribes the right of expression or use of that opinion in this particular context.

To attempt to bring the matter to a conclusion, may I say it is illuminating to examine the language used by those who, very ably in my opinion, came to the defence of the honourable Member for York-Simcoe. To begin with, at page 11952 of Hansard for Friday last, the honourable Member for Grenville-Carleton, referring to the debate I mentioned at the outset in connection with the use of warrants, said that the term "illegal" employed in that debate was in order. And I agree with that. But it is noteworthy that the honourable Member for Peace River (Mr. Baldwin), whose intervention in that debate was used in quotation by the honourable Member for Grenville-Carleton, stated as follows:

"I would add in this regard that if the action of the Minister of Finance, who, under the act, is charged with responsibility is, as I assume it to be, the collective action of the government and the cabinet, then they are all tainted with the same misdemeanour and this would be in effect a collective agreement to break the law, a form of conspiracy."

Another intervention which I think is noteworthy was that made by the honourable Member for Yukon (Mr. Nielsen) who said in one paragraph:

"... In respect of the term "illegal", how can the Prime Minister (Mr. Trudeau) or any other minister prejudice the issue of conduct and whether it is legal or illegal, proper or improper? Surely, that is not their province. I can lay a charge and I can express the same kind of opinion, with equal validity, as the Prime Minister. The Prime Minister and, obviously, the government House leader came to the conclusion that the conduct of the Minister of Public Works (Mr. Drury) was not illegal but was improper. It is just as proper for me to reach the contrary view. A reading of section 127 of the Criminal Code leads me to the conclusion that there is sufficient evidence to constitute a prima facie case of obstruction... I do not think it is my province to reach a judgment as to whether that conduct is legal or illegal, proper or improper: that is the province of the courts, or of a special inquiry."

Finally, the honourable Member for Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands (Mr. Douglas), as reported at page 11959 of Hansard, said as follows:

"Mr. Speaker, may I deal with one point which the honourable Member raised. He is suggesting how the House should condemn the use of the word "illegally". I point out that this involves a matter of opinion. The Prime Minister is of the opinion that, on the basis of what his ministers said to him, nothing illegal or improper was done. We have not had the advantage of knowing what the Prime Minister said to his ministers or what they said to him. It seems to me that we are entitled to say that in our opinion actions have been taken which, until further information is divulged, could be both improper and illegal."

I think honourable Members will perhaps realize that I am getting to the point of saying that those who very ably came to the defence of the honourable Member for York-Simcoe were evidently at some pains to tell the Chair and the House what the honourable Member had the right to say and in fact what he said. I agree with them completely in their interventions and in the conclusion that they reached in respect of what the honourable Member for York-Simcoe had the right to say. Unfortunately, however, I disagree with their interpretation of what in fact the honourable Member for York-Simcoe said.

The honourable Member did not say that if other information were available—as others had put it—there might be a conclusion drawn that there was illegality. He did not say that it might be possible to come to that conclusion. I suppose to be accurate I should return to his exact remarks that are pivotal to this whole matter; they occur at page 11926 of Hansard for that day and later, of course, at several other places. They are as follows:

"Do as I say, not as I do' appears to be the creed of the present administration. Surely, Mr. Speaker, this type of thinking is shown up so clearly in the judges' affair that is now before us. What administration at a senior level of government in Canada other than this administration would be allowing cabinet ministers who have acted illegally to carry on in their posts?"

That, to my knowledge of the debate, which as I say has gone on for the better part of two weeks, was the first time that that direct allegation had been made. There had been others couched in other language, but that direct allegation was distinct from others that had been made up to that time. In other words, after several days of such intensive focus upon the acts of ministers and whether those acts can properly be described as illegal, I feel compelled to find that in that narrow context the words of the honourable Member for York-Simcoe last Thursday evening constitute the very kind of judgment that the colleagues who came to his defence said it was not within the province of a member to make. Furthermore, they do not, in the expression by the honourable Member for York-Simcoe, constitute further argument but really constitute a statement which, in my opinion, offends Standing Order 35 and is therefore unparliamentary and must be withdrawn.

It may be that upon reflection on this ruling and on the precedents to which I have made reference the honourable Member for York-Simcoe would want some time to reassess his position before making any further statement to the House. It may be that the statement may be withdrawn or qualified, as it has been by other honourable Members, or in turn it may be the wish of the honourable Member to proceed with the matter, to stand by the allegation he has made and to suggest that it form part of a substantive motion, as has been the case in the past. In any case I would think that the honourable Member for York-Simcoe would want to examine and reflect upon the ruling, and I think ought to have at least 24 hours in which to do so. I would therefore look to the honourable Member for York-Simcoe for his intervention at three o'clock tomorrow afternoon, unless it is convenient for him to do so now.

Mr. Speaker informed the House that he had received an objection, signed by the honourable Members for Port Arthur, Nipissing, Timmins, Algoma, Temiskaming, Thunder Bay, Kenora-Rainy River, Fort William, Parry Sound-Muskoka and Cochrane, filed pursuant to section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act, chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970, to the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario.

By unanimous consent, it was ordered,—That the document be printed as an appendix to this day's Votes and Proceedings.

The House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. MacDonald (Rosedale), seconded by Mr. Sharp,—That Bill C-89, An Act to amend the Anti-Inflation Act, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs.

And debate continuing;

(At 5.00 o'clock p.m., Private Members' Business was called pursuant to Order made Friday, February 27, 1976)

(Notices of Motions)

Notices of Motions Nos. 2, 15, 19 and 20 were allowed to stand at the request of the government.

Mr. Orlikow, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), moved,—That, in the opinion of this House, the government should give consideration to the appointment of a special committee of this House which shall have the power to hold hearings in various parts of Canada, take testimony and hire experts, with the following terms of reference: That it shall examine the role of the Senate within Parliament and its general constitutional functions and report with recommendations on whether the Senate should continue as it has been and is, or whether it should be abolished (and, if so, by what means) or whether some form of reformed Senate is worthwhile (and, if so, what reforms). (Notice of Motion No. 34.)

And debate arising thereon;

The hour for Private Members' Business expired.

By unanimous consent, the House reverted to "Presenting Reports from Standing or Special Committees".

Mr. Béchar, from the Standing Committee on Fisheries and Forestry, presented the Sixth Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

In accordance with its Order of Reference of Tuesday, March 2, 1976, your Committee has considered the Votes under Environment in the Supplementary Estimates (B) for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1976 and reports the same.

A copy of the relevant Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence (Issues Nos. 48, 49, 50, 51 and 52) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 157 to the Journals).

Debate was resumed on the motion of Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), seconded by Mr. Sharp,—That Bill C-89, An Act to amend the Anti-Inflation Act, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs.

And debate continuing;

(Proceedings on Adjournment Motion)

At 10.00 o'clock p.m., the question "That this House do now adjourn" was deemed to have been proposed pursuant to Standing Order 40(1);

After debate, the question was deemed to have been adopted.

Changes in Committee Membership

Notice having been filed with the Clerk of the House pursuant to Standing Order 65(4)(b), membership of Committees was amended as follows:

Mr. Crouse for Mr. Oberle on the Standing Committee on Fisheries and Forestry.

Mr. Harquail for Mrs. Holt on the Standing Committee on Transport and Communications.

Mr. Skoreyko for Mr. Horner on the Standing Committee on Transport and Communications.

Returns and Reports Deposited with the Clerk of the House

The following paper having been deposited with the Clerk of the House was laid upon the Table pursuant to Standing Order 41(1), namely:

By Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), a Member of the Queen's Privy Council,—Report on the Administration of the Members of Parliament Retiring Allowances Act for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1975, pursuant to section 35 of the Act, chapter 25, R.S.C., 1970 (1st Supplement). (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-1/173A.

At 10.28 o'clock p.m., the House adjourned until tomorrow at 2.00 o'clock p.m., pursuant to Standing Order 2(1).

PRAYERS

Mr. Speaker informed the House that he had received an objection, signed by the honourable Members for Matane, Papineau, Argenteuil-Deux-Montagnes, Charlevoix, Lafontaine-Rosemont, Drummond, Maisonneuve-Rosemont, Compton, Saint-Jean and Richelieu, filed pursuant to section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act, chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970, to the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Quebec.

By unanimous consent, it was ordered,—That the document be printed as an appendix to this day's Votes and Proceedings.

Mr. Speaker informed the House that he had received an objection, signed by the honourable Members for Bellechasse, Roberval, Rimouski, Champlain, Kamouraska, Shefford, Manicouagan, Mercier, Bonaventure-Îles de la Madeleine and Joliette, filed pursuant to section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act, chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970, to the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Quebec.

By unanimous consent, it was ordered,—That the document be printed as an appendix to this day's Votes and Proceedings.

Mr. Speaker informed the House that the Clerk of the House had laid upon the Table the Twenty-sixth Report of the Clerk of Petitions, stating that he had examined the petition concerning Canada's Senior Citizens, presented by the honourable Member for Winnipeg North Centre (Mr. Knowles) on Tuesday, March 23, 1976, and finds that the petition meets the requirements of the Standing Orders as to form.

On motion of Mr. Sharp, seconded by Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), it was ordered,—That, notwithstanding any Standing Order, on the penultimate allotted day in the present supply period, at fifteen minutes before the ordinary time of adjournment, proceedings then in progress shall be interrupted and every question as may be required by section (9) of Standing Order 58 shall be put forthwith successively, without amendment or debate;

That, immediately thereafter, any other question or questions as may be necessary to dispose of any item of supplementary estimates, the restoration or reinstatement of any item in the supplementary estimates, or any opposed item in the supplementary estimates, and for the passage of any bill based thereon shall be put forthwith successively, without amendment or debate;

That, immediately thereafter, the questions on a motion to grant interim supply and for first reading of a bill based thereon shall be put forthwith successively, without amendment or debate; and

That, on the final allotted day in the present supply period, the business taken up shall be the second reading, consideration in committee of the whole, report stage and third reading of the bill based upon the motion for interim supply and that, at fifteen minutes before the ordinary hour of adjournment on the said day, proceedings then in progress shall be interrupted and every question necessary for the disposal of the said bill shall be put forthwith successively, without amendment or debate;

Provided that, on both the aforementioned days, the House shall not adjourn until all business referred to in this Order is disposed of.

Pursuant to Standing Order 39(4), the following Question was made an Order of the House for a Return:

No. 3,685—Mr. Jones

1. How much has been loaned by CIDA to (a) francophone countries (b) colonies of France in each year 1971 to 1975 (i) for what purpose (ii) at what interest rate (iii) to which countries?

2. How much has been granted by CIDA to (a) francophone countries (b) colonies of France in each year 1971 to 1975 (i) for what purpose (ii) to which countries?

3. What was the basis and criterion followed for each loan and grant in Parts 1 and 2?

4. How much money has been loaned by CIDA to (a) anglophone countries (b) countries which are not anglophone or francophone in each year 1971 to 1975 (i) for what purpose (ii) at what interest rate (iii) to which countries?

5. How much money has been granted by CIDA to (a) anglophone countries (b) countries which are not anglophone or francophone in each year 1971 to 1975 (i) for what purpose (ii) to which countries?

6. (a) Is the President of CIDA anglophone or francophone (b) what is his (i) ethnic background (ii) mother tongue?

7. What is the (a) ethnic background (b) mother tongue (c) salary for each person in the executive and management positions of CIDA?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/3,685.

Mr. Blais, Parliamentary Secretary to the President of the Privy Council, presented,—Return to the foregoing Order.

Ordered,—That there be laid before this House a copy of the resignation from the Cabinet tendered on or about March 12, 1976, by the Minister of Public Works, and a copy of the reply of the Prime Minister thereto.—(Notice of Motion for the Production of Papers No. 96—Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre)).

Notice of Motion for the Production of Papers No. 79, as follows:

That an humble Address be presented to His Excellency praying that he will cause to be laid before this House copies of all minutes of meetings, letters, telegrams between the government and the Province of Newfoundland as it relates to federal cost sharing on the current construction programme for marine service centres, having been called was, at the request of the honourable Member for Humber-St. George's-St. Barbe (Mr. Marshall), transferred by the Clerk to the order of "Notices of Motions (Papers)" pursuant to Standing Order 48(1).

The Order being read for the consideration of the Business of Supply:

Pursuant to Standing Order 58, Mr. Stevens, seconded by Mr. Baker (Grenville-Carleton), moved,—That this House deplores the contradictory economic policies of the present administration, which have failed to enhance the growth and stability of Canadian employment and industrial production, which have not encouraged investment in industry and which have permitted a serious decline in our competitive position in international markets.

After debate thereon, at 5.45 o'clock p.m., pursuant to Order made this day, proceedings were interrupted.

The motion standing in the name of the Honourable the President of the Treasury Board (Mr. Chrétien), having been called, as follows:

That Vote 10b, in the amount of $298,000 of the Department of National Revenue for Taxation—Office of the Administrator—Anti-Inflation—Programme expenditures in Supplementary Estimates (B) for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1976, be concurred in.

And a point of order having been raised by the honourable Member for Edmonton West (Mr. Lambert);

RULING BY MR. SPEAKER

MR. SPEAKER: I hesitate to interrupt the honourable Member, but I think we should be clear about the terms we are using. I will permit the honourable Member to carry on in a moment. The motion to which he is referring in the name of the President of the Treasury Board is not a motion to restore an item. That would presuppose that the House had made a disposition to reduce it. The motion in the name of the President of the Treasury Board is a motion for concurrence in the item, and it is there because there is a blanket motion in the name of the President of the Treasury Board for concurrence in all of the items in the supplementary estimates. They are not listed individually, because it is not felt necessary in the practice followed by the House over many years to list the items individually unless there is a notice of opposition. Therefore, in the face of a notice of opposition, in order to accommodate that vote, the motion is separated by practice—and by no other reason—in order to see that the notice of opposition by the honourable Member is on the Order Paper together with a specific aspect of the general notice for concurrence. But it is not a motion to restore the item; it is a motion for concurrence. If there were notices of opposition on every item contained in the supplementary estimates, presumably the House, for the purpose of recording that, would have to separate the general, blanket, omnibus motion for concurrence by the President of the Treasury Board into each item so that it would face opposite an item of objection. But is not a motion to restore the item. A motion to restore the item could presumably only be made after the House had addressed itself to a notice of objection and had accepted it in some way.

If the honourable Member for Edmonton West (Mr. Lambert) will permit me, in accordance with the rules, the honourable Member for Halton-Wentworth (Mr. Kempling) has filed a notice of objection; it is not a motion. There is no question to which the House can address itself. There is, in fact, a notice of objection which, in accordance with the rules, notified the House that the honourable Member insists on a separate vote on the particular item. There must be a question to which the House can address itself and the notice of objection by the honourable Member is not a question. Therefore, the House has nothing to which it can address itself. It is therefore necessary that some question be put on the Order Paper which identifies the area of objection, and which permits the House to address itself by a vote to a question. If one reads the notice of objection by the honourable Member for Halton-Wentworth, it is clear that the House could not address itself to such an item under the present rules unless the honourable Member had put down a motion that the House direct that something be done in respect of that item. But that is not what has taken place. Therefore, this seems to be the only feasible practice. If there is a better one, we certainly would welcome any suggestions which would clarify the position. At the moment, however, this is the only course which seems feasible.

-----

The honourable Member for Halton-Wentworth was correct in his course. The advice he received was right. As a result of the action taken by the honourable Member, and the method he used may in fact result in a vote taking place in the House on that separate item. But instead of it being a vote on a motion in the name of the honourable Member for Halton-Wentworth to effect the item, it will be a motion by the President of the Treasury Board to concur in the item. But that is as close as the House can come under present practices. I say the point of order is well noted; it is well understood and it is one to which we have addressed ourselves many times. If there is a better and more direct procedure for achieving this goal, I am sure the House would be happy to hear it. However, with all due respect, I do not believe the time to solve the problem is in this particular instance. The procedure followed with respect to this instance is precisely the same as that followed the last time around in supply.

-----

Mr. Chrétien, seconded by Mr. Sharp, moved,—That Vote 10b, in the amount of $298,000 of the Department of National Revenue for Taxation—Office of the Administrator—Anti-Inflation—Programme expenditures in Supplementary Estimates (B) for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1976, be concurred in.

And the question being put of the motion, it was agreed to, on the following division:

Mr. Chrétien, seconded by Mr. Sharp, moved,—That Supplementary Estimates (B) 1975-76, laid upon the Table, Tuesday, March 2, 1976, except the item previously disposed of, be concurred in.

And the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to, on division.

Mr. Chrétien, seconded by Mr. Sharp, moved,—That Bill C-90, An Act for granting to Her Majesty certain sums of money for the public service for the financial year ending the 31st March, 1976, be now read a first time and be printed.

And the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

Accordingly, the Bill was read the first time and ordered to be printed.

Mr. Chrétien, seconded by Mr. Sharp, moved,—That the Bill be now read a second time and referred to a Committee of the Whole House.

And the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to, on division.

Accordingly, the Bill was read the second time, considered in Committee of the Whole, reported without amendment and concurred in at the report stage.

Mr. Chrétien, seconded by Mr. Sharp, moved,—That the Bill be now read a third time and do pass.

And the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

Accordingly, the Bill was read the third time and passed.

Mr. Chrétien, seconded by Mr. Sharp, moved,—That this House do concur in Interim Supply, as follows:

That a sum not exceeding $4,970,732,370.57 being the aggregate of:

(a) three-twelfths of the total of the amounts of the items set forth in the Estimates for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1977, laid before the House of Commons on February 18, 1976, $4,424,625,940.25;

(b) an additional eight-twelfths of the total amount of Energy, Mines and Resources Items L50 and L55, Finance Item 20, Regional Economic Expansion Item 25,

Transport Item 110, Urban Affairs Item 20 (Schedule A) of the said Estimates, $8,407,333.33;

(c) an additional six-twelfths of the total amount of Urban Affairs Item 10 (Schedule B) of the said Estimates, $3,315,906.00;

(d) an additional four-twelfths of the total amount of Industry, Trade and Commerce Item 55 and Urban Affairs Item 15 (Schedule C) of the said Estimates, $150,479,333.33;

(e) an additional three-twelfths of the total amount of Energy, Mines and Resources Item L45, Regional Economic Expansion Item L35, Secretary of State Item 90, Transport Items 40, 50 and 90, and Treasury Board Items 5 and 10 (Schedule D) of the said Estimates, $133,618,375.00;

(f) an additional two-twelfths of the total amount of Finance Item 5, Indian Affairs and Northern Development Item L65, Industry, Trade and Commerce Item 75, Transport Items 65 and L75 (Schedule E) of the said Estimates, $51,615,199.33;

Your Committee has ordered a reprint of Bill S-8, as amended, for the use of the House of Commons at the report stage.

A copy of the Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence relating to this Bill (Issues Nos. 44, 45, 46 and 47) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 159 to the Journals).

Mr. Trudel for Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copies of a Statement by the Minister of Finance to a Federal-Provincial Finance Ministers' Meeting entitled "Review and Reform: Fiscal Arrangements into the 1980s", dated Thursday, April 1, 1976. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-5/16.

Mr. Forrestall, seconded by Mr. Munro (Esquimalt-Saanich), by leave of the House, introduced Bill C-431, An Act to amend the Canada Elections Act, which was read the first time and ordered to be printed and ordered for a second reading at the next sitting of the House.

Notice having been given at the previous sitting under the provisions of Standing Order 75c, Mr. Sharp, seconded by Mr. Basford, moved,—That, in relation to Bill C-83, An Act for the better protection of Canadian society against perpetrators of violent and other crime, four sitting days shall be allotted to the further consideration of the second reading stage of the said Bill; and

That, on the fourth of the said days, at fifteen minutes before the expiry of the time provided for government business in such sitting, Mr. Speaker shall interrupt any proceeding then before the House, if required for the purpose of this Order, and, shall forthwith put, without further debate or amendment, every question necessary for the disposal of the second reading stage of the said Bill.

And debate arising thereon;

[At 5.00 o'clock p.m., Private Members' Business was called pursuant to Standing Order 15(4)]

(Private Bills)

Bill S-30, An Act to incorporate Continental Bank of Canada, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs, was again considered at the report stage.

Whereupon, the House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Saltzman, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre),—That Bill S-30, An Act to incorporate Continental Bank of Canada, be amended in Clause 2 by striking out lines 23 to 30 at page 1 and lines 1 to 3 at page 2.

And debate continuing;

The hour for Private Members' Business expired.

Debate was resumed on the motion of Mr. Sharp, seconded by Mr. Basford,—That, in relation to Bill C-83, An Act for the better protection of Canadian society against perpetrators of violent and other crime, four sitting days shall be allotted to the further consideration of the second reading stage of the said Bill; and

That, on the fourth of the said days, at fifteen minutes before the expiry of the time provided for government business in such sitting, Mr. Speaker shall interrupt any proceeding then before the House, if required for the purpose of this Order, and, shall forthwith put, without further debate or amendment, every question necessary for the disposal of the second reading stage of the said Bill.

After further debate, at 9.02 o'clock p.m., Mr. Speaker interrupted the proceedings;

And the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to on the following division:

OF CANADA

OTTAWA, FRIDAY, APRIL 2, 1976

11.00 o'clock a.m.

PRAYERS

Mr. Boulanger, from the Standing Committee on Veterans Affairs, presented the Tenth Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

In accordance with its Order of Reference of Thursday, April 1, 1976, your Committee has considered Bill C-92, An Act to provide for compensation for former prisoners of war and their dependants and to amend certain other statutes in consequence thereof, and has agreed to report it with the following amendment:

Clause 15

Strike out lines 22 and 23, on page 6, and substitute the following therefor:

"15. This Act shall be deemed to have come into effect on the 1st day of April 1976."

A copy of the Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence relating to this Bill (Issue No. 22) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 160 to the Journals).

Mr. Speaker, laid upon the Table,—Copies of an Extract from the Minutes of a Meeting of the Commissioners of Internal Economy, held on Monday, March 29, 1976, concerning revisions of the salaries of employees of the House of Commons. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-1/1A.

On motion of Mr. Sharp, seconded by Mr. Andras (Port Arthur), it was ordered,—That, on Monday, April 5, 1976, the House shall continue to sit between 6.00 p.m. and 8.00 p.m.;

That, on Tuesday, April 6, 1976, the House shall not adjourn until the completion of the business provided for in this Order;

That, on the aforementioned days, no private members business shall be taken up;

That, on the aforementioned days, the business taken up shall be the consideration of objections to reports of Electoral Boundaries Commissions;

That all objections to any given report be considered at the same time;

That the objections or groups of objections, as the case may be, be considered in the order in which the objection or first objection in the group, as the case may be, was laid upon the Table; and

That during the consideration of any objection or group of objections, as the case may be, no member shall speak more than once, nor for more than twenty minutes.

Ordered,—That, when the House proceeds to consideration of the objections to the Reports of the Electoral Boundaries Commissions, the objections or groups of objections be considered as follows: Northwest Territories, Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, Alberta and British Columbia.

Ordered,—That, during the third reading stage of Bill C-92, An Act to provide for compensation for former prisoners of war and their dependants and to amend certain other statutes in consequence thereof, debate be limited to one representative of each party and no Member shall speak for more than five minutes.

By unanimous consent, Bill C-92, An Act to provide for compensation for former prisoners of war and their dependants and to amend certain other statutes in consequence thereof, as reported (with an amendment) from the Standing Committee on Veterans Affairs, was concurred in, as amended, at the report stage.

By unanimous consent, Mr. MacDonald (Cardigan), seconded by Mr. Sharp, moved,—That the Bill be now read a third time and do pass.

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

Accordingly, the Bill was read the third time and passed.

The Order being read for the second reading and reference to the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs of Bill S-32, An Act to implement conventions for the avoidance of double taxation with respect to income tax between Canada and France, Canada and Belgium and Canada and Israel;

Mr. Buchanan for Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), seconded by Mr. Cullen, moved,—That the Bill be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs.

And debate arising thereon;

[At 4.00 o'clock p.m., Private Members' Business was called pursuant to Standing Order 15(4)]

(Notices of Motions)

Notices of Motions Nos. 2, 15, 19 and 20 were allowed to stand at the request of the government.

Mr. Smith (Churchill), seconded by Mr. Munro (Esquimalt-Saanich), moved,—That, in the opinion of this House, the Standing Orders of this House should be amended to provide that there shall be a Standing Committee on Freshwater and Inland Fisheries, distinct from the Standing Committee on Fisheries and Forestry, to which shall be exclusively referred all matters relating to the freshwater and inland fisheries of Canada.—(Notice of Motion No. 42).

And debate arising thereon;

The hour for Private Members' Business expired.

PRAYERS

Pursuant to Standing Order 39(4), the following Question was made an Order of the House for a Return:

No. 3,683—Mr. Jones

1. What is the total cost of bilingualism (a) language training (b) development and promotion (c) all other costs, including the cost to replace those absent from their position or job while on training courses?

2. In each case, what are the details and costs for (a) Canada (b) each province for each year 1971 to 1975?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/3,683.

Mr. Blais, Parliamentary Secretary to the President of the Privy Council, presented,—Return to the foregoing Order.

Pursuant to Order made Friday, April 2, 1976, the House proceeded to the consideration of Objections to the Reports of the Electoral Boundaries Commissions.

The following Objection to the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Northwest Territories, filed with Mr. Speaker on Friday, March 5, 1976, was considered:

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Northwest Territories, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 24, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

1. Throughout the Northwest Territories the Commission failed to give sufficient attention to the matter of names for the new electoral districts, and ignored or overlooked the importance of choosing easily identifiable names when they divided said Territories into two electoral districts.

2. And such other objections that the undersigned Members may consider applicable in order to carry out the spirit and terms and conditions of the Act in question.

C. Symes (Sault Ste. Marie)
D. Orlikow (Winnipeg North)
A. Peters (Timiskaming)
T. C. Douglas (Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands)

The following Objections to the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario, filed with Mr. Speaker on Monday, March 8, 1976, Friday, March 12, 1976, Thursday, March 18, 1976, Monday, March 22, 1976, Tuesday, March 23, 1976, Wednesday, March 24, 1976, Thursday, March 25, 1976, Friday, March 26, 1976 and Monday, March 29, 1976, respectively, were considered:

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act, (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 27, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

1. The Town of Dunnville has been excluded from the Electoral District of Haldimand-Norfolk, despite the fact that it is one of the Municipalities forming part of the newly formed Haldimand-Norfolk Region.

2. Municipal Officials of the Town of Dunnville made recommendations to the Commission at its hearings held in Welland, Ontario, to be included in the Electoral District of Haldimand-Norfolk. These representations have been totally ignored.

3. The Commission has also overlooked the fact that historically and geographically the Town of Dunnville has always been a part of the former County of Haldimand.

4. And such other objections as the undersigned Members may consider applicable in order to carry out the spirit, terms and conditions of the Act in question.

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act, (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 27, 1976 on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

1. That the Riding of Bruce-Grey consists of more townships from the County of Bruce than from the County of Grey; therefore, it would appear more logical for the name of the Riding to remain as Bruce-Grey, rather than be changed to Grey-Bruce as indicated in the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario, 1976.

2. That Bill C-228 was given Royal Assent on March 13, 1975, which changed the name of the Riding from the Riding of Bruce to the Riding of Bruce-Grey.

3. That confusion would result if the federal Riding became Grey-Bruce rather than Bruce-Grey, as a provincial Riding is in existence with the name of Grey-Bruce.

4. And such other objections as the undersigned Members may consider applicable in order to carry out the spirit, terms and conditions of the Act in question.

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 27, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

The terms of reference I wish to use for my objection is Section 13(c)(ii) of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act, which states:

"... the Commission may depart from the strict application of rules (a) and (b) in any case where

(ii) any special community or diversity of interests of the inhabitants of various regions of the province appears to the Commission to render such a departure necessary or desirable."

This clause allowing for some flexibility for the determination of electoral boundaries is repeated in Schedule B of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario (1976):

"... the Commission may depart from such equality for any of the following reasons:

(2) special community or diversity of interests of the inhabitants of the various regions."

It is my allegation that the Report's presentment of the federal riding of Lincoln (see pg. 20-21), is in breach of the special community of interests as derived from the economic, social, historic, political and traditional associations of the Niagara fruit lands. The present boundaries of Lincoln, encompassing Niagara-on-the-Lake, Lincoln, Pelham, Grimsby and West Lincoln, reflects and follows a long-standing community of interest based on its rural, fruit-producing and agricultural characteristics.

The 1973 Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for Ontario (which was suspended on July 19, 1973) still preserved these interests when they described Lincoln as consisting of that part of the Regional Municipality of Niagara contained in the Townships of Wainfleet and West Lincoln, the Towns of Grimsby, Lincoln and Niagara-on-the-Lake and a small part of St. Catharines. A point to note here and one which shall be elaborated upon later, is that it is the City of St. Catharines which has always served as the urban centre and service centre for the Niagara fruit belt area stretching from Niagara-on-the-Lake as far as Grimsby.

The 1976 Report now proposes a major shift away from the traditional community ties as defined by the present Lincoln federal boundaries, by describing Lincoln as consisting of that part of the Regional Municipality of Hamilton-Wentworth contained in the Town of Stoney Creek and the eastern part of the City of Hamilton; and that part of the Regional Municipality of Niagara contained in the Towns of Grimsby and Lincoln.

The loss of Niagara-on-the-Lake, Pelham and West Lincoln to three other ridings, completely fragments the common agricultural interests which forms the dominant economic and social make-up on Lincoln and ends the sharing of the many historic and traditional links long held in Lincoln.

On April 9, 1974, the Honourable Allan J. MacEachen in a statement made to the Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, remarked that:

"redistribution in Canada has been a continuous endeavour to find an equitable compromise between the affirmation of the principle of representation by population and the practical recognition of the particular nature of our political, social, cultural and geographical characteristics.

That population should not be the only criterion in redistributing seats among the provinces, is a concept well established in Canadian history.

Principle of representation by population alone has never been achieved as an absolute objective because of various conditions essentially flowing from our federal structure and geographical and social make-up, such as the requirement that no riding boundary may cross a provincial boundary, community of interest, density of population, etc.

Successive Parliaments have seen fit to accept, as well as the principle of representation by population, other equally valid principles relating to Canada's rather particular geographic, constitutional, historic and ethnic backgrounds."

These principles as expounded upon by the Honourable Allan MacEachen, are especially applicable to the case for Lincoln. In terms of historic, traditional, cultural, social, economic and community interests, Lincoln riding where it contains Niagara-on-the-Lake, Lincoln, Grimsby, Pelham and West Lincoln—is and always has been regarded as, considered and thus treated as a definite community unit.

This aspect can be viewed in economic terms—the Niagara Peninsula fruit lands present a unique and essential industry and agronomy in Canada. Aside from some fruit production in British Columbia and Nova Scotia, the Niagara region alone offers the important opportunity of growing such a wide variety of fruit for Canadians. The fruit industry in this area is one with many problems and particular interests and is one which will not be served well should it be divided among five different federal ridings and thus, become an insignificant concern in each of the five ridings. It is generally agreed upon by government and the public that the fruit industry in this area must be preserved and supported—it needs a unified strong representation from a federal member. It would be in the interests of all concerned and indeed for all Canadians, if the rural fruit-growing lands could remain together in a federally designated riding in order that a strong and united representation can be made on its behalf.

The boundaries set forth by the Commission in its 1976 Report also digress from the provincial riding boundaries, municipal and regional lines. On page 4 of the Report, the Commission states the principle that:

"Keeping in mind density of population as well as community interests, the Commission has drawn the boundaries of the major cities . . . so as to follow municipal boundaries wherever possible."

This principle was ignored in the case of Lincoln by bringing together sections of the Regional Municipality of Niagara and of Hamilton-Wentworth—which in terms of historic, social, service, commercial and general interests, are diverse and represent and reflect very different community ties and concerns.

Urban encroachment is already a serious problem and especially so in the Niagara Peninsula. The problem would be further augmented by tying together rural areas with highly industrialized centres such as Hamilton. In the fifth Report and Review by the Canadian Council on Rural Development (1973), it is stated:

"The problems which develop in rural areas, particularly in the vicinity of large urban centres are such as to jeopardize not only the traditional but also the new roles of rural areas. The process of uncontrolled urban sprawl . . . results in the alienation of good farming land and the destruction of the rural nature of an area much greater than the land directly lost to urban uses."

(pg. 15—footnote: "Urban Shadow, Urban Theory and Regional Planning"—L. O. Gertler)

The Report goes on to say that the urban shadow results also in the inefficient use of farmland: there is no incentive to maintain its agricultural use because there are not agricultural support services in these areas. (pg. 16)

It is the opinion and view of most people that there has to be a definite and strong commitment to the development and vitalization of the rural economy—the benefits of which would be for all Canadians. Such development and support must come through effective policy lines and programs through the participation of unified political representation. A great deal of agricultural policy is found in the areas of stabilization programs, import and export controls, trade and tariffs, etc.—all federal responsibilities and concerns.

The fruit industry as found in the rural constituency of Lincoln containing Niagara-on-the-Lake, Lincoln, Grimsby, West Lincoln and Pelham, represents an important and viable industry in the Canadian economy and because it is unique and found in a small designated region of the Peninsula, it is my strong position that the fruit lands should remain within one federal constituency and have the support of one federal member of Parliament.

"Agricultural Statistics for Ontario" estimates for 1973, a total fruit acreage of 76,371 and total farm values at $46,852.4 ($'000). Besides the commercial fruit production, the industry must also be taken in the wider perspective to include processing, the wine industry, agricultural services, other secondary industries related and the employment generated in all of these. If agriculture is a primary industry in a region, the majority interests and concerns of the constituents relate directly or are indirectly connected with the industry, through direct revenue, employment, secondary industry and the supply of products and services.

Therefore, the fruit-growing industry as presently located in the riding of Lincoln, is of importance and consequence to all its constituents and has a direct bearing upon the region as a federally defined riding.

The interests of the inhabitants will not be served well if part of the rural sector of the Lincoln riding is suddenly linked to a highly industrialized area such as Hamilton. Nor would Hamilton serve as the service centre for Lincoln—for it has always been St. Catharines, as the centre of the fruit growing lands, which has assumed that all-important role.

If the Commission's 1976 changes for Lincoln are effected, the economic unity of the riding would be fragmented and would result in the insignificance and decline in consideration given to the fruit industry. The interests of the fruit industry would be over-shadowed and lost among the various industrial concerns and interests. The decline in effective representation of the fruit producing area would drastically accentuate the difficulties already experienced by the agronomy located here and the consequent loss would be unreconcilable.

There is no doubt that this area with its historic and rural roots firmly anchored, represents a definite community of interest and, as such, should be considered as a special community with the electoral boundaries relegated accordingly.

Finally, many objections to the Commission's Report description of Lincoln have been filed and noted. Twenty-four representations from the Peninsula were made at the public sitting held in Welland on October 28, 1975. However, except for changes to Erie to include Dunnville and for changing the name Niagara to Niagara Falls, no modifications were made to the Peninsula ridings and none whatsoever in the case of Lincoln. (see Schedule C)

It is, therefore, important to note the points made by various parties. The Lincoln Federal Association emphasized the following points:

—inadequate consideration was given to the community of interests or social and political ties of the inhabitants of the Niagara region

—there is a long political association first as Lincoln County and then as the Regional Municipality of Niagara

—all federal, provincial, municipal and regional services are located in St. Catharines, not Hamilton

—the fruit growing area would be split among five ridings

—the fruit industry requires strong representation to retain its viability

—the majority interest is rural and agricultural

The Town of Grimsby pointed out that regional boundaries would not correspond, Grimsby is in the provincial riding of Lincoln, Lincoln is fruit-growing while Hamilton is industrialized and the two have little in common and that Grimsby has a long history as part of Lincoln and this relationship should be preserved.

The Niagara Falls Riding Liberal Association noted that there is no community of interest between Niagara Falls and Niagara-on-the-Lake, that Niagara-on-the-Lake has always had its ties with St. Catharines and that no satisfactory highway system is developed between Niagara Falls and Niagara-on-the-Lake. As a fruit-growing area, Niagara-on-the-Lake has a community identity with Lincoln and is directed towards the services of St. Catharines and not Niagara Falls.

Both the Port Colborne Liberal Association and the Erie Provincial Liberal Association agreed that there are absolutely no ties between West Lincoln and Port Colborne or Erie.

An article on the subject which appeared in the St. Catharines Standard on August 19, 1975, stated that Niagara-on-the-Lake has historically been a part of the County of Lincoln and has always leaned towards St. Catharines. There was puzzlement expressed over the Commission placing Grimsby and Lincoln in a riding with the east end section of the City of Hamilton and it was felt that the realignment went against the traditional methods of redistribution.

In summation, I submit that the Commission failed to give and pay proper attention to the economic, traditional and social cohesion in the new electoral district of Lincoln; and appeared to ignore and did ignore the question of unity and the community of interest and thereby rendering inadequate representation of the people in Parliament.

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 27, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

1. While considering that the total number of electoral districts in the said province was to be increased from 88 to 95 electoral districts, the Commission failed to fully appreciate the representations made at public hearings by the citizens resident in the defined geophysical area known as Northern Ontario to the effect that their local representation in Parliament not be reduced from 12 electoral districts to 11 electoral districts.

2. The Commission failed to give and pay proper attention to the physical, social or economic cohesion in many of the new electoral districts created, and appeared to ignore and did ignore the question of unity or community of interest and thereby rendering adequate representation of the people in Parliament a virtually impossible task.

3. The Commission has failed to take into consideration the size of some of the rural electoral districts it has created and the difficulties involved in representing the residents of areas that large.

4. The Commission failed to properly appreciate and did in fact ignore the questions of unity and community of interest when assigning either new or existing names to some electoral districts in the proposed changes.

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 27, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

1. That in revising the boundaries of Broadview the Commission did not give due consideration to the geographical, historical, cultural and municipal aspects which constitute the riding.

2. That the revision contained in the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for Ontario 1973 gave a better and more accurate consideration of the geographical, historical, cultural and municipal aspects which constitute the riding.

3. That part of the proposed Rosedale riding south of Queen Street and extending from Broadview Avenue east to Leslie Street forms an integral and composite part of the Broadview riding area immediately to the north of the above described area and extending from Queen Street to Gerrard Street and from Broadview to Greenwood Avenue. These combined geographical areas constitute a community of interests in geographical, cultural, social, religious and shopping interests.

4. That a revision could be accomplished by making the proposed area of Rosedale described in paragraph 3 part of the riding of Broadview-Greenwood and by substituting the area commencing on the north side of Broadview and Mortimer Avenues and extending easterly on the north side of Mortimer Avenue to Pape Avenue and northerly on the west side of Pape Avenue to Millwood Road in the Municipality of East York as part of the proposed riding of Rosedale.

This recommendation is almost the same as the Commission's recommendation in their 1973 Report and constitutes a geographical, cultural, municipal and community of interests area of the north east part of the proposed riding of Rosedale.

5. That part of the proposed riding of Beaches commencing at Jones Avenue and Queen Street and running north on the east side of Jones Avenue to Gerrard Street and extending east on the south side of Gerrard Street to Greenwood and extending south on the west side of Greenwood to Queen Street constitutes an integral and community of interests area within the general area extending from Greenwood and Gerrard Street on the east, to Broadview Avenue and Gerrard Street on the west and south from Gerrard Street to Lakeshore Boulevard East.

6. That a revision could be accomplished by making part of the proposed riding of Beaches described in paragraph 5 part of the riding of Broadview-Greenwood by substituting the area commencing at the south side of Mortimer and Greenwood Avenues and extending easterly on the south side of Mortimer Avenue to Woodbine Avenue to form part of the proposed riding of Beaches.

This recommendation is almost the same as the Commission's recommendation in their 1973 Report and gives a common northern boundary of Mortimer Avenue to the proposed ridings of Broadview-Greenwood and Beaches.

7. That part of the proposed riding of Broadview-Greenwood north of the limits of the City of Toronto and extending to the Don River on the north and also extending to Greenwood on the east and Broadview on the west does not give due consideration to the municipal, geographical, historical, cultural and community of interests aspects of the area.

8. In addition to the revision recommended in paragraph 4 above a further revision could be accomplished by making part of the proposed area of Broadview-Greenwood described in paragraph 7 commencing on the north side of Pape and Mortimer Avenues and extending easterly on the north side of Mortimer Avenue to Greenwood Avenue and thence northerly on the west side of Greenwood Avenue to Donlands and Pape Avenues and thence southerly on the east side of Pape Avenue to Mortimer Avenue to be part of the proposed riding of York East.

This recommendation is almost the same as the Commission's recommendation in their 1973 Report and constitutes a municipal, cultural, and community of interests area with part of the proposed riding of York East.

9. That the three recommendations contained herein constitute a better geographical, municipal, cultural and community of interests integration of the general area, minimizes the movement of people from the former ridings to the newly proposed ridings and corresponds to the electoral quota for the Province of Ontario.

10. That the proposed riding name of Broadview-Greenwood be named Broadview to more accurately describe the constituency and to avoid confusion.

11. And such other objections that the undersigned members may consider applicable in order to carry out the spirit and terms and conditions of the Act in question.

I would like to raise objection to the recent Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission Tabled in the House February as it applies to the riding of London West.

On October 14, 1975, I appeared before the Federal Boundaries Commission, and my concern then, as now, revolves around approaching this matter with as little disruption as possible.

In order to achieve the population balance for both London West and London East, I would propose a minor westerly shift in the boundary in the north and with no change in the southern section.

I would like to add that these changes will have no effect on the boundaries of the surrounding ridings.

Both, Mr. Turner, the Member from London East and myself, consider this change to the Commission's proposal to be within the criterion of the Commission.

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 27, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

1. The Commission failed to give adequate attention and consideration to geographical, political, and demographic factors when planning the redistribution of the riding of Essex-Windsor and Essex-Kent, factors which are specifically provided for by subsections 13c (i) and 13c (ii) of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act to be included in the terms of reference of the Commission.

2. The Town of Harrow and the Townships of Colchester North and South have traditionally been associated with the municipalities to the West namely Amherstburg, Anderton and Malden and with the City of Windsor and they have had little association with the municipalities to the East.

3. The Commission, by making this change, has failed to give the residents of the municipalities of Harrow, Colchester North and South an opportunity to express their views on the proposal and we have received several expressions of concern in this regard.

4. The Commission has failed to give sufficient weight to the geographical size of the proposed riding of Essex-Kent resulting in a configuration which will make it difficult for the residents of the municipalities of Harrow, Colchester North and Colchester South to receive adequate representation.

5. And such other objections as the undersigned members may consider valid in order to respect the spirit, terms and conditions above mentioned.

1. That the name of the constituency marked as number 40 on the map Tabled on February 27, 1976, and called Lanark-Carleton should be changed to Lanark-Renfrew-Carleton as a number of people resident in Renfrew County will also live in that constituency.

2. That the Electoral Boundaries Commission should be invited to reconsider the boundaries of the constituencies known as Sault Ste. Marie and Algoma, numbered on the map Tabled on February 27, 1976, as numbers 70 and 1 respectively so as to more appropriately consider which groups have the greatest community of interest and are of a more urban nature and should be included in the urban constituency of Sault Ste. Marie.

3. That the Electoral Boundaries Commission should be invited to reconsider the boundary between the constituencies known as Nipissing and Renfrew-Nipissing-Pembroke so as to reduce the large number of people situated in the large rural constituency of Renfrew-Nipissing-Pembroke and increasing the number of people in the constituency centred around the community of North Bay to include more people of the Judicial District of Nipissing.

4. That the Electoral Boundaries Commission should be invited to reconsider the boundary between the constituencies of Stormont-Dundas and Glengarry-Prescott with reference to the relationship of the Township of Charlot-tenburgh and its historical relationship to the rest of Glengarry County.

5. That the Electoral Boundaries Commission should be invited to reconsider the boundary between the constituencies of Hastings-Frontenac and Victoria-Haliburton with reference to the Townships of McClure, Wicklow, Bangor, Herschel, Montegale, Carlow, Faraday, Dunganon, Mayo, Wollaston, Limerick and Cashel.

6. That the Electoral Boundaries Commission should be invited to reconsider the boundary between the constituencies of Victoria-Haliburton and York-Peel with reference to the Township of Georgina.

7. That the Electoral Boundaries Commission should be invited to reconsider the inclusion of the Township of Dunnville in the constituency of Erie rather than in the constituency of Haldimand-Norfolk.

8. That the Electoral Boundaries Commission be invited to consider the moving of the Township of Rawdon from the constituency of Hastings-Frontenac to the constituency of Northumberland and the moving of the Townships of Huntingdon and Hungerford from the constituency of Hastings-Frontenac to the constituency of Prince Edward.

9. That the Electoral Boundaries Commission be invited to reconsider the boundaries of the constituency of St. Paul's in Metropolitan Toronto to take into consideration certain areas presently divided but which share a certain "community of interest" and to make the boundaries of the said constituency more closely conform to existing Provincial and Municipal electoral demarcation lines.

3. The Commission failed to give special consideration to geographical, social and community of interest considerations respecting the inclusion of the Township of Scugog in the riding of Cobourg-Newcastle with which it has little in common.

4. The Commission failed to give adequate consideration in determining a proposed name for the riding of Durham West, a designation which will cause confusion with the electorate.

5. The Commission failed to take advantage of the population spreads available to them. Thus creating larger non-urban ridings than are required in the Act and consequently depriving rural ridings of appropriate representation.

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 27, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

1. It has been estimated that, pursuant to changes made in the boundary lines proposed for the new riding of Scarborough South arising from representations made before the Commission in the Autumn of 1975, that riding is now contiguous with the existing riding of Scarborough West for the extent of 90% of the population within the boundaries of existing Scarborough West and proposed Scarborough South.

It is therefore submitted that there should be no name change in the existing riding of Scarborough West and that this existing name should be substituted for that of Scarborough South.

2. In view of (1), the proposed riding of Scarborough West, containing as it will only some 10% of the existing riding of Scarborough West, should be changed in name.

3. In view of the long history of the riding of York Scarborough, it is proposed that this same name be continued rather than substituting the new name of Scarborough North. The proposed riding boundaries continue to extend into the Borough of North York and thus retention of the name association with that Borough is still appropriate.

4. It is also proposed in the case of this riding that the western boundary be held at Woodbine Avenue/Don Valley Parkway, a more natural and obvious boundary line than the current proposal involving Don Mills Road.

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 27, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

The terms of reference I wish to use for my objection is Section 13(c)(ii) of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act, which states:

"... the Commission may depart from the strict application of rules (a) and:

(b) any special community or diversity of interest of the inhabitants of various regions of the Province appears to the Commission to render such a departure necessary or desirable."

This allowance for some flexibility is reinforced by the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario (1976) in Schedule B, where it states:

"... the Commission may depart from such equality for any of the following reasons:

(2) special community or diversity of interests of the inhabitants of the various regions."

It is my contention that the Report's description of the federal constituency of Prince Edward (No. 64, page 27) has not considered the special community of interests as derived from the economic, social, traditional, and political association of the Southern Townships (Thurlow, Tyendinaga, Hungerford, Huntingdon) in the County of Hastings. The boundaries, as presented by the Electoral Boundaries Commission, have placed Thurlow and Tyendinaga in the new constituency of Prince Edward, without respect to the traditional associations these Townships hold with the Townships of Hungerford and Huntingdon, and the special community of interests the people in these Townships have with the City of Belleville.

The City of Belleville has always been the economic, social, and political centre for the southern portions of the County of Hastings. The people living in these Townships have always relied upon the City of Belleville as their urban centre, providing services, information, continuity, and a focal point for social and business oriented activities.

When considering the Townships of Hungerford, Huntingdon, Thurlow, and Tyendinaga, one has to consider the City of Belleville as the integral part, that it is, of these Townships. The essential economic activities of these Townships centre in Belleville as the focal point for services for the population in the surrounding area. As the former Mayor of the City of Belleville, I learned that the economic activities of these Townships are closely tied, almost dependent on Belleville. Over the years, the development of these rural areas has been closely associated with the development of Belleville. The economic structure of the area is essentially that of a single unit with the centre being Belleville, supplying the base for services (retail, utility, etc.), information (T.V., radio, newspapers), and financial activities (banking, related services), and the rural areas in the Townships providing the produce of their farming region, the manpower facilities for a thriving seasonal tourist industry, and developing industrial centres in Belleville.

The urban and rural areas have traditionally worked in close harmony. These traditional ties go back to the settlement of the area. There have always been close social and historically political links among the people of these areas. These feelings have been expressed by the P.C. Associations in the Townships and it is their hope that these long standing traditional ties will not be broken by, as they might be, the new constituency of Prince Edward, as being proposed by the Electoral Boundaries Commission.

The concerns are that the new boundaries will be a hinderance to the continuing close co-operation that the Township's authorities and the City of Belleville have always enjoyed, and that the traditionally close social, economic, and political activities of the people may suffer from this political separation of Townships, which in the past, have always been associated as a unit.

In summation, I submit that the Commission did not give proper attention to the economic, social, and traditional cohesion in the new electoral district of Prince Edward and failed to consider the question of unity and the community of interest which are an integral part of the tradition of the people of this area.

(Proceedings on Adjournment Motion)

At 10.00 o'clock p.m., the question "That this House do now adjourn" was deemed to have been proposed pursuant to Standing Order 40(1);

After debate, the question was deemed to have been adopted.

Changes in Committee Membership

Notice having been filed with the Clerk of the House pursuant to Standing Order 65(4)(b), membership of Committees was amended as follows:

Mr. Wenman for Mr. Patterson on the Standing Committee on Fisheries and Forestry.

Mr. Lawrence for Mr. Ritchie on the Standing Committee on Miscellaneous Estimates.

Messrs. Blais and Corbin for Messrs. Francis and O'Connell on the Standing Committee on Miscellaneous Estimates.

Returns and Reports Deposited with the Clerk of the House

The following papers having been deposited with the Clerk of the House were laid upon the Table pursuant to Standing Order 41(1), namely:

By Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), a Member of the Queen's Privy Council,—Report of the Anti-dumping Tribunal for the year ended December 31, 1975, pursuant to section 32 of the Anti-dumping Act, chapter A-15, R.S.C., 1970. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-1/282A.

By Mr. Sharp, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council,—Supplementary Return to an Order of the House, dated October 29, 1975 (Question No. 2,985) showing: 1. By year since 1968, when the Prime Minister came to office, how many people have been engaged in public relations on behalf of the government for each (a) department (b) agency (c) board (d) Crown corporation and, in each case, what has been the cost?

2. For the same period, how much money has been spent on advertising on other information programmes not covered in Part 1 and what are the component parts of these costs?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/2,985E.

By Mr. Sharp,—Supplementary Return to an Order of the House, dated February 16, 1976 (Question No. 3,792) showing: 1. On January 1, 1971 and January 1, 1975, by department, what were the number of persons employed on a (a) term basis (b) contract basis (c) casual basis by (i) classification (ii) salary range?

2. For the same dates and in each case, what benefits were payable to such employees by (a) classification (b) salary level (where applicable)?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/3,792I.

At 10.23 o'clock p.m., the House adjourned until tomorrow at 2.00 o'clock p.m., pursuant to Standing Order 2(1).

PRAYERS

Pursuant to Standing Order 43, on motion of Mr. Graffey, seconded by Mr. McGrath, it was agreed,—That this House expresses the gratitude of the Canadian people for the life and work of Wilder Graves Penfield and its sincere sympathy to Mrs. Penfield and the family.

Pursuant to Standing Order 43, on motion of Mr. Broadbent, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), it was agreed,—That this House expresses its profound displeasure with the CBC for giving considerably more coverage on its National News to the death of a United States multimillionaire than to that of the distinguished Canadian Dr. Wilder Graves Penfield.

By unanimous consent, Mr. Richardson, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copy of letter to Mr. R. R. Heppe, Executive Vice President, Government Programmes, Lockheed Aircraft Corporation, dated June 5, 1975 from Mr. L. H. Stopforth, Deputy Manager, LRPA Project regarding the effect of reduced cash flow in the fiscal year 1975/76 on the project.—(Ses-sional Paper No. 301-7/42B).

A point of order having been raised by the honourable Member for St. John's East (Mr. McGrath), with respect to the role of Parliamentary Secretaries in committees.

RULING BY MR. SPEAKER

MR. SPEAKER: Let me make it clear as a preliminary observation that I do not intend to stop any honourable Member from participating in the discussion. However, I think I should point out that there are two points in respect of which my opinion is quite clear.

The first point relates to my opinion in respect of the role of parliamentary secretaries with the special responsibilities they have, and, therefore, the limitation I would propose to exercise in presiding over the meetings of this assembly, specifically during the question period. I have no reason to change my opinion in that regard. I made that decision after careful consideration and representation. This is my view, and it is the view I take in exercising my decision whether to recognize a parliamentary secretary for the purpose of asking questions during the question period.

The second point has been amply demonstrated here, and I think it is worthwhile. We have under review another decision in respect of a complaint about the proceedings of standing committees, namely, a request that the Chair review a procedural decision concerning a complaint by an honourable Member of one standing committee regarding the comments or remarks of another honourable Member of the same standing committee. My second observation in this regard is that this Chair does not exercise procedural control over standing committees. Let me reaffirm my opinion that standing committees are and must remain the masters of their own procedure.

Unless the rules of this House are changed in some way I have no intention or desire of entering into, by way of appeal or review, in any way, shape or form, the decisions that ought to be made or taken into account by a standing committee. I am certainly not going to look over the shoulder of any chairman of any committee, or enter into a procedural matter by saying it was proper or improper.

There is a question of privilege before the House, and I at no time intend to restrict comment on that matter. The honourable Member for Athabasca (Mr. Yewchuk) raised a question of privilege the other day. I heard a number of contributions on that matter. I intend to listen to the fullest possible development of any question of privilege, but that is not going to draw me across the line as far as supervising the procedures of committees by way of suggestion or appeal.

To put the matter in perspective it might be more appropriate to say that I have certain powers to permit or prohibit something here but I do not have the same powers to permit or prohibit certain things in the standing committees.

The honourable Member for St. John's East (Mr. McGrath) raised what the honourable Member for Edmonton West (Mr. Lambert) described as a question of privilege. I should like to draw his attention to the fact that it was raised not as a question of privilege but as a point of order. I think that is quite proper. It concerns business in the standing committees. It relates to proceedings and in fact is a procedural question pure and simple. It is in fact a point of order concerning the privileges of honourable Members, as others have said, if it is not a point of order, they would quite readily volunteer to put forward the matter as a question of privilege if that would change its character. I do not think it would.

Honourable Members have said that when a parliamentary secretary asks questions of his own Minister in a standing committee he in fact interferes with their right as opposition Members to ask questions. You do not have to go very far from that proposition to see the difficulty that precisely the same thing would apply if it were another government Member proceeding to take up some of the time of the committee and asking the very same questions of the Minister. I do not say that in an effort to put forward an argument on one side or the other of the case. I say it only to illustrate the impossible position in which honourable Members are seeking to put the Chair by asking the Chair to pass judgment on a description on a second hand basis of events which have taken place in the standing committee, a description, which is certainly far from agreed upon, of the argument and nature of the proceedings.

For many years in this House the Chair has refrained from sitting in appeal on procedural decisions taken in standing committees. Honourable Members are seeking my guidance as to what steps I would take if I were Chairman of the standing committee involved. Surely honourable Members have the intelligence to appreciate the reasoning, that I have exposed under considerable fire, in respect of my attitude toward the role of parliamentary secretaries at proceedings over which I preside. However, with all due respect to the honourable Members who participated in this debate, let me point out that that is the limit of my authority and, unless procedural changes are made, that remains the limit, and I do not propose to attempt to exercise a nonexistent authority to appeal decisions of standing committees in procedural matters.

As I said, my reasoning is obvious and clear in respect of a situation in which one honourable Member asks questions on one day and answers them on another. I exposed my reasoning on that, and one can only speculate as to what I would do if I were sitting in the Chair of the standing committee involved. I do not propose to cross that line unless in some way Members of the House deem it proper in their wisdom to amend the procedures that have been followed so carefully which keep the Chair out of questions of order—and essentially this is a very serious and important question of order—in the standing committees. A question of order it is and the Chair will not sit in appeal on questions of order in standing committees.

The honourable Member for Crowfoot (Mr. Horner) raised a point of order in respect of a precedent. The fact is that the Chair has stayed out of the proceedings of the standing committee, as required by the citation in Beauséjour, before the proceedings of the committee were reported to the House. Once the proceedings of a committee are reported to the House the House has authority to come to grips with what has taken place in the standing committee. That is the clear distinction. If, for example, the matter before a standing committee is legislation, the matter then comes to the House at the report stage if amendments have taken place in the standing committee. The fact is that an appeal against procedural rulings in the standing committee is not provided for, but the same amendment can be and is frequently introduced in the House at the report stage that was refused on procedural grounds in the committee. Therefore, the House has to address itself as a whole to the very same decision that was taken in the standing committee.

When the proceedings of a standing committee, such as the one referred to by the honourable Member for Crowfoot, are reported to the House, a number of arguments may be put forward relating to the proceedings that took place leading up to the report, and then the House is seized with the proceedings that take place in the House in a regular procedural way. That is quite different from asking the Chair to make a judgment on a secondhand description of a decision that was taken in a standing committee.

Pursuant to Standing Order 39(4), the following two Questions were made Orders of the House for Returns:

No. 3,319—Mr. Jones

1. What departments or offices are located in Hull, Quebec?
2. Do any such departments or offices have offices located outside of Ottawa or Hull?
3. How much area or space is occupied by each department or office in Parts 1 and 2?
4. How much of the area or space in Part 3 is (a) privately (b) publicly owned?
5. (a) How many employees are employed in Hull (b) what is the total annual payroll (c) how many are (i) unilingual French (ii) unilingual English (iii) bilingual?
6. What are the details, including rent, unit rate for each tenancy or lease of all area or space rented or occupied by departments in Hull?
7. How many more departments or employees does the government plan to locate in Hull in the next (a) year (b) two years (c) three years (d) four years (e) five years?
8. Is space available or can space be allocated for such employees in Ottawa?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/3,319.

No. 3,490—Mr. Beaudoin

1. How much money has been granted to the Constituency of Richmond from 1968 to November 1, 1975, with the exception of grants made under the Opportunities for Youth, Local Initiatives and New Horizons Programmes?
2. For each such grant, what is the (a) date of approval (b) amount (c) name of the municipality concerned (d) nature of the project?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/3,490.

Mr. Blais, Parliamentary Secretary to the President of the Privy Council, presented,—Returns to the foregoing Orders.

Pursuant to Order made Friday, April 2, 1976, the House resumed consideration of Objections to the Reports of the Electoral Boundaries Commissions.

The following Objections to the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario, filed with Mr. Speaker on Monday, March 8, 1976, Friday, March 12, 1976, Thursday, March 18, 1976, Monday, March 22, 1976, Tuesday, March 23, 1976, Wednesday, March 24, 1976, Thursday, March 25, 1976, Friday, March 26, 1976 and Monday, March 29, 1976, respectively, were again considered:

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act, (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 27, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

1. The Town of Dunnville has been excluded from the Electoral District of Haldimand-Norfolk, despite the fact that it is one of the Municipalities forming part of the newly formed Haldimand-Norfolk Region.

2. Municipal Officials of the Town of Dunnville made recommendations to the Commission at its hearings held in Welland, Ontario, to be included in the Electoral District of Haldimand-Norfolk. These representations have been totally ignored.

3. The Commission has also overlooked the fact that historically and geographically the Town of Dunnville has always been a part of the former County of Haldimand.

4. And such other objections as the undersigned Members may consider applicable in order to carry out the spirit, terms and conditions of the Act in question.

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act, (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 27, 1976 on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

1. That the Riding of Bruce-Grey consists of more townships from the County of Bruce than from the County of Grey; therefore, it would appear more logical for the name of the Riding to remain as Bruce-Grey, rather than be changed to Grey-Bruce as indicated in the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario, 1976.

2. That Bill C-228 was given Royal Assent on March 13, 1975, which changed the name of the Riding from the Riding of Bruce to the Riding of Bruce-Grey.

3. That confusion would result if the federal Riding became Grey-Bruce rather than Bruce-Grey, as a provincial Riding is in existence with the name of Grey-Bruce.

4. And such other objections as the undersigned Members may consider applicable in order to carry out the spirit, terms and conditions of the Act in question.

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 27, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

The terms of reference I wish to use for my objection is Section 13(c)(ii) of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act, which states:

"... the Commission may depart from the strict application of rules (a) and (b) in any case where

(ii) any special community or diversity of interests of the inhabitants of various regions of the province appears to the Commission to render such a departure necessary or desirable."

This clause allowing for some flexibility for the determination of electoral boundaries is repeated in Schedule B of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario (1976):

"... the Commission may depart from such equality for any of the following reasons:

(2) special community or diversity of interests of the inhabitants of the various regions."

It is my allegation that the Report's presentment of the federal riding of Lincoln (see pg. 20-21), is in breach of the special community of interests as derived from the economic, social, historic, political and traditional associations of the Niagara fruit lands. The present boundaries of Lincoln, encompassing Niagara-on-the-Lake, Lincoln, Pelham, Grimsby and West Lincoln, reflects and follows a long-standing community of interest based on its rural, fruit-producing and agricultural characteristics.

The 1973 Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for Ontario (which was suspended on July 19, 1973) still preserved these interests when they described Lincoln as consisting of that part of the Regional Municipality of Niagara contained in the Townships of Wainfleet and West Lincoln, the Towns of Grimsby, Lincoln and Niagara-on-the-Lake and a small part of St. Catharines. A point to note here and one which shall be elaborated upon later, is that it is the City of St. Catharines which has always served as the urban centre and service centre for the Niagara fruit belt area stretching from Niagara-on-the-Lake as far as Grimsby.

The 1976 Report now proposes a major shift away from the traditional community ties as defined by the present Lincoln federal boundaries, by describing Lincoln as consisting of that part of the Regional Municipality of Hamilton-Wentworth contained in the Town of Stoney Creek and the eastern part of the City of Hamilton; and that part of the Regional Municipality of Niagara contained in the Towns of Grimsby and Lincoln.

The loss of Niagara-on-the-Lake, Pelham and West Lincoln to three other ridings, completely fragments the common agricultural interests which forms the dominant economic and social make-up on Lincoln and ends the sharing of the many historic and traditional links long held in Lincoln.

On April 9, 1974, the Honourable Allan J. MacEachen in a statement made to the Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, remarked that:

"redistribution in Canada has been a continuous endeavour to find an equitable compromise between the affirmation of the principle of representation by population and the practical recognition of the particular nature of our political, social, cultural and geographical characteristics.

That population should not be the only criterion in redistributing seats among the provinces, is a concept well established in Canadian history.

Principle of representation by population alone has never been achieved as an absolute objective because of various conditions essentially flowing from our federal structure and geographical and social make-up, such as the requirement that no riding boundary may cross a provincial boundary, community of interest, density of population, etc.

Successive Parliaments have seen fit to accept, as well as the principle of representation by population, other equally valid principles relating to Canada's rather particular geographic, constitutional, historic and ethnic backgrounds."

These principles as expounded upon by the Honourable Allan MacEachen, are especially applicable to the case for Lincoln. In terms of historic, traditional, cultural, social, economic and community interests, Lincoln riding where it contains Niagara-on-the-Lake, Lincoln, Grimsby, Pelham and West Lincoln—is and always has been regarded as, considered and thus treated as a definite community unit.

This aspect can be viewed in economic terms—the Niagara Peninsula fruit lands present a unique and essential industry and agronomy in Canada. Aside from some fruit production in British Columbia and Nova Scotia, the Niagara region alone offers the important opportunity of growing such a wide variety of fruit for Canadians. The fruit industry in this area is one with many problems and particular interests and is one which will not be served well should it be divided among five different federal ridings and thus, become an insignificant concern in each of the five ridings. It is generally agreed upon by government and the public that the fruit industry in this area must be preserved and supported—it needs a unified strong representation from a federal member. It would be in the interests of all concerned and indeed for all Canadians, if the rural fruit-growing lands could remain together in a federally designated riding in order that a strong and united representation can be made on its behalf.

The boundaries set forth by the Commission in its 1976 Report also digress from the provincial riding boundaries, municipal and regional lines. On page 4 of the Report, the Commission states the principle that:

"Keeping in mind density of population as well as community interests, the Commission has drawn the boundaries of the major cities . . . so as to follow municipal boundaries wherever possible."

This principle was ignored in the case of Lincoln by bringing together sections of the Regional Municipality of Niagara and of Hamilton-Wentworth—which in terms of historic, social, service, commercial and general interests, are diverse and represent and reflect very different community ties and concerns.

Urban encroachment is already a serious problem and especially so in the Niagara Peninsula. The problem would be further augmented by tying together rural areas with highly industrialized centres such as Hamilton. In the fifth Report and Review by the Canadian Council on Rural Development (1973), it is stated:

"The problems which develop in rural areas, particularly in the vicinity of large urban centres are such as to jeopardize not only the traditional but also the new roles of rural areas. The process of uncontrolled urban sprawl . . . results in the alienation of good farming land and the destruction of the rural nature of an area much greater than the land directly lost to urban uses."

(pg. 15—footnote: "Urban Shadow, Urban Theory and Regional Planning"—L. O. Gertler)

The Report goes on to say that the urban shadow results also in the inefficient use of farmland: there is no incentive to maintain its agricultural use because there are not agricultural support services in these areas. (pg. 16)

It is the opinion and view of most people that there has to be a definite and strong commitment to the development and vitalization of the rural economy—the benefits of which would be for all Canadians. Such development and support must come through effective policy lines and programs through the participation of unified political representation. A great deal of agricultural policy is found in the areas of stabilization programs, import and export controls, trade and tariffs, etc.—all federal responsibilities and concerns.

The fruit industry as found in the rural constituency of Lincoln containing Niagara-on-the-Lake, Lincoln, Grimsby, West Lincoln and Pelham, represents an important and viable industry in the Canadian economy and because it is unique and found in a small designated region of the Peninsula, it is my strong position that the fruit lands should remain within one federal constituency and have the support of one federal member of Parliament.

"Agricultural Statistics for Ontario" estimates for 1973, a total fruit acreage of 76,371 and total farm values at $46,852.4 ($'000). Besides the commercial fruit production, the industry must also be taken in the wider perspective to include processing, the wine industry, agricultural services, other secondary industries related and the employment generated in all of these. If agriculture is a primary industry in a region, the majority interests and concerns of the constituents relate directly or are indirectly connected with the industry, through direct revenue, employment, secondary industry and the supply of products and services.

Therefore, the fruit-growing industry as presently located in the riding of Lincoln, is of importance and consequence to all its constituents and has a direct bearing upon the region as a federally defined riding.

The interests of the inhabitants will not be served well if part of the rural sector of the Lincoln riding is suddenly linked to a highly industrialized area such as Hamilton. Nor would Hamilton serve as the service centre for Lincoln—for it has always been St. Catharines, as the centre of the fruit growing lands, which has assumed that all-important role.

If the Commission's 1976 changes for Lincoln are effected, the economic unity of the riding would be fragmented and would result in the insignificance and decline in consideration given to the fruit industry. The interests of the fruit industry would be over-shadowed and lost among the various industrial concerns and interests. The decline in effective representation of the fruit producing area would drastically accentuate the difficulties already experienced by the agronomy located here and the consequent loss would be unreconcilable.

There is no doubt that this area with its historic and rural roots firmly anchored, represents a definite community of interest and, as such, should be considered as a special community with the electoral boundaries relegated accordingly.

Finally, many objections to the Commission's Report description of Lincoln have been filed and noted. Twenty-four representations from the Peninsula were made at the public sitting held in Welland on October 28, 1975. However, except for changes to Erie to include Dunnville and for changing the name Niagara to Niagara Falls, no modifications were made to the Peninsula ridings and none whatsoever in the case of Lincoln. (see Schedule C)

It is, therefore, important to note the points made by various parties. The Lincoln Federal Association emphasized the following points:

- inadequate consideration was given to the community of interests or social and political ties of the inhabitants of the Niagara region
- there is a long political association first as Lincoln County and then as the Regional Municipality of Niagara
- all federal, provincial, municipal and regional services are located in St. Catharines, not Hamilton
- the fruit growing area would be split among five ridings
- the fruit industry requires strong representation to retain its viability
- the majority interest is rural and agricultural

The Town of Grimsby pointed out that regional boundaries would not correspond, Grimsby is in the provincial riding of Lincoln, Lincoln is fruit-growing while Hamilton is industrialized and the two have little in common and that Grimsby has a long history as part of Lincoln and this relationship should be preserved.

The Niagara Falls Riding Liberal Association noted that there is no community of interest between Niagara Falls and Niagara-on-the-Lake, that Niagara-on-the-Lake has always had its ties with St. Catharines and that no satisfactory highway system is developed between Niagara Falls and Niagara-on-the-Lake. As a fruit-growing area, Niagara-on-the-Lake has a community identity with Lincoln and is directed towards the services of St. Catharines and not Niagara Falls.

Both the Port Colborne Liberal Association and the Erie Provincial Liberal Association agreed that there are absolutely no ties between West Lincoln and Port Colborne or Erie.

An article on the subject which appeared in the St. Catharines Standard on August 19, 1975, stated that Niagara-on-the-Lake has historically been a part of the County of Lincoln and has always leaned towards St. Catharines. There was puzzlement expressed over the Commission placing Grimsby and Lincoln in a riding with the east end section of the City of Hamilton and it was felt that the realignment went against the traditional methods of redistribution.

In summation, I submit that the Commission failed to give and pay proper attention to the economic, traditional and social cohesion in the new electoral district of Lincoln; and appeared to ignore and did ignore the question of unity and the community of interest and thereby rendering inadequate representation of the people in Parliament.

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 27, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

1. While considering that the total number of electoral districts in the said province was to be increased from 88 to 95 electoral districts, the Commission failed to fully appreciate the representations made at public hearings by the citizens resident in the defined geophysical area known as Northern Ontario to the effect that their local representation in Parliament not be reduced from 12 electoral districts to 11 electoral districts.

2. The Commission failed to give and pay proper attention to the physical, social or economic cohesion in many of the new electoral districts created, and appeared to ignore and did ignore the question of unity or community of interest and thereby rendering adequate representation of the people in Parliament a virtually impossible task.

3. The Commission has failed to take into consideration the size of some of the rural electoral districts it has created and the difficulties involved in representing the residents of areas that large.

4. The Commission failed to properly appreciate and did in fact ignore the questions of unity and community of interest when assigning either new or existing names to some electoral districts in the proposed changes.

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 27, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

1. That in revising the boundaries of Broadview the Commission did not give due consideration to the geographical, historical, cultural and municipal aspects which constitute the riding.

2. That the revision contained in the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for Ontario 1973 gave a better and more accurate consideration of the geographical, historical, cultural and municipal aspects which constitute the riding.

3. That part of the proposed Rosedale riding south of Queen Street and extending from Broadview Avenue east to Leslie Street forms an integral and composite part of the Broadview riding area immediately to the north of the above described area and extending from Queen Street to Gerrard Street and from Broadview to Greenwood Avenue. These combined geographical areas constitute a community of interests in geographical, cultural, social, religious and shopping interests.

4. That a revision could be accomplished by making the proposed area of Rosedale described in paragraph 3 part of the riding of Broadview-Greenwood and by substituting the area commencing on the north side of Broadview and Mortimer Avenues and extending easterly on the north side of Mortimer Avenue to Pape Avenue and northerly on the west side of Pape Avenue to Millwood Road in the Municipality of East York as part of the proposed riding of Rosedale.

This recommendation is almost the same as the Commission's recommendation in their 1973 Report and constitutes a geographical, cultural, municipal and community of interests area of the north east part of the proposed riding of Rosedale.

5. That part of the proposed riding of Beaches commencing at Jones Avenue and Queen Street and running north on the east side of Jones Avenue to Gerrard Street and extending east on the south side of Gerrard Street to Greenwood and extending south on the west side of Greenwood to Queen Street constitutes an integral and community of interests area within the general area extending from Greenwood and Gerrard Street on the east, to Broadview Avenue and Gerrard Street on the west and south from Gerrard Street to Lakeshore Boulevard East.

6. That a revision could be accomplished by making part of the proposed riding of Beaches described in paragraph 5 part of the riding of Broadview-Greenwood by substituting the area commencing at the south side of Mortimer and Greenwood Avenues and extending easterly on the south side of Mortimer Avenue to Woodbine Avenue to form part of the proposed riding of Beaches.

This recommendation is almost the same as the Commission's recommendation in their 1973 Report and gives a common northern boundary of Mortimer Avenue to the proposed ridings of Broadview-Greenwood and Beaches.

7. That part of the proposed riding of Broadview-Greenwood north of the limits of the City of Toronto and extending to the Don River on the north and also extending to Greenwood on the east and Broadview on the west does not give due consideration to the municipal, geographical, historical, cultural and community of interests aspects of the area.

8. In addition to the revision recommended in paragraph 4 above a further revision could be accomplished by making part of the proposed area of Broadview-Greenwood described in paragraph 7 commencing on the north side of Pape and Mortimer Avenues and extending easterly on the north side of Mortimer Avenue to Greenwood Avenue and thence northerly on the west side of Greenwood Avenue to Donlands and Pape Avenues and thence southerly on the east side of Pape Avenue to Mortimer Avenue to be part of the proposed riding of York East.

This recommendation is almost the same as the Commission's recommendation in their 1973 Report and constitutes a municipal, cultural, and community of interests area with part of the proposed riding of York East.

9. That the three recommendations contained herein constitute a better geographical, municipal, cultural and community of interests integration of the general area, minimizes the movement of people from the former ridings to the newly proposed ridings and corresponds to the electoral quota for the Province of Ontario.

10. That the proposed riding name of Broadview-Greenwood be named Broadview to more accurately describe the constituency and to avoid confusion.

11. And such other objections that the undersigned members may consider applicable in order to carry out the spirit and terms and conditions of the Act in question.

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 27, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

I would like to raise objection to the recent Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission Tabled in the House February as it applies to the riding of London West.

On October 14, 1975, I appeared before the Federal Boundaries Commission, and my concern then, as now, revolves around approaching this matter with as little disruption as possible.

In order to achieve the population balance for both London West and London East, I would propose a minor westerly shift in the boundary in the north and with no change in the southern section.

I would like to add that these changes will have no effect on the boundaries of the surrounding ridings.

Both, Mr. Turner, the Member from London East and myself, consider this change to the Commission's proposal to be within the criterion of the Commission.

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 27, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

1. The Commission failed to give adequate attention and consideration to geographical, political, and demographic factors when planning the redistribution of the riding of Essex-Windsor and Essex-Kent, factors which are specifically provided for by subsections 13c (i) and 13c (ii) of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act to be included in the terms of reference of the Commission.

2. The Town of Harrow and the Townships of Colchester North and South have traditionally been associated with the municipalities to the West namely Amherstburg, Anderton and Malden and with the City of Windsor and they have had little association with the municipalities to the East.

3. The Commission, by making this change, has failed to give the residents of the municipalities of Harrow, Colchester North and South an opportunity to express their views on the proposal and we have received several expressions of concern in this regard.

4. The Commission has failed to give sufficient weight to the geographical size of the proposed riding of Essex-Kent resulting in a configuration which will make it difficult for the residents of the municipalities of Harrow, Colchester North and Colchester South to receive adequate representation.

5. And such other objections as the undersigned members may consider valid in order to respect the spirit, terms and conditions above mentioned.

1. The Commission failed to fully appreciate the representations made at public hearings by the citizens resident in the defined geophysical area.

2. The Commission failed to give and pay proper attention to the physical, social or economic cohesion in many of the new electoral districts created, and appeared to ignore and did ignore the question of unity or community of interest and thereby rendering adequate representation of the people in Parliament a virtually impossible task.

3. The Commission failed to properly appreciate and did in fact ignore the questions of unity and community of interest.

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 27, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

1. That the name of the constituency marked as number 40 on the map Tabled on February 27, 1976, and called Lanark-Carleton should be changed to Lanark-Renfrew-Carleton as a number of people resident in Renfrew County will also live in that constituency.

2. That the Electoral Boundaries Commission should be invited to reconsider the boundaries of the constituencies known as Sault Ste. Marie and Algoma, numbered on the map Tabled on February 27, 1976, as numbers 70 and 1 respectively so as to more appropriately consider which groups have the greatest community of interest and are of a more urban nature and should be included in the urban constituency of Sault Ste. Marie.

3. That the Electoral Boundaries Commission should be invited to reconsider the boundary between the constituencies known as Nipissing and Renfrew-Nipissing-Pembroke so as to reduce the large number of people situated in the large rural constituency of Renfrew-Nipissing-Pembroke and increasing the number of people in the constituency centred around the community of North Bay to include more people of the Judicial District of Nipissing.

4. That the Electoral Boundaries Commission should be invited to reconsider the boundary between the constituencies of Stormont-Dundas and Glengarry-Prescott with reference to the relationship of the Township of Charlottenburgh and its historical relationship to the rest of Glengarry County.

5. That the Electoral Boundaries Commission should be invited to reconsider the boundary between the constituencies of Hastings-Frontenac and Victoria-Haliburton with reference to the Townships of McClure, Wicklow, Bangor, Herschel, Montegale, Carlow, Faraday, Dunganon, Mayo, Wollaston, Limerick and Cashel.

6. That the Electoral Boundaries Commission should be invited to reconsider the boundary between the constituencies of Victoria-Haliburton and York-Peel with reference to the Township of Georgina.

7. That the Electoral Boundaries Commission should be invited to reconsider the inclusion of the Township of Dunnville in the constituency of Erie rather than in the constituency of Haldimand-Norfolk.

8. That the Electoral Boundaries Commission be invited to consider the moving of the Township of Rawdon from the constituency of Hastings-Frontenac to the constituency of Northumberland and the moving of the Townships of Huntingdon and Hungerford from the constituency of Hastings-Frontenac to the constituency of Prince Edward.

9. That the Electoral Boundaries Commission be invited to reconsider the boundaries of the constituency of St. Paul's in Metropolitan Toronto to take into consideration certain areas presently divided but which share a certain "community of interest" and to make the boundaries of the said constituency more closely conform to existing Provincial and Municipal electoral demarcation lines.

1. The Commission failed to comply with the provisions of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act respecting the Province of Ontario through its failure to provide in its recommendation a "reason therefor" as required in the Statute in Section 2, sub-section (1).

2. The Commission failed to give special consideration to geographical, social and community of interest considerations respecting the Township of Georgina by proposing to locate the said Township in the riding of Victoria-Haliburton with which it has little or no association.

3. The Commission failed to give special consideration to geographical, social and community of interest considerations respecting the inclusion of the Township of Scugog in the riding of Cobourg-Newcastle with which it has little in common.

4. The Commission failed to give adequate consideration in determining a proposed name for the riding of Durham West, a designation which will cause confusion with the electorate.

5. The Commission failed to take advantage of the population spreads available to them. Thus creating larger non-urban ridings than are required in the Act and consequently depriving rural ridings of appropriate representation.

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 27, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

1. It has been estimated that, pursuant to changes made in the boundary lines proposed for the new riding of Scarborough South arising from representations made before the Commission in the Autumn of 1975, that riding is now contiguous with the existing riding of Scarborough West for the extent of 90% of the population within the boundaries of existing Scarborough West and proposed Scarborough South.

It is therefore submitted that there should be no name change in the existing riding of Scarborough West and that this existing name should be substituted for that of Scarborough South.

2. In view of (1), the proposed riding of Scarborough West, containing as it will only some 10% of the existing riding of Scarborough West, should be changed in name.

3. In view of the long history of the riding of York Scarborough, it is proposed that this same name be continued rather than substituting the new name of Scarborough North. The proposed riding boundaries continue to extend into the Borough of North York and thus retention of the name association with that Borough is still appropriate.

4. It is also proposed in the case of this riding that the western boundary be held at Woodbine Avenue/Don Valley Parkway, a more natural and obvious boundary line than the current proposal involving Don Mills Road.

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 27, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

The terms of reference I wish to use for my objection is Section 13(c)(ii) of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act, which states:

"... the Commission may depart from the strict application of rules (a) and:

(b) any special community of diversity of interest of the inhabitants of various regions of the Province appears to the Commission to render such a departure necessary or desirable."

This allowance for some flexibility is reinforced by the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario (1976) in Schedule B, where it states:

"... the Commission may depart from such equality for any of the following reasons:

(2) special community or diversity of interests of the inhabitants of the various regions."

It is my contention that the Report's description of the federal constituency of Prince Edward (No. 64, page 27) has not considered the special community of interests as derived from the economic, social, traditional, and political association of the Southern Townships (Thurlow, Tyendinaga, Hungerford, Huntingdon) in the County of Hastings. The boundaries, as presented by the Electoral Boundaries Commission, have placed Thurlow and Tyendinaga in the new constituency of Prince Edward, without respect to the traditional associations these Townships hold with the Townships of Hungerford and Huntingdon, and the special community of interests the people in these Townships have with the City of Belleville.

The City of Belleville has always been the economic, social, and political centre for the southern portions of the County of Hastings. The people living in these Townships have always relied upon the City of Belleville as their urban centre, providing services, information, continuity, and a focal point for social and business oriented activities.

When considering the Townships of Hungerford, Huntingdon, Thurlow, and Tyendinaga, one has to consider the City of Belleville as the integral part, that it is, of these Townships. The essential economic activities of these Townships centre in Belleville as the focal point for services for the population in the surrounding area. As the former Mayor of the City of Belleville, I learned that the economic activities of these Townships are closely tied, almost dependent on Belleville. Over the years, the development of these rural areas has been closely associated with the development of Belleville. The economic structure of the area is essentially that of a single unit with the centre being Belleville, supplying the base for services (retail, utility, etc.), information (T.V., radio, newspapers), and financial activities (banking, related services), and the rural areas in the Townships providing the produce of their farming region, the manpower facilities for a thriving seasonal tourist industry, and developing industrial centres in Belleville.

The urban and rural areas have traditionally worked in close harmony. These traditional ties go back to the settlement of the area. There have always been close social and historically political links among the people of these areas. These feelings have been expressed by the P.C. Associations in the Townships and it is their hope that these long standing traditional ties will not be broken by, as they might be, the new constituency of Prince Edward, as being proposed by the Electoral Boundaries Commission.

The concerns are that the new boundaries will be a hinderance to the continuing close co-operation that the Township's authorities and the City of Belleville have always enjoyed, and that the traditionally close social, economic, and political activities of the people may suffer from this political separation of Townships, which in the past, have always been associated as a unit.

In summation, I submit that the Commission did not give proper attention to the economic, social, and traditional cohesion in the new electoral district of Prince Edward and failed to consider the question of unity and the community of interest which are an integral part of the tradition of the people of this area.

The following Objections to the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Quebec, filed with Mr. Speaker on Wednesday, March 10, 1976, Tuesday, March 23, 1976, Wednesday, March 24, 1976, Thursday, March 25, 1976 and Friday, March 26, 1976, respectively, were considered:

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Quebec, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 27, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

1. In some areas of the Province of Quebec, the Commission did not see fit to apply the principles stated in its own objectives.
2. The Commission has not taken into account the size of some semi-urban, semi-rural electoral districts in allocating to them excessively large populations.
3. The Commission has not always applied the principle that a district which is exclusively or almost exclusively urban should have a larger population.
4. And such other objections as the undersigned Members may consider valid in order to respect the spirit, terms and conditions above-mentioned.

1. The Commission has not paid sufficient attention to feelings of individuals belonging to a region when choosing a name for a particular constituency, that of Deux-Montagnes.
2. When choosing the name for this constituency, the Commission did not take into account sufficiently the great number of citizens identified with a region for geographical, political and historical reasons, namely the Blainville region.
3. Consequently, it is requested that the Commission change the name of the electoral constituency of "DEUX-

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Quebec, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 27, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

1. That in revising the boundaries of the federal constituency of Laval, the Commission failed to give and pay proper attention to the physical, social or economic unity in many of the newly created constituencies. The Commission seems to have ignored, and has actually ignored, the question of unity or common interest, such as specified in the brief submitted by the Laval Chamber of Commerce, thus making more difficult an adequate representation of the population in Parliament.

2. That in revising the boundaries of the federal constituency of Laval, the Commission has failed to either give any reasons or in other instances adequate detail of reasons for proposed changes in constituency boundaries or the elimination of constituencies as such.

3. And such other objections that the undersigned Members may consider applicable in order to carry out the spirit and terms and conditions of the Act in question.

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Quebec, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 27, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

1. That in revising the boundaries of the federal constituency of Westmount, the Commission failed to give and pay proper attention to the physical, social or economic cohesion in many of the new electoral districts created and appeared to ignore and did ignore the question of unity or community of interest and thereby rendering more difficult adequate representation of the people in Parliament.

2. That in revising the boundaries of the federal constituency of Westmount, the Commission has failed to either give any reasons or in other instances adequate detail of reasons for proposed changes in constituency boundaries or the elimination of constituencies as such.

3. And such other objections that the undersigned Members may consider applicable in order to carry out the spirit and terms and conditions of the Act in question.

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Quebec, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 27, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

1. The Commission failed to give proper attention to the population's feeling of belonging to one region when it selected a name for one particular constituency, namely that of Charlevoix.

2. In choosing the name for this constituency, the Commission did not adequately take into account the importance of the number of citizens who feel linked to a region, in this case the Saguenay region, for geographical, political and historical reasons.

3. Consequently, we ask the Commission to change the name of the electoral constituency of Charlevoix to that of Charlevoix-Saguenay.

1. The name of the constituency of Berthier-Maskinongé has been changed to Berthier only.

2. Some municipalities which have been attached to the constituencies of Joliette, Trois-Rivières and Saint-Maurice, should, for geographic and economic reasons, be attached to the constituency of Berthier-Maskinongé.

3. Some municipalities which have been attached to the constituency of Berthier-Maskinongé should, for geographic consideration, belong to some adjacent constituencies.

The following Objection to the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Nova Scotia, filed with Mr. Speaker on Tuesday, February 24, 1976, was again considered:

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Act (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Nova Scotia, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on Monday, January 26, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

1. The Commission failed to give and pay proper attention to the physical, social or economic cohesion in many of the new electoral districts created and appeared to ignore and did ignore the question of unity or community of interest and thereby rendering more difficult adequate representation of the people in Parliament.

2. The Commission failed to retain historic and traditional names in some of the proposed changes.

3. And such other objections that the undersigned Members may consider applicable in order to carry out the spirit and terms and conditions of the Act in question.

The following Objection to the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Alberta, filed with Mr. Speaker on Wednesday, March 3, 1976, was again considered:

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Alberta, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 18, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

1. In some areas of Alberta, the Commission failed to give special emphasis to geographical considerations, the sparsity and density of the population, and ignored or overlooked the special problems of communication and transportation when the Commission divided the said province into twenty-one (21) new electoral districts.

2. In certain areas of Alberta, the Commission failed to give special consideration and special appreciation to accessibility of one region to another region in many of the rural electoral districts when determining the boundaries of the same.

3. The Commission failed to give and pay proper attention to the physical, social or economic cohesion in many of the new electoral districts created, and appeared to ignore and did ignore the question of unity or community of interest and thereby rendering adequate representation of the people in Parliament a virtually impossible task.

4. The Commission erred by failing to apply, for maximum benefit, the terms and conditions of Section 13(i) and (ii) of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act.

5. The Commission has failed to take into consideration the size of some of the rural constituencies it has created, and the difficulty involved in representing an area that large. Although Alberta's representation has increased from nineteen (19) to twenty-one (21), three go to Edmonton and Calgary, so rural Alberta loses one seat.

6. The Commission has failed to either give any reasons or in other instances adequate detail of reasons for proposed changes in constituency boundaries or the elimination of constituencies as such.

7. The Commission has not established the rationale of the decision to limit the urban city ridings at the boundary limits of the cities of Edmonton and Calgary so as to eliminate a possible urban domination of the adjacent rural populations and then immediately reversed itself in its designation of adjacent constituencies where the rural populations are entirely dominated by those of suburban communities whose demographic interests are wholly urban-oriented.

8. The Commission has failed to take into account the fact that the Metro Edmonton population substantially exceeds that of Calgary yet its proposals accord an equal number of constituencies to both Metro City areas.

9. And such other objections that the undersigned Members may consider applicable in order to carry out the spirit and terms and conditions of the Act in question.

The following Objections to the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of British Columbia, filed with Mr. Speaker on Wednesday, March 10, 1976, were again considered:

That, pursuant to Section 20 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act (Chapter E-2, R.S.C., 1970), consideration be given by this House to the matter of an objection to the provisions of the Report of the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of British Columbia, laid before this House by Mr. Speaker on February 11, 1976, on the grounds set forth hereinafter:

1. The Commission failed to give adequate attention and consideration to geographical, political, and demographic factors when planning the redistribution of the riding of Kootenay West, factors which are specifically provided for by subsections 13(i) and 13(ii) of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act to be included in the terms of reference of the Commission.

2. The Commission has not adequately taken into consideration the physical difficulties involved in representing the proposed new riding.

3. The Commission has not given adequate consideration to the sentiments expressed by the local populace regarding redistribution, and is thereby in danger of lessening their ability to receive maximum benefit from the representative system of this country.

4. The Commission has not taken adequate account of the peculiar combination of population growth patterns and economic development taking place in Southeastern British Columbia as it affects the redistribution of this riding.

HOUSE OF COMMONS

OF CANADA

OTTAWA, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 7, 1976

2.00 o'clock p.m.

PRAYERS

Pursuant to Standing Order 43, on motion of Mr. Prud'homme, seconded by Mr. Cullen, it was resolved,—That this House affirms its support of the Order of Canada as a public recognition and expression of gratitude to those distinguished Canadians who contribute in their own work or in public and charitable service, above and beyond the average.

Mr. Robinson, from the Standing Committee on Health, Welfare and Social Affairs, presented the Tenth Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

In accordance with its Order of Reference of Monday, March 29, 1976, your Committee has considered Bill S-31, An Act to amend the Quarantine Act, and has agreed to report it without amendment.

A copy of the Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence relating to this Bill (Issues Nos. 47, 48 and 49) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 161 to the Journals).

Mr. Loiselle (Saint-Henri), from the Standing Committee on Miscellaneous Private Bills and Standing Orders, presented the Ninth Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

Pursuant to its Order of Reference of Wednesday, March 31, 1976, your Committee has considered the petition of United Grain Growers Limited, praying for the passing of an Act amending its Act of Incorporation to increase the capital stock of the company, and for other purposes, filed after the time limit specified under Standing Order 90, together with the revised Twenty-Seventh Report of the Clerk of Petitions thereon, presented to the House on Tuesday, March 30, 1976.

The Parliamentary Agent stated that the delay beyond the time specified by Standing Order 90 was occasioned, in part, by factors beyond the control of the petitioners. Nevertheless, he stated that it is important that the proposed legislation be allowed to proceed during the present session of Parliament. He therefore respectfully asked that this petition be received.

After hearing the reasons given for the late filing of this petition, your Committee recommends that Standing Order 90 be suspended in relation thereto, and that this petition be received. The consequent charges as provided for by Standing Order 91(3)(a) and (c) amount to $300.

The petition referred to above, together with the revised Twenty-Seventh Report of the Clerk of Petitions, are returned herewith.

A copy of the relevant Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence (Issue No. 7) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 162 to the Journals).

Mr. Baker (Grenville-Carleton), seconded by Mr. Munro (Esquimalt-Saanich), by leave of the House, introduced Bill C-432, An Act to register lobbyists, which was read the first time and ordered to be printed and ordered for a second reading at the next sitting of the House.

Pursuant to Standing Order 39(4), the following two Questions were made Orders of the House for Returns:

No. 3,261—Mr. Baker (Grenville-Carleton)

1. What was the effective date of Treasury Board Circular No. 1973-88?

2. Since that date, in how many competitions have the provisions of paragraph 32 of the Circular been applied?

3. How many of the competitions in which paragraph 32 was applied were (a) within the National Capital Region (b) within the Province of Quebec (c) in the rest of Canada (d) for positions carrying an annual salary of (i) $10,000 or less (ii) between $10,000 and $20,000 (iii) in excess of $20,000?

4. With whom does the power of decision rest in applying the provisions of paragraph 32 to a staff competition?

5. What, if any, provisions exist for (a) internal review of any such decisions (b) appeal against any such decision by employees?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/3,261.

No. 4,927—Mr. Caouette (Témiscamingue)

1. Since January 1970, how many new immigrants were (a) hired as professionals (b) hired as non-professionals (c) given non-specialized jobs (d) unemployed in (i) rural (ii) semi-rural areas and what was their ethnic origin?

2. What percentage of immigrants decided to settle in rural and semi-rural areas in (a) Canada (b) each province?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/4,927.

Mr. Blais, Parliamentary Secretary to the President of the Privy Council, presented,—Returns to the foregoing Orders.

Notice of Motion for the Production of Papers No. 68, as follows:

That an humble Address be presented to His Excellency praying that he will cause to be laid before this House copies of all correspondence, minutes of meetings, letters and telegrams relating to Canada's $11 million claim against the Government of France as a result of the opting out by France of the NATO military alliance and the eviction of participating units in 1966, having been called was, at the request of the Honourable the President of the Privy Council (Mr. Sharp), transferred by the Clerk to the order of "Notices of Motions (Papers)" pursuant to Standing Order 48(1).

The House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Basford, seconded by Mr. Allmand,—That Bill C-83, An Act for the better protection of Canadian society against perpetrators of violent and other crime, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs.

And on the motion of Mr. Woolliams, seconded by Mr. MacLean, in amendment thereto,—That all the words after "That" be deleted and the following substituted therefor:

"Bill C-83, An Act for the better protection of Canadian society against perpetrators of violent and other crime, be not now read a second time but that the subject-matter thereof be referred to the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs."

And debate continuing;

A Message was received from the Senate informing this House that the Senate had passed Bill C-92, An Act to provide for compensation for former prisoners of war and their dependants and to amend certain other statutes in consequence thereof, without amendment.

Changes in Committee Membership

Notice having been filed with the Clerk of the House pursuant to Standing Order 65(4)(b), membership of Committees was amended as follows:

PRAYERS

Ordered,—That at 4.00 o'clock p.m., this day, the House revert to "Routine Proceedings".

RULING BY MR. SPEAKER

MR. SPEAKER: I gave some indication yesterday of an intention to finalize today a question of privilege of some importance which was raised a few days ago by the honourable Member for Athabasca (Mr. Yewchuk). It was contributed to by several honourable Members, very significantly by the honourable Member for Lambton-Kent (Mr. Holmes), and in turn, because it involved certain allegations respecting remarks by the honourable Member for Vancouver-Kingsway (Mrs. Holt).

The question of privilege raises two very serious problems, the first having to do with the conduct of affairs in our standing committees. I want to make it clear that while I have given several indications of my reluctance to alter the practice of the Chair of staying away from reviewing decisions of any sort of the standing committees except within the proper proceedings of the House, I do want to make it clear that it is perfectly understood that questions of privilege, if they do in fact exist, are not confined to incidents which take place in the Chamber.

Obviously, questions of privilege can arise from events which take place outside the Chamber, and therefore, it follows, in the standing committees. There is no question about that. If, in fact, a matter does give rise to a question of privilege within our precedents and practices, whether that takes place outside the Chamber, and perhaps in a standing committee, would in no way disqualify it. However, the situation which is before us, seems to me, involves not only a disagreement on substance, but perhaps also a disagreement on procedure. It may involve a question of order in the committee. I say that it may, but indeed, all these are questions which are within the competence of the standing committee to deal with, and in fact the standing committee dealt with it in one way or another. However, that was resolved in the standing committee, it seems to me that it did involve questions of order, procedure or substance in the committee, and ought not to be a part of the concern of the Chair.

I think the reasoning for that is obvious. When it was seen that there was serious disagreement about the interpretation which ought to have been put on words, events, the manner in which they took place and their intentions, the House has also been very careful in the past to avoid the immense difficulties which would obviously arise if the House was to constitute itself into one standing committee for the purpose of investigating proceedings which have taken place in another standing committee. Therefore, I would reject—except under the clearly established and narrow definitions to which we have referred in the past—that privilege, and in this respect it must almost constitute an obstruction of the ability of a Member to function. Therefore, in respect to the events which took place in the standing committee and the disagreements between honourable Members there, I find that they might constitute a number of matters of great concern, but they do not qualify as a question of privilege, and therefore I will not review the events which took place there.

However, there is another aspect to this question, and that is the comments of a journalist, who was described in the development of the question of privilege by the honourable Member for Athabasca as an employee of the CTV network, Mr. Eric Malling. It has been suggested that he used the following language in editorializing on the performance of certain members of the Official Opposition in that committee:

“The Conservative representation on the committee consisted of four doctors and a more shameless defence of the witness I have never seen. The way these doctors stick together you would think they had a sponge in a stiff—the entire lot of them.”

I will perhaps reserve until later any comments I would want to make about the quality of that language or the quality of the reporting. The concern I have now is not so much with that as it is with the very difficult problem and the very real problem which has been revealed by this question of privilege raised by the honourable Member for Athabasca, and that is the balance which must be maintained between the right of individual Members or the membership of this House collectively to punish contempt of this House or its Members and to punish libels against its Members or aspersions on their conduct and, on the other hand, the right of a journalist, or indeed, of a citizen, to make public comment, to make criticism and in fact to express opinion, which obviously is not subject to questions of truth, but to the standards of opinion as to the performance of elected Members. There have been very few incidents in which journalists have been censured in this way in the history of the House of Commons for the obvious reason that—and I think quite appropriately—it has always been decided, in situations of that sort, that where there was a doubt between the two rights which were enjoyed, that doubt ought always to be resolved in favour of the public, not only to criticize us, but in fact to make comments about their political attitudes toward us. There does seem to be a suggestion from time to time that privilege extends to us as Members of this House a sort of special protection above and beyond that enjoyed by the ordinary citizen in this regard. I think it ought to be very clearly stated that this in fact is not the case. There is no historical support for that notion. Nor do I see any reason why that should be the situation.

The protection in respect of public comment made either by a citizen or a journalist that is enjoyed by every private citizen is and ought to be more than adequate for the protection of Members of this House in that same regard. Rather than attempt to describe it in my own language, I find comments of great interest and relevance in the report recently tabled of the Select Committee on Parliamentary Privilege in the United Kingdom. I will quote from pages 15 and 16 of that report, and I think Members will find it illuminating.

Bearing in mind this is not an authoritative document by that Parliament, but really is the result of a very serious and thorough study into the question of privilege—and I will in a moment be making reference to the study we are about to launch here at the instance of the honourable Member for Peace River (Mr. Baldwin)—I will quote from paragraph 43, and I think the language is interesting:

“The proposal made in paragraph 42 is fully consistent with the principle which your committee believe to be right, that the House should be slow and reluctant to use its penal powers to stifle criticism or even abuse, whether of the machinery of the House, of a Member or of an identifiable group of Members, however strongly the criticism may be expressed and however unjustifiable it may appear. Your committee regard such criticism as the life-blood of democracy. In their view the sensible politician expects and even welcomes criticism of this nature. Nonetheless, a point may be reached at which conduct ceases to be merely intemperate criticism and abuse and becomes or is liable to become an improper obstruction of the functions of Parliament. For such cases, however rare, the penal powers must be preserved and the House must be prepared to exercise them.”

The second quotation is on the following page part way down, paragraph 46 as follows:

“In your committee's opinion it would be an indefensible abuse of power if a Member could evade such a defence by invoking the penal jurisdiction of the House. The citizen has prima facie a right to make fair comment upon such activity of a Member as is a matter of public interest; his right is even stronger to speak and publish the truth of a Member's conduct. These rights should not in the normal way be defeated by the use of the penal jurisdiction of the House. The exceptions to this general principle are likely to be rare. But if the rights of a citizen, though enforceable in the courts of law, are so exercised as to be likely improperly to obstruct the Member in the performance of his Parliamentary duty, it must be within the power of the House to restrain him”.

I adopt that reasoning, and I think I can simply state that however reprehensible and insulting the language used by the columnist or journalist referred to by the honourable Member, and however unnecessary it may seem to be in order to report the proceedings of this House to stoop to that kind of language and comment, I cannot find in it a transgression of the rights collectively or individually to such an extent that the privilege procedures ought to be invoked by this House in order to censure the journalist.

Therefore, being in some doubt about that, I would resolve the doubt in favour of the public's right to criticize us, and find again that no question of privilege exists. This is not to say there are not legitimate concerns raised by the honourable Member for Athabasca. Often this is typical of the case that while the precedents and practices vis-a-vis privilege as we know it, and which is confined after all to the very narrow term, do not fit the situation in which the House finds itself, they nevertheless seem to be the only way out for a Member to attempt to retaliate for this kind of language used in public.

Therefore, I say that the honourable Member for Athabasca has, as other Members have in the past, raised a question of very legitimate and serious concern. It arises, I might also say in passing, whenever Members of the House get into the unfortunate habit or practice of departing from the subject-matter of debate at the moment and get into personal references about Members, of any sort. It occasionally happens in the heat of debate, and we all experience that. I think we all learn the lesson that when this happens the reason it has been traditionally ruled a disorder, when it does occur, is for the simple reason that it is never really truly relevant to the subject-matter under debate. If honourable Members can bring themselves to refrain from the practice of departing from the subject-matter of debate and getting on to either the qualifications, personal or otherwise, of Members or their own personal record or performance, certainly a good deal of this difficulty could be avoided.

However, I do say to the honourable Member for Athabasca and the honourable Member for Lambton-Kent, and others who did participate in this, that it did raise problems that are not isolated and that are very serious. I think I have made my feelings clear about some of the aspects of the problems that are before us. I do want to assure honourable Members that in launching into the work, largely, as I say, at the initiation of the honourable Member for Peace River, on the study here in this Parliament, over which I will preside, of the rights and immunities of Members of the House of Commons, not only will the work of the select committee in the United Kingdom form a very important working paper for us, but this experience will certainly be given very careful consideration in the deliberations and work of that committee in the hope that we can expose some clear guidelines for the protection of honourable Members in situations of this sort, and a clearer understanding of privilege as it relates to these kinds of situations.

Mr. Robinson, from the Standing Committee on Health, Welfare and Social Affairs, presented the Eleventh Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

In accordance with its Order of Reference of Thursday, March 18, 1976, your Committee has considered Bill C-68, An Act to amend the Medical Care Act, and has agreed to report it with the following amendments:

Clause 1

Strike out lines 29 to 32 on page 1 and lines 1 to 15 on page 2 and substitute the following therefor:

"(b) 110 1/2% of the amount determined pursuant to subsection (2.1) in respect of the year ending on March 31, 1977."

Strike out lines 27 to 46 on page 2 and lines 1 to 3 on page 3 and substitute the following therefor:

"(b) such amount, if any, as is determined in a manner prescribed by order of the Governor in Council for insured services in respect of the year for which the determination is to be made."

Strike out lines 7 to 44 on page 3 and substitute the following therefor:

"(5) This section does not apply to the determination of the amount payable by Canada to a province for a year in respect of new insured services furnished pursuant to the medical care insurance plan of the province and in this section the expression "insured services" does not include new insured services.

(6) For the purposes of subsection (5) and section 5.1, "new insured services" means health services prescribed after June 23, 1975 by the Minister pursuant to subsection 4(3) and "class of new insured services" means all those new insured services so prescribed by the Minister in a particular order made by him pursuant to that subsection."

New Clause 2

Add immediately after Clause 1 on page 3, the following:

2. The said Act is further amended by adding thereto, immediately after section 5 thereof, the following section:

"5.1 (1) The amount of the contribution payable by Canada to a province for a year in respect of a class of new insured services of that province is an amount, as determined by the Minister on the basis of information furnished as required by this Act, equal to 50% of

(a) the per capita cost for the year of all new insured services of that class furnished pursuant to medical care insurance plans of participating provinces multiplied by

(b) the average for the year of the number of insured persons in the province at the end of each month in the year.

(2) Subsections 5(2), (3) and (4) apply in determining the amount of the contribution payable by Canada to a province for a year in respect of a class of new insured services of that province as if the references in those subsections to "insured services" were references to "new insured services" of that particular class.

(3) Notwithstanding subsection 5(2) as it applies in determining the per capita cost for a year of all new insured services of a particular class furnished pursuant to medical care insurance plans of participating provinces, subject to subsection (4), the per capita cost thereof for

(a) the year ending on the 31st of March that is more than thirty-six and not more than forty-eight months after the effective date of the order prescribing the new insured services comprising the class of new insured services, and

(b) each year thereafter, is an amount equal to the lesser of

(c) the amount so determined pursuant to subsection 5(2) in respect of the year for which the determination is to be made, and

(d) such amount, if any, as is determined in a manner prescribed by order of the Governor in Council for new insured services of the particular class in respect of the year for which the determination is to be made.

(4) Where the effective date of an order of the Governor in Council prescribing new insured services that comprise a class of new insured services is other than the 1st of April, the per capita cost of all new insured services of that class furnished pursuant to medical care insurance plans of participating provinces, for that portion of the year described in paragraph (3)(a) that is less than thirty-six months after the effective date of the order, shall be determined without regard to subsection (3)."

Your Committee has ordered a reprint of Bill C-68, as amended, for the use of the House of Commons at the report stage.

A copy of the Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence relating to this Bill (Issues Nos. 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 49 and 50) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 165 to the Journals).

Mr. Rompkey, from the Standing Committee on Labour, Manpower and Immigration, presented the Sixth Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

In accordance with its Order of Reference of Wednesday, February 25, 1976, your Committee has considered the Votes under Labour in the Estimates for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1977 and reports the same.

A copy of the relevant Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence (Issues Nos. 32 and 33) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 166 to the Journals).

The House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Basford, seconded by Mr. Allmand,—That Bill C-83, An Act for the better protection of Canadian society against perpetrators of violent and other crime, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs.

And on the motion of Mr. Woolliams, seconded by Mr. MacLean, in amendment thereto,—That all the words after "That" be deleted and the following substituted therefor:

"Bill C-83, An Act for the better protection of Canadian society against perpetrators of violent and other crime, be not now read a second time but that the subject-matter thereof be referred to the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs."

And debate continuing;

At 4.00 o'clock p.m., pursuant to Order made this day, the House reverted to "Routine Proceedings".

Mr. Trudeau, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copies of letters from the Prime Minister of Canada to the Premiers of the Provinces, dated April 19, 1975 and March 31, 1976, concerning "Patriation" of the BNA Act, together with attachments. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-5/63.

And the question being put on the motion of Mr. Basford, seconded by Mr. Allmand,—That Bill C-83, An Act for the better protection of Canadian society against perpetrators of violent and other crime, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs, it was agreed to, on division.

Accordingly, the Bill was read the second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs.

(At 5.00 o'clock p.m., Private Members' Business was called pursuant to Order made Friday, February 27, 1976)

(Public Bills)

Orders numbered 34, 4, 10, 24, 37, 38, 43 to 48 inclusive, 50, 54 to 56 inclusive, 58 to 63 inclusive, 66, 68 to 71 inclusive, 73 to 78 inclusive, 80 to 86 inclusive, 88, 89, 91, 93 to 103 inclusive, 105, 106 and 108 to 110 inclusive were allowed to stand at the request of the government.

The Order being read for the second reading and reference to the Standing Committee on Labour, Manpower and Immigration of Bill C-311, An Act to amend the Canadian Citizenship Act (time off without loss of pay for appearance in Citizenship Court);

Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), seconded by Mr. Peters, moved,—That the Bill be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Labour, Manpower and Immigration.

And debate arising thereon;

The hour for Private Members' Business expired.

Bill S-31, An Act to amend the Quarantine Act, as reported (without amendment) from the Standing Committee on Health, Welfare and Social Affairs, was concurred in at the report stage.

Mr. Lang for Mr. Lalonde, seconded by Mr. Cullen, moved,—That the Bill be now read a third time and do pass.

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

Accordingly, the Bill was read the third time and passed.

The Order being read for the consideration of report stage of Bill C-20, An Act respecting citizenship, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Broadcasting, Films and Assistance to the Arts;

Mr. Friesen for Mr. Jarvis, seconded by Mr. McKinnon, moved,—That Bill C-20, An Act respecting citizenship, be amended in Clause 5 by

(a) striking out the word "and" in line 38 at page 4

(b) striking out line 42 at page 4 and substituting the following therefor:

"section 18; and

(f) in the opinion of a citizenship judge, is not shown to be of other than good character."

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, it was negatived, on division.

Mr. Symes, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), moved,—That Bill C-20, An Act respecting citizenship, be amended in Clause 18 by deleting sub-clauses (2), (3) and (4) and substituting the following therefor:

"(2) The Minister shall appoint a tribunal consisting of a Superior Court Judge or Judges who may review any declaration made by the Governor-in-Council pursuant to sub-section (1) hereof.

(3) Upon an application for such a review the Minister shall advise the applicant of the particulars of the grounds upon which the Governor-in-Council has declared that to grant citizenship or issue a certificate of renunciation would be prejudicial to the security of Canada or contrary to public order in Canada, without disclosing the names of witnesses or sources of this information.

(4) The tribunal shall hold a hearing at which the applicant and the Minister shall be entitled to be present or to be represented by Counsel.

(5) The tribunal shall make recommendations to the Minister as to whether the declaration by the Governor-in-Council should be implemented or withdrawn as the case may be and shall state its reasons therefor in writing to the applicant and the Minister.

(6) A declaration made under sub-section (1) ceases to have effect two years after the day on which it was made."

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, it was negatived, on division.

Mr. Symes, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), moved,—That Bill C-20, An Act respecting citizenship, be amended in Clause 33 by deleting sub-clause 6(e).

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, it was negatived, on division.

On motion of Mr. Faulkner, seconded by Mr. Gillespie, the Bill was concurred in at the report stage and by unanimous consent, read the third time and passed.

(Proceedings on Adjournment Motion)

At 10.00 o'clock p.m., the question "That this House do now adjourn" was deemed to have been proposed pursuant to Standing Order 40(1);

After debate, the question was deemed to have been adopted.

Changes in Committee Membership

Notice having been filed with the Clerk of the House pursuant to Standing Order 65(4)(b), membership of Committees was amended as follows:

Messrs. Balfour and Martin for Messrs. Lambert (Edmonton West) and Demers on the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs.

Messrs. Mitges and Railton for Messrs. Holmes and Flynn on the Standing Committee on Health, Welfare and Social Affairs.

Messrs. Stevens, Whiteway, Stewart (Marquette) and Korchinski for Messrs. Forrestall, Hamilton (Swift Current-Maple Creek), MacDonald (Egmont) and Ritchie on the Standing Committee on External Affairs and National Defence.

Mr. McKinley for Mr. Ellis on the Standing Committee on National Resources and Public Works.

Mr. MacDonald (Egmont) for Mr. Roche on the Standing Committee on External Affairs and National Defence.

Messrs. ForreSTALL, Hamilton (Swift Current-Maple Creek), Roche and Ritchie for Messrs. Stevens, Whiteway, Stewart (Marquette) and Korchinski on the Standing Committee on External Affairs and National Defence.

Mr. Flynn for Mr. Railton on the Standing Committee on Health, Welfare and Social Affairs.

Mr. ForreSTALL for Mr. MacKay on the Standing Committee on Regional Development.

Introduction

From May 3 to May 28, 1976, representatives of the nations of the world, rich and poor, will gather in Nairobi, Kenya at the Fourth U. N. Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD) to negotiate once again changes in the international economic system. The issues at hand, of commodities, trade, investment, technology transfer, aid and debt relief, are the essential components of an international economy which has generated unprecedented prosperity for some while maintaining, extending and in some cases reinforcing the ancient poverty of hundreds of millions of others. The question is whether it is possible for the beneficiaries and victims of this system to design and agree upon a program to alleviate this basic injustice.

The first task has been to establish an agenda, a specific set of key issues around which serious negotiation can take place. Over the past decade, thanks largely to the growing solidarity of developing nations, such an agenda has emerged. Developing countries call for greater stability and long term improvement in the price of commodities, improved access to the markets of developed countries, greater control over their economic destinies vis-à-vis both powerful nations and private economic interests and vastly increased and improved methods of international finance. These are only the key demands in what has come to be called the new international economic order which is itself only part of a more general restructuring of the global system.

With an agenda before us the second immediate requirement is to achieve a continuity and momentum of negotiation, a building from year to year of the fragile sense of common interest between rich nations and poor. In fact this process began with confrontation at the Sixth Special Session of the United Nations but it was a useful confrontation in that it declared the comprehensiveness and urgency of reform. At the Seventh Special Session this sense of global challenge was more widely shared but the key elements were left to be negotiated elsewhere. In the view of the Sub-committee the time for such serious negotiation is now upon us and, indeed, is fast running out. If, in the next year, the developed countries do not display a serious desire to reform the international economic system and if negotiations do not achieve tangible and significant progress toward that end there is a grave danger of the relations between rich nations and poor degenerating into a permanent condition of confrontation and recrimination.

UNCTAD IV is the next major step. While recognizing the potential contribution of the Conference on International Economic Cooperation it is clear to the Sub-committee that UNCTAD in particular and the United Nations system in general remain for the developing nations the central forums in which to present and negotiate their demands. Every effort must be made by developed countries and especially by intermediate countries like Canada to ensure that UNCTAD works. For this reason the Sub-committee has issued this interim report to underscore the importance of the forthcoming meeting and to advance proposals which may contribute to Canada's playing an active and effective role. In this connection we draw particular attention to the issue of commodities which is of immediate and urgent importance to developing countries and which can no longer be delayed by semantic arguments.

While the immediate task is clear and the importance of tangible negotiations cannot be exaggerated, this process will only succeed if all nations bring to it an underlying sense of our global crisis. At the outset it is imperative that we accept the plain fact that development efforts are not meeting the need. Hundreds of millions of people in the so called "Fourth World" live in conditions of absolute poverty and deprivation. They form a kind of global ghetto which closes in upon them even as it increasingly presses out upon the rest of the world. And in many "middle income" developing countries where dramatic economic growth has occurred the benefits of this growth have not reached the poorest of their people.

To reverse the gradual though massive slide toward even greater suffering will require more than tinkering with our present methods and attitudes. Referring to the program of the new international economic order Prime Minister Trudeau observed in his address at Mansion House in London, that, "these nations seek no piecemeal adjustments but a comprehensive restructuring of all the components...The response of the industrialized countries can be no less well-prepared and no less comprehensive in scope".

It is true that this distinction between "tinkering" and "comprehensive reform" can degenerate into a sterile debate of words, about whether one wants a better present system or a different new system. And it is true that no matter what the objective, one is obliged to begin with the situation as it is. Unfortunately, it is not possible to stop the world while a new model is designed. Nonetheless there is an important distinction here between proposals which merely treat the symptoms and those which go toward eliminating the disease. For example, in the field of commodities it is imperative that the earning power of developing countries be increased and not just that they be compensated for periodic shortfalls in earnings. Or in the area of debt relief it is important that we not simply maintain the precarious state of near bankruptcy for some developing countries.

It would be irresponsible to pretend that the search for global justice, once accepted in principle, will be easily accomplished in practice. There are major differences of interest here not only between developed and developing countries but among developing countries as well. However, in the Sub-committee's view, far more thought and effort must go into discovering the elements of common interest between developed and developing countries. Aside from the overriding interest of all nations in creating a world of justice and peace there are many specific opportunities for cooperation. For example, in the area of trade liberalization the Sub-committee emphasizes that it is very much in Canada's interest, both as producer and consumer, to move out of forms of production in which we are not competitive and into activities which will serve far better our own people and the people of developing countries. We do not underestimate the complexities involved in making this kind of change. To take another example, Canada has much in common with those countries which now rely heavily on the export of raw materials and which seek to increase their capacity to further process these resources. These are only illustrations of the general principle that we must seek, by every means possible, to minimize the dangerous division of the world into "us and them".

Even where there exists a unanimity of interest, such as in the desirability of increasing Third World agricultural production, it must be conceded that the means often seem hard to come by. There are shortages of resources, technical complications and massive organizational obstacles to be overcome. Still it is very easy to overdo this matter of complexity. In no small measure the problems loom large because our preoccupations and priorities are seriously distorted. We are struck by the immensity of having to raise $5 billion for agricultural investment over the next several years until we recall that each year the world now spends about $300 billion in the purchase of weapons.

This question of priorities is at the heart of international development. In many parts of the world attempts are being made to sort out these priorities, to distinguish for example between such abstract goals as GNP growth or "closing the gap" and the basic necessities of life, what Maurice Strong has called the "inner limits" of food, shelter and clothing. In the Sub-committee's view it is the task of international development in the foreseeable future to guarantee this global minimum standard of living. Such an objective has marked implications for all nations, rich and poor. For developing countries it means a reordering of national objectives so as to secure first, not last, the needs of their poorest people. For developed countries, including Canada, it means a fundamental shift away from the endless pursuit of wasteful consumption.

Such changes in the direction of world society will be negotiated by governments but it is clear that they will not be created by governments alone. In our view there are opportunities for imaginative and active leadership by countries such as Canada, opportunities which have not yet been fully grasped and some of which are outlined below in our specific recommendations.

We realize the need for realism and for a long-term view of the role Canada can play in the global resolution of these difficult issues. Canadian influence must not be over-estimated, but neither must it be under-rated. Canada's own interests and economic influence place this country in a strategic position in a number of these debates, and Canadian credibility is reasonably high among most groups of countries. It is frequently noted that Canada is often given credit for important potential in a mediatory capacity. Well-supported, sensitive and practical initiatives by Canada would now constitute genuinely creative mediation and could have a major impact in breaking deadlocks and moving the world community forward. Naturally, this kind of approach runs the risk of at least temporarily disturbing some other nations, possibly those most unwilling to embark on real changes in the status quo. At the same time, it is clear that the other, more passive, style of mediation—seeking the lowest common denominator acceptable to all—is too slow and gradual an approach to meet the present need.

There is need for a sense of commitment and urgency to permeate governmental decision-making. But these are issues which finally involve all citizens of rich nations and poor. If we are distressed by the slowness of inter-governmental negotiations we must recognize that this is partly because international development has, hitherto, been an animal without legs, an idea understood and actively supported by small minorities insufficiently heard by their larger societies.

In the Sub-committee's view the new international economic order, and its implications for our way of life, must enter the daily consciousness of Canadians. Government by itself cannot accomplish this educational task, though it can and should do far more than it has to open up the discussions, negotiations and issues. If it does not, there is faint prospect that the changes required will be understood and supported by the Canadian people.

Another and increasingly important source of expanding public awareness in many countries is the second tier of institutions and working relationships formed by private groups and individuals whose terms of reference and horizons are not bounded by national self-interest. The Sub-committee sees this as an extremely positive development, offering a new kind of promise for the international community.

While the Sub-committee has no illusions about the difficulties entailed in creating a sense of global consciousness neither are we persuaded that the public is indifferent to the need for change. There is considerable scepticism, in part because people doubt the efficacy of efforts now under way, in part because people have been led to believe that development is a passing need, to be quickly accomplished. In the Sub-committee's view, any program of education must rest upon two central principles. The first is that there is a fundamental and compelling common interest in establishing economic justice throughout the world.

While such a goal may well entail sacrifices for Canadians it should be emphasized that in ways both large and small we will be beneficiaries of this process. In the nineteenth century it was widely assumed that the rise of the working classes would be incompatible with prosperity and security for the rest of society. Our history has demonstrated the extreme error of that assumption. Similarly, the rise of the poor people of the third and fourth worlds, far from being a threat to us, is a basic pre-condition of any of us achieving contentment in the world.

Public education must, as well, be founded on a recognition that the eradication of world poverty is not just a task for the seventies or eighties but an immense historical challenge which this generation and our children and their children must confront. But in an age which has been characterized as lacking a sense of purpose, with all the attendant consequences of confusion and despair, we should grasp rather than shrink from this responsibility.

The Continuing Role of the Sub-committee

The Sub-committee on International Development began its work in July 1975 with an Order of Reference from the House of Commons which empowered it "to examine and report upon the full range of policies in the field of international development with particular reference to the economic relations between developed and developing countries". This interim report has been issued because of the urgent importance of UNCTAD IV but it is clear that our work has only begun. In those areas examined in this report—commodities, trade liberalization, transfer of technology and aid—we are conscious of having initiated inquiries whose complexity requires further study. As well there are major issues of crucial importance to developing countries which the Sub-committee has not yet examined in much detail. To take one of the most important, food and agricultural production, we now confront a situation in which only two countries, the United States and Canada, are significant net exporters of food. With world population likely to increase by as much as 3 billion people in the next twenty-five years, the policies developed in our North American "breadbasket" to guarantee emergency supplies of food and to influence the supply and prices of agricultural products will be of crucial importance to the entire world. Obviously this is a matter requiring serious and urgent study.

The question of the effectiveness of Canadian aid programs is another matter requiring careful public examination. While the evidence suggests that CIDA has been among the more successful development agencies, there is always room for improvement. Moreover it seems clear that there is fairly widespread public doubt about the efficacy of aid in general. It is important, perhaps especially now as we enter a new era of development cooperation, that the questions of the volume, conditions, criteria and evaluation of aid be studied and debated.

The Sub-committee believes that it will be essential to have a much more active dialogue in future between the Canadian people and the government on issues of development. Parliament, and a Sub-committee on International Development can play a central role in this process. The basic question as to how public education and understanding can best be advanced should itself be a focus of further work.

With these tasks remaining the Committee hopes that a new Order of Reference on International Development will be issued as a first Order of Business in future sessions.

ADEQUATE AND EFFECTIVE AID TRANSFERS

The Continuing and Growing Need for Aid

The flow of "aid", or real financial resources, to developing countries remains as important and urgent as ever and is still the most concrete yardstick of the commitment of wealthier countries to assist the developing world. It is important to stress the continuing role of aid since the debate on the "new international economic order" has often focussed primarily on "non-aid" aspects of cooperation.

It is significant that in these debates the developing countries as a group have always reiterated the continuing need for financial transfers. As the Chairman of the Commonwealth Group of Experts told the Sub-committee, "the shift from aid to other mechanisms is right only in terms of emphasis". The structural changes now sought in international economic relations aim at expanding the possibilities for self-help by the developing countries. However, it must be remembered that many countries, usually the poorest, have little prospect of benefitting from these opportunities for a long time to come. They may be resource-poor and lack the industrial base and skills to produce other goods for export, yet still face the challenge of unspeakable deprivation for a burgeoning population.

It has been thoroughly documented for the Sub-committee that the global need for "aid" or official development assistance (ODA) from the industrialized countries, rather than diminishing, is increasing. Current figures indicate that the balance of payments crisis of the non-oil producing developing countries is continuing. Their 1975 deficit is estimated at $35 billion (in comparison with an average of about $10 billion in the decade 1962-72) and deficits of at least the same order can be anticipated for two more years. Yet only about $6 billion can be relied upon in each year through institutional channels to finance this deficit, leaving a tremendous gap of $29 billion to be filled by official development assistance and other transfers.

The Sub-committee believes it essential to accept squarely the continuing substantial need for concessional aid to developing countries. It is important to stress that the continuing need for aid does not mean that past development efforts have failed—although it may indicate that the real nature and magnitude of the development challenge has been widely underestimated. Canadians must recognize that the problems of poverty and disparities, which persist within Canada itself, are immeasurably greater and more difficult to tackle in the developing world. For this reason, the Sub-committee underlines the need for government and public understanding of the long-term requirement for substantial commitment to international development.

International Targets for Aid

The amounts of development assistance now being provided fall far short of the proved needs of developing countries. The internationally agreed targets for official development assistance have been met by practically none of the industrialized countries and now, with conditions of recession and inflation, there is a real danger of their effort lagging even further. Specific targets for aid have been discussed for the past two decades. In 1969 the international Commission under the chairmanship of the late Rt. Honourable Lester Pearson urged the industrialized countries to set a target for official development assistance of .7% of their GNP by 1975. This target was subsequently endorsed by the international Community in the context of the U.N.'s Second Development Decade. Yet in 1974, the most recent year for which figures are available, the average contribution was only .33%, and stagnation of this aid volume, or even decline, appear to be in prospect. While the OPEC countries, beneficiaries of the dramatic rise in oil prices over the past few years, have become substantial per capita contributors to some developing countries, their overall contribution cannot come close to filling the gap.

The Sub-committee believes that international aid targets are important and legitimate as a means of mobilizing at least the minimum quantitative effort required to attack the problems of world poverty and underdevelopment. Of course such gross quantitative measures are imperfect, since they do not indicate the important differences in "quality" which may exist between different aid expenditures. Nor do they reflect the impact of currency fluctuations on the international buying-power of different countries' aid contributions. When a donor's currency is at high levels (as is the Canadian dollar at present), then the value of the portion expended internationally is greater than it would be with a lower exchange rate (which will undoubtedly return).

These "qualitative" distinctions include such features as the generosity of aid terms (proportion of grants and low-interest loans) and procurement restrictions, as well as the overall effectiveness of planning and management of different projects and programmes (to be discussed further below). The Sub-committee believes that the promotion of "quality" and effectiveness in aid expenditure must continue to be a dominant concern, but that it is in no way incompatible with the maintenance of further major growth in the volume of that expenditure. In fact, the "volume" and "quality" of aid should be seen as complementary and mutually-reinforcing factors.

Canada's own contributions to Official Development Assistance both in absolute terms and as a percentage of GNP have increased steadily over recent years, in accordance with the stated Government policy of moving toward the internationally accepted targets. In 1974, the latest year for which comparative figures are available, Canadian ODA amounted to .5% of GNP, placing Canada's relative effort seventh among donor countries in the organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD). The Sub-committee is very concerned, however, that the rate of increase in Canadian appropriations is now being slowed and that there is a serious danger that Canadian aid may actually decline as a percentage of GNP under the impact of current restraint measures.

The Sub-committee is conscious of the intense pressure to extend spending restraint to all areas of government outlay, including the budget for international development assistance. These allocations must compete with other pressing needs for public spending, often of direct interest to important domestic constituencies. However, the Sub-committee is convinced of the extraordinary and superseding importance of the needs of the developing world, and strongly urges against any loss of momentum in the Canadian movement toward the international aid targets. Recalling the Government's firm commitment, in the 1975-80 Strategy, to move towards the targets 'by annual increases in the proportion of official development assistance to GNP', the Sub-committee must note that reductions in the steady increase of ODA from year to year can greatly reduce the prospect of achieving the targets within an acceptable period, since much greater increases will be required in future years to regain lost ground.

With these factors in mind, the Sub-committee believes that some definite commitment, and a date for its achievement, are now crucial as a demonstration of sincerity in cooperation with developing countries. We therefore strongly recommend that the Government accept a firm target of .7% of the Canadian GNP in official development assistance by 1980.

We have also considered the suggestion of the Commonwealth Experts' group that the developed countries should accept an objective of 1% of G.N.P. for official development assistance. The Sub-committee was impressed with the arguments of the Experts' group and urges the adoption by Canada of 1% of G.N.P. as a longer term goal.

Since quantitative goals must always be viewed in the context of qualitative considerations, two further points about Canada's programme should be made. First, it should be recognized that Canada's record has been extremely good on the financial terms of aid (low interest rates, long terms and delayed repayment provisions). This has helped to assure that Canada's aid is worth more in real terms than assistance sometimes extended on much "harder" terms. For this reason, too, Canadian aid generally has not aggravated the very serious debt-servicing problems now confronting so many developing countries.

With respect to procurement terms or "tying" of aid, the Canadian record has not excelled in the same way. The Sub-committee has noted that with the 1975-80 Strategy, Canada has now joined most of the other OECD countries in "untying" its development assistance for procurement in developing countries other than the recipient. It is clear, however, that there may be great difficulties in implementing this policy in a way which will significantly benefit developing-country suppliers. Since opportunities to supply goods and services for projects financed by Canadian aid can help to provide a boost to production and employment in developing countries, the Sub-committee recommends that the Government give high priority to ensuring that these opportunities are opened up as quickly and fully as possible. Since, in the long-term, all "tying" can seriously reduce the real value of aid to developing countries, efforts should be accelerated to arrive at an acceptable multilateral agreement for bringing this to an end, and Canada should be supporting such efforts actively.

New Priorities for Aid

After nearly three decades of efforts to assist in international development, the industrialized countries have a basis for much better knowledge of the benefits and deficiencies of different aid approaches. The Canadian Government, like some other donor countries and international organizations, has now made a clear decision (in its Strategy for International Development Cooperation: 1975-80), to focus its aid increasingly on the poorest countries and on meeting the essential needs of the poorest people within those countries. The Sub-committee endorses this orientation of the Canadian programme, and particularly wishes to encourage concentration on projects and programmes to improve the situation of rural people and promote the greater self-sufficiency of developing countries in food production. It is hoped that wherever possible, this development can be carried out in ways which will provide productive employment for the maximum numbers of unemployed and underemployed people and thereby help to reduce the flood of rural-urban migration which aggravates the problems of so many countries.

Another aspect of the new Canadian strategy which was brought out in the Sub-committee's testimony was the intention of concentrating Canadian aid on smaller projects and programmes with a direct impact at the local level. This trend, too, should help to ensure that Canadian aid does have the beneficial impact intended for it and is less vulnerable to excessive administrative burdens or other diversions. Primarily through its contribution to multilateral development institutions, Canada can continue to assist in the provision of necessary major infrastructure and other large-scale projects.

In line with these measures to design the Canadian aid programme to reach the most needy people, the Sub-committee has heard considerable testimony about the need to direct Canadian aid to those countries that will themselves make the most effective use of it. The criteria discussed included: a recipient government's own "commitment to development", its policies to ensure the equitable distribution of the benefits of development among its people; and the general efficiency with which it controls expenditures and carries out developmental work. It was indicated to the Sub-committee that these criteria are already considered in a general way as decisions are made on the allocation of Canadian aid among different countries, and that efforts are being made, in Canada and internationally, to refine such standards. There was also reference to the possibilities for influencing the general policies of governments, through persuasion, in the context of a longstanding cooperative relationship.

The Sub-committee has concluded that a very high priority must be placed on concentrating Canadian development cooperation in countries where there is a demonstrated commitment by their governments to development and to the efficient and equitable distribution of the benefits of development among their people. We do not underestimate the complexity or sensitivity of this problem, but feel that it must be tackled if development assistance is to achieve lasting results and the Government is to maintain public support for a continuing and growing programme.

Clearly, Canada should not expect to impose its own standards on other countries, and the Sub-committee believes that such an effort would probably prove counter-productive in any event. One eminent witness argued strongly, however, that there can be set up "objective parameters" against which "the degree of progress being made by a country toward the provision of basic human needs" could be measured. These standards should be defined on an agreed international basis, he suggested, and then used to determine the flow of funds to particular countries.

In the Sub-committee's view, this kind of multilateral system is an objective to work towards, balanced as it would be by a more automatic flow of resources to countries with good performance records. In the meantime, however, it will still be necessary for the Canadian Government to develop and apply the best possible system of standards to guide its own allocation decisions. It is important that these standards not infringe on the sovereignty of the countries concerned, nor become an irritant in relations between their authorities and the Canadian Government. If development assistance is to be used properly in the framework of long-term development plans, there must be a measure of predictability about its volume and conditions. Canada should, therefore, be prepared to enter into "programme aid" commitments extending over several years, but indicate clearly that, beyond such commitments, no particular level of funds is earmarked for individual countries. Allocations would be guided by ongoing evaluation of the relative effectiveness of expenditures in improving the situation of the poorest people.

The Sub-committee is conscious that the implications of providing development assistance in countries where there are persistent violations of fundamental human rights, are a matter of international debate and of concern to a good number of Canadians. These problems are not confined to any single ideological system or to particular countries, and the Sub-committee supports Canada's policy of cooperating with governments which are committed to development and the welfare of their people regardless of their ideological systems. The Sub-committee has not given detailed consideration to this complex and controversial issue which has the broadest implications for Canada's external policies. It may, however, be a subject which merits further study by the Standing Committee in this broad context.

Effectiveness and Management Control

Continuing evaluation of programmes leading to the periodic overall adjustment of aid allocations to individual countries seems to the Sub-committee to be the key to a reasonable and practicable system of management control over Canadian cooperation expenditures. It is obviously neither possible nor desirable to maintain minute scrutiny over every aspect of projects being carried out all over the world with Canadian cooperation—and such interference would certainly be deeply resented by the governments concerned. It is quite legitimate and feasible, however, to make a comprehensive evaluation of effectiveness and management at the completion of a project or programme, or at some other appropriate interval. While the complexity of development efforts and the difficult management conditions in many developing countries would obviously have to be taken into account in these assessments, they will identify serious shortcomings and provide the basis for remedial action or, when justified, the discontinuation of further Canadian cooperation. The Sub-committee believes that this kind of approach would be acceptable to developing countries and also provide reasonable assurance to Canadian taxpayers of the effective use of public funds. In the field of international development, no practicable control system can guarantee completely against occasional failures, mistakes or abuses—and none of these are unknown even in the much more familiar terrain of programmes and projects in Canada. What the control system envisaged here would do is help to ensure that these problems are minimized and that when they do occur they are not perpetuated.

Questions of aid effectiveness and management control are of concern to Canadians. The Sub-committee has developed the general lines of an approach to these issues here but will probably wish to expand and deepen its analysis of these questions in future work.

The "Automaticity" of Aid Transfers

One of the most important aspects of the new approach to the relationship between the industrialized and developing countries is the recognition that cooperation is no longer a matter of charity on the part of the rich, but an imperative of peace, interdependence and even minimal human justice in the world. This realization, as well as the inadequacy and unpredictability of existing financial transfers, has given rise to considerable discussion about putting international aid transfers on a much more "automatic" basis. Several witnesses have drawn comparisons with the process by which Canadian society has accepted the continuing obligation to provide for at least the minimum requirements of the less developed regions of the country, and those of its neediest citizens. At root, existing cooperation programmes imply an acceptance of the extension of this principle to the international level, but their scale remains marginal and they have not yet achieved the status of real systems of income redistribution.

One move in this direction of greater "automaticity" would be the expansion of the "Programme Aid" schemes mentioned earlier—under which Canadian fund commitments are provided for a specified period, subject to broad guidelines and periodic review, but allowing substantial flexibility for the country concerned to manage the expenditures.

Several witnesses have urged that other measures now be taken to provide for much more automatic transfers, and one suggested a range of means by which this could be carried out: the "linking" of Special Drawing Rights (SDRs) to development finance; and "various methods of international taxation, such as the application of levies, tolls, or user charges on the use of international commons of oceans and atmosphere, or levies on the use of or trade in certain key resources like fossil fuels or luxury goods."

The proposal for "linking" SDRs to aid was supported by some other witnesses and questioned by still others. It was pointed out that there is no immediate prospect of the issuance of further SDRs and therefore that support of the principle of the link would not have any cost for Canada at this time. This could mean that Canada's stated support would merely be seen as posturing or it could be given as an important commitment of principle which would involve a tangible contribution at some future time. The Sub-committee has also considered the argument against the "link" on the grounds that it might somehow "dilute" or undermine confidence in the Special Drawing Right as an international reserve asset. While this consideration may have been particularly important at the time when the SDR was first being introduced, it now seems sufficiently well-established to reduce the need for this concern.

It was indicated to the Sub-committee that Canada's past position on the "link" has been a "neutral" one. It was also stated, however, that support for the link was now an area where Canadian leadership could be extremely useful and would be an important signal of the importance attached to development by this country. It was noted that a number of other developed countries have supported this step.

The Sub-committee recognized the great complexity and importance of the institutional arrangements and structures for ensuring international economic stability. After considering the presentations made to it, the Sub-committee urges the government to seek, with other countries, methods for linking the allocation of SDRs to development finance, with the objective of meeting the urgent needs of developing countries and strengthening the stability of the structure of international exchange. UNCTAD IV provides an important opportunity to pursue this objective.

The other proposals for more "automatic" transfers through different kinds of "international taxation" are clearly very ambitious, and they have not yet been examined in detail by the Sub-committee. One such scheme which is very current is the proposal for international revenue-sharing from the resources of the seabed. Canada has supported this principle and the setting-up of an international authority with wide jurisdiction over seabed resources. In the future negotiations on these issues, the Sub-committee urges the Government to be as forthcoming as possible on the points of concern to developing countries, and to press for international provisions for distributing substantial seabed revenues to the developing countries. This position would recognize the crucial importance of this field as a precedent in the sharing of international wealth for the benefit of the poorer countries.

A serious and positive study by Canada of other possibilities for the more automatic transfer of resources to developing countries could be an original and valuable international initiative.

The Problem of Debt

A crisis of accumulated debt has been brewing for years in many of the developing countries and the severe balance of payments problems of recent years have now brought a number of these countries to the brink of bankruptcy, stalling further development momentum. It has been pointed out that payments of principal and interest on past debts are now taking up as much as 50% of the total aid funds being received by developing countries.

While the Sub-committee has not heard extensive testimony on the debt problem and the different possibilities for dealing with it, this is clearly one of the issues of highest priority to developing countries and will be high on the agenda for UNCTAD IV. Some of the proposals being advanced envisage very dramatic across-the-board action to alleviate the debt burden of developing countries, but the interests and prospects of different countries and groups of countries are too diverse to permit any uniform treatment. Developing countries which are highly credit-worthy, for instance, would not favour the establishment of across-the-board rules for special treatment since these might reduce their chances for borrowing on international markets.

At the same time, it is also clear that past practices for dealing with debt problems on an ad hoc basis are inadequate to the present problem, particularly as it affects the poorest countries. For most of these countries, considerations of their future credit standing are not a real obstacle to relieving past debts, nor are the normal concerns about maintaining the appropriate discipline among lenders and borrowers by assuring that obligations are honoured.

Three of the most important debtors in this group of the poorest countries are already involved in international consortia which provide a framework for regular discussion and action on their debt problems. Nevertheless, for this group as a whole, there seems to be little point in keeping them always in a state of imminent default—spending an inordinate amount of the time and energy of their governments (and those of creditor countries as well as officials of multilateral organizations) on complex book-keeping and negotiation on past debt.

Because of Canada's policies on the "terms" of aid, particularly to the poorest countries, past Canadian loans have contributed relatively little to the accumulated debt problem. For this reason, providing relief from this debt will be less costly to Canada than to larger creditors. In proposing action on the debt problem therefor, Canada must take care to understand the situation of larger debtors to whom the cost of relief will be much greater.

Having examined these factors, the Sub-committee recommends that Canada should press for international agreement establishing procedures for the conversion where appropriate to grants of debt related to official development assistance in the poorest countries. This group should probably include the countries most-seriously-affected by balance-of-payments problems and others in the lowest-income range and special needs categories.

This kind of debt relief for the poorest countries should provide a new basis for them to mobilize greater foreign exchange to assist in long-term development efforts.

Beyond this group of countries requiring immediate and comprehensive debt relief, there are many other countries encountering severe difficulties (some short-term and some more chronic) in servicing past debt. Since the problems and prospects of these countries differ immensely, the Sub-committee believes that they may be best handled on an individual basis. Nevertheless, there is also an important need to provide more flexible and generous mechanisms to assist these countries. The International Monetary Fund, in consultation with the World Bank, should be prepared to convene a meeting of creditors at the request of any individual debtor country, to help find solutions for its debt problems. Sympathetic consideration should also be given to the possibilities of extending present multilateral credit facilities to assist with short to medium term payments problems, including those arising from debt service payments on private debts. Another current proposal is for an international conference on debt to focus global attention on this problem and seek general solutions. The Sub-committee does not believe that the specific steps outlined above should be delayed until a conference is arranged, but would expect Canada to participate constructively if it is decided to hold such a conference.

COMMODITIES

The Importance of Commodities Trade

The Sub-committee urges the government, as a central element in its efforts to increase the export earnings of developing countries, to continue to give very high priority in international negotiations to the establishment of arrangements which will substantially improve the conditions of international commodities trade, particularly for commodities of interest to developing countries. As both an importer and a major exporter of raw materials, Canada should lead in seeking creative solutions to the problems of commodities trade which will be acceptable to producers and consumers in both developed and developing countries.

Whenever the developing countries have met together in recent years to define their strategies in the search for a new international economic order, their calls for international action have dwelt first on the problems of commodities. Commodities exports account for over 80% of the developing countries' total export earnings and for many, including some of the poorest, dependence on one or a few commodities is such that temporary fluctuations in prices can wreak immediate havoc in their overall development programmes. Conversely, increased commodity prices in many cases would have an immediate and substantial beneficial impact on many developing countries, again including some of the poorest. Yet, general improvements in the conditions of world commodity trade are not of interest exclusively or even primarily to developing countries. Eastern and Western industrialized countries account for 60% of world exports of raw materials, and the boom-bust phenomenon so characteristic of world commodities trade is a major problem for producers and consumers everywhere, in developed and developing countries alike.

This commonality of interest must not be allowed to disguise the urgency with which developing countries view the need for international action to improve their earnings from raw materials exports. At the Seventh Special Session of the U.N. General Assembly, a momentum was given to the process of negotiating a more just and rational international economic order. The Sub-committee is convinced, however, that this momentum cannot be sustained unless there is concrete progress in the commodities field at UNCTAD IV.

The Objectives of International Commodities Arrangements

Major international economic problems in the field of commodities flow from the extreme price fluctuations to which raw materials have traditionally been subject. Hence a principal objective of international action and "a minimum first step" on most commodities must be stabilization. For developing-country producers, stabilization would mean more steady and predictable export earnings, both prerequisites for effective development planning. A well-managed stabilization programme would also facilitate investment planning and go far towards ensuring a steady flow of supplies.

While there is a wide measure of agreement on the need for stabilization measures, there is serious disagreement in principle on the levels between which prices should be allowed to fluctuate. For some industrialized countries, who see their interests in low commodity prices and emphasize the importance of market forces, the objective has been only to reduce excessive fluctuations. The developing country exporters, on the other hand, place high priority on raising commodity prices to increase their export earnings. While the disagreements in this area are often described as being between economic efficiency on the one hand and an "aid principle" on the other, the Sub-committee is convinced that this debate has been over-simplified and that somewhat improved and stable commodity prices will be in the common interest. As Mr. MacEachen noted at the Seventh Special Session "while commodity prices must reflect market forces, no one's interest will be served if prices are so low as to discourage production". For many commodities, the need to maintain investment and production at levels sufficient to ensure secure supplies at acceptable prices over the long term may well justify prices which are somewhat higher than might be dictated by short-term market factors. The Sub-committee does not recommend that in discussions between consuming and producing countries the government accept the principle of higher commodity prices on an across-the-board basis, or that it view commodities agreements as the most important income-transfer mechanism. However, reasonable price increases for selected commodities exported primarily by developing countries could provide those countries with substantially higher earnings for development without presenting consumers with an unmanageable burden or inducing excessive shifts to substitutes or synthetics.

The Sub-committee believes that the industrialized countries should make some movement on this question, and that they will have to if progress is to be made at UNCTAD IV and in other fora. Increased commodity prices are one of the developing world's most basic and persistent demands. In making this recommendation the Sub-committee emphasizes the importance of ensuring that developing-country exporters actually be the principal beneficiaries of higher prices and that, conversely, resource-poor developing countries not be left to bear the major costs.

Approaches to Commodities Arrangements

The Sub-committee urges the government to promote a compromise at UNCTAD IV between the "integrated" and "case-by-case" approaches to commodities problems. As a positive contribution to the negotiations at this Conference where progress on this issue is essential, the Government should consider proposing a phased, coordinated approach to commodities agreements.

No question before the Sub-committee on International Development has received more careful and agonizing consideration than the persistent demands of the group of developing countries for an integrated commodities programme along the lines enunciated by the UNCTAD secretariat. These proposals envisage an international agreement which, through the application of diverse policy instruments to a number of commodities, would serve to stabilize, increase and protect the export earnings of developing countries, promote greater processing of raw materials prior to export, and enable the developing countries to share in the "invisibles" of international commodity trade, such as marketing and shipping. The policy instruments most often mentioned as being integral to the scheme include buffer stocks, a common buffer-stock fund, improved compensatory financing facilities, long-term purchase and supply commitments, and some sort of indexation. Focussing on buffer stocks as a central instrument, UNCTAD initially suggested eighteen commodities for inclusion in an agreement. More recently, coffee, tea, rubber, copper, tin, cocoa, sugar, cotton, jute and hard fibres have been selected as core commodities appropriate for early action under the programme, with priority to be given to the first five. At the same time, however, the developing-country exporters continue to believe that agreement on an integrated programme should also involve improvements in their terms of trade for a much larger group of commodities, including most that are of major export interest to them.

The UNCTAD scheme is the most comprehensive and far-reaching set of proposals ever made in this field. By bringing many commodities and diverse policy instruments together into a unified whole, it has established once and for all the inter-relatedness of commodities problems and the urgent need for multi-faceted solutions. However, if it were taken as a fixed set of proposals for action, the integrated programme would involve serious problems. None of its constituent elements, including buffer stocks, would be applicable to all of the commodities urgently requiring international attention. Commodity trade problems vary widely amongst individual products according to their physical nature, their production, consumption and ownership patterns, their marketing characteristics, their replaceability, and so on. There is no way to determine which techniques are most appropriate for improving the trade conditions of given commodities, and no way to reach agreement on which devices are internationally acceptable, except through careful examination and detailed negotiation on a commodity-by-commodity basis. If there are commodities for which common mechanisms would be useful, or groups of commodities for which integrated programmes would be beneficial, these facts will emerge clearly only after international examination and negotiation on the individual commodities.

At the same time, the Sub-committee sympathizes with the frustration engendered among the developing countries by the simple case-by-case approach of most of the industrialized countries. The plain fact is that, to date, the case-by-case approach has yielded remarkably little in the way of action towards reducing the often disastrous effects which dependence on commodity exports has on many developing countries. Seen in this context, one of the great contributions of the UNCTAD scheme may be that, by establishing the relationships between various problems and possible techniques, it has permanently invalidated the piecemeal approach and made it apparent that structural changes are needed rather than just minor adjustments and additional "aid".

The Sub-committee believes that a reconciliation of the salient elements of these two approaches is now both possible and necessary. Some of the industrialized countries have already shown signs that they recognize the need for a more sustained attack on commodities problems, and that special attention must be given to commodities of export interest to developing countries. Last September Mr. MacEachen declared Canada's willingness to undertake negotiations on a range of commodities "in the context of UNCTAD's integrated approach", and this welcome statement of principle should now be followed by substantive proposals. As for the developing-country exporters, a careful reading of the documents reflecting their demands suggest that they are committed less to any rigid "integration" formula per se than to getting assurance that meaningful action will be taken soon, especially on the commodities of interest to them.

It is in light of these considerations that the Sub-committee urges the government to seek a mutually acceptable approach to commodities problems. An umbrella agreement embodying a phased, coordinated approach in which the needs and legitimate interests of producing and consuming countries are carefully balanced, would be an appropriate measure to propose at UNCTAD IV. It should be possible for the major producing and consuming countries, developed and developing, to formulate a preliminary list of commodities on which sustained, case-by-case negotiations will be undertaken. Very high priority should be given to the raw materials of export interest to developing countries. A flexible and realistic—but not open-ended—timetable should be established, setting target-dates for the opening and completion of negotiations on the most important listed commodities. A major test of the sincerity of the industrialized countries will be the extent to which they recognize, in helping to draw up this timetable, the urgency of early action on the most pressing commodities issues. Careful attention will have to be given to the problem of financing, bearing in mind the principle that the costs of arrangements which will benefit all countries should not be borne by the producers alone. While the objectives and techniques appropriate to arrangements for individual commodities would have to be determined through case-by-case negotiations, the initial agreement could list some of the objectives and mechanisms which the producing and consuming countries would be willing to consider. The possibility of establishing linkages between or among individual commodity agreements, perhaps including integrated funds for the financing of several commodity stocks, should be emphasized. As case-by-case negotiations proceed, or as producing and consuming countries gain experience with individual commodity agreements, the UNCTAD proposal for a common buffer stock fund may well emerge as a valuable model for still further progress.

The debate between the proponents of the integrated and the case-by-case approaches has now grown sterile, but the need for early action has not diminished. The Sub-committee therefore emphasizes its recommendation that Canada actively promote the search for a compromise at UNCTAD IV. Enunciation of a phased, coordinated approach along the lines sketched above would be a valuable contribution to progress.

Participation in Commodities Arrangements

The evidence is overwhelming that arrangements are most likely to succeed in ameliorating commodities problems if they involve consumer participation. The Sub-committee therefore agrees with the government's policy of urging that commodity agreements involve both producing and consuming countries. However, the Sub-committee also believes that the government should cooperate closely with producers' associations in cases where consumer participation has not yet proven possible. Certainly Canada would not wish to be a member of an organization seeking confrontation with consuming countries. But not all producers' associations are of this type, and few will have OPEC's potential for unilateral action. In cases where Canada is a major producer, Canadian participation may be essential to the success of even such minimal cooperative endeavors as information sharing. Moreover, Canadian participation in specific producers' associations might facilitate the opening and successful completion of negotiations with industrialized consumer countries.

The Sub-committee also agrees with the government's policy of urging mandatory consumer contributions to the financing of buffer stocks which are established for stabilization in the interests of both consumers and producers. Since mandatory contributions were not achieved in the recent tin negotiations, despite Canada's efforts, Canada is now considering whether to make a voluntary contribution to the tin buffer-stock fund, as some other consuming countries have done already. The Sub-committee recommends that it make such a contribution as a tangible demonstration of Canadian commitment to this principle. It would be extremely valuable if the government made an announcement to this effect at UNCTAD IV.

Techniques Applicable to Commodities Problems

A variety of techniques and mechanisms exist or have been suggested for different ends through commodity agreements. As noted in the previous section, the Sub-committee believes that the applicability of most of these, including for example, buffer stocks, production controls, and long-term purchase and supply commitments, can be determined only through careful examination of the conditions peculiar to trade in individual commodities. However, the Sub-committee has heard considerable evidence on two mechanisms—compensatory financing and indexation—which are seen in some quarters as being broadly applicable.

Improved compensatory financing for cyclical shortfalls in export earnings has been seen by some industrialized countries as the major instrument to be used in approaching the developing-country exporters' commodities problems, despite the developing countries' own views to the contrary. Others, including Canada, recognize that even the best possible compensatory financing scheme would leave basic conditions unaltered, and that deeper changes are needed to bring about a restructuring of international commodities trade.

Nevertheless, there is a substantial measure of international consensus that compensatory financing will continue to be important. The Sub-committee is pleased to note that Canada supported the recent liberalization of the International Monetary Fund's compensatory financing facility. However, the developing countries do not believe that the reforms which were agreed to in the IMF go far enough towards meeting their perceived needs. Without prejudging the legitimacy of their complaints or the feasibility of their suggestions, the Sub-committee urges the government to give sympathetic consideration to, with a view to possibly supporting, the developing countries proposals for further strengthening and liberalizing the International Monetary Fund's facility. These include easing the balance-of-payments criterion for assistance to developing countries, allowing the calculation of shortfalls in terms of the real value of export earnings, and easing repayment terms and expanding the grant element of assistance, particularly for the poorest developing countries. The Government should also look carefully at other possibilities including variations like the existing "Stabex" scheme instituted under the Lomé Convention between the European Economic Community and 46 African, Caribbean and Pacific developing countries.

The proposals for indexing commodity prices to the prices developing countries must pay for manufactured goods imported from industrialized countries, to help protect them against inflation, have given rise to a strident international debate. Many witnesses commented on these proposals, and several supported them in one form or another. Government and other witnesses argued that direct indexation would be highly inflationary, while the counter-suggestion was made that it could have the opposite effect because it would force the industrialized countries to control their own inflation if they wished to avoid paying ever higher prices for raw materials imports. In any case, the implementation of an indexation scheme would pose exceedingly difficult problems in terms of establishing the baskets of commodities and manufactures, monitoring, and so on. It is not unlikely that the end result would be arbitrary and unjust.

Other arrangements may, however, be possible. Mr. MacEachen said at the Seventh Special Session that "new features in commodity agreements to take account of international inflation and exchange-rate changes should be explored." As one possible avenue the Sub-committee believes that individual commodity agreements should provide for the periodic renegotiation of various terms including, where applicable, the levels between which prices are to be allowed to fluctuate. In the determination and renegotiation of prices, the Minister's caution that "no one's interest is served by commodity prices that are so low as to discourage production" will have to be kept in mind. Equally, producers will want to ensure that prices are not so high as to discourage consumption or lead to a shift to substitutes or synthetics.

TRADE: NEW OPPORTUNITIES FOR THE DEVELOPING COUNTRIES

Lowering Barriers to Trade

Determined international action will be needed if the developing countries are to obtain a fair share of the world's industrial activity and reverse the unacceptable trend in which they have a declining share of global trade in manufactured goods. Barriers to their products in the rich markets of the industrial world are among the principal causes for this situation and the reduction and removal of these barriers must be high priorities. The industrialized countries must take action at the domestic, bilateral and multilateral levels, and the Sub-committee has identified a number of points in each area where Canadian initiatives would be timely and useful.

The expansion of trade opportunities for developing countries in manufactured and semi-manufactured products will bring substantial benefits to Canadian consumers, in terms of lower prices on a wide range of goods. However, it will also involve major adjustments in Canada and elsewhere. If properly managed, this process will support and complement the kind of economic re-orientation which Canada must undergo in any event (as the recent work of the Economic Council of Canada has argued). This kind of adjustment will over time benefit Canadian workers as well as the many millions of unemployed and underemployed people in the developing world. While the Sub-committee's evidence indicates that only a relatively few developing countries are in a position to take advantage immediately of new export openings in these goods, many other countries are rapidly developing a similar capacity.

One of the principal points emerging from the Sub-committee's work was the need for predictability and reliability in the access which developing country producers enjoy in world markets. If there is to be a constant danger that exporters achieving any success in penetrating new markets will suddenly be confronted with new obstacles in the form of tariffs, non-tariff barriers, or quotas, this undermines the incentive for developing countries to make the tremendous effort and investment required to launch new export industries.

Needless to say, the erection of new barriers to these products from developing countries would constitute a real step backward and yet witnesses saw this as a real danger. Any step to add to levels of protection against imports of developing countries into Canada would seriously call into question Canada's commitment to international development. The Sub-committee earnestly hopes that no such steps will be taken unless it can be clearly demonstrated that they are necessary because of a grave and immediate danger to Canadian industry, and because adjustment is not yet possible. Since this kind of protective initiative by the government might come as a result of recommendations made by such bodies as the Textile and Clothing Board and the Anti-Dumping Tribunal, their studies and operations should be subjected to close government and public scrutiny. Consideration should be given to a comprehensive review of their authority and to possible amendment of the Acts governing their work, in the context of the greatly strengthened adjustment assistance programmes which the Sub-committee recommends below. Given the importance of textiles and clothing in Canadian imports from developing countries, particular attention should be given to the Textile and Clothing Board. Its effectiveness is now seriously limited not only by the inadequacy of existing adjustment assistance programmes, but also by its lack of authority to require, as a condition of temporary protection, the submission, alteration, and implementation of adjustment plans by all the firms affected in particular cases.

Multilateral Trade Negotiations

Concerted multilateral action to reduce existing tariff and non-tariff barriers is an essential means of expanding the trade opportunities of the developing countries. Yet the process of the Multilateral Trade Negotiations is a slow and complex one, and the special trade concerns of developing countries do not appear to receive adequate priority. This is especially true since the existing tariff system is specifically loaded against the developing countries in two important respects: first, the types of goods on which tariffs typically remain highest are those of principal interest to developing countries; and second, tariffs "escalate" markedly on processed or manufactured goods in contrast with the relatively low rates which apply to the raw materials from which they are produced. Canada clearly shares an interest with the developing countries in eliminating this tariff "escalation", and Canada's own "sector approach" in the trade negotiations is designed to attack the escalation problem. The Sub-committee believes that Canada should take every opportunity to support the right of resource-producing countries to "upgrade" their products without having their access to markets impaired. It must be stressed that this position is one of general principle and not only related to products of export interest to Canada. Energetic Canadian initiatives to achieve reduction of barriers of all kinds on products of special interest to developing countries (at all stages of processing) should be a dominant aspect of Canada's approach to the multilateral trade negotiations.

Reform of "Voluntary" Restraints

Another area of multilateral discussion where Canadian initiative might be appropriate and beneficial is in efforts to limit the proliferation of international arrangements under which developing countries are required "voluntarily" to restrain their exports. While it appears from the Sub-committee's evidence that Canada has not been among the worst offenders here, it is clear that these restraints have degenerated from their original intent to become much more comprehensive, protective and permanent. The availability of more serious mechanisms for adjustment assistance (see below) may help to restore this kind of restraint scheme to its proper role, but it also seems clear that there is a need to place tighter international limits on these "restraint" schemes to prevent their further abuse. One way of bringing this about will be to achieve a reform of the appropriate parts of Article 19 of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. A reformed article would be much more specific as to what constitutes "injury" to domestic industry from imports, and how such injuries may appropriately be handled—with some form of effective international surveillance of adherence. There may also be some possibility of building in preferential treatment for developing countries to reduce the danger of serious damage to their nascent industries because of short-term protective measures. If, as has been suggested in the Sub-committee's testimony, Canada has attempted to adhere to the agreed intent of past measures more closely than most industrial countries, it is surely fully justified for Canada now to lead in the campaign for a tighter regime in future.

Immediate Liberalization by Canada

Multilateral liberalization will provide ultimate benefits to developing countries but it will clearly be some time in coming and will, in some instances, actually reduce the special margin of preference now enjoyed by developing countries on certain products under the Generalized System of Preferences (GSP). This is a serious problem, and, while it should not impede the process of global trade liberalization it does make it all the more important for the developing countries to enjoy generous preferential treatment during the period in which tariff barriers in general are being reduced. In this connection, consideration might need to be given to extending Canada's GSP when it expires in 1984. If it becomes clear that general tariff reductions are going to cause serious danger to incipient export industries which have begun to grow up in developing countries with the help of the GSP, then industrialized countries should explore sympathetically all possible ways of maintaining the needed assistance for these industries to become fully launched.

These concerns make it all the more imperative for immediate measures to be taken wherever possible to improve the trade access of developing countries. While these changes cannot await resolution of all of Canada's own economic problems, it will be necessary in making them to be sensitive to domestic difficulties, including balance of trade deficits, high unemployment and regional disparities.

Canada was not in the vanguard of industrialized countries adopting a generalized system of tariff preferences for developing countries and the Canadian scheme, like those of other countries, has shown definite need for improvement. At the 7th Special Session of the U.N. General Assembly, the Minister indicated that Canada's GSP was being reviewed in the light of suggestions for improvements from the developing countries.

The Sub-committee has not heard much detailed testimony on these points but a number of criticisms were directed at Generalized Systems of Preferences in general.

One general shortcoming is their "concessionary" rather than automatic character, permitting "granting" countries to pick and choose those developing countries who will be given this preference. This allows the system to be used as an instrument of pressure. The developing countries cite as unacceptable the use of the GSP by the Eastern European countries as a quid pro quo for long-term contracts or arrangements. Similarly, they worry about the dangers of its use by other countries as an instrument of political or economic coercion (or retaliation), particularly in resource disputes. The Sub-committee has had no indication that Canada has abused the system in this way, and we recommend that the Canadian Government should press in international forums for the elimination of this possible abuse by all countries, giving the Generalized System of Preferences a solid, non-discriminatory place in the laws, policies and practices of all the industrialized states.

Other specific aspects of GSP improvement, which have not been discussed by the Sub-committee, but which seem to merit positive consideration, would include adjustment of the "rules of origin" on products to harmonize and simplify them, and to treat the developing countries cumulatively as one area for preference purposes.

Another major criticism of the GSP and one which appears to be more applicable to Canada's system, relates to the products actually covered by the general preferences. One witness estimated that probably only 25 to 30 per cent of the dutiable exports of developing countries are eligible for GSP because the countries granting the preferences, including Canada, expressly exclude from eligibility a number of the goods which are likely to be of most interest to exporters in developing countries.

In Canada's case, it was indicated that some textile goods, as well as footwear and some electronic goods have been excluded and that there is a danger of the preferences being withdrawn from automotive parts and electronic equipment. Thus, our witness concluded, "we have not really given the developing countries any kind of stable assurance that they could build up a market here with the GSP".

This limited coverage and unpredictability of the generalized preference system seem to reduce greatly the real value of this system which the Government has described as Canada's "key non-aid instrument" in promoting international development. The Sub-committee therefore urgently recommends that the Canadian Generalized System of Preferences scheme be liberalized as much as possible and that commitments be made that access to the Canadian market under these preferences will not be curtailed or interrupted. In order to ensure that these steps would not result in sudden and extreme injury to Canadian producers from developing country exports because more restrictive policies are being pursued by other developed countries, (thereby diverting additional pressure to the Canadian market), the Sub-committee urges that the Canadian Government take immediate initiatives to seek global liberalization of all countries' GSP.

Adjustment Assistance

The benefits of trade liberalization to the developing countries and, in the long run, to the Canadian economy, should not be allowed to obscure the fact that it will involve tough new competition for certain Canadian industries. Canadian industry is, of course, already highly competitive in many areas, and can be made more so in others. In some sectors where Canada cannot become economically competitive, there may still be sound reasons for maintaining a residual industrial capacity. But it must be recognized that some Canadian industries will have to be radically reorganized and some will probably have to be abandoned. It would be inhumane to underestimate the difficulty of these changes for the workers, industries and regions most affected, and it would be unrealistic to believe that these changes will ever be carried out unless there are ways and means available to make the transitions tolerable for the Canadians concerned. It will be much easier for Canadians to accept this competition and adjust to it, if they know that the cost advantages of others are not based on the exploitation of workers. The Sub-committee expresses its concern that an essential objective of expanding trade opportunities for developing countries should be the improvement of living conditions of the working people in these countries.

Programmes of adjustment assistance already exist in Canada, and some have been successful in achieving the goals for which they were established. But most of these programmes were not really equipped to deal with the problems posed by low-cost import competition.

One of the principal themes of the Sub-committee's evidence has therefore been the need for greatly expanded and improved schemes of adjustment assistance to help workers, industries and localities most affected by low-cost competition from developing countries to shift to new, more productive activities. From the experience of Canada and other countries with regional and industrial development efforts, we are also conscious that these are extremely complex problems and that it is often difficult to identify and mobilize appropriate new activities. Nevertheless, we are convinced that the efforts we are discussing cannot be delayed for these reasons.

The traditional approach to these schemes has been a rather limited and reactive one, and this posture has been inadequate to cope even with past low-cost import competition, let alone the widening and intensified pressure which can be anticipated in the future. Witnesses have pointed out that a more extensive arsenal of adjustment measures is needed because even now protection is the only realistic response available to a threat of injury from low-cost imports.

It can be argued that the full dimensions and character of the adjustment challenge will not be clear until the current round of Multilateral Trade Negotiations are completed. However, it is clear to the Sub-committee that there is already an urgent need for improved adjustment schemes and that more will be necessitated by low-cost import pressure even without the effect of further trade liberalization.

For these reasons, and because comprehensive adjustment schemes will be complex, difficult and costly in the short run, the Sub-committee believes that an early start must be made on serious and extensive schemes in certain sectors and that intensive planning should begin now to prepare for the more comprehensive adjustment challenges which will certainly arise from the Multilateral Trade Negotiations. The Sub-committee's evidence includes references to experience with similar schemes in other countries notably the Netherlands, Sweden, Britain, Japan, Norway and the E.E.C. A thorough study of this body of experience would undoubtedly offer many lessons of practical relevance to Canadian policy. One of the first steps must be a serious and realistic study of which industries are threatened, which can (and should) specialize in more competitive activities, and which show no realistic prospect of survival without massive protection.

Since the interests of workers, management, consumers and governments are all immediately affected, the proposal put before the Sub-committee by representatives of the labour movement for a top-level "tripartite" committee to give urgent study to these problems is a logical and attractive suggestion. The Sub-committee considers it essential that there now be an authoritative body with a strong mandate to facilitate increased access to Canada, for manufactured goods from developing countries. It should concentrate on such questions as the identification of industries likely to be vulnerable and especially the adjustment assistance measures which will be necessary. It is possible that existing bodies in this area might be adjusted to take on these functions, or a new panel might be created. Such a forum could also begin the critically important work of informing the Canadian people about these issues and the need for action.

In instances where it is found that lines of production or whole industries must be completely abandoned, a whole range of measures will have to be implemented. These might include: abandonment compensation for individuals and firms; retraining or early retirement benefits; stimulation of new industrial activity or where new industrial development does not appear feasible the decentralization of government and related services to offset employment loss etc.

Clearly the immediate cost to public treasuries from comprehensive adjustment schemes may be very considerable. This will have to be subjected to searching examination and a phased approach perhaps adopted. Elsewhere adjustment assistance has been seen as a fully legitimate use for international development funds and when "costs" to the Treasury are calculated they should also be weighed against the still-considerable revenue derived from tariffs on developing country products imported into Canada. More importantly still, these short-term costs must be weighed against the longer-term benefits of a much more efficient and competitive Canadian economy as well as the direct benefit of cheaper imports to Canadians. As the Economic Council said, "Multilateral free trade would provide the most remarkable improvement in the economic well-being of Canadians that could result from any single step by a government today—or at any time since the Great Depression."

TRANSFER OF TECHNOLOGY AND TRANSNATIONAL CORPORATIONS

The General Concern

A principal requirement for development is the further industrialization and improved productivity of developing countries. It is estimated that at the present time only seven per cent of the world's industrial output is produced by the seventy per cent of the world's people who live in less developed countries. The developing countries call for increasing that share to twenty-five per cent by the year 2000. In the area of agriculture it is generally agreed that productivity must be increased substantially if malnutrition on an even greater scale is to be avoided.

In order to accomplish these goals, or even to move toward their accomplishment, there must be a dramatic increase in the technological capability of less developed countries. The primary responsibility in this area rests with and is accepted by these countries themselves. But such a programme also requires effective cooperation from the developed countries.

While the potential for cooperation is very great it has been undercut to some extent by real and perceived conflicts between the interests of developed and developing countries. Much of the technological and investment capability of developed countries is in their private sectors, and specifically in transnational corporations whose interests are sometimes seen to be at odds with those of less developed countries. Moreover, the forms of technology transferred by developed countries appear at times to be inappropriate to the requirements of development.

Canada, as the host to many transnational corporations in its own economy, and the home-base for some others, is strategically placed to assist in making these relationships more responsive to the needs of developing countries. Canada's own policies of foreign investment review and selective control are clearly related to the same objectives. While Canadian-based transnational corporations have not to date been a major factor in developing countries, and Canada's own capital may be a limiting factor in overseas investment, Canadian based firms have been important in some areas such as the Caribbean, are likely to be increasingly active in other areas and will in any case remain major repositories of Canadian technology and investment.

Therefore, in the words of Canada's Secretary of State for External Affairs at the Seventh Special Session of the United Nations, there is an "urgent need to reconcile the legitimate interests of developing countries . . . their need for capital, their right to sovereignty over their natural resources, their control over their economic destinies—with the role of the private sector in providing capital and technology".

In seeking this reconciliation, it is also imperative to be realistic about the relationship between the transnational corporation and its host government in a developing country. This relationship is always one in which both parties attempt to maximize their own interest, but their relative bargaining strength and the political environment are constantly changing over time. There is no doubt that these relationships will continue to involve hard bargaining and periodic conflict between the parties, and it is they who must be primarily responsible for managing these problems.

Canada has an interest in helping to create conditions in which nations can ensure that the activities of transnational corporations are compatible with the host government's policies and long-term objectives. Considerations of global efficiency, as well as equity, also underline the need for more standardized and predictable conditions of investment and technology transfer. Agreed rules and new modes of transnational business involvement may help to bring this about. In conditions where developing countries lack adequate bargaining power and skills to deal with potential investors, there are various ways in which countries like Canada can assist on request and, in the process, reduce the chances of subsequent conflicts. When unavoidable conflicts do occur, it is very important that countries like Canada have an informed view of the situation, refrain from unacceptable intervention, and support the search for agreed international means of conflict resolution.

Clearly the Sub-committee has only opened up a study of these complex and controversial topics, and it recommends that much further work should be done by this or other committees in this area.

Possible Bilateral Approaches

The Government has indicated a strong interest in setting up bilateral industrial cooperation agreements with developing countries, to include such elements as technical assistance, management training and counselling, and information sharing, as well as a legal framework within which the private sector can operate to the benefit of both participating parties. The proposal of such agreements has been seen as a significant Canadian initiative, and it will be of great interest to see how such agreements develop. While the points below are clearly more general in character, they would relate as well to any such specific agreements.

There is need for much better objective information on the activities of transnational corporations including those based in Canada. Some of the suspicion and conflict in this area is related to the lack of knowledge on which balanced bargaining should be based. It is essential for Canada to develop an accurate appreciation of the costs and benefits of these relationships to all parties and design policies accordingly.

While a number of developing countries have a longer or more extensive experience than Canada in setting policies to deal with foreign investment (and while much of Canada's own experience would not be directly relevant to many developing countries), there may be considerable benefit in promoting a sharing of experience in this area and the recent Canadian background of the setting up and operation of the Foreign Investment Review Agency (FIRA) may be of special interest. This is one of the fields in which Canada shares a number of the common perceptions of the developing countries and, together with a few other industrialized countries, can demonstrate that this is not an area of across-the-board conflict between blocs of nations.

While recognizing that much of the capital and technology in Canada will continue to be available from the private sector, the government should actively encourage alternative channels of transfer. In the case of technology, the International Development Research Centre provides some constructive directions. It is an organization funded by Canada but largely functioning in developing countries and staffed by their researchers. The IDRC is also concerned very basically with the appropriateness of technology to development. Other comparable international institutions and such institutions in developing countries also merit support. The Government might further consider devoting a proportion of its in-house research in such departments as Agriculture and National Health and Welfare to problems of common interest to Canada and less developed countries.

It is essential that the Government actively communicate its development objectives to the Canadian business community. Where the Government is directly involved, as for example in the Export Development Corporation investment insurance or in CIDA investment incentives, these criteria might be set down quite specifically as part of the ground rules for Government participation. Where there is no direct Government involvement such communication would be more in the nature of information, dialogue and persuasion. Such an approach is simply an extension into the international realm of the communication which goes on domestically between government and business concerning such issues as pollution, employment practices and so on. In making this recommendation the Sub-committee is aware of the difficulties of setting forth clear development criteria or of the danger of simplistically transferring Canadian standards abroad. Canada should closely consult with host governments to determine and respond to their national objectives and aspirations.

New emphasis should be placed on the importance of encouraging private investment and technology transfers which benefit the poorest people in developing countries. Recent government policy draws a distinction between the least developed countries, which will be the main recipients of Canadian aid, and the so-called "middle-income" developing countries which are most likely to attract Canadian private investment. Important as the distinction is, it should not be forgotten that some of these middle income countries display great internal disparities of wealth. To the greatest extent that this factor can be built into investment decisions, the government should encourage forms of investment and technology which are geared directly to benefit the poorest people.

Multilateral Efforts

Canada's bilateral programs of industrial cooperation should take place side by side with and in the context of international efforts to achieve cooperation in this area. The Sub-committee is persuaded that bilateral agreements by themselves will not provide an adequate framework. In the words of one of our witnesses, what are needed "are better procedures and stronger institutional arrangements on an international basis". Our specific recommendations are as follows.

(1) Whatever it is ultimately called there is clear need for some generalized international agreement subscribed to by both home and host countries to define and regulate the transfer of technology and the responsibilities and rights of transnational corporations. The Sub-committee was concerned by the negative attitude apparently taken by the Government toward the negotiability and the benefit to developing countries of the kind of international code they have been striving for. While the negotiating problems should not be underestimated, the developing countries themselves, as well as many independent experts, lay sufficient stress on this need that it cannot be dismissed out of hand. Furthermore, the fact that negotiating any "code" will be a slow, laborious process—or series of processes—far from diminishing its importance, merely underlines the need to proceed with great determination to define specific areas where early agreement may be possible.

Without attempting to suggest the precise form of such an agreement the Sub-committee recommends that its development be influenced by the following considerations.

(a) The ultimate objective should be an international, binding agreement with agreed and effective sanctions. One of our witnesses saw the need for "a sort of GATT for private investment."

(b) The process should initially concentrate on areas where there are early prospects for progress, such as information sharing. Canada should be forthcoming in its willingness to share information. While the Sub-committee has not been in a position to determine what other areas offer hope for early resolution, we note the widespread interest of both developed and developing countries in regulating such things as political interference, corrupt practices, (the impending OECD code is of great interest here) restrictive practices, transfer pricing and tax avoidance. The Canadian Government should devote resources, for example in the Departments of Justice, Consumer and Corporate Affairs and National Revenue, to the search for useful openings in these and other areas.

(c) The process should be advanced on many fronts involving both developed and developing countries.

Canada should continue to participate actively in such efforts in the OECD, in various U.N. bodies such as UNCTAD and the Commission on Transnationals, and cooperate with promising regional efforts such as those of the Andean Pact. It should be reiterated too that the process of negotiating multilateral agreements should not be viewed as an alternative to serious action by individual countries to ensure that foreign investment fits their own national objectives.

(d) Canada's general approach in this area should support the efforts of the developing countries to increase control of their economic destinies. The Sub-committee endorses the policy of restraint previously shown by Canada in areas such as expropriation.

(2) Canada should continue and expand its support for international efforts to develop alternative channels of research and technology. The Sub-committee has noted the consistent importance given to such initiatives by the developing countries. Serious consideration might be given to the United States' suggestion for the establishment of an International Center for the Exchange of Technological Information. The proposed United Nations Conference on Science and Technology to be held in 1979 should provide an important opportunity to focus attention and mobilize further effort to strengthen the technological capacity of developing countries. In this connection we recommend the early formation of a Canadian task force to prepare proposals and develop ideas for such a Conference.

(3) Concerning the appropriateness of joint ventures involving governments and private enterprise, (such as the possible "tripartite" arrangements sometimes mentioned), the Sub-committee noted the argument of our witnesses that such ventures might best be organized at the international level, using such institutions as the International Finance Corporation. We recommend the further exploration of this approach by the Government and a cautious approach to any continuing direct involvement in foreign investment by the Canadian Government itself since this might seriously compromise the important policy of restraint in cases where conflicts arise between the enterprise and the host government.

I SUMMARY OF MAIN CONCLUSIONS & RECOMMENDATIONS

Introduction

The Sub-committee on International Development has prepared this interim report to focus attention on the importance of the Fourth U.N. Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD IV) and to advance proposals which may contribute to Canada's playing an active and effective role. While it is recognized that negotiations to reform the international economic system will occur over many years and in many different settings, it is clear that UNCTAD IV is a crucial step in this process, both because it is of great concern to developing countries and because it is the first major opportunity for the United Nations system to act upon the promise of the Seventh Special Session of the U.N. General Assembly.

In order that these and subsequent negotiations may lead toward the needed comprehensive reform and not merely sustain the present injustice, the developed countries must, as the Prime Minister has stated, be prepared to go beyond mere "piecemeal adjustment". These negotiations must also, in the Sub-committee's view, begin with a sense of urgency and a recognition of several hard facts. We must recognize that development efforts are not meeting the needs of hundreds of millions of people in the Third and Fourth worlds and that there must be a reordering of priorities so that meeting basic human needs becomes genuinely the first objective of development efforts. We must search, far harder than we have done, for the elements of common interest between rich nations and poor. And finally, perhaps most importantly, these needs, and the basic changes they imply, must become part of the daily concerns of ordinary people. If Canada is to play an active role in the search for global justice, it will do so only with the understanding and support of the Canadian people.

Traditionally, examinations of development cooperation have focussed primarily on official development assistance, or "aid". However, while recognizing the continuing urgency of increased resource transfers, the developing countries have recently placed more emphasis on the non-aid aspects of development cooperation, such as commodities trade. This summary departs from the order observed in the body of the Report to reflect this emphasis.

The present report represents only a beginning of the work required on this Order of Reference. Many of the complex issues touched upon here will require further study and there are other questions of crucial importance which have not yet been examined in detail. A Sub-committee on International Development can continue to play a central role in promotion of active dialogue between the Canadian people and Government, and in determining how public education and understanding can best be advanced.

II COMMODITIES

The Sub-committee is convinced that the momentum, in economic dialogue and negotiation between developed and developing countries, cannot be sustained unless UNCTAD IV brings concrete progress in the commodities field which is so vital to the developing world. The Sub-committee therefore urges the government, as a central element in its efforts to increase the export earnings of developing countries, to continue to give very high priority in international negotiations to the establishment of arrangements which will substantially improve the conditions of international commodities trade, particularly for commodities of interest to developing countries. As both an importer and a major exporter of raw materials, Canada should lead in seeking creative solutions to the problems of commodities trade which will be acceptable to producers and consumers in both developed and developing countries.

A principal objective of international action in this field, and a minimum first step on most commodities, must be to bring about price, earnings and supply stabilization. However, the industrialized countries should make some movement in the debate on price levels, a debate which has too often been seen in oversimplified terms on both sides. The Sub-committee does not recommend that the government accept the principle of higher commodity prices on an across-the-board basis, or that it view commodity agreements as the most important income-transfer mechanism. However, reasonable price increases for selected commodities exported primarily by developing countries could provide those countries with substantially higher earnings for development without presenting consumers with an unmanageable burden or inducing excessive shifts to substitutes or synthetics.

The debate between the proponents of the "integrated" and "case-by-case" approaches to commodities problems has now grown sterile. Neither constitutes a fully practicable or satisfactory approach to those problems, but each contains indispensable elements. The Sub-committee therefore urges the Government to seek a compromise approach at UNCTAD IV, where progress on this issue is essential. An appropriate Canadian initiative might be the proposal of an umbrella agreement embodying a phased, coordinated approach in which the needs and legitimate interests of producing and consuming countries are carefully balanced. Such an approach would include the selection of an agreed list of commodities for action; the establishment of a timetable for negotiations; agreement on at least some of the objectives and mechanisms to be considered; and emphasis on the possibilities for linkages among commodity agreements, such as integrated or common buffer-stock financing.

The Sub-committee agrees with the Government's policies of urging that commodity agreements involve both producers and consumers, and that consumer contributions be mandatory for the financing of buffer stocks established for stabilization in the interests of producers and consumers alike. In the particular case of the tin buffer-stock fund, the Sub-committee recommends that the Government make the voluntary contribution which it now has under consideration. An announcement to this effect at UNCTAD IV would be extremely valuable. Where consumer participation has not yet proved possible, the Sub-committee believes that Canada should cooperate constructively with producers' associations which do not seek confrontation with consumers.

The applicability of most existing and proposed techniques for dealing with commodities problems can be determined only through careful examination of the conditions peculiar to trade in individual commodities. However, the Sub-committee has heard evidence on two mechanisms—improved compensatory financing and some form of indexation—which have been seen in some quarters as being broadly applicable.

The best possible scheme for compensating developing countries for cyclical shortfalls in their export earnings would still leave the basic conditions of commodities trade unaltered. Deeper, structural changes in those conditions are therefore necessary. Nevertheless, compensatory financing is important, and the Sub-committee endorses the Government's support for the recent liberalization of the International Monetary Fund's facility for this purpose. The Government should give positive consideration to the developing countries' proposals for further liberalization and strengthening of this facility.

A strident international debate has arisen over proposals for indexing commodity prices to the prices developing countries must pay for manufactured goods imported from the industrialized countries. The implementation of a "direct indexation" scheme could well yield arbitrary and unjust results. However, other arrangements to protect the developing countries' commodity earnings from inflation might be possible. As one possible avenue, the Sub-committee believes that individual commodity agreements should provide for the periodic renegotiation of various terms including, where applicable, the levels between which prices are to be allowed to fluctuate.

III TRADE

The industrialized countries will have to take determined action at the domestic, bilateral and international levels if the developing countries are to obtain a fair share of the world's industrial activity and reverse the current trend in which they have a declining share of global trade in manufactured goods. Multilateral liberalization will be an essential element, but the multilateral trade negotiations are slow and do not give adequate priority to the problems of developing countries in a world tariff system which is loaded against them.

Energetic initiatives to reduce barriers of all kinds on products of special interest to developing countries should be a dominant aspect of Canada's approach to the multilateral trade negotiations. The right of resource-producing countries to upgrade their products, without having their access to markets impaired because of tariff escalation should continue to be supported.

Canada should take the lead in seeking a tighter international regime in future to control the use of "voluntary" restraints against low-cost imports from developing countries.

It is important that developing countries continue to enjoy preferential treatment while tariff barriers are being reduced multilaterally. Canada should therefore liberalize its own Generalized System of Preferences as much as possible, and press internationally for measures to give the system a solid, non-discriminatory status in all industrialized countries.

If the developing countries achieve improved access for their manufactured goods, Canadian consumers stand to gain substantially in the long run from lower prices on a wide range of products. However, it will also involve tough new competition for some Canadian industries which, in a number of cases, will have to be radically reorganized or even abandoned. To facilitate this process, greatly expanded and improved adjustment assistance schemes are needed to help the most affected workers, industries and communities to shift to more productive activities. The complexities and difficulties of this process are not underestimated, but they do not justify delay.

An early start should be made on adjustment schemes for some sectors, while intensive planning should begin now for the more comprehensive adjustment challenges which will arise from multilateral liberalization. To identify vulnerable industries, and plan the necessary adjustment programmes, it is essential to provide an authoritative national body with a strong mandate to facilitate improved access for goods from developing countries. If existing bodies cannot be reformed to take on these functions, a new agency should be created, perhaps along the lines of a top-level "tripartite" committee of representatives from labour, industry and government.

IV TRANSFER OF TECHNOLOGY AND TRANSNATIONAL CORPORATIONS

A dramatic increase in the technological capability of developing countries is necessary to enable them to industrialize and improve their productivity. The developing countries, which comprise 70% of the world's population, want to increase their share of the world's industrial output, from its current level of 7%, to 25% by the year 2000.

The potential for international cooperation, which is necessary to effect this major change, has been partially undercut by real and perceived conflicts between the developed and developing countries. A reconciliation of interests is therefore essential, particularly regarding the activities of transnational corporations, which are the main repositories of technology and investment capital in the world. Canada, as a host to many such corporations and a home base for others, is well placed to assist in this reconciliation.

Canada's approach to this question should be realistic, recognizing that the relationship between a transnational and its host government in a developing country will continue to involve hard bargaining and periodic conflict. In general, the goal should be to create conditions in which the activities of transnationals, and the technology they transfer, can be made compatible with the host governments' policies and long-term objectives. Where conflicts do occur, as in some expropriation cases, industrialized countries should assist in the search for solutions but avoid unacceptable intervention. Canada should support the efforts of the developing countries to achieve control over their own economic destinies.

In the bilateral sphere, the Sub-committee has several conclusions and recommendations which, though of a general nature, would apply to the bilateral industrial cooperation agreements proposed by the Government. Measures to provide better objective information on corporate activities, and a sharing of experience with foreign investment policies, for example, would both be beneficial.

The Sub-committee is persuaded that bilateral agreements alone will not provide an adequate framework for cooperation in this sphere. The Government should take a more positive attitude towards the evolution of some form of generalized and binding international agreement, subscribed to by both home and host governments, which would define and regulate the transfer of technology and the rights and responsibilities of transnational corporations. The developed and the developing countries should work towards such an agreement concentrating initially on areas where there are some prospects for early progress, such as information sharing.

At both the bilateral and the multilateral levels, Canada should expand its support for alternative channels for transferring technology, although the private sector will continue to be the main source of technology. The experience of the International Development Research Centre may provide useful guidance. A Canadian task force should be created soon to develop concrete ideas for the U.N. Conference on Science and Technology to be held in 1979.

It is essential that the Government actively communicate its development objectives to Canadian-based corporations. These objectives can be used as quite specific criteria for direct government participation, for example, through investment incentives or insurance. The Government should be cautious about undertaking any continuing direct involvement in foreign investment in developing countries since this might compromise the Government's ability to maintain objectivity and restraint when basic disagreements arise. Instead, the Government should explore further possibilities for joint ventures at the international level, perhaps through the International Finance Corporation.

V ADEQUATE & EFFECTIVE AID TRANSFERS

The continuing and growing need for aid

The flow of "aid" or real financial resources to developing countries remains as important and urgent as ever, even though the debate on the new international economic order has often focussed primarily on "non-aid" aspects of cooperation. The developing countries themselves leave no doubt that the current shift of discussion from aid to other mechanisms is only a matter of emphasis.

The global need for aid from the industrialized countries, rather than diminishing, is increasing. The balance of payments deficit of the non-oil-producing developing countries is estimated at $35-billion for 1975, compared to an average of about $10-billion in the decade from 1962 to 1972. Yet institutional channels can be relied upon to finance only about $6-billion of this deficit, leaving a massive $29-billion gap to be filled by official development assistance and other transfers.

International targets for aid

The Sub-committee believes that international aid targets are important and legitimate as a means of mobilizing at least the minimum quantitative effort required to attack the problems of world poverty and under-development. The main internationally-agreed target for official development assistance is .7% of GNP, yet in 1974 Canada's aid amounted to .5% and the average contribution of the industrialized donors was only .33%. We therefore strongly recommend that the Government announce a firm target for official development assistance of .7% of GNP by 1980. The higher level of 1% of GNP, recommended by the Commonwealth Group of Experts, should be accepted as a longer term goal.

The Sub-committee is conscious of the intense pressure to extend spending restraint to all areas of government outlay, but it is convinced of the extraordinary and superseding importance of the needs of the developing world. In its international cooperation strategy for 1975-1980, the Government stated its firm commitment to move towards the international aid targets "by annual increases in the proportion of Official Development Assistance to GNP". The Sub-committee therefore strongly urges against any loss of momentum in the Canadian movement towards the targets, noting that reductions in the steady increase from year to year can greatly reduce the prospect of achieving the targets within an acceptable period.

The volume and quality of aid should be seen as complementary and mutually-reinforcing factors. Canada's record on the financial terms of aid has been extremely good. It has not been as good on procurement terms or "tying". Canada has now joined most of the other OECD countries in untying its assistance funds for procurement in developing countries, and the Sub-committee recommends that very high priority be given to ensuring that the resulting opportunities to boost production and employment in the Third World be opened up as quickly and fully as possible. Efforts should be accelerated to arrive at an acceptable multilateral agreement for bringing all "tying" to an end.

New priorities for aid

The Sub-committee endorses the orientation of the Canadian aid programme, announced in CIDA's Strategy: 1975-1980, towards the poorest countries and meeting the needs of the poorest people. In line with these and other measures, the Sub-committee urges that a very high priority be placed on concentrating Canadian funds in countries whose governments have a demonstrated commitment to development and to the efficient and equitable distribution of the benefits of development among their people. Given the sensibility of this problem, a multilateral system of objective criteria to determine the flow of funds to countries should be seen as an objective to pursue, balanced by a more automatic transfer of resources to countries with good performance records.

Effectiveness and management control

The Sub-committee has concluded that continuing evaluation of programmes, leading to the periodic overall adjustment of allocations to individual countries, is the key to a reasonable and practicable system of management control over expenditures of Canadian development assistance funds. Minute and continuous scrutiny of projects is impossible and would be deeply resented by the developing countries concerned. But a comprehensive evaluation of effectiveness at an appropriate stage is feasible and legitimate, as a means of minimizing the occasional failures, mistakes and abuses which can never be completely eliminated.

Automaticity

The inadequacy and unpredictability of existing financial transfers, as well as the realization that development cooperation is not charity but a continuing imperative of international life are sound reasons for putting international aid transfers on a more "automatic" basis. One move in this direction would be the expansion of "programme aid" schemes under which Canadian fund commitments are provided for a specific period in which the recipient country is allowed substantial flexibility in managing the expenditures, subject to broad guidelines and periodic review.

The Sub-committee recognized the great complexity and importance of the institutional arrangements and structures for ensuring international economic stability. After considering the presentations made to it the Sub-committee urges the government to seek, with other countries, methods for linking the allocation of Special Drawing Rights to development finance, with the objective of meeting the urgent needs of developing countries and strengthening the stability of the structure of international exchange. UNCTAD IV provides an important opportunity to pursue this objective.

The ambitious proposals for more automaticity through different kinds of international taxation have not yet been examined in detail by the Sub-committee. On the schemes currently under discussion in the Law of the Sea negotiations, however, the Sub-committee urges the Government to press for international provisions for distributing substantial seabed resource revenues to developing countries. A serious and positive Canadian study of other possibilities for the more automatic transfer of resources to developing countries could be an original and valuable international initiative.

Debt

A crisis of accumulated debt has been brewing for years in many of the developing countries and the severe balance of payments problems of recent years have now brought a number of them to the brink of bankruptcy. After examining various factors, including the more serious implications relief action would have for creditors larger than Canada, the Sub-committee recommends that Canada should press for international agreement establishing procedures for the conversion to grants where appropriate, of debt related to official development assistance in the poorest countries. Steps must also be taken to ensure that future aid to these countries is provided in grants or on the softest loan terms. The problems of many other countries are severe but do not demand as immediate or comprehensive treatment and they may best be handled on an individual basis. However, steps should be taken by the International Monetary Fund, in consultation with the World Bank, to provide more flexible and generous mechanisms to assist these countries.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 169 to the Journals).

Mr. Collenette for Mr. Blaker, from the Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections presented the Eighth Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

In accordance with its Order of Reference of Wednesday, February 18, 1976, your Committee has considered the Report, dated December 1975, by the Chief Electoral Officer of Canada entitled: "An Examination of Possible Ways of Reducing the Election Period", and has agreed to report it with the following recommendations:

Your Committee recommends, that whether or not the Government shortens the election period from 60 days to 47 days, that the Government consider the advisability of at least eliminating the printing of the preliminary enumeration list thereby saving approximately $2 million.

Your Committee recommends that the Government consider the advisability of providing funds to conduct a detailed examination of the Canadian system of enumeration at the time of the next federal general election.

A copy of the Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence relating to this Report (Issues Nos. 33, 34, 35, 41, 42, 44 and 45) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 170 to the Journals).

Mr. Collenette for Mr. Blaker, from the Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections presented the Ninth Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

In accordance with its Order of Reference of Tuesday, February 24, 1976, your Committee has considered the Supplementary Report of the Chief Electoral Officer made pursuant to subsection 59(1) of the Canada Elections Act, and has agreed to report it with the following recommendations:

Your Committee recommends that if the Government introduces legislation to reduce the election period to 47 days, the Government consider the advisability of advancing the deadline by 2 days for the submission of the list of enumerators. If, however, the election period remains at 60 days, then the Committee recommends that the time for submitting the list of enumerators remain as at present.

Your Committee recommends that the Government consider the advisability of continuing the practice of posting the preliminary lists of voters in a conspicuous place.

Your Committee recommends that the Government consider the advisability of entitling the candidate up to 10 copies, upon request, of the printed preliminary lists of electors.

Your Committee recommends that the Government consider the advisability of disallowing candidates who are sponsored by a Party which was dropped from the Registry, being given the option of being listed as independent candidates.

Your Committee recommends that the description of the ballot paper remain as expressed in the Act until such time as legislation requiring description under the metric system comes into effect and that the description of the ballot paper be amended to conform with the metric system when legislation concerning the metric system comes into effect.

Your Committee assigned responsibility for the study of Department of National Defence and External Affairs personnel voting and voting abroad to a Sub-committee of 3 members—Messrs. Hopkins, Dick and Benjamin.

The Sub-committee has submitted its Report to the Committee. Your Committee has adopted this report with amendment. The text of the Report, as amended, read as follows:

The Sub-committee on the Department of National Defence and External Affairs voting and voting abroad has the honour to present its

FIRST REPORT

In accordance with its delegated authority of Thursday, March 18, 1976, your Sub-committee makes the following recommendations:

- (a) Within a period of 15 days following the writs for a general election, a Canadian Forces electors list and a Public Service electors list will be provided to an officially nominated candidate. The definition of a Public Service elector and a Canadian Forces elector is defined in the Special Voting Rules.

Your Sub-committee recommends that the above is feasible and presents no difficulties.

- (b) Provision of an annual list of Canadian Forces electors and another for Public Service electors for each Member of Parliament including only those electors who are applicable to his or her own constituency.

Your Sub-committee recommends that these lists should be made on approximately October 1st of each year and that they be provided to Members of Parliament.

- (c) Whether or not it would be possible to provide four mailings per session to the Canadian Forces and Public Service electors on a riding to riding basis by each individual M.P., e.g. to his or her own electors.

Your Sub-committee recommends that, because it is possible, it be implemented.

Paragraphs (a), (b) and (c) apply to peace time conditions only.

- (d) One annual mailing to the above electors by each Party Headquarters, providing that Party has Members holding seats in the House of Commons. The cost of this mailing, however, will have to be absorbed by each respective Party Headquarters.

Your Sub-committee recommends that this is feasible and should be implemented.

Your Sub-committee further recommends that the Headquarters of each officially registered Party represented in the House of Commons be provided with such a list for each electoral district. Parties will only include official Parties represented in the House and these lists are to be used for official political purposes only. Care must be exercised by Members of Parliament as well as by political parties to avoid these lists being used for any non-political or commercial purposes.

These lists will be approximately 60 days current and if a Federal General Election is called in late summer, only the regular list referred to in paragraph (a) will be produced.

These lists will not include the names of dependents of Public Service electors and Canadian Forces electors.

Your Sub-committee agrees that any mailings by M.P.s to Canadian Forces electors and Public Service electors should be governed by the same rules as the present mailings from the House of Commons. If there is any abuse, this will be brought to the attention of the appropriate Party Headquarters for corrective actions. Cost of producing these lists could be paid for by the Chief Electoral Officer in accordance with Section 94 of the Special Voting Rules.

A copy of the Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence relating to this Report (Issues Nos. 34, 35, 36, 37, 39, 40, 41, 44 and 45) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 171 to the Journals).

Mr. Collenette for Mr. Blaker, from the Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections presented the Tenth Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

In accordance with its Order of Reference of Thursday, July 24, 1975, your Committee has considered the subject-matter of the following Bills:

Bill C-213, An Act to amend the Canada Elections Act (publication of the result of opinion polls);

Bill C-222, An Act to amend the Canada Elections Act (prisoners enfranchised);

Bill C-232, An Act to amend the Canada Elections Act (proxy voting);

Bill C-279, An Act to amend the Canada Elections Act (permanent voters list);

Bill C-287, An Act to amend the Canada Elections Act;

Bill C-290, An Act to amend the Canada Elections Act (permanent voters list);

Bill C-292, An Act to amend the Canada Elections Act (advance poll for the handicapped);

Bill C-304, An Act to amend the Canada Elections Act;

Bill C-307, An Act to amend the Canada Elections Act (leave of absence);

Bill C-336, An Act to amend the Canada Elections Act (mobile polling stations);

Bill C-362, An Act to amend the Canada Elections Act (use of contributions);

Bill C-389, An Act to amend the Canada Elections Act (political affiliation); and Bill C-404, An Act to amend the Canada Elections Act (opinion surveys), and has agreed to make the following recommendations:

Your Committee recommends that the Government consider the advisability of requiring that the Chief Electoral Officer places at the disposal of Members of Parliament the lists of Military voters to achieve the purpose of Bill C-287.

Your Committee recommends that the Government consider the advisability of establishing advance polls to facilitate the voting of the handicapped as referred to in Bill C-292.

Your Committee recommends that the Government consider the advisability that advance polls be held on three days: namely, Thursday, Saturday and Monday the 11th, 9th and 7th days before polling day from 12 noon to 8:00 o'clock p.m., to achieve, in part, the purpose of Bill C-304.

Your Committee recommends that the Government consider the advisability of introducing amendments to restrict the expenditures obtained under the Canada Elections Act to the activity of the Party in its federal capacity as referred to in Bill C-362.

Your Committee wishes to recognize the valuable contributions made by the sponsors of these Bills, in particular Mr. Sean O'Sullivan, M.P., Mr. James Fleming, M.P., Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister of Communications, the Honourable Martin O'Connell, M.P., and Mr. Mark MacGuigan, M.P.

A copy of the Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence relating to this subject-matter (Issues Nos. 33, 34, 38, 41, 42, 43, 44 and 45) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 172 to the Journals).

Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Report of the Tariff Board, pursuant to the Inquiry ordered by the Minister of Finance respecting Pleasure Craft—Reference No. 149 (English and French), together with a copy of the transcript of evidence presented at the public hearings, pursuant to section 6 of the Tariff Board Act, chapter T-1, R.S.C., 1970.—Sessional Paper No. 301-4/2.

Bill C-89, An Act to amend the Anti-Inflation Act, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs, was again considered at the report stage.

Whereupon, the House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Stevens, seconded by Mr. Paproski,—That Bill C-89, An Act to amend the Anti-Inflation Act, be amended in Clause 11 by striking out lines 10 to 23 at page 7 and substituting the following therefor:

"(2) This Act expires on May 1, 1977, or on such earlier date as may be fixed by proclamation or a motion taken up and considered by the House of Commons that is adopted by the House and concurred in by the Senate pursuant to subsections (8) and (9) unless, before May 1, 1977, or any earlier date fixed by proclamation or any such motion that is so adopted by the House and concurred in by the Senate, an Order in Council is made to the effect that this Act shall continue in force for such period of time as may be set out in the Order in Council."

And on the motion of Mr. Stevens, seconded by Mr. Paproski,—That Bill C-89, An Act to amend the Anti-Inflation Act, be amended in Clause 11 by striking out lines 27 to 38 at page 7 and substituting the following therefor:

"(6) Where, at any time after August 31, 1976 and before January 1, 1977, a motion for the consideration of the House of Commons, signed by not less than 50 Members of the House, is filed with the Speaker to the effect that this Act shall expire on a date before May 1, 1977, that is specified in the motion, the House of Commons shall within the first fifteen days next after the motion is filed that the House is sitting, in accordance with the rules of the House, take up and consider the motion."

And on the motion of Mr. Broadbent, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), in amendment thereto,—That motion numbered 1 be amended in line 1 of the proposed new sub-clause (2) by changing "1977," to "1976.", and by deleting all the words thereafter.

After further debate, the question being put on the amendment, it was negatived on the following division:

(Private Bills)

The Order being read for the second reading and reference to the Standing Committee on Miscellaneous Private Bills and Standing Orders of Bill S-33, An Act respecting United Grain Growers Limited;

Mr. McIsaac, seconded by Mr. Trudel, moved,—That the Bill be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Miscellaneous Private Bills and Standing Orders.

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

Accordingly, the Bill was read the second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Miscellaneous Private Bills and Standing Orders.

The Order being read for the consideration of the report stage of Bill C-68, An Act to amend the Medical Care Act, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Health, Welfare and Social Affairs;

Mr. Yewchuk, seconded by Mr. Patterson, moved,—That Bill C-68, An Act to amend the Medical Care Act, be amended in Clause 1 by striking out lines 1 to 16 at page 2.

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, pursuant to section 11 of Standing Order 75, a recorded division was deferred.

By unanimous consent, it was ordered,—That any recorded division in relation to Bill C-68, An Act to amend the Medical Care Act, pursuant to section 11 of Standing Order 75 be taken forthwith upon the calling of Government Orders on Wednesday, May 5, 1976.

Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), seconded by Mr. Hogan, moved,—That Bill C-68, An Act to amend the Medical Care Act, be amended by deleting Clause 1.

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, pursuant to section 11 of Standing Order 75, a recorded division was deferred.

Mr. Yewchuk for Mr. Brisco, seconded by Mr. Paproski, moved,—That Bill C-68, An Act to amend the Medical Care Act, be amended in Clause 1 by striking out line 14 at page 2 and substituting the following therefor:

"Governor in Council, subject to affirmative resolution of Parliament, for insured services".

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, pursuant to section 11 of Standing Order 75, a recorded division was deferred.

Mr. Lalonde, seconded by Mrs. Sauvé, moved,—That Bill C-68, An Act to amend the Medical Care Act, be amended by adding the following Clause:

"3. The said Act is further amended by adding thereto, immediately after section 9 thereof, the following heading and section:

"COMING INTO FORCE OF ORDERS IN COUNCIL

10. (1) An order of the Governor in Council made pursuant to paragraph 5(2.3)(b) or 5.1(3)(d) shall be laid before the House of Commons not later than fifteen days after the day on which it was made, or, if Parliament is not then sitting, within the first fifteen days next thereafter that Parliament is sitting.

(2) Where an order of the Governor in Council has been laid before the House of Commons pursuant to subsection (1), a notice of motion in the House of Commons signed by not less than fifty members thereof and made in accordance with the rules of that House within seven days of the day the order was laid before that House praying that the order be revoked shall be taken up and considered in that House at the first convenient opportunity within the four sitting days next after the day the motion in that House was made.

(3) At fifteen minutes before the expiry of the time provided for government business on the second sitting day following the commencement of consideration of a motion of which notice was given under subsection (2), or at such earlier time as the House of Commons is ready for the question, the Speaker shall put the question forthwith without further debate.

(4) If a motion considered by the House of Commons pursuant to this section is adopted by the House, with or without amendments, a message shall be sent to the Senate informing the Senate that the motion has been so adopted and requesting that the motion be concurred in by the Senate.

(5) The Senate shall, within the first four days next after receipt by it of a request from the House of Commons pursuant to subsection (4) that the Senate is sitting, in accordance with the Rules of the Senate, take up and consider the motion adopted by the House of Commons that is the subject of the request and all questions in connection therewith shall be debated without interruption and decided not later than the end of the third sitting day next after the day the motion is first so taken up and considered.

(6) If the Senate, pursuant to a request from the House of Commons, concurs in a motion adopted by the House as provided in this section, the order of the Governor in Council to which the motion relates is thereupon revoked effective from the day on which it was made." "

And debate arising thereon;

(Proceedings on Adjournment Motion)

At 10.00 o'clock p.m., the question "That this House do now adjourn" was deemed to have been proposed pursuant to Standing Order 40(1);

PRAYERS

Pursuant to Standing Order 43, on motion of Mr. Jarvis, seconded by Mr. Douglas (Bruce-Grey), it was agreed,—That the matter of CBC Farm Broadcasting be referred for study to the Standing Committee on Broadcasting, Films and Assistance to the Arts.

Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copies of a document entitled "Economic Review", dated April 1976. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-1/315A.

By unanimous consent, on motion of Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), seconded by Mr. Sharp, it was ordered,—That the document entitled "Economic Review", dated April 1976, be referred to the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs.

Mr. Dick, seconded by Mr. Darling, by leave of the House, introduced Bill C-436, An Act respecting the preservation and surrender of constituency records, which was read the first time and ordered to be printed and ordered for a second reading at the next sitting of the House.

Bill C-68, An Act to amend the Medical Care Act, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Health, Welfare and Social Affairs, was again considered at the report stage.

Whereupon the House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Lalonde, seconded by Mrs. Sauvé—That Bill C-68, An Act to amend the Medical Care Act, be amended by adding the following Clause:

"3. The said Act is further amended by adding thereto, immediately after section 9 thereof, the following heading and section:

"COMING INTO FORCE OF ORDERS IN COUNCIL

PRAYERS

Mr. Speaker communicated to the House the following letter:

GOVERNMENT HOUSE
OTTAWA

May 5, 1976

Sir,

I have the honour to inform you that the Right Honourable Bora Laskin, P.C., Chief Justice of Canada, in his capacity as Deputy Governor General, will proceed to the Senate Chamber today, the 5th day of May, at 5.45 p.m. for the purpose of giving Royal Assent to certain Bills.

I have the honour to be, Sir, your obedient servant,

EDMOND JOLY DE LOTBINIÈRE

Administrative Secretary to the Governor General.

The Honourable,

The Speaker of the House of Commons.

The House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Allmand, seconded by Mr. Cullen,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs.

And debate continuing;

A Message was received from the Right Honourable Bora Laskin, P.C., Chief Justice of Canada, acting as Deputy to His Excellency the Governor General desiring the immediate attendance of the House in the Senate Chamber.

Accordingly, Mr. Speaker went with the House to the Senate Chamber;

And being returned;

Mr. Speaker reported that when the House did attend the Right Honourable the Deputy to His Excellency the Governor General in the Senate Chamber, the Right Honourable the Deputy to His Excellency the Governor General was pleased to give, in Her Majesty's name, the Royal Assent to the following Bills:

Bill C-92, An Act to provide for compensation for former prisoners of war and their dependants and to amend certain other statutes in consequence thereof.—Chapter No. 95.

Bill S-8, An Act respecting the use of national safety marks in relation to motor vehicle tires and to provide for safety standards for certain motor vehicle tires imported into or exported from Canada or sent or conveyed from one province to another.—Chapter No. 96.

And the question being put on the motion of Mr. Lalonde, seconded by Mrs. Sauvé,—That Bill C-68, An Act to amend the Medical Care Act, be amended by adding the following Clause:

"3. The said Act is further amended by adding thereto, immediately after section 9 thereof, the following heading and section:

"COMING INTO FORCE OF ORDERS IN COUNCIL

10. (1) An order of the Governor in Council made pursuant to paragraph 5(2.3)(b) or 5.1(3)(d) shall be laid before the House of Commons not later than fifteen days after the day on which it was made, or, if Parliament is not then sitting, within the first fifteen days next thereafter that Parliament is sitting.

(2) Where an order of the Governor in Council has been laid before the House of Commons pursuant to subsection (1), a notice of motion in the House of Commons signed by not less than fifty members thereof and made in accordance with the rules of that House within seven days of the day the order was laid before that House praying that the order be revoked shall be taken up and considered in that House at the first convenient opportunity within the four sitting days next after the day the motion in that House was made.

(3) At fifteen minutes before the expiry of the time provided for government business on the second sitting day following the commencement of consideration of a motion of which notice was given under subsection (2), or at such earlier time as the House of Commons is ready for the question, the Speaker shall put the question forthwith without further debate.

(4) If a motion considered by the House of Commons pursuant to this section is adopted by the House, with or without amendments, a message shall be sent to the Senate informing the Senate that the motion has been so adopted and requesting that the motion be concurred in by the Senate.

(5) The Senate shall, within the first four days next after receipt by it of a request from the House of Commons pursuant to subsection (4) that the Senate is sitting, in accordance with the Rules of the Senate, take up and consider the motion adopted by the House of Commons that is the subject of the request and all questions in connection therewith shall be debated without interruption and decided not later than the end of the third sitting day next after the day the motion is first so taken up and considered.

(6) If the Senate, pursuant to a request from the House of Commons, concurs in a motion adopted by the House as provided in this section, the order of the Governor in Council to which the motion relates is thereupon revoked effective from the day on which it was made." "

it was agreed to.

On motion of Mr. Lalonde, seconded by Mrs. Sauvé, the Bill was concurred in, as amended, at the report stage and ordered for a third reading at the next sitting of the House.

The House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Allmand, seconded by Mr. Cullen,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs.

And debate continuing;

[At 5.00 o'clock p.m., Private Members' Business was called pursuant to Standing Order 15(4)]

[Notices of Motions (Papers)]

Notices of Motions (Papers) numbered 34, 37, 39, 35, 41 and 42, having been called, were allowed to stand at the request of the government.

Mr. Marshall, seconded by Mr. Jarvis, moved,—That an humble Address be presented to His Excellency praying that he will cause to be laid before this House copies of all minutes of meetings, letters and telegrams pertaining to the negotiations which have taken place between the government and the United States on the continental shelf boundary disputes with regard to the France-Canada Boundary around the Islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon.—(Notice of Motion for the Production of Papers No. 70).

By unanimous consent, the motion was amended to read as follows:

That an humble Address be presented to His Excellency praying that he will cause to be laid before this House copies of all minutes of meetings, letters and telegrams pertaining to the negotiations which have taken place between the government and France on the continental shelf boundary disputes with regard to the France-Canada Boundary around the Islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon.

And debate arising thereon;

The hour for Private Members' Business expired.

Debate was resumed on the motion of Mr. Allmand, seconded by Mr. Cullen,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs.

And debate continuing;

(4) Nova Scotia, without amendment.—Sessional Paper No. 301-1/425A;

(5) Quebec and amendments thereto.—Sessional Paper No. 301-1/428A.

Mr. Comtois, from the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs, presented the Fifteenth Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

In accordance with its Order of Reference of Friday, April 30, 1976, your Committee has considered Bill S-32, An Act to implement conventions for the avoidance of double taxation with respect to income tax between Canada and France, Canada and Belgium and Canada and Israel, and has agreed to report it with the following amendments:

Clause 10

Strike out lines 41 and 42 on page 3 and substitute the following therefor:

“of the Governor in Council published, with the text of such supplementary agreement, in the Canada Gazette.”

Strike out lines 4 to 16 on page 4 and substitute the following therefor:

“(2) An order referred to in subsection (1) shall come into force on the 30th sitting day after it has been laid before Parliament pursuant to that subsection unless before the 20th sitting day after the order has been laid before Parliament a motion for the consideration of either House, to the effect that the order be revoked, signed by not less than fifty members of the House of Commons in the case of a motion for the consideration of that House and by not less than twenty members of the Senate in the case of a motion for the consideration of the Senate, is filed with the Speaker of the appropriate House.

(3) Where a motion for the consideration of the House of Commons or Senate is filed as provided in subsection (2) with respect to a particular order referred to in subsection (1), that House shall, not later than the sixth sitting day of that House following the filing of the motion, in accordance with the rules of that House, unless a motion to the like effect has earlier been taken up and considered in the other House, take up and consider the motion.

(4) A motion taken up and considered in accordance with subsection (3) shall be debated without interruption for not more than five hours and, on the conclusion of such debate or at the expiry of the fifth such hour, the Speaker of the House of Commons or the Senate, as the case may be, shall forthwith put, without further debate or amendment, every question necessary for the disposal of the motion.

(5) If a motion taken up and considered in accordance with subsection (3) is adopted, with or without amendments, a message shall be sent from the House adopting the motion informing the other House that the motion has been so adopted and requesting that the motion be concurred in by that other House.

(6) Within the first fifteen days next after receipt by it of a request pursuant to subsection (5) that the House receiving the request is sitting, that House shall, in accordance with the Rules thereof, take up and consider the motion that is the subject of the request and all questions in connection therewith shall be debated without interruption for not more than five hours and, on the conclusion of such debate or at the expiry of the fifth such hour, the Speaker of the House of Commons or the Senate, as the case may be, shall forthwith put, without further debate or amendment, every question necessary to determine whether or not the motion in question is concurred in.

(7) Where a motion taken up and considered in accordance with this section is adopted by the House in which it was introduced and is concurred in by the other House, the particular order to which the motion relates shall stand revoked but without prejudice to the making of a further order of a like nature to implement a subsequent supplementary agreement between the Government of Canada and the Government of the French Republic, Belgium or the State of Israel, as the case may be.

(8) For the purpose of subsection (2), a day on which either House of Parliament sits shall be deemed to be a sitting day."

Your Committee has ordered a reprint of Bill S-32, as amended, for the use of the House of Commons at the report stage.

A copy of the Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence relating to this Bill (Issues Nos. 104 and 105) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 175 to the Journals).

HOUSE OF COMMONS

OF CANADA

OTTAWA, WEDNESDAY, MAY 12, 1976

2.00 o'clock p.m.

PRAYERS

On motion of Mr. Campbell (LaSalle-Émard-Côte Saint-Paul), seconded by Mr. De Bané, the Fifteenth Report of the Standing Committee on Transport and Communications, presented to the House on Monday, May 10, 1976, was concurred in.

Pursuant to Standing Order 39(4), the following two Questions were made Orders of the House for Returns:

No. 3,967—Mr. Matte

1. Since the inception of the Multiculturalism Programme, has the Minister responsible for Multiculturalism granted subsidies and, if so, in what amounts?

2. For each such subsidy, what was (a) its purpose (b) the name of the association (c) the province (d) the year?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/3,967.

No. 5,092—Mr. Caouette (Témiscamingue)

1. Since the implementation of the Metric Conversion Programme at the national level, how much was spent each year by departments to (a) educate the public (b) apply the new system to material essential to the proper functioning of the department?

2. How many persons are directly responsible for the implementation of the programme?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/5,092.

Mr. Blais, Parliamentary Secretary to the President of the Privy Council, presented,—Returns to the foregoing Orders.

The Order being read for the consideration of the Business of Supply;

Pursuant to Standing Order 58, Mr. Stevens, seconded by Mr. Baker (Grenville-Carleton), moved,—That this House, believing that the continuing tendency of this administration to reckless and at times contradictory intervention in the economy has created an atmosphere of uncertainty and lack of confidence with the public, and seeing that this uncertainty has resulted in rising unemployment, falling productivity, and unacceptable levels of real growth and inflation, expresses its lack of confidence in the government.

After debate thereon, at 5.45 o'clock p.m., Mr. Speaker interrupted the proceedings pursuant to Standing Order 58(9)(a);

And the question being put on the motion, it was negatived on the following division:

JOURNALS

OF THE

HOUSE OF COMMONS

OF CANADA

OTTAWA, FRIDAY, MAY 21, 1976

11.00 o'clock a.m.

PRAYERS

Mr. Blaker, from the Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, presented the Eleventh Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

In accordance with its Order of Reference of Friday, May 7, 1976, your Committee has considered the alleged accusation by Mr. Auguste Choquette that a substantial number of the Members of the House of Commons have been in receipt of bribes.

Your Committee, by comparing a certified copy of the portion of the transcript of proceedings in the case of Regina v. Stephen Byer that was pertinent and a translation of the court transcript, has established that the statement made by Mr. Auguste Choquette before the Honourable Mr. Justice Stephen Cuddihy, on May 6, 1976 was in essence reported accurately in the media and may be summarized from the court transcript as follows:

"I come back often to actual experiences... but having spent five years in politics, if every person who accepts or receives an indicated amount were to... fifty per cent of parliamentarians would not be allowed to sit; I have practised politics enough to know that."

Subsequently, Mr. Choquette appeared before your Committee in response to an invitation that he explain the said statement.

Mr. Choquette, after an initial reluctance, stated his general position in response to questions:

A. "after having stated several times the respect I have for Parliament... my attitude would not be correctly understood were one to think that... I was trying to show contempt for the Parliamentary institution that is yours." (p.46:15)

and further:

A. "Definitely I did not want to attack federal M.P.'s. That is my feeling, I will never attack M.P.'s." (p.46:17) and further in response to a question, "Are you then withdrawing what you said about 50 per cent of the parliamentarians, referring to M.P.'s in Ottawa, that would not be allowed to sit? Are you withdrawing that as it pertains to M.P.'s?" Mr. Choquette replied:

A. "In Ottawa, definitely, definitely." (p.46:17)

A. "I never made any reference to the Members of the House of Commons." (p.46:17)

and further:

A. "I came to say that I at no time wanted to question the integrity of Canadian Parliamentarians. I have expressed on many occasions the great respect I have for Parliament as an institution..." (p.46:19)

Mr. Choquette then established by his own evidence that at no time during his tenure as a Member of the House of Commons did he have any knowledge of any Member of the House of Commons receiving any amount of money in consideration for any service rendered by that Member of the House of Commons in his official capacity:

Q. "Are we therefore to assume that the witness has no evidence to present of direct witnessing by him, or seen with his own eyes, of practices that were clearly corrupt conducted by another M.P. or other M.P.'s in the performance of their duties?..." (p.46:21)

A. "In my capacity as an M.P., the answer is no... I have never had knowledge of a Member of Parliament having received money in return for doing something illegal." (p.46:21)

A. "When Mr. Young asked me if, as a Member of Parliament I had ever witnessed another Member receiving a sum of money in order to obtain some legal favour, I answered in the negative." (p.46:24)

And further:

Q. "... if he wishes to produce facts, details, evidence, whether it may be of his personal knowledge or any other form dealing with the question of whether any Member of Parliament accepted any bribes." (p.46:24)

A. "I can only repeat that I do not intend to accuse any Member of the House of Commons." (p.46:24)

and further:

"I am convinced that the media will make clear enough the faith I have in the integrity of our Members of Parliament... I in no way question the integrity of all the Members of the House of Commons." (p.46:25)

Mr. Choquette indicated that the Members of the House of Commons had valid reason to take offense with his remarks in court:

Q. "... How could a competent lawyer such as yourself make such a statement? Do you not realize how easy it is for Members of Parliament to have their reputations besmirched?..." (p.46:24)

A. "I understand very well what you are trying to say, and I think that certain points have been cleared up this afternoon. Were I a member of the House, I would have reacted in the same way..." (p.46:24)

Q. "Do you mean to tell me, sir, that you still maintain—this is extremely important to me, because we have to make a decision as to what we are going to do, when this is over—that there is nothing that, within the interpretation of a reasonable person, could be a reflection on Members of Parliament? Is that your position?..." (p.46:35)

A. "... Yes; of course, my statement can be so interpreted; however, that is not the interpretation that I wish to give it..." (p.46:35)

Mr. Choquette maintained that his statement was neither intended nor should it be construed to include Members of the House of Commons. For that reason, he refused to withdraw his remarks or to apologize, saying:

"I therefore have no statement to retract concerning the integrity of Members of the House of Commons." (p.46:24)

"I do not think I can withdraw what I have not said." (p.46:28)

"I cannot withdraw because I never referred to..." (p.46:28)

"As for me, I have already told you that I could not withdraw what I never said in the first place and that I cannot excuse myself for something which I have not done." (p.46:33)

Your Committee, after reviewing the rights, immunities and privileges of Parliament, and having read the court transcript and having heard from Mr. Auguste Choquette, has come to the following conclusions:

1. That the people of Canada are entitled to be assured of the integrity of each Member of the House of Commons beyond any doubt. In no case should unfounded remarks be allowed to denigrate that integrity.
2. That, by referring to his own political experiences while making representations in Court in the case of Regina v. Stephen Byer, Mr. Choquette made a sweeping generalization about parliamentarians that could by implication be a direct reference to Members of the House of Commons.
3. That, when given the opportunity to present any facts, details or evidence which prove that Members of the House of Commons accepted bribes, Mr. Choquette was unable to substantiate his generalization as it pertains to Members of Parliament.
4. That Mr. Choquette reaffirmed his belief in the integrity of the Members of the House of Commons.
5. That Mr. Choquette stated that he did not want to cast any negative reflection on the Members of the House of Commons.
6. That the Committee is satisfied that Mr. Choquette has excluded the Members of the House of Commons from any suggestion that they are in receipt of bribes.
7. That your Committee has heard Mr. Choquette admit that his statement could be interpreted as containing an implication of wrongdoing by members of the House of Commons and while he regrets this, your Committee deplores that he ignores logic and propriety by refusing to withdraw the said statement in a straightforward and unequivocal way.
8. That your Committee views the comments made by Mr. Choquette before the Court as intemperate and irresponsible.
9. That since Mr. Choquette's statement may only be construed as reflecting on the credibility of Mr. Choquette rather than on the integrity of the Members of the House of Commons, your Committee recommends that the dignity of the House of Commons would be best served by giving the matter no further consideration.

A copy of the Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence relating to this subject-matter (Issues Nos. 45, 46 and 47) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 178 to the Journals).

Mr. Loiselle (Chambly) for Mr. Loiselle (Saint-Henri), from the Standing Committee on Miscellaneous Private Bills and Standing Orders, presented the Eleventh Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

In accordance with its Order of Reference of Friday, May 7, 1976, and following the procedures outlined by Mr. Speaker on Monday, December 9, 1974, your Committee recommends that the provisions of section (3) of Standing Order 91 applying to Bill S-11 be suspended on the grounds that the passage of Bill C-29 at this session renders such provisions inequitable and that the refund of the fees received thereunder, being $200,400, be authorized.

A copy of the relevant Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence (Issue No. 9) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 179 to the Journals).

PRAYERS

Mr. Robinson, from the Standing Committee on Health, Welfare and Social Affairs, presented the Thirteenth Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

In accordance with its Order of Reference of Friday, November 28, 1975, your Committee has considered Bill C-242, An Act respecting relief to non-smokers in transit, and has agreed to report it with the following amendments:

Clause 2

Strike out lines 6 to 10 on page 1 and substitute the following therefor:

"2. (1) Subject to any other Act or law, areas for the accommodation of persons who wish to smoke may be designated in railway cars, ships, aircraft or motor vehicles engaged in the transport of passengers for hire or reward in any of the following modes of transport:"

Add immediately after line 24 on page 1 the following:

"(2) Any person who smokes knowingly in an area for the accommodation of passengers in a railway car, ship, aircraft or motor vehicle engaged in the transport of passengers for hire or reward in any of the modes of transport referred to in subsection (1), otherwise than in an area designated pursuant to that subsection, is guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars.

(3) Any operator of an undertaking engaged in any of the modes of transport referred to in subsection (1) who or whose agent or employee knowingly permits an offence described in subsection (2) to be committed in a railway car, ship, aircraft or motor vehicle operated by him, without taking all reasonable steps to prevent the commission of the offence, is guilty of an offence punishable on summary conviction.

(4) A person who is found guilty pursuant to subsections (2) or (3) shall be liable to pay any fine prescribed by the court that is levied in accordance with those subsections, but for all other purposes that person shall be deemed not to have been convicted of an offence under any Act of the Parliament of Canada.

(5) No person shall produce to or reproduce for any other person or authority any court document or record relating to the arrest, trial or conviction of a person who is found guilty pursuant to subsection (2) or (3) or to the payment of the fine by that person except as may be necessary for the administration of the payment of the fine and the accounting thereof.

(6) A person who produces or reproduces a court document or record in contravention of subsection (5) is guilty of an offence and is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars."

New Clause 3

Add immediately after Clause 2 the following:

- "3. The Governor in Council may make regulations
- (a) exempting any class of railway cars, ships, aircraft or motor vehicles from the application of this Act;
  - (b) prescribing the persons by whom and the manner in which areas for the accommodation of persons who wish to smoke shall be designated;
  - (c) prescribing the maximum percentage of the facilities for the accommodation of passengers in any class of railway cars, ships, aircraft or motor vehicles that may be designated pursuant to subsection 2(1); and
  - (d) generally, for carrying out the purposes and provisions of this Act."

New Clause 4

Add immediately after new Clause 3 the following:

"4. The Governor in Council may, by order, designate a member of the Queen's Privy Council for Canada to be the Minister responsible for the administration of this Act."

New Clause 5

Add immediately after new Clause 4 the following:

"5. This Act shall come into force on a day to be fixed by proclamation."

Your Committee has ordered a reprint of Bill C-242, as amended, for the use of the House of Commons at the report stage.

A copy of the Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence relating to this Bill (Issues Nos. 51, 53, 54, 55, 58 and 63) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 187 to the Journals).

The House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. MacDonald (Rosedale), seconded by Mr. Sharp,—That this House approves in general the budgetary policy of the Government.

And on the motion of Mr. Stevens, seconded by Mr. Wagner, in amendment thereto,—That all the words after the word "That" be deleted and the following substituted therefor:

"this House regrets the lack of any government commitment to the long-term growth and job potential of the Canadian economy, its failure to realize that sound economic growth and job creation are essential to effective control of inflation, and its refusal to impose any real and honest restraint on its own spending to ease the tax burden on Canadians."

And on the motion of Mr. Saltsman, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), in amendment to the amendment,—That the amendment be amended by changing the period at the end thereof to a semi-colon, and by adding immediately thereafter the following words:

"this House regrets in particular that at a time when more than 760,000 Canadians are unemployed the government has announced its intention to change the minimum qualifying period for unemployment insurance benefits from eight to twelve weeks."

After further debate, at 5.45 o'clock p.m., Mr. Speaker interrupted the proceedings pursuant to Standing Order 60(6);

And the question being put on the amendment to the amendment, it was negatived on the following division:

Your Committee has ordered a reprint of Bill C-83, as amended, for the use of the House of Commons at the report stage.

A copy of the Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence relating to this Bill (Issues Nos. 39 to 51, 53 and 55 to 67 inclusive) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 190 to the Journals).

Mr. Guilbault, from the Standing Committee on Broadcasting, Films and Assistance to the Arts, presented the Sixth Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

Your Committee not having had time to complete its consideration of the matter of CBC Farm Broadcasting, referred to it on Friday, April 30, 1976, recommends that the above matter be again referred to it as one of the first items of business in the next session.

A copy of the relevant Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence (Issue No. 56) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 191 to the Journals).

Pursuant to Standing Order 39(4), the following Question was made an Order of the House for a Return:

No. 5,408—Mr. Caouette (Témiscamingue)

1. How many Manpower and Immigration Centres are there in Canada and where is each located?

2. How many Manpower officers are assigned to each centre?

3. From 1970 to 1975, what has been the yearly cost of officer training in each centre?

4. What is the size of the labour force served by each centre?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/5,408.

Mr. Blais, Parliamentary Secretary to the President of the Privy Council, presented,—Return to the foregoing Order.

The Order being read for the consideration of the report stage of Bill S-32, An Act to implement conventions for the avoidance of double taxation with respect to income tax between Canada and France, Canada and Belgium and Canada and Israel, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs;

Mr. Sharp for Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), seconded by Mr. Drury, moved,—That Bill S-32, An Act to implement conventions for the avoidance of double taxation with respect to income tax between Canada and France, Canada and Belgium and Canada and Israel, be amended in Clause 11 by striking out line 24 at page 5 and substituting the following therefor:

“(8) Where a motion taken up and considered in accordance with this section is not adopted by the House in which it was introduced or is adopted, with or without amendments, by that House but is not concurred in by the other House, the particular order to which the motion relates comes into force immediately upon the failure to adopt the motion or concur therein, as the case may be.

(9) For the purposes of subsection (2), a day”.

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

On motion of Mr. Sharp for Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), seconded by Mr. Drury, the Bill, as amended, was concurred in at the report stage.

By unanimous consent, Mr. Sharp for Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), seconded by Mr. Drury, moved,—That the Bill be now read a third time and do pass.

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

Accordingly, the Bill was read the third time and passed.

The House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Lalonde, seconded by Mr. Sharp,—That Bill C-68, An Act to amend the Medical Care Act, be now read a third time and do pass.

And debate continuing;

Mr. Leggatt, seconded by Mr. Firth, moved in amendment thereto,—That Bill C-68, An Act to amend the Medical Care Act, be not now read a third time but that it be read a third time this day six months hence.

After debate thereon, the question being put on the amendment, by unanimous consent, it was ordered that a recorded division be deferred to a date to be fixed by the House Leaders.

PRAYERS

Mr. Sharp, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copies of Report of the Commission of Inquiry into the Marketing of Beef and Veal, dated April 13, 1976. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-4/83.

Mr. Basford, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copies of Communiqué issued following the Federal-Provincial Conference of Attorneys General held at Vancouver, June 17 to 18, 1976. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-5/25A.

By unanimous consent, on motion of Mr. Sharp, seconded by Mr. Basford, it was ordered,—That, notwithstanding Standing Order 58(4)(a), during the period ending June 30, 1976, twenty-four hours written notice shall be required for any motion to concur in main or supplementary estimates.

The Order being read for the consideration of the Business of Supply;

Pursuant to Standing Order 58, Mr. Gilbert, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), moved,—That this House condemns the Government for its cynical behaviour at the Habitat Conference held recently in Vancouver, first, in its position on land speculation; second, its policy of placing commercial criteria ahead of any others in the sale of nuclear reactors; and third, the obvious conflict between the Government's bold statements on such environmental matters as clean water and its inability or unwillingness to enforce minimal standards in Canada, as in the case of the Great Canadian Oil Sands plant in Northern Alberta.

After debate thereon, proceedings on the motion expired.

PRAYERS

The Order being read for the consideration of the report stage of Bill C-88, An Act to amend the Canadian Wheat Board Act (No. 2), as reported (without amendment) from the Standing Committee on Agriculture;

Mr. Neil, seconded by Mr. Hees, moved,—That Bill C-88, An Act to amend the Canadian Wheat Board Act (No. 2), be amended in Clause 1 by

(a) striking out lines 10 to 12 at page 1 and substituting the following therefor:

“bers who shall be actual producers having the qualifications prescribed by any regulations made pursuant to section 10.5”

(b) striking out the words “members of the Advisory Committee and of” in lines 20 and 21 at page 3.

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, by unanimous consent, it was ordered that a recorded division be deferred to a date to be fixed by the House Leaders.

At 12.30 o'clock p.m. pursuant to Order made Thursday, May 20, 1976, the House proceeded to the taking of the deferred division on the motion of Mr. Allmand, seconded by Mr. Cullen,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be now read a second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs.

And the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to on the following division:

Accordingly, the Bill was read the second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs.

Mr. Rodriguez, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), by leave of the House, introduced Bill C-441, An Act to amend the Combines Investigation Act (ex relatione class actions), which was read the first time and ordered to be printed and ordered for a second reading at the next sitting of the House.

Pursuant to Standing Order 39(4), the following Question was made an Order of the House for a Return:

No. 5,249—Mr. Marshall

What are the fish species which Canada imported, by dollar value, for the years 1970 to 1975?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/5,249.

Mr. Blais, Parliamentary Secretary to the President of the Privy Council, presented,—Return to the foregoing Order.

The Order being read for the consideration of the Business of Supply;

Pursuant to Standing Order 58, Mr. Baker (Grenville-Carleton) seconded by Mr. Paproski, moved,—That this House, finding unacceptable the performance of the Government, particularly its penchant for shifting blame, reaffirms its belief in the importance of the convention of ministerial responsibility and expresses its lack of confidence in the Government.

And debate arising thereon;

By unanimous consent, the House reverted to "Tabling of Documents".

Mr. Cullen, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copies of Report of the Administrator of the Anti-Inflation Board Act regarding the reference of the collective agreement between the International Nickel Company of Canada, Manitoba Division and the employees represented by the United Steelworkers of America, Local 6166, dated June 22, 1976. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-1/134G.

Debate was resumed on the motion of Mr. Baker (Grenville-Carleton) seconded by Mr. Paproski,—That this House, finding unacceptable the performance of the Government, particularly its penchant for shifting blame, reaffirms its belief in the importance of the convention of ministerial responsibility and expresses its lack of confidence in the Government.

And debate continuing;

It being the thirteenth and final allotted day in the supply period ending June 30, 1976, at 9.45 o'clock p.m., Mr. Speaker interrupted the proceedings pursuant to Standing Order 58(10);

And the question being put on the motion, it was negatived on the following division:

Mr. Chrétien, seconded by Mr. Sharp, moved,—That the Main Estimates for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1977, except those items disposed of at prior sittings, and less the amounts voted in Interim Supply, be concurred in.

And the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to, on division.

Mr. Chrétien, seconded by Mr. Sharp, moved,—That Bill C-93, An Act for granting to Her Majesty certain sums of money for the public service for the financial year ending the 31st March 1977, be now read a first time and be printed.

And the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

Accordingly, the Bill was read the first time and ordered to be printed.

Mr. Chrétien, seconded by Mr. Sharp, moved,—That the Bill be now read a second time and referred to a Committee of the Whole House.

And the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

Accordingly, the Bill was read the second time, considered in Committee of the Whole, reported without amendment and concurred in at the report stage, read the third time and passed.

The motion standing in the name of the Honourable the President of the Treasury Board (Mr. Chrétien), having been called, as follows:

That Vote L27a, in the amount of $5,000,000. of the Treasury Board, in respect of Loto Canada, in Supplementary Estimates (A) for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1977, be concurred in.

And a point of order having been raised by the Honourable Member for Vegreville (Mr. Mazankowski);

RULING BY MR. SPEAKER

MR. SPEAKER: The point of order raised by the honourable Member for Vegreville (Mr. Mazankowski) is a very important one, and it will come as no surprise to honourable Members that the Chair has had an opportunity to anticipate it to some extent. The support given by the honourable Member for Winnipeg North Centre (Mr. Knowles) and by the honourable Member for Grenville-Carleton (Mr. Baker) was carefully noted; it conformed to many of the pronouncements and precedents which have been cited, as well as to others which have been referred to in the research done up to this point.

The President of the Privy Council (Mr. Sharp) has presented a portion of the opposite case. I note that his Parliamentary Secretary (Mr. Blais) and the Parliamentary Secretary to the President of the Treasury Board (Mr. Francis) were also anxious to get into the debate, but I did not find it necessary to hear them at this time.

There seem to be two questions to be decided. The first is whether the method which has been followed in bringing before the House a matter which involved not only dollars and cents but a question of principle is a desirable one. If we do adhere to the theory that a vote on second reading is a vote for or against the principle of the bill, then certainly it would have been preferable for such a matter as this, which involves not only money but a question of principle, to have been brought before the House in the form of a bill in order to allow honourable Members to address themselves at one and the same time to the question whether or not money should be voted to set up a lottery, and, further, to whether or not in principle the federal government should be involved in a scheme of this sort at the present time. However, that involved the question of the desirability of such a course being followed. The arguments of the three honourable Members to my left who have contributed to the discussion made a strong case in this regard.

Nevertheless, what I have to decide is not whether it is a desirable course, but whether it is a legal course in terms of our procedures, in other words, whether it is permissible. It is not proper to compare it with a one-dollar item in the estimates because these are technical in every sense of the word, neither is it proper to attempt to compare this particular case with cases which have been argued rather ably in the past and which led to difficulty with respect to a supply bill because it contained a borrowing clause. I say this because the borrowing clause problem surfaced only at the time the supply bill was presented. This item is fundamentally different inasmuch as it was Tabled as an estimate a month ago and is therefore substantially different from the principle involved in a borrowing clause. In a situation such as this, I have to conclude that where legislative authority exists separate from the item in the estimates and where that authority permits the establishment of the kind of corporation which is envisaged here, and indeed both the references to the Criminal Code and to the Corporations Act are supported and do in fact provide that authority, then what is happening is that the government is not coming to Parliament for legislative authority to do something, but in fact possesses the legislative authority and is coming to Parliament for the money to fund it.

Again I say the desirability of this course is open to severe question, and it would certainly be hoped that where a question of principle is involved in an urgent situation, such as that which has given rise to this course and this particular situation, it would be considered an extremely singular situation, and will not be repeated in the future.

However, I do have to find and rule that in fact the legislative authority exists separate and independent from the estimates, and, therefore, what is sought in the estimates, the item before the House, is the money to support that legislative action which exists independent from it. In these circumstances I have to conclude that there is no legal bar to proceeding in that fashion.

Mr. Chrétien, seconded by Mr. Sharp, moved,—That Vote L27a, in the amount of $5,000,000. of the Treasury Board, in respect of Loto Canada, in Supplementary Estimates (A) for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1977, be concurred in.

And the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to, on the following division:

A Message was received from the Senate informing this House that the Senate had passed the following Bills:

Bill C-94, An Act for granting to Her Majesty certain sums of money for the public service for the financial year ending 31st March, 1977.

Bill C-93, An Act for granting to Her Majesty certain sums of money for the public service for the financial year ending 31st March, 1977.

Pursuant to Order made Monday, June 28, 1976, the Order being read for the consideration of the report stage of Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs;

Motion numbered 1 standing in the name of the honourable Member for Burnaby-Richmond-Delta (Mr. Reynolds), as follows:

That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended by deleting Clause 1.

was withdrawn.

And a point of order having been raised as to the acceptability of certain motions, Mr. Speaker reserved his decision.

A Message was received from the Honourable Wishart F. Spence, O.B.E., Puisne Judge of the Supreme Court of Canada, acting as Deputy Governor General, desiring the immediate attendance of the House in the Senate Chamber.

Accordingly, Mr. Speaker went with the House to the Senate Chamber.

And being returned;

Mr. Speaker reported that when the House did attend the Honourable the Deputy Governor General in the Senate Chamber, His Honour was pleased to give, in Her Majesty's name, the Royal Assent to the following Bill:

Bill S-32, An Act to implement conventions for the avoidance of double taxation with respect to income tax between Canada and France, Canada and Belgium and Canada and Israel.—Chapter No. 104.

Mr. Speaker informed the House that he had addressed the Honourable the Deputy Governor General as follows:

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOUR:

“The Commons of Canada have voted Supplies required to enable the Government to defray certain expenses of the public service.

“In the name of the Commons I present to Your Honour the following Bills:

‘An Act for granting to Her Majesty certain sums of money for the public service for the financial year ending the 31st March, 1977’

‘An Act for granting to Her Majesty certain sums of money for the public service for the financial year ending the 31st March, 1977.’

“To which Bills I humbly request Your Honour’s Assent.”

Whereupon, the Clerk of the Senate, by Command of the Deputy Governor General, did say:

“In Her Majesty’s name, the Honourable the Deputy Governor General thanks Her Loyal Subjects, accepts their benevolence, and assents to these Bills.”

Bill C-93, Appropriation Act No. 3, 1976.—Chapter No. 102.

Bill C-94, Appropriation Act No. 4, 1976.—Chapter No. 103.

At 8.00 o’clock p.m., pursuant to Order made Monday, June 28, 1976 the House proceeded to the taking of the deferred division on the motion of Mr. Lalonde, seconded by Mr. Sharp,—That Bill C-68, An Act to amend the Medical Care Act, be now read a third time and do pass.

And the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to, on the following division:

Accordingly, the Bill was read the third time and passed.

Consideration was resumed at the report stage of Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs;

RULING BY MR. SPEAKER

MR. SPEAKER: The question now is the determination pursuant to Standing Order 75 of the procedural acceptability of motions introduced at the report stage of Bill C-84.

This afternoon I indicated some difficulty with the long-accepted axiom of the House which was referred to so frequently and clearly in arguments put forward this afternoon. I will point out for the sake of clarity that it is stated on page 509 of May's Eighteenth Edition that:

"An amendment which is equivalent to a negative of the bill, or which would reverse the principle of the bill as agreed to on second reading, is not admissible."

We have before us a number of amendments at the report stage of Bill C-84 and the Chair indicated this afternoon some difficulty with those amendments which would reintroduce into the Criminal Code some form of the death penalty, because of the proposition that had been put forward in the committee and discussed quite generally that the principle of the Bill was to abolish the death penalty, any amendment which would propose to reinstate the death penalty would contravene the axiom to which I just referred.

Many honourable Members participated in the discussion this afternoon which lasted until almost six o'clock. There were interesting contributions from Members on both sides of the question, although not so much on both sides of the House. Many argued that the principle of the Bill was different from that which had been suggested by others, namely, that the principle was the abolition of the death penalty. The discussions were interesting and the contributions were well prepared and well thought out, but in the final analysis the question reduces itself to whether, when the House pronounced itself upon second reading of the Bill, it pronounced itself on a question of principle and, if so, what that principle was.

With the greatest respect for all the arguments to the contrary, I have tried to conclude that the principle of the Bill is other than the abolition of capital punishment for crime under the Criminal Code. However, I cannot come to that conclusion.

It seems to me, in respect of all the speeches and comments that have been made, that many Members have addressed themselves, in the agony they feel in making this decision, to the fact that for the first time a bill has been put before the House which is different from those which have been put before the House in the past which have retained capital punishment for certain offences and have been for a temporary period. The distinctive feature of this Bill, which has caused so much concern and so much agony of decision, is that it proposes the total abolition of capital punishment for crimes described in the Criminal Code.

There is a rule that amendments after second reading cannot contravene the principle adopted by the House on second reading, but I know that in the past all the precedents, which strongly and clearly set out that axiom give absolutely no assistance in attempting to define what is the principle of a bill. It may be wise and intelligent, and certainly I accept the admonition and will in no way attempt to generalize on that proposition. In other words, I have to decide whether this Bill has a central principle and, if so, what it is. Having regard to all the debates and comments and all the circumstances of this bill at second reading, I can come to no other conclusion than that this Bill has a central principle, it being the abolition of the death penalty for crimes described in the Criminal Code. Therefore, I must conclude that any amendments at this stage which seek to reintroduce the death penalty under any circumstances contravene the principle and are out of order.

I have made reference to the precedent cited this afternoon by the honourable Member for York-Simcoe (Mr. Stevens) in which a one clause bill was met with a motion to delete. I listened carefully to the arguments by the Parliamentary Secretary to the President of the Privy Council (Mr. Blais) and the honourable Member for Drummond (Mr. Pinard) who, incidentally, made a very effective and direct presentation in contribution to the debate on the point this afternoon.

I would be prepared to accede to those arguments against motions to delete were it not for the fact that Standing Order 75(5) appears to give them a sanctity that does not extend to other motions.

It may be that that provision was inserted originally because the changes in the procedures adopted along with that provision had the effect of taking the committee of the whole stage of the bill in a standing committee. Therefore, the House never really pronounced itself on clause-by-clause votes.

The provision may very well have been inserted in the Standing Orders because of the power to introduce amendments at the committee stage. That power required a counter-balancing power of the House, really for the government I suppose, to introduce motions which would delete amendments which had been added to the bill in the committee stage. That is idle speculation at this point.

What I have to determine is whether Standing Order 75(5) and the precedents, particularly the precedent cited this afternoon by the honourable Member for York-Simcoe, extend to honourable Members who seek the opportunity to put motions to delete at the report stage.

If I were to rule out motions to delete at this stage on arguments that have been presented, namely that they have the effect of contravening the principle of the Bill, I would face a situation where, for example, one Member has put down only one motion to delete. Other Members have put down several motions to delete.

If I were to take those collectively and say that their effect is to change the principle of the Bill, one Member who put down a motion to delete would lose that right. It seems to be going far too extensively beyond the Standing Orders to suggest that because the effect may be in sum or in their collectivity to change the principle of the Bill that every Member who wants to put down a motion to delete at this stage ought to be deprived of that right. I cannot accept that.

I must say again that there is an area here of some uncertainty as to what the rights are at this stage. In my opinion, that uncertainty ought to be cleared up by the Standing Committee on Procedure and Organization. In the meantime, the benefit of the doubt will be given to the Member who wishes to put down a motion at the report stage.

It would be my proposal to find procedurally acceptable all of those motions pursuant to Standing Order 75(5) which now seek to delete clauses. I think we ought to move on to the consideration of the report stage of the Bill.

Motion numbered 16 standing in the name of the honourable Member for Northumberland-Durham (Mr. Lawrence), as follows:

That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended in Clause 5, line 33 at page 4 by striking out the words "or second degree murder".

was withdrawn.

Motion numbered 20 standing in the name of the honourable Member for Northumberland-Durham (Mr. Lawrence), as follows:

That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended in Clause 5 by striking out lines 36 to 38 at page 4 and substituting the following therefor:

"(2) Every one who commits second degree murder is guilty of an indictable offence and shall be sentenced to imprisonment for life."

was withdrawn.

Mr. Halliday, seconded by Mr. O'Sullivan, moved,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended in Clause 2 by striking out lines 37 to 45 at page 2 and lines 1 to 17 at page 3 and substituting the following therefor:

"shall be sentenced to imprisonment for life or, if the convicted person so chooses, shall be sentenced to death."

Mr. Halliday, seconded by Mr. O'Sullivan, moved,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended in Clause 3 by striking out lines 23 to 24 at page 3 and substituting the following therefor:

"able offence and shall be sentenced to imprisonment for life, or if the convicted person so chooses, shall be sentenced to death."

Mr. Halliday, seconded by Mr. O'Sullivan, moved,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended in Clause 5 by striking out lines 34 to 38 at page 4 and substituting the following therefor:

"guilty of an indictable offence and shall,

(a) for a first offence, be sentenced to imprisonment for life, and

(b) for a second offence, be sentenced to imprisonment for life or, if the convicted person so chooses, be sentenced to death."

Mr. Halliday, seconded by Mr. O'Sullivan, moved,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended in Clause 21 by adding, immediately after line 43 at page 8 the following new subsection:

"(2) The sentence to be pronounced against a person who is sentenced to death shall not be that he be hanged by the neck until dead but shall be in conformity with any humane method of execution as the Governor in Council may establish by regulation."

And debate arising thereon;

STATEMENT BY MR. SPEAKER

MR. SPEAKER: I said earlier that I would give to the House a precise compilation of amendments considered up to now. Three Motions have been withdrawn: Motions Nos. 1, 16 and 20. The following Motions have been ruled out of order: Nos. 2, 3, 5, 6, 8, 14, 15, 17, 19 and 39. Therefore, remaining for consideration are the four that have been grouped for debate standing in the name of the honourable Member for Oxford (Mr. Halliday), namely, Motions Nos. 4, 9, 18 and 38. In addition to those are Motions Nos. 7, 10, 11, 12, 13, 21 to 37 inclusive and 40 to 46 inclusive.

(Proceedings on Adjournment Motion)

At 10.00 o'clock p.m., the question "That this House do now adjourn" was deemed to have been proposed pursuant to Standing Order 40(1);

After debate, the question was deemed to have been adopted.

Changes in Committee Membership

Notice having been filed with the Clerk of the House pursuant to Standing Order 65(4)(b), membership of Committees was amended as follows:

Messrs. Lawrence and Wenman for Messrs. Halliday and Schumacher on the Standing Committee on Public Accounts.

Messrs. Roy (Timmins) and Stollery for Mr. Maine and Mrs. Appolloni on the Standing Committee on Health, Welfare and Social Affairs.

Financial Management and Control Study

Your Committee reviewed the subject areas of each Chapter in the Financial Management and Control Study which was undertaken by the Auditor General during 1975, and which is contained in the Supplement of his annual report to this House. The purpose of the Study was to evaluate the quality of financial management and control throughout the Government of Canada, its departments and agencies, and certain Crown corporations.

Your Committee examined witnesses from the central agencies of government as well as from a selection of departments and agencies, including CIDA, Environment, Energy, Mines and Resources, Public Service Commission, Public Works, Supply and Services, and Transport. It became evident to the Committee that the conclusion reached by the Auditor General was well substantiated:

"the present state of the financial management and control systems of departments and agencies of the Government of Canada is significantly below acceptable standards of quality and effectiveness."

In order to correct the situation, the Auditor General has proposed 34 significant recommendations, which your Committee unanimously endorsed, based on the evidence presented to it.

Your Committee is pleased to inform the House that the Treasury Board has accepted 32 of the key recommendations and that it is already engaged in a comprehensive program of implementation. A new Financial Administration Branch of the Treasury Board has been established to ensure that the measures necessary to increase the standards of financial management and control in government will be implemented and effectively monitored.

Your Committee has requested that the Auditor General follow up and monitor the actions taken both at the government-wide and departmental levels in response to the findings and recommendations on which he has reported. Your Committee has been given the full assurance by the Auditor General that he will report on any matters where action to remedy reported deficiencies and weaknesses in financial control has been inadequate or is not functioning satisfactorily.

Furthermore, your Committee has been given the assurance by the Secretary of the Treasury Board that it will be furnished with periodic progress reports on the implementation of these measures so that Parliament will be kept informed, and that progress in the strengthening of government-wide and departmental financial procedures will be assured.

Weakening of Parliamentary Control

One area of immediate concern to the Committee was the form of the Estimates. Changes in the form and content of the Estimates over the last ten years, in the Committee's view, have seriously reduced the effectiveness of Parliament's control over government expenditure. The reduction in the number of votes, the broadening of the vote wording, and the standardization of the Estimates have generally resulted in a significant loss of information that is necessary for Parliament to be well informed before authorizing such expenditures. This in turn has led to uncertainty concerning the nature of public expenditures that parliamentary appropriations are intended to cover.

Your Committee therefore is pleased to report that, further to its deliberations, the Treasury Board will undertake a comprehensive study of the form of the Estimates, as recommended by the Auditor General in his Financial Management and Control Study. Furthermore, your Committee has endorsed the preparation of a booklet to assist parliamentarians in understanding the process and form of the Estimates, which will be undertaken by the Treasury Board in conjunction with the Auditor General and the Research Officer of the Committee. All of these actions in our view provide the most tangible evidence of how worthwhile and productive this study has been from the standpoint of Parliament itself and its control of the public purse.

Irregularities in Departmental Transactions

Examples of waste, weak financial management and non-compliance with the Financial Administration Act were brought to the attention of the Committee under Section 61 by the Auditor General. For the fiscal year 1974-75 nearly $1 million was spent by the Government of Canada for unused Crown-owned or leased accommodation. At the end of the same year approximately $3.8 million was expended on a new pay system which had to be suspended because it was deemed unworkable.

Your Committee also noted other examples of irregularities such as weak financial controls in advertising expenditures and a failure to adhere to the accountable advances regulations in the Defence Program; inadequate accounting and financial control practices in the Indian Program; and the failure to accrue interest on loans from Canada by a Crown corporation.

Your Committee has been assured by the Treasury Board Secretariat and by the departments and agencies concerned that where necessary, measures are being taken to ensure that the financial procedures are being strengthened in these areas. The Auditor General will also monitor these areas.

Your Committee, however, was most concerned with the action taken by the National Energy Board during the 1974-75 fiscal year. The funds appropriated for its operations by Vote 50 had been exhausted before the fiscal year end, and instead of attempting to obtain additional funds through supplementary estimates, the National Energy Board arranged to have $90,000 of its operating costs charged to the operations of the Energy Supplies Allocation Board. Furthermore, no subsequent attempt was made by the officials of either Board to correct this arrangement.

Having received evidence from all parties concerned, your Committee has concluded that the action taken by the National Energy Board clearly contravened Section 19 and subsections (1) and (3)(a) of Section 26 of the Financial Administration Act and was illegal. Your Committee strongly disapproves of the arrangement of funds made by this Board and recommends that disciplinary action be taken immediately by the Minister.

Your Committee strongly disapproves of any action, by any agency of government, which has the effect of circumventing the financial controls established by Parliament; and further recommends that the Treasury Board takes the necessary action to ensure that the authority of Parliament is recognized.

Your Committee wishes to express its appreciation for the efforts and co-operation of the accounting profession in Canada.

A copy of the relevant Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence (Issues Nos. 45 to 69 inclusive, First Session, Thirtieth Parliament) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 193 to the Journals).

Mr. Baldwin for Mr. McCleave, from the Standing Joint Committee on Regulations and other Statutory Instruments, presented the Ninth Report of the Committee, which was read as follows:

In relation to its permanent reference, section 26, The Statutory Instruments Act, 1970-71-72, c. 38, your Committee proposes to continue its review and scrutiny of statutory instruments during the adjournment of Parliament in the summer of 1976.

Your Committee therefore recommends that for this purpose, and notwithstanding an Order of the Senate of Tuesday, October 29, 1974 and an Order of the House of Commons of Thursday, October 31, 1974 respecting the quorum of the Committee, the Joint Chairmen be authorized to hold meetings during the forthcoming summer recess to receive and authorize the printing of evidence when three members of the Committee are present, provided both Houses are represented.

A copy of the relevant Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence (Issue No. 81) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 194 to the Journals).

Mr. Sharp for Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), seconded by Mr. Drury, by leave of the House, introduced Bill C-97, An Act to amend the statute law relating to income tax, (No. 3), which was read the first time and ordered to be printed and ordered for a second reading at the next sitting of the House.

The text of the Message and Recommendation of the Governor General pursuant to Standing Order 62(2) in relation to the foregoing Bill is as follows:

His Excellency the Governor General recommends to the House of Commons the appropriation of public revenue under the circumstances, in the manner and for the purposes set out in a measure entitled "An Act to amend the statute law relating to income tax, (No. 3)".

By unanimous consent, on motion of Mr. Baldwin, seconded by Mr. Blais, the Ninth Report of the Standing Joint Committee on Regulations and other Statutory Instruments, presented to the House earlier this day, was concurred in.

Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs, was again considered at the report stage.

Whereupon, the House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Halliday, seconded by Mr. O'Sullivan,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended in Clause 2 by striking out lines 37 to 45 at page 2 and lines 1 to 17 at page 3 and substituting the following therefor:

“shall be sentenced to imprisonment for life or, if the convicted person so chooses, shall be sentenced to death.”.

And on the motion of Mr. Halliday, seconded by Mr. O'Sullivan,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended in Clause 3 by striking out lines 23 to 24 at page 3 and substituting the following therefor:

“able offence and shall be sentenced to imprisonment for life, or if the convicted person so chooses, shall be sentenced to death.”.

And on the motion of Mr. Halliday, seconded by Mr. O'Sullivan,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended in Clause 5 by striking out lines 34 to 38 at page 4 and substituting the following therefor:

“guilty of an indictable offence and shall,

(a) for a first offence, be sentenced to imprisonment for life, and

(b) for a second offence, be sentenced to imprisonment for life or, if the convicted person so chooses, be sentenced to death.”.

And on the motion of Mr. Halliday, seconded by Mr. O'Sullivan,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended in Clause 21 by adding, immediately after line 43 at page 8 the following new subsection:

“(2) The sentence to be pronounced against a person who is sentenced to death shall not be that he be hanged by the neck until dead but shall be in conformity with any humane method of execution as the Governor in Council may establish by regulation.”.

After further debate, the question being put on the motions, a recorded division was deferred.

OF THE

HOUSE OF COMMONS

OF CANADA

OTTAWA, MONDAY, JULY 5, 1976

2.00 o'clock p.m.

PRAYERS

Pursuant to Standing Order 39(4), the following Question was made an Order of the House for a Return:

No. 5,252—Mr. Jones

1. Did the Department of Transport indicate in 1974 that an expansion or revision to Canada's rail passenger network would be made and, if so, what steps have been taken in this regard?

2. Have steps been taken to urge railway companies to improve and revive the vital role of trains in a balanced integrated transportation network and, if so, what are they?

3. Does the government and the provincial governments, either directly or indirectly, contribute to building and maintaining railway rights-of-way, terminals, railway buildings and structures, rolling stock and other services and, if so, in each case (a) in what amounts (b) what are the details for the years 1965 to 1975?

4. Does the government and the provincial governments, either directly or indirectly, pay for building and maintaining airports, meteorological and navigational services, roads, bridges, dock construction, snow clearing, harbour dredging, etc. in order to provide services for air carriers, bus companies and shipping firms and, if so, in each case, in what amounts?

5. Has any study been made to show the tremendous advantage of train and railway transportation over other modes of transportation in land and land use, energy and energy conservation, pollution, capacity, comfort, safety, etc.?

6. Has any study and consideration been given of adopting, in Canada, the inter-modal concept of transportation that has been accepted in Europe and the United States whereby high speed inter-city trains are given an important role in a balanced transportation system?

7. Does the Department of Transport adopt in its purported transportation policy a view that rationalizes an obvious anti-rail bias and, if so, for what reason?

8. What procedures and methods has the Department of Transport employed to encourage the use of mass transportation or mass transit?

9. Has consideration and study been given to subsidization by the government to promote more mass transportation systems in order to give economical and logical answers to energy conservation, the reduction of pollution, free choked city streets, the reduction of parking problems and the protection of the general health and economy of citizens?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/5,252.

Mr. Blais, Parliamentary Secretary to the President of the Privy Council, presented,—Return to the foregoing Order.

Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs, was again considered at the report stage.

Mr. Reynolds, seconded by Mr. Munro (Esquimalt-Saanich), moved,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended by deleting Clause 2.

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, a recorded division was deferred.

Mr. Fortin, seconded by Mr. Lambert (Bellechasse), moved,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended by deleting Clause 3.

Mr. Reynolds, seconded by Mr. O'Sullivan, moved,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended by deleting Clause 3.

And debate arising thereon;

By unanimous consent, it was ordered,—That, notwithstanding the Order made Tuesday, June 29, 1976, on Thursday, July 8, 1976, at 9.30 o'clock p.m., Mr. Speaker shall interrupt the proceedings then before the House and forthwith put the question on all divisions deferred prior to that time during the consideration of the report stage of Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences.

Clerk of the House*

The following papers having been deposited with the Clerk of the House were laid upon the Table pursuant to Standing Order 41(1), namely:

By Mr. MacDonald (Cardigan), a Member of the Queen's Privy Council,—Report of the Army Benevolent Fund Board together with the Report of the Auditor General on the Accounts and Financial Statements, for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1976, pursuant to section 13 of the Army Benevolent Fund Act, chapter A-16, R.S.C., 1970. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-1/58B.

By Mr. Richardson, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council,—Report on the Administration of the Canadian Forces Superannuation Accounts for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1976, pursuant to sections 28 and 41 of the Canadian Forces Superannuation Act, chapter C-9, R.S.C., 1970. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-1/92B.

By Mr. Richardson,—Statement of Moneys received and disbursed in the Special Account (Replacement of Materiel) for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1976, pursuant to section 11(4) of the National Defence Act, chapter N-4, R.S.C., 1970. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-1/185B.

By Mr. Sharp, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council,—Supplementary Return to an Order of the House, dated October 29, 1975 (Question No. 2,985) showing: 1. By year since 1968, when the Prime Minister came to office, how many people have been engaged in public relations on behalf of the government for each (a) department (b) agency (c) board (d) Crown corporation and, in each case, what has been the cost?

2. For the same period, how much money has been spent on advertising on other information programmes not covered in Part 1 and what are the component parts of these costs?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/2,985F.

By Mr. Sharp,—Supplementary Return to an Order of the House, dated May 13, 1976 (Question No. 4,955) showing: 1. For the past twelve months, by department and agency, what amount was spent on the use of (a) private mail (b) courier services and, in each case, what was the name of the company?

2. Was any of the work done on contract?

3. What types of mail are handled by private service and, in each case, for what reason is regular mail service not used?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/4,955D.

Whereupon, the House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Fortin, seconded by Mr. Lambert (Bellechasse),—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended by deleting Clause 3.

And on the motion of Mr. Reynolds, seconded by Mr. O'Sullivan,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended by deleting Clause 3.

And debate continuing;

Pursuant to Standing Order 43, on motion of Mr. Lambert (Bellechasse), seconded by Mr. Dupras, it was ordered,—That section (3) of Standing Order 2 be amended by adding the following thereto:

"That when the 24th day of June and the 1st day of July fall on a Thursday, the House shall not meet on the 25th day of June and the 2nd day of July".

Mr. Lang, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copies of a letter to Mr. Roger Demers, President, "Association des Gens de l'Air du Québec" from the Minister of Transport, dated July 1, 1976. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-1/190C.

Mr. Lang, laid upon the Table,—Copies of a letter to the Minister of Transport from the three Co-Commissioners appointed for the purpose of inquiring into the safety of the introduction of bilingual IFR Air Traffic Services in the Province of Quebec, dated July 6, 1976. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-1/190D.

Mr. MacEachen, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copies of Framework Agreement for Commercial and Economic Co-Operation between Canada and the European Communities. Done at Ottawa, July 6, 1976. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-6/30.

Pursuant to Standing Order 39(4), the following Question was made an Order of the House for a Return:

No. 5,709—Mr. Marshall

1. In what locations are the stations for the Canadian Coast Guard specialized fleet?

2. What is the size of the ship's complement for the following Coast Guard vessels, the (a) ten offshore cutters (b) 33 foot hovercraft (c) six 40 foot shore-based launches (d) nine 15 foot inflatable inshore rescue boats (e) fourteen 44 foot shore-based lifeboats?

3. In what locations are the thirty-three helicopters, which respond to marine emergency calls, based?

4. What is the type and capability of each of the sixty-five vessels which perform a secondary search and rescue role and in what locations are they based?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/5,709.

Mr. Blais, Parliamentary Secretary to the President of the Privy Council, presented,—Return to the foregoing Order.

Consideration was resumed at the report stage of Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs.

Debate was resumed on the motion of Mr. Fortin, seconded by Mr. Lambert (Bellechasse),—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended by deleting Clause 3.

And on the motion of Mr. Reynolds, seconded by Mr. O'Sullivan,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended by deleting Clause 3.

After further debate, the question being put on the motions, a recorded division was deferred.

Mr. Lawrence, seconded by Mr. Reynolds, moved,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended in Clause 4 by adding immediately after line 27 at page 4 the following new subsection:

“(6) Murder is first degree murder in respect of a person when the death is caused by that person and that person has been previously convicted of either first degree murder or second degree murder.”

and by renumbering the present subsection (6) as subsection (7).

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, a recorded division was deferred.

Mr. Reynolds, seconded by Mr. Lawrence, moved,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended by deleting Clause 4.

PRAYERS

Mr. Robinson, from the Standing Committee on Health, Welfare and Social Affairs, presented the Fifteenth Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

In accordance with its Order of Reference of Friday, December 6, 1974, your Committee has considered the matter of child abuse and neglect.

COMMITTEE HEARINGS

Terms of Reference

On December 6, 1974, Mr. J. Robert Howie (York-Sunbury) moved in the House of Commons:

"That, in the opinion of this House, the government should direct the Standing Committee on Health, Welfare and Social Affairs to study and report back to the House its recommendations in respect to appropriate measures for the prevention, identification and treatment of child abuse and neglect, and for such other ancillary measures in the same matter as the Committee may consider desirable."

The motion was supported by all parties in the House.

Committee Hearings

The Standing Committee on Health, Welfare and Social Affairs opened hearings on this subject on December 16, 1975 with presentations by The Honourable Marc Lalonde, Minister of National Health and Welfare and The Honourable Warren Allmand, the Solicitor General, and their respective officials. Presentations were received from those listed below and hearings concluded on February 24, 1976.

Excerpts from Proceedings

Appendices consisting of selected excerpts from briefs, evidence or other material tabled with the Committee and excerpts from provincial statutes will be printed with the Report of the Committee in Issue No. 65 of the Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence of the Committee and in a special edition of the Report of the Committee. These excerpts are by topic and for the reference of the reader. Those wishing to obtain the full details of the presentation should, of course, consult the Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence of the Standing Committee on Health, Welfare and Social Affairs for the dates on which witnesses appeared before the Committee. ## INTRODUCTION

The Committee took evidence from the witnesses listed above in the course of eight sittings and received briefs and letters from other organizations and individuals.

We are indebted to all those who took part in the proceedings and to those who contributed in various other ways to our understanding of the problem and the issues. We were impressed with the general concern expressed by all those with whom we came in contact, and their sincere desire to protect our country's children.

In formulating recommendations, we have attempted to set the problem in the context of our country's social, economic and legal framework.

Because we are conscious of the fact that critical services for neglected and abused children are in the provincial domain, we have concentrated on those aspects which would, in our opinion, assist in a better understanding of the general nature of the problem and have attempted to confine deliberations to those aspects where federal action might be involved.

We regret that there was not time to receive evidence from all persons and groups who might have wished to appear. We believe, however, that the briefs and material presented represent existing points of view on this subject.

In preparing our comments and recommendations, we have borne in mind the following:

- that there is no one cause of child neglect or abuse;
- that physical abuse is the extreme end of the continuum of child neglect and that there is no firm dividing line between neglect and abuse;
- that the detection of neglect and abuse and services to neglected and abused children are a provincial responsibility and governed by provincial law;
- that the federal government has a role in respect of child neglect and abuse which is reflected in the Criminal Code, cost-sharing arrangements with the provinces and territories for certain health and welfare services, grants for research and demonstration projects and consultative and other services to the provinces and territories.

The terms of reference of the Committee went beyond the physical abuse of children or what is known as "child battering" to all phases of neglect.

Your Committee therefore examined the definitions of a child considered to be in need of protection under provincial legislation, and those presented by a number of witnesses. (See Appendix B). These definitions cover a wide range of situations where protection is needed. At the one extreme, there is the situation where no physical or mental abuse is involved but where action is required because there is no person to care for the child when the parents are dead. At the other extreme is the situation where physical abuse results in permanent injury, or even death.

There is thus a continuum which at one end involves no wilful or deliberate neglect to the extreme where there is deliberate maltreatment of the child, with no firm dividing line between the various gradations on the continuum.

However, in terms of much of the evidence we have heard and the recommendations made to us particularly in respect of the Criminal Code, the focus has been on the "battered" or physically abused child. This is the child upon which the media reports; it is the child the hospital authorities see; and in extreme cases it is the child the coroner sees; and it is the offence for which the parent or person standing in the place of a parent can face a serious criminal charge.

The Committee, on the evidence before it, has concluded that this extreme form of neglect represents a serious problem. It is, nonetheless, a small proportion of children who are neglected in varying degrees and for various reasons.—(According to evidence presented, the battered child represented 2 per cent of referrals to children's aid societies in Ontario in 1974. Other evidence indicates that this group is a very small proportion of the total group of neglected children. (See Appendix A))

There was, however, a general acknowledgement that while the battered child is the highly visible result of a particular kind of abuse, there are many other forms of neglect. A number of witnesses expressed the hope that the Committee would not view the problem in a narrow sense but would examine the whole problem of child neglect in the context of today's society and cultural pattern.

In view of the terms of reference and the representations made, the Committee has attempted to look at the problem in its broader aspects and to formulate recommendations in these terms.

PART I—FEDERAL AND PROVINCIAL RESPONSIBILITIES IN RESPECT OF CHILDREN

GENERAL

The constitutional responsibility for legislation affecting children is divided between the federal and provincial governments.

Federal responsibility and concern for the social and economic environment of families and their children have been expressed both directly and indirectly through a variety of social security measures which are national or near national in scope such as family allowances, unemployment insurance, survivors' benefits, veterans' benefits including orphans' benefits, services to the native people, and through cost-shared programs with the provinces in the areas of health and welfare services.

The federal and provincial roles in respect of legislation and the provision of services for neglected and abused children are outlined below.

JURISDICTION WITH RESPECT TO NEGLECTED AND ABUSED CHILDREN

(1) Legislation

The provinces legislate in the field of property and civil rights and the federal government in the field of the criminal law.

Under these constitutional divisions, the provinces have enacted legislation for the protection of children under which provision is made for the intervention of the public authority when a child under a specified age (16, 17 or 18 years, depending on the province) appears to be neglected or in need of protection according to criteria set out in the legislation (See Appendix B). The court may under child welfare legislation order protective supervision for the child or removal of the child from his parent or guardian. Under this legislation also, most provinces have included mandatory reporting requirements.

The federal government under its constitutional powers has enacted the Criminal Code, which contains certain provisions affecting abused or neglected children (See Appendix A). These include sections 26 and 43 respecting the use of force as a method of discipline; penalties for sexual offences against female children (Sections 146 and 166); penalties for every person who endangers the morals of a child or renders the home an unfit place for the child (Section 168); the duty of a parent or guardian to provide the necessities of life and penalties for failure to do so (Section 197); and penalties for abandoning or exposing a child under 10 years so that its life is endangered, or likely to be endangered, or health is injured, or likely to be permanently injured (Section 200). Penalties for such offences as homicide, assault, and other offences apply irrespective of the age of the victim.

The criminal law thus provides a form of reinforcement to provincial law in cases of child abuse or neglect where there is sufficient evidence to justify the laying of a criminal charge in addition to any protective action taken on behalf of the child under provincial law.

(2) Services for Neglected and Abused Children

Under the constitutional responsibility for property and civil rights assigned to the provinces, direct services for neglected and abused children are administered by provincial authorities. These services include all those activities involved from the time a case of neglect or abuse is reported until there is a resolution of the situation; this may involve a court hearing and a decision by the court which may further involve the Child Welfare authority either through protective supervision of the home or through substitute care for the child in a foster home or other facility. The Child Welfare authority and other existing community services (day care, homemaker service, medical and hospital services, school services, police, etc.) may be directly involved in detection, treatment and providing of services and in collaborative efforts on behalf of the child and his family.

The Federal Contribution. The federal government presently contributes to the costs of services to neglected and abused children and to preventive services under cost-sharing arrangements with the provinces under the Canada Assistance Plan, the Hospital Insurance and Diagnostic Services Act, and the Medical Care Act. In addition, grants for research and demonstration projects are available for both health and welfare projects. The Department of National Health and Welfare in administering this legislation also provides consultative services to the provinces and acts, in a limited way, in an information disseminating capacity.

PART II—FINDINGS

(Based on Evidence Presented)

1. That there is no accurate figure on the incidence of child abuse because of variations in definitions and in reporting systems. Approximately 1,100 cases were reported by the provincial Child Welfare authorities in 1973. Other authorities place the estimates much higher because of deficiencies in reporting.

2. That the incidence of "child battering" is relatively low in the context of the total neglect picture.

Such cases cause much distress and concern among those who have direct contact with the child when the situation comes to official notice. The hospital, the physician or the police are frequently the first contact with the battered child.

3. That there appears to be a multiplicity of causes in child abuse and neglect. In some cases, particularly where the child is physically abused, there is mental illness, drug or alcohol abuse or other pathology. In many cases of child battering, however, this is not so.

Studies indicate that much child abuse takes place in the context of child rearing where physical punishment is said to be for the "child's own good", and the intent of the parent is stated to be correction, not injury. There is indication that this type of abuse may be more widespread than is generally thought.

4. That it is difficult to isolate the etiology of child abuse and neglect and that there is a need for research in this area.

5. That physical discipline of children is common in our society and that this is referred to in the provisions of the Criminal Code (Section 43) although provincial legislation provides sanctions against ill-treatment of children. One brief stated: "The determination of reasonable force and ill-treatment becomes blurred and hazy".

6. That the present provisions of the Canada Evidence Act under which a spouse is not a competent and compellable witness in criminal proceedings is a barrier to prosecution in child abuse cases where there is seldom any other witness.

7. That criminal proceedings, which are designed to punish the offender, can be applied only in those cases where there is sufficient evidence to justify such proceedings, and such proceedings are probably not applicable in most cases because of the rules of evidence and other requirements. Provisions now exist in the Criminal Code for proceedings if these are warranted.

8. That the Criminal Code offers little by way of preventing or treating child neglect or abuse except that a conviction for an offence under the Code may remove the parent or person standing in the place of the parent from contact with the child. All provinces and territories have legislation providing protection, treatment, and custodial services in cases of child abuse or neglect under Child Welfare legislation or other authority.

9. That provincial legislation for the protection of children provides for the investigation and intervention, including supervision in the home or apprehension, if necessary, by the Child Welfare authority when a report of abuse or neglect is received. The Child Welfare authority also provides ongoing protection and supervision of the child when the condition of the child is such that a court of competent jurisdiction declares the child a neglected child or a child in need of protection as defined in the legislation.

10. That central registries are needed at the provincial level to which all cases of abuse would be reported, and that such registries are, in fact, established in nearly all provinces, and in addition in some communities there are multi-disciplinary child abuse committees. No federal registry exists.

11. That all provincial and territorial legislation containing mandatory reporting provisions protect the informant against any action provided the report was not made with malicious intent.

12. That reporting requirements in provincial law are not generally understood, and there is an unwillingness on the part of the public to report because of reluctance to interfere in the affairs of others and a fear of legal reprisals. Some provinces have conducted very effective publicity campaigns to acquaint the public with procedures.

13. That current services available to neglected and abused children tend to concentrate on the child after the family has broken down, rather than to actively concentrate on supporting the parents to care for their children before a family crisis occurs. As a consequence, preventive health and welfare services for children in their own homes and support services for families with children have a relatively low priority in some situations.

14. That families in need of assistance to strengthen the family unit do not always have ready access to or awareness of skilled, sensitive community-based support.

15. That there appears to be a general lack of knowledge by parents of existing services for families and children, which may in part be due to the relative isolation and lack of motivation of many families.

16. That each case of neglect or abuse must be treated on the basis of individual need and the unique circumstances of the case.

17. That public demand for punishment of the parent as a result of emotional reaction to publicity about abused children may cloud both the real issues in child neglect and in the provision of services for families at risk.

18. That there have been substantial developments at the provincial level in the past five years in the administration of child welfare services to deal with the specific aspects of child abuse and neglect and that there is now sufficient knowledge to enable provincial authorities to make a significant impact in the area of prevention of child abuse and neglect, given the necessary resources.

19. That programs of public education are needed to create an awareness of individual as well as society's responsibility to children.

20. That conditions in which many families live with no near relatives or friends, with no ties to community institutions may be conducive to child neglect and abuse.

21. While child abuse was described by a leading authority as "psychodynamically related and having nothing to do with race, colour, creed..." the Committee also learned that certain ethno-cultural groups appear to have little or no incidence of physical abuse of their children and that this was considered by some to be attributable to the support offered by the extended family in the ethno-cultural community.

22. That in addition to community programs and services for children and families an essential ingredient is a caring attitude and philosophy on the part of every citizen.

PART III—COMMITTEE COMMENTS ON MAJOR ISSUES

Your Committee, in formulating the findings, identified a number of major issues on which varying viewpoints were expressed. Not one of these issues is easily or simply disposed of. Because of the complexities involved and because of the consequences of some of the proposed changes, the following section elaborates on the Committee's deliberations and conclusions.

This section includes the following: Mandatory Reporting (provincial requirements, question of the inclusion of reporting requirements in the Criminal Code); Central Registries (provincial registries, a federal registry); An Amendment to the Criminal Code Making Cruelty to Children an Offence; the Deletion of Section 43 from the Criminal Code; and Preventive Services.

1. MANDATORY REPORTING

Provincial Requirements

Eight provinces and the Yukon now have mandatory reporting requirements. In all of these jurisdictions "any" or "every" person having information of the need for protection of a child is required to report the information to the child welfare authority. Reporting may also be made to other authorities; in Newfoundland to a welfare officer; in Ontario to the Crown Attorney; in Saskatchewan to a peace officer, and in the Yukon to any member of the social work staff of the Department of Social Welfare.

With the exception of Saskatchewan, the legislation in these jurisdictions specifies that the reporting requirement applies whether or not the information is confidential or privileged. The legislation also provides that no action lies against the informant unless the report has been made maliciously or without reasonable and probable cause.

Alberta's requirement is typical and reads:

(Child Welfare Act)

"41—(1) Any person who has reasonable and probable ground to believe that a child has been abandoned, deserted, physically ill-treated or is in need of protection shall report the ground of such belief to the Director or to any child welfare worker of the Department.

(2) Subsection (1) applies notwithstanding that the ground for belief is information that is confidential or privileged, and no action lies against the person so reporting unless the provision of the report is done maliciously or without reasonable and probable ground for belief."

Most of the provincial sections do not specify a specific penalty although the general penalties for violation of provisions of the Act may apply. It is difficult to enforce a penalty for failure to report. It is noted also that, although Alberta's section requiring mandatory reporting includes a penalty clause for failure to report, this clause has not been proclaimed.

Reporting

Witnesses have indicated a reluctance to report cases of abuse, and have indicated also the need for education in professional schools as well as interpretation to those in the field.

It has been pointed out by witnesses that there is a lack of information about child abuse in curricula in professional schools. The Committee concurs in the recommendations of the witnesses that the professional education of the helping professions should be broadened to include this subject. However, the Committee has taken note of the efforts being made by some provinces to interpret the many aspects of the problem of child abuse to the public and of the efforts being made in some provinces and in some communities to establish multi-disciplinary teams to deal with cases of child abuse.

Question of Inclusion of Reporting Requirements in the Criminal Code

Your Committee has received representations to the effect that a mandatory reporting requirement relevant to the provinces be included in the Criminal Code and that a penalty be included for failure to report. This would require federal reporting to the appropriate provincial or territorial authority because that is the responsible authority which must follow up on reports of abuse or neglect.

The reasons advanced for a federal reporting requirement with a penalty for failure to report in the Criminal Code are that it will result in uniformity that is now lacking in provincial legislation insofar as particulars of who is required to report, to whom they report, the protection from action against them, etc. In addition, such an amendment would make the failure to report a criminal offence and hence the hope would be that more people would take this responsibility seriously. The Committee has examined these provisions in provincial and territorial legislation and finds them remarkably similar. (See Appendix B for provincial requirements).

The Committee raises the question as to whether the Parliament of Canada has the authority to legislate in the matter of failure to report cases of child abuse and neglect to the appropriate provincial authority, since this is an area which might be considered property and civil rights. Civil provisions, including penalties, are within the jurisdiction of the provinces.

With the rare exception of actual witnesses to the act of child abuse, your Committee believes the difficulties inherent in establishing guilt under a prosecution for failure to report make a penalty section under either provincial or federal legislation unworkable. Physicians might be an exception, since they may have evidence such as X rays which would cause them to believe abuse has occurred. The Committee, however, does not believe that the medical profession should be singled out as a target group in penalty provisions.

Your Committee believes that reporting is an aspect of responsible citizenship and that failure to so report is more often the result of ignorance of how to report, to whom, and with what results. The Committee therefore notes the commendable efforts made by a number of provinces to publicize the facts of child abuse and neglect through the distribution of pamphlets on child abuse and neglect and by other means of public education.

2. CENTRAL REGISTRIES

Provincial Registries

Most provinces now have a central registry in the Department of Social Services to which cases of abuse are reported.

The primary purpose of a central registry is to enable the specialized staff of the registry to ensure immediate investigation of cases of alleged abuse and adequate follow-up services. Staff also have an important role in interpreting to the public the need for reporting, and in providing support and consultative services to the investigating agency, if necessary.

Reports of abuse from the community received by the central registry are referred to the operating agency for investigation, and maintained under the surveillance and purview of the Registry.

Registries are a recent development, most having been established within the past three or four years, and some are still in the process of developing policies. The need for public education has been recognized by all provinces. In Alberta, for example, the advertising campaign which followed the opening of the registry was designed to acquaint the public with the problems of child abuse and the need to report suspected cases, and how and where to report. This "Raggedy Ann" publicity program, as it was called, was judged by provincial authorities to have been very successful. Reporting is facilitated by a 24-hour telephone service with a toll-free Zenith number for areas of the province outside of Edmonton.

A number of issues are associated with the use of central registries such as:

- at what point is a case registered, that is, when a report is received or when it has been investigated and substantiated?
- how long is a case to be retained in the registry?
- who is to have access to the registry?
- what is to be the procedure for inter-provincial transmission of information?

These issues have not been resolved in all provinces.

In general it is the practice for local agencies (children's aid societies, regional offices of the department or other authorized agency) to complete the prescribed form and forward it to the central registry within a specified time, usually 48 hours, of receipt of a complaint of child abuse, giving particulars of the case and the action taken.

In some provinces, the registration of cases is restricted to cases of physical abuse which have been investigated and substantiated. In others, they include all alleged cases, and in at least two provinces (Alberta and British Columbia) all cases of neglect are included in the central registry.

Nova Scotia expunges within 30 days those cases proven false. This includes cases brought before a court and not substantiated unless an appeal is made to a higher court. Cases not proven false beyond all reasonable doubt remain on file for a five-year period. If no further reports are filed during this period, cases are expunged.

It is usual to limit access to information in a registry. In Nova Scotia, for example, information may be released upon approval of the Director of Family and Child Welfare when a professional working with children suspects abuse and knowledge of previous, suspected, or known abuse would aid in diagnosis and offer protection for the child.

It is the practice in some provinces for the local agency to forward a social history on a family suspected of child abuse to the central registry for transmission to the appropriate agency within the province or to the appropriate official in another province or Territory when the family moves and the agency has knowledge of the move.

A Federal Registry

In your Committee's view, the only potential justification for a federal registry would be to provide the provincial authorities with information which would enable them to better discharge their responsibilities in respect of the abused child in follow-up procedures and services.

Since the federal registry would consist of names submitted by the provincial registries, and since any service given or follow-up is the responsibility of provincial authorities, the advantages of a federal registry are not apparent. A concept of a federal registry with direct reporting through a direct telephone line is inappropriate as the federal government does not provide a direct service, either investigatory or follow-up.

The argument advanced for a federal registry is that it would enable a family to be identified when they move, particularly if they move out of the province or territory. Your Committee does not view this as a convincing argument. As noted above under the section on provincial registries, it is the procedure for the agency which knows the family to forward a statement of the social history and relevant facts to the provincial registry for transmission to the agency in the locality to which the family has moved. This procedure can only apply when the forwarding agency knows of the family's move in advance, or is requested to forward a social history by the authority in the new locality. A federal registry to which provincial registries forward names could be no more up to date than the provincial registries.

It has been suggested that a federal registry would help provincial authorities to check on a family when abuse occurs to see if that family had been previously known in another province. The Committee recognizes the importance of an exchange of information between the provinces and would prefer to see this further expanded at the inter-provincial level rather than at the federal level.

3. AN AMENDMENT TO THE CRIMINAL CODE MAKING CRUELTY TO CHILDREN A CRIMINAL OFFENCE

Your Committee notes that there is now provision in the Criminal Code which would enable prosecution of a parent or other persons against whom there is sufficient evidence to proceed under the provisions relating to homicide, assault, the endangering of the morals of a child, rendering the home an unfit place for the child, the failure to provide the necessities of life, and abandoning or exposing a child under the age of ten years.

Penalties for the neglect or abuse of children are included in provincial and territorial legislation. Quebec's legislation covers situations not covered by the Criminal Code:

"Whosoever wilfully and without valid excuse exposed a child to a serious moral or physical danger or, being responsible for such child, neglects to protect him from such danger in a manner and in circumstances not covered by the Criminal Code, is liable, on summary proceeding,...

(Youth Protection Act, Section 39(2)).

Although not explicitly stated, it is probable that this is also the relationship of other provincial legislation to the Criminal Code, since the provinces cannot legislate in the area of criminal law.

The Committee is aware of the difficulties in proving under provincial law that a child is in need of protection. These difficulties were well outlined in a brief presented to the Committee. The same brief further stated:

"Unless laws are accompanied by provision for preventive and rehabilitative services that the community will pay for and support, all society is doing is to jail the parents. That is not likely to contribute much to human happiness or to the protection of defenceless children".

The excellent pamphlet, "Child Abuse", published by the Manitoba Department of Health and Social Development states as follows:

"Why treatment is preferred to intervention of criminal law?

"Treatment preserves and enhances the natural rearing milieu for the child.

"Treatment is the most constructive and humanitarian effort made equally on behalf of the abuser caught in the web of tragic forces over which he or she may not have much control.

"In the sphere of irrational forces, the intervention of the criminal law process with its determination of guilt and subsequent imposition of punishment, no doubt, is of little value. Prosecution and jailing will not make better parents nor solve the basic problems which caused abuse. However, in hopeless cases, it becomes the last hope left and in cases resulting in the death of a child, the only possible intervention under the circumstances."

Your Committee is pleased to note the reference in the Brief of the Department of Justice to the effect that the question of the necessity and/or desirability of introducing a "cruelty to children" offence in the Criminal Code is under study by that Department.

4. THE DELETION OF SECTION 43 FROM THE CRIMINAL CODE

Section 43 of the Criminal Code was discussed by several witnesses in the context of child rearing, corporal punishment in the schools, and as a reflection of cultural values. The Committee is aware that some provincial legislation specifically forbids physical punishment of children.

It is felt by many who have experience with the care of children in groups and with the education and training of staff who provide group care, that the elimination of physical punishment encourages staff to develop more creative programs and more sensitive ways of encouraging positive acceptable behaviour in children. The result is an improvement in the relations between staff and child.

The Committee considers that the relationship between parent and child needs to be considered separately from the relationship between a child and a teacher, nurse, child care worker or other person standing in the place of the parent.

The Committee recommends further consideration of Section 43.

Section 43 reads as follows:

Every schoolteacher, parent or person standing in the place of a parent is justified in using force by way of correction toward a pupil or child, as the case may be, who is under his care, if the force does not exceed what is reasonable under the circumstances. 1953-54, c. 51, s. 43.

The Committee noted the evidence given by one witness who stated that "...use of physical punishment in very young children has to be regarded as a serious cause of child abuse and one needs to think about what society might do in order to provide sanctions against the use of physical punishment in relation to very young children".

However, because some Committee members were concerned that repeal of Section 43 (as recommended to the Committee in certain briefs) might deprive parents and teachers of needed protection against unfounded complaints, the Committee is not prepared to recommend the repeal of Section 43 without further study.

The Committee suggests that alternatives to physical force as a means of discipline be encouraged through studies and programmes of public education. The Committee notes the current interest in both child management courses for parents provided by adult education agencies and in courses provided by Childrens' Aid Societies for foster parents and group home parents—often at the request of the latter. The Committee would like to see increased emphasis in primary and secondary schools and in post-secondary educational institutions on courses in family relations and child care.

5. PREVENTIVE SERVICES

It became apparent in the course of our hearings that the importance of and, indeed, the necessity for preventive services must be emphasized.

Your Committee in asking the question, "If the welfare of the child is to be the criterion, what preventive services are needed?" came to several conclusions. First, family planning services are needed and then services for the child from conception onward. Certainly pre-natal services are of the utmost importance.

Among the services suggested by witnesses for the post-natal and pre-school period the Committee was impressed with the concept of the health visitor who visits every child soon after birth as a major preventive tool against child abuse and neglect.

In this connection, the Committee was especially interested in the way in which some of these centres function in other countries, notably in the Scandinavian countries and in Britain. The concept of the "health visitor" has been developed and applied successfully in these centres. We are told this system is also functioning successfully in selected areas in Colorado where Dr. Kempe has been influential in their establishment. The "health visitor" in these centres is a lay person attached to a community clinic, who visits every family where there is a newborn infant. Referrals can be made as necessary to specialists. Such centres are open 24 hours a day, and any parent who wishes it may receive service. In Sweden there is an estimated 80 per cent public voluntary usage of such centres and about 40 per cent in Britain.

The Committee was encouraged to learn that Health and Welfare ministers are interested in the concept of community health centres which offer a wide range of health services and related social services on a 24-hour basis and in whose operation the community participates. A number of these community centres (approximately 74 as of October, 1975) are now operating in Canada. Services offered vary; some centres offer such services as outreach services, family planning services, pre-natal classes, day-care services and school health programs.

Your Committee believes that health services for the infant and young child are of primary importance. Not only are services such as the health visitor a first line of defence, they are also seen as acceptable and welcomed by the public.

Health and Social Service centres are also appropriate agencies to deliver or otherwise provide for respite services for families who need them and for informal or structured programs of education or training in child care. The matter of adult education in child care can and should be shared among a number of community agencies—home-maker services, educational authorities through extension or other courses, family and children's service agencies, provincial and municipal departments of social services, and churches, self-help groups, to mention only a few.

Your Committee therefore also emphasizes the need for courses in parenting, child care, home management, and family living in primary, secondary and post-secondary schools. The media could also be much more effective in disseminating practical and high-quality information on these subjects.

As noted above, the provision of direct services is the responsibility of the provincial authorities, and the federal government is involved through cost-sharing arrangements. There would appear also to be an important role for individuals and organizations not a part of the formal social service system. The Committee is convinced that there is a role for volunteers in helping young families, especially in respite services.

Several witnesses mentioned the need for such community services as family drop-in centres where parents can share activities and mutual experiences. Another type of service mentioned by one witness concerned a service given by a church which provided facilities so that a group of young mothers could leave their children one morning a week in charge of two parents. This enabled these young mothers to have three hours free of child-care responsibilities with no cost to them. It does not depend on government action or funding. There are many similar activities carried out at the community level that testify to a willingness on the part of the community to cherish its children. Such activities and programs are badly needed in many communities and should be encouraged.

Among the issues involved in providing preventive services to children and families, the question kept arising, "What are the rights of the Child?" and "What are the rights of the parent?" It was made clear by a number of witnesses that by tradition and law the rights of the parent have always superseded those of the child unless or until the breakdown of the family necessitates the intervention of a public authority. For this reason, there is often a reluctance on the part of a citizen or even an official agency to intervene in family affairs even if there appears to be some cause for concern on the child's behalf. Established agencies do not usually take any initiative in helping and assisting parents to care for their children until the parent or child directly requests help or someone outside the family complains about the care the child is receiving and by that time it may be too late to help the family.

The Committee believes that it is possible to preserve the integrity, privacy and sanctity of the family and, at the same time, offer support services to the family in the raising of their children. Community agencies and organizations can work effectively in conjunction with the family to improve the total environment in which the parent and the child must function. Schools or other community agencies offering services designed to educate or train the child to be a responsible adult and competent parent afford many opportunities for such parent-community collaboration. The parent, the child and the community benefit.

Your Committee considered important in the prevention of child neglect and abuse such self-help groups as Parents Anonymous. These groups consist of parents who have abused or neglected their children, who have the potential for so doing, or who feel they can benefit from such an association. In banding together, they give and receive support in improving their methods of child rearing.

The Committee, in noting the lack of support services to families with children, noted also that many services become available to a child once he has been removed from his own home because of family breakdown. The Committee recognizes that there are often no alternatives to the removal of the child. If appropriate support services had been available to the family from the time of the child's birth, it is possible that the child would have remained in his own home.

Your Committee noted that expensive services are required for emotionally disturbed children, for battered children, for broken families but, unless preventive services are also provided, the cycle becomes self-perpetuating. Services which enable parents to care for their own children can often prevent the need for protection.

PART IV—RECOMMENDATIONS

The following recommendations and conclusions are based on the findings and deliberations of your Committee, from the point of view of the needs of the child.

Preventive Services

1. That there be a commitment on the part of governments at all levels to the concept of assisting families in the child-rearing process and thereby strengthening family life.

2. That governments at all levels encourage and assist the development of community resources for families with children.

3. That every child be entitled to adequate protective services in his own home and that these services include support services to parents as well as health and other community services to the child in his own right.

4. That communities consider a Block Parents program such as those which have been operating in several communities for a number of years, in which block parents offer their homes to children needing assistance in emergencies (for example, when they are lost, have been molested or followed by strangers).

5. That community health and social service centres be established to provide a range of co-ordinated services appropriate to community needs.

6. That such centres consider the feasibility of providing home visits to every new parent with such subsequent visits as are necessary with a view to giving support and assistance to the parent, to making any referral which the parent may request or which may seem desirable, and to outlining the services available to families.

7. That the federal government consider the advisability of ensuring cost-sharing with the provinces through the Canada Assistance Plan, the proposed new Social Services Act or otherwise in:

(a) respite, remedial and other support services to families and children designed to assist parents to care for their children more adequately;

(b) programs designed to involve parents and prospective parents in discussions, meetings, courses on child rearing and training; and

(c) inter-professional and inter-agency seminars and staff training projects on child abuse.

8. That the Department of National Health and Welfare consider the advisability of promoting the concept of preventive services in both the health and welfare fields as they apply to children and of extending its consultative program for this purpose. In particular, the Department should encourage the development of preventive health and social services through integrated community health and social service centres.

Research

9. That the Department of National Health and Welfare consider the advisability of ensuring that funds are available for suitable research and demonstration projects in the health and welfare aspects of child abuse and neglect, and that it consider the advisability of encouraging research and demonstration in these areas.

In particular, that the government consider the advisability of encouraging research

(a) in all aspects of child abuse and neglect, including the interaction of the personality of the parents, the characteristics of the child, and environmental stresses; in the area of early identification of high-risk children; and on the positive effect of ethno-cultural differences and patterns on the etiology of child abuse and neglect; and

(b) in the periodic follow-up, evaluation and cost-effectiveness of the program of preventive services.

Statistics and Information

10. That the Department of National Health and Welfare consider the advisability of:

(a) encouraging and giving assistance to the provinces in the establishment of a common data base on all substantiated cases of child abuse for the purpose of facitating exchange of information between provinces when persons active with the registry move from one province to another;

(b) promoting information exchange by convening meetings on the subject of child abuse registries with appropriate provincial officials; and

(c) providing a resource service to the provinces on developments in legislation, programs and services in child and family services, including services for the prevention of abuse and neglect and for abused and neglected children.

The Canada Evidence Act and The Criminal Code

11. (1) That it would be desirable to amend the Canada Evidence Act to permit a spouse to give evidence in criminal cases in accordance with the recent recommendations of the Law Reform Commission. Such an amendment would affect criminal cases involving child abuse.

(2) That mandatory reporting requirements exist in provincial and territorial legislation, and that the inclusion of such a provision in the Criminal Code is not therefore recommended.

12. That central registries be established at provincial levels. Under these circumstances, there is no need for a federal registry.

Public and Professional Education

13. That the government consider the advisability of extending public education through media such as the CBC—Radio Canada, National Film Board and such programs as Challenge for Change by including programs on child rearing, child care, family living and child abuse.

14. That appropriate professional schools broaden their curricula to include material on the etiology of child abuse and neglect.

15. That training in child care should begin in primary schools with further courses in secondary and post secondary schools.

PRAYERS

Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs, was again considered at the report stage.

Whereupon, the House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Reynolds, seconded by Mr. Lawrence,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended by deleting Clause 4.

And debate continuing;

Pursuant to Standing Order 43, on motion of Mr. Cossitt, seconded by Mr. Baker (Grenville-Carleton), it was resolved,—That this House extends its congratulations and best wishes to the Mayor, the members of the Municipal Council and to all the people of the Municipality of Smiths Falls in the Province of Ontario on the occasion of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the establishment of this leading community in Eastern Ontario.

Mr. Jamieson, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copies of Report of the Textile and Clothing Board, dated May 12, 1976, respecting textured polyester filament yarns. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-4/33A.

Mr. MacDonald (Egmont), seconded by Miss MacDonald (Kingston and the Islands), by leave of the House, introduced Bill C-442, An Act to amend the Criminal Code (day-fines), which was read the first time and ordered to be printed and ordered for a second reading at the next sitting of the House.

Pursuant to Standing Order 39(4), the following two Questions were made Orders of the House for Returns:

No. 3,338—Mr. Cossitt

From April 20, 1968, what is a complete description, with details, of all business dealings of any kind whatsoever between the government and Olympia and York Development Company or any subsidiaries thereto and/or Albert Reichmann or Paul Reichmann?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/3,338.

No. 5,808—Mr. Lambert (Bellechasse)

1. During the 1974-75 and 1975-76 fiscal years, has the Canadian Dairy Commission rented premises to store butter, cheese and milk powder and, if so, what (a) were the names and addresses of the persons and companies who rented the various premises to the Commission (b) was the total rent paid (c) were the renting conditions?

2. In each case, did the lease provide that the cost be (a) a set price (b) proportional to the quantity of dairy products stored and, if so, what was the storage cost of a (i) pound of butter (ii) pound of cheese (iii) hundred pounds of powdered milk?

3. As of March 31, 1976, how many pounds of (a) butter (b) cheese (c) powdered milk were stored?

4. Is the stored cheese imported and, if so (a) what kind (b) from what countries does it come?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/5,808.

Mr. Blais, Parliamentary Secretary to the President of the Privy Council, presented,—Returns to the foregoing Orders.

Consideration was resumed at the report stage of Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs.

Debate was resumed on the motion of Mr. Reynolds, seconded by Mr. Lawrence,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended by deleting Clause 4.

And further debate, the question being put on the motion, a recorded division was deferred.

Mr. Fortin, seconded by Mr. Lambert (Bellechasse), moved,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended by deleting Clause 7.

Mr. Fortin, seconded by Mr. Lambert (Bellechasse), moved,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended by deleting Clause 8.

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motions, a recorded division was deferred.

Mr. Fortin, seconded by Mr. Lambert (Bellechasse), moved,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended by deleting Clause 10.

And the question being put on the motion, a recorded division was deferred.

By unanimous consent, Mr. Stevens, seconded by Mr. O'Sullivan, moved,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended in Clause 21 by striking out line 20 at page 12 and substituting the following therefor:

“under the Penitentiary Act, and no absence with escort may for humanitarian and rehabilitation reasons be authorized under the Penitentiary Act without the approval of the National Parole Board and no day”.

Mr. Fortin, seconded by Mr. Lambert (Bellechasse), moved,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended in Clause 21 by

(a) striking out lines 22 to 43 at page 8 and substituting the following therefor:

“669. The sentence to be pronounced against a person

(a) whose sentence of death is commuted to imprisonment for life or who is to be sentenced to imprisonment for life for an offence under subsection 214(3) or paragraphs 214(5)(b) or (c) shall be that he be sentenced to imprisonment for life without eligibility for parole until he has served twenty-five years of his sentence;

(b) who is to be sentenced to imprisonment for life for second degree murder, shall be that he be sentenced to imprisonment for life without eligibility for parole until he has served at least ten years of his sentence or such greater number of years, not being more than twenty-five years, as has been substituted therefor pursuant to section 671; and

(c) who is to be sentenced to imprisonment for life for any other offence, shall be that he be sentenced to imprisonment for life with normal eligibility for parole.”;

(b) striking out lines 35 to 44 at page 9 and substituting the following therefor:

“672. (1) Where a person has served at least fifteen years of his sentence, where he has been sentenced to imprisonment for life without eligibility for parole until he has served more than fifteen years of his sentence,”.

And debate arising thereon;

At 9.30 o'clock p.m., pursuant to Order made Monday, July 5, 1976, Mr. Speaker interrupted the proceedings;

And the House having proceeded to the deferred division on the motion of Mr. Halliday, seconded by Mr. O'Sullivan,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended in Clause 2 by striking out lines 37 to 45 at page 2 and lines 1 to 17 at page 3 and substituting the following therefor:

“shall be sentenced to imprisonment for life or, if the convicted person so chooses, shall be sentenced to death.”.

And on the motion of Mr. Halliday, seconded by Mr. O'Sullivan,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended in Clause 3 by striking out lines 23 to 24 at page 3 and substituting the following therefor:

“able offence and shall be sentenced to imprisonment for life, or if the convicted person so chooses, shall be sentenced to death.”.

And on the motion of Mr. Halliday, seconded by Mr. O'Sullivan,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended in Clause 5 by striking out lines 34 to 38 at page 4 and substituting the following therefor:

"guilty of an indictable offence and shall,

(a) for a first offence, be sentenced to imprisonment for life, and

(b) for a second offence, be sentenced to imprisonment for life or, if the convicted person so chooses, be sentenced to death."

And the question being put on the motions, it was negatived on the following division:

And the House having proceeded to the deferred division on the motion of Mr. Fortin, seconded by Mr. Lambert (Bellechasse),—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended by deleting Clause 10.

And the question being put on the motion, it was negatived, on division.

By unanimous consent, Mr. Fortin, seconded by Mr. Dionne (Kamouraska), moved,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended by deleting Clause 12.

And the question being put on the motion, it was negatived, on division.

By unanimous consent, Mr. Lawrence, seconded by Mr. Lambert (Edmonton West), moved,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended by deleting Clause 12.

And the question being put on the motion, it was negatived, on division.

A Message was received from the Senate informing this House that the Senate had passed Bill C-88, An Act to amend the Canadian Wheat Board Act (No. 2), without amendment.

2. What are the comparable figures for the West Coast?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/5,690.

Mr. Blais, Parliamentary Secretary to the President of the Privy Council, presented,—Returns to the foregoing Orders.

Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, as reported (with amendments) from the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs, was again considered at the report stage.

Mr. Speaker ruled that motions numbered 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 38, 40, 41, 43 and 44 are now procedurally unacceptable.

Whereupon, the House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Stevens, seconded by Mr. O'Sullivan,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended in Clause 21 by striking out line 20 at page 12 and substituting the following therefor:

"under the Penitentiary Act, and no absence with escort may for humanitarian and rehabilitation reasons be authorized under the Penitentiary Act without the approval of the National Parole Board and no day".

And on the motion of Mr. Fortin, seconded by Mr. Lambert (Bellechasse),—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended in Clause 21 by

(a) striking out lines 22 to 43 at page 8 and substituting the following therefor:

"669. The sentence to be pronounced against a person

(a) whose sentence of death is commuted to imprisonment for life or who is to be sentenced to imprisonment for life for an offence under subsection 214(3) or paragraphs 214(5)(b) or (c) shall be that he be sentenced to imprisonment for life without eligibility for parole until he has served twenty-five years of his sentence;

(b) who is to be sentenced to imprisonment for life for second degree murder, shall be that he be sentenced to imprisonment for life without eligibility for parole until he has served at least ten years of his sentence or such greater number of years, not being more than twenty-five years, as has been substituted therefor pursuant to section 671; and

(c) who is to be sentenced to imprisonment for life for any other offence, shall be that he be sentenced to imprisonment for life with normal eligibility for parole.";

(b) striking out lines 35 to 44 at page 9 and substituting the following therefor:

"672. (1) Where a person has served at least fifteen years of his sentence, where he has been sentenced to imprisonment for life without eligibility for parole until he has served more than fifteen years of his sentence,".

Mr. Halliday proposed to move in amendment thereto,—That Motion numbered 37 be amended by striking out paragraph (a) thereof and substituting the following therefor:

"(a) by striking out lines 22 to 31 at page 8 and substituting the following therefor:

"669. The sentence to be pronounced against a person who is to be sentenced to imprisonment for life shall be,

(a) in respect of a person who has been convicted of high treason or first degree murder, that he be sentenced to imprisonment for his natural life without eligibility for parole,

(a.1) in respect of a person who has been convicted of second degree murder and who has been previously convicted of either first degree murder or second degree murder, that he be sentenced to imprisonment for his natural life without eligibility for parole,".

Mr. Speaker ruled the proposed amendment out of order because it introduced a new proposition to the motion.

Debate was resumed on the motion of Mr. Stevens, seconded by Mr. O'Sullivan,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended in Clause 21 by striking out line 20 at page 12 and substituting the following therefor:

"under the Penitentiary Act, and no absence with escort may for humanitarian and rehabilitation reasons be authorized under the Penitentiary Act without the approval of the National Parole Board and no day".

By unanimous consent, the motion was allowed to stand until later this day.

Debate was resumed on the motion of Mr. Fortin, seconded by Mr. Lambert (Bellechasse),—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended in Clause 21 by

(a) striking out lines 22 to 43 at page 8 and substituting the following therefor:

"669. The sentence to be pronounced against a person

(a) whose sentence of death is commuted to imprisonment for life or who is to be sentenced to imprisonment for life for an offence under subsection 214(3) or paragraphs 214(5)(b) or (c) shall be that he be sentenced to imprisonment for life without eligibility for parole until he has served twenty-five years of his sentence;

(b) who is to be sentenced to imprisonment for life for second degree murder, shall be that he be sentenced to imprisonment for life without eligibility for parole until he has served at least ten years of his sentence or such greater number of years, not being more than twenty-five years, as has been substituted therefor pursuant to section 671; and

(c) who is to be sentenced to imprisonment for life for any other offence, shall be that he be sentenced to imprisonment for life with normal eligibility for parole.";

(b) striking out lines 35 to 44 at page 9 and substituting the following therefor:

"672. (1) Where a person has served at least fifteen years of his sentence, where he has been sentenced to imprisonment for life without eligibility for parole until he has served more than fifteen years of his sentence,".

And the question being put on the motion, it was negatived, on division.

Mr. Lawrence, seconded by Mr. Reynolds, moved,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended in Clause 25 by striking out lines 38 and 39 at page 12 and substituting the following therefor:

“25. (1) This Act shall come into force on the 1st day of July, 1978, and if, on that day any person is under a sentence of death”.

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, it was negatived, on division.

Mr. Stevens, seconded by Mr. Lawrence, moved,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended in Clause 28 by adding immediately after line 7 at page 15, the following new subsection:

“(3) Where, at any time after December 31, 1977, a motion for the consideration of the House of Commons, signed by not less than 50 members of the House, is filed with the Speaker to the effect that section 218 of the Criminal Code, as enacted by section 5, be amended, so as to reintroduce capital punishment

(a) for the murder of police officers and prison employees,

(b) for first degree murder,

(c) for any form of first degree murder, or

(d) for treason,

for any period, fixed or indeterminate, commencing after the motion is adopted, the House of Commons shall, within the first fifteen days next after the motion is filed that the House is sitting, in accordance with the rules of the House, take up and consider the motion, and if the motion, with or without amendments, is approved by the House, the Minister of Justice or Solicitor General shall take such steps as are necessary in order that a measure in their name giving effect to the motion may be placed before the House without delay.”

After debate thereon, the question being put on the motion, it was negatived, on division.

Mr. Reynolds, seconded by Mr. Paproski, moved,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended in Clause 30 by deleting lines 11 and 12 at page 15 and substituting the following therefor:

“30. This Act shall come into force on the 1st day of January, 1978.”.

And the question being put on the motion, it was negatived, on division.

Debate was resumed on the motion of Mr. Stevens, seconded by Mr. O'Sullivan,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be amended in Clause 21 by striking out line 20 at page 12 and substituting the following therefor:

“under the Penitentiary Act, and no absence with escort may for humanitarian and rehabilitation reasons be authorized under the Penitentiary Act without the approval of the National Parole Board and no day”.

And the question being put on the motion, it was agreed to.

On the motion of Mr. Allmand, seconded by Mr. Sharp, the Bill, as amended, was concurred in at the report stage.

By unanimous consent, Mr. Allmand, seconded by Mr. Sharp, moved,—That the Bill be now read a third time and do pass.

And debate arising thereon;

By unanimous consent, the House reverted to “Motions”.

By unanimous consent, on motion of Mr. Sharp, seconded by Mr. Allmand, it was ordered,—That the House shall sit from 11.00 a.m. to 1.00 p.m. on Monday, July 12, 1976 for the purpose of considering Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences;

That, if the debate on all stages of Bill C-84 is concluded not later than Tuesday, July 13, 1976, any division or divisions required to dispose of the third reading and passage stage of the said Bill shall be taken on Wednesday, July 14, 1976, immediately following proceedings pursuant to Standing Order 15(1);

That, immediately following the disposal of the third reading and passage stage of the said Bill, the House shall adjourn and shall stand adjourned until a time to be fixed by Mr. Speaker, after consultation with the Government, when the House may meet for the purpose of dealing with any subsequent proceeding or the giving of Royal Assent to any bill or bills that have been passed by the House at the time of the said adjournment;

That, after the giving of Royal Assent to the said bill or bills or in the event the House does not meet for that purpose, the House shall be adjourned or stand adjourned, as the case may be, until October 12, 1976, provided that at any time prior to that date if it appears to the satisfaction of Mr. Speaker, after consultation with the Government, that the public interest requires that the House should meet at an earlier time during the adjournment, Mr. Speaker may give notice that he is so satisfied, and thereupon the House shall meet at the time stated in such notice, and shall transact its business as if it had been duly adjourned to that time;

And that, in the event of Mr. Speaker's being unable to act owing to illness or other cause, the Deputy Speaker or the Deputy Chairman of Committees shall act in his stead for the purpose of reconvening the House.

Debate was resumed on the motion of Mr. Allmand, seconded by Mr. Sharp,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be now read a third time and do pass.

After further debate, on motion of Mr. Sharp, seconded by Mr. Drury, the debate was adjourned.

JOURNALS

OF THE

HOUSE OF COMMONS

OF CANADA

OTTAWA, MONDAY, JULY 12, 1976

11.00 o'clock a.m.

PRAYERS

The House resumed the adjourned debate on the motion of Mr. Allmand, seconded by Mr. Sharp,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be now read a third time and do pass.

And debate continuing;

Mr. Condon, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Norfolk-Haldimand), moved in amendment thereto,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be not now read a third time but that it be read a third time this day three months hence.

And debate arising thereon;

Pursuant to Standing Order 43, on motion of Mr. Brisco, seconded by Mr. Johnston, it was resolved,—That the House of Commons, representing all Canadians, extends congratulations and best wishes to the Mayor and Municipal Council, and to all the people of Trail, British Columbia, on the occasion of the 75th anniversary of the incorporation of this industrial and industrious community in south central British Columbia.

Mr. Speaker presented the First Report of the Special Committee on Rights and Immunities of Members, which is as follows:

In accordance with its Order of Reference of Thursday, February 19, 1976, your Committee has, in a preliminary manner, reviewed the rights and immunities of Members of the House of Commons and examined the procedures by which such matters are dealt with by the House. The Committee has not yet reached the point in its deliberations where it is ready to submit firm recommendations to the House, although sufficient ground has been covered to enable the Committee to report progress.

Your Committee held four meetings during which it studied various aspects of parliamentary privilege. The Committee was assisted at these meetings by Mr. Alistair Fraser, Clerk of the House; Mr. Philip Laundry, Director of the Research Branch of the Library of Parliament; and Mr. Norman B. Willans, a legal research officer of the Library of Parliament. On the Committee's instructions Mr. Willans prepared background material summarizing cases involving breach of privilege and contempt in the Canadian House of Commons, the British House of Commons, and the Australian House of Representatives. One of the papers prepared dealt with questions of privilege raised in the Canadian House of Commons but not referred to the Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections. These summaries, wherein are to be found various precedents relating to breach of privilege and contempt, are appended to this report.

MATTERS EXAMINED BY THE COMMITTEE

The purpose of parliamentary privilege is to allow Members of the House of Commons to carry out their duties as representatives of the electorate without undue interference. Privilege in the traditional parliamentary sense does not refer to personal benefits enjoyed by Members. It is defined by Erskine May as

"the sum of the peculiar rights enjoyed by each House collectively as a constituent part of the High Court of Parliament, and by members of each House individually, without which they could not discharge their functions, and which exceed those possessed by other bodies or individuals." (Erskine May's Treatise on the Law, Privileges, Proceedings and Usage of Parliament, London, Butterworth, 1971, p. 64.)

The term privilege is likely to give rise to misconception on the part of the public, which is why the expression "rights and immunities" is to be preferred.

The rights and immunities of Members of the House of Commons are not frequently violated and it has not often been necessary to invoke the penal jurisdiction of the House of Commons. The Committee is of the view that the penal sanctions of the House should be used only when other remedies are not available. A question of privilege is a serious matter, when validly raised, although frequently resorted to when no real question of privilege is actually involved. Another mechanism might be devised to enable Members to challenge reports or correct statements.

A Member is in Parliament to carry out the functions of an elected representative. If a Member becomes involved in a matter of privilege it frequently encroaches upon his parliamentary duties to an extent that he cannot be fully effective as a Member of Parliament until the case is disposed of. It is obviously desirable that cases of privilege should be dealt with as swiftly as possible so that no Member should be unduly detained from his parliamentary duties.

Your Committee has examined the Report from the Select Committee on Parliamentary Privilege which was submitted to the British House of Commons in 1967. Even though Canadian parliamentary history is unique and not altogether similar to the British experience, the work of the British Select Committee is a useful tool. The British House of Commons has shown a greater tendency than its Canadian counterpart to refer matters to its Committee of Privileges. Unfair press criticisms of Members have been referred regularly to the British Committee, whereas the Canadian House of Commons has shown itself more tolerant even in the face of exaggerated criticism. The line between fair comment and a contempt of Parliament can be very thin, and the record shows that Canadian parliamentarians have preferred to tolerate considerable latitude in press reporting rather than insist on too rigid an interpretation of parliamentary privilege. (See for example the attitude of the House to the extreme comments of a newspaper reporting on the activities of a committee investigating seal hunts. Debates of the House of Commons. Canada. June 9, 1969, p. 9855.)

MATTERS TO BE PURSUED BY THE COMMITTEE

Many rights and immunities of Members apply only when Members are physically within parliamentary precincts. The Committee will study the advisability of arriving at a precise definition of the term "parliamentary precincts".

At times parliamentary committees hold hearings outside Parliament to gather evidence which cannot otherwise be obtained. The rights and immunities of a committee sitting outside Parliament are undetermined. The Committee will study the advisability of clarifying the situation of a committee which sits outside parliamentary precincts.

Parliamentary privilege attaches to "proceedings in Parliament". The privilege exists for the protection of the freedom of speech and debate in Parliament. The 1973 judicial decision of Roman Corporation Limited and Stephen B. Roman and Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas Company Limited, The Right Honourable Pierre E. Trudeau and The Honourable John J. Greene (1973 Supreme Court Reports 820.) could be interpreted as extending "proceedings in Parliament" to statements made by Members outside the House of Commons. The Committee will study the advisability of making a clear distinction as to what constitutes a "proceeding in Parliament".

In the recent past draft reports of parliamentary committees and other confidential documentation have been leaked to the media. The 1975 confidential draft report of the Special Joint Committee on Immigration Policy appeared in newspapers and the matter was raised in the House by one of the Committees' chairmen. (Debates of the House of Commons, Canada, October 21, 1975, pp. 8395-8397, October 22, 1975, pp. 8451-8452.) In Britain the precedents relating to such matters are clear and such a revelation is considered serious. (A Member of the British Parliament, Tam Dalyell, was severely reprimanded by the Speaker in 1968 for having given confidential evidence to a journalist. British Parliamentary Debates, July 24, 1968, pp. 587-666.) Premature publication of confidential reports can hamper the investigative work of parliamentary committees. This matter will be studied by the Committee.

Since your Committee was appointed to review the rights and immunities of Members, it has concluded that the application of the sub judice convention properly falls within its terms of reference as this is a matter which directly touches the rights of Members. The convention constitutes a voluntary restraint on the part of Parliament whereby it accepts an abridgment of its right to free debate in the interests of justice and fair play. The convention has developed over the years without the benefit of precise guidelines, although important precedents have been established. The interpretation of the convention traditionally lies within the discretion of the Speaker. This is an area, however, where the Chair has need of the guidance of the House in establishing the guidelines which should be followed. In the British House of Commons the sub judice convention has been to some extent codified following two committee investigations into the matter. Your Committee therefore proposes to carry out a similar investigation with a view to recommending guidelines for the application of the sub judice convention in our own House of Commons.

Your Committee will submit recommendations after serious study if it judges that changes in the rights and immunities of Members are required. Some of the rights and immunities enjoyed by Members over the years may no longer be applicable and some may need to be redefined in modern terms.

A copy of the relevant Minutes of Proceedings (Issue No. 1) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 196 to the Journals).

Mr. Sharp, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copies of Report to the Trustees of the King George V Silver Jubilee Cancer Fund for Canada pursuant to section 4(2) of the King George V Cancer Fund Winding-up Act, chapter 78, Statutes of Canada 1974-75-76. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-7/57.

Mr. Reynolds, seconded by Mr. Huntington, by leave of the House, introduced Bill C-443, An Act to amend the Supreme Court Act, which was read the first time and ordered to be printed and ordered for a second reading at the next sitting of the House.

Mr. Buchanan, seconded by Mr. Sharp, by leave of the House, introduced Bill C-98, An Act to approve, give effect to and declare valid certain agreements between the Grand Council of the Crees (of Quebec), the Northern Quebec Inuit Association, the Government of Quebec, la Société d'Énergie de la Baie James, la Société de Développement de la Baie James, la Commission Hydro-Électrique de Québec and the Government of Canada and certain other related agreements to which the Government of Canada is a party, which was read the first time and ordered to be printed and ordered for a second reading at the next sitting of the House.

The text of the Message and Recommendation of the Governor General pursuant to Standing Order 62(2) in relation to the foregoing Bill is as follows:

His Excellency the Governor General recommends to the House of Commons the appropriation of public revenue under the circumstances, in the manner and amounts and, for the purposes set out in a measure entitled "An Act to approve, give effect to and declare valid certain agreements between the Grand Council of the Crees (of Quebec), the Northern Quebec Inuit Association, the Government of Quebec, la Société d'Énergie de la Baie James, la Société de Développement de la Baie James, la Commission Hydro-Électrique de Québec and the Government of Canada and certain other related agreements to which the Government of Canada is a party".

Pursuant to Standing Order 39(4), the following two Questions were made Orders of the House for Returns:

No. 3,121—Mr. Cossitt

1. Were any aircraft purchased by the government from the T. Eaton Co. Ltd. and, if so (a) what type (b) on what date (c) at what cost (d) for what purpose (e) on what date and by whom were negotiations commenced for such purchase (f) for what reason was such purchase not listed in the answer to Question No. 344?

2. How many times, for what occasions and on what dates was such aircraft used (a) by the Prime Minister or any member of his family (b) by any Cabinet Minister?

3. What is the identity of all those involved in using such aircraft?

4. Did the Prime Minister or any member of his family or anyone else in government fly in such aircraft prior to the government officially becoming the owner and, if so (a) on what dates (b) for what purpose (c) what is the identity of all such persons involved?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/3,121.

No. 5,095—Mr. Lambert (Bellechasse)

1. For 1974-75, what was the total value of agricultural exports, except cereals?

2. What were the products exported?

3. What was the number of pounds or tons of the products?

4. For the same period, did Canada import agricultural products and, if so (a) what were they (b) in what quantity in each case?—Sessional Paper No. 301-2/5,095.

Mr. Blais, Parliamentary Secretary to the President of the Privy Council, presented,—Returns to the foregoing Orders.

Debate was resumed on the motion of Mr. Allmand, seconded by Mr. Sharp,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be now read a third time and do pass.

And on the motion of Mr. Condon, seconded by Mr. Knowles (Norfolk-Haldimand), in amendment thereto,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be not now read a third time but that it be read a third time this day three months hence.

After further debate, the question being put on the amendment, a recorded division was deferred.

Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale), seconded by Mr. Allmand, moved,—That the House do now adjourn.

JOURNALS

OF THE

HOUSE OF COMMONS

OF CANADA

OTTAWA, TUESDAY, JULY 13, 1976

11.00 o'clock a.m.

PRAYERS

By unanimous consent, the House resumed debate on the motion of Mr. Allmand, seconded by Mr. Sharp,—That Bill C-84, An Act to amend the Criminal Code in relation to the punishment for murder and certain other serious offences, be now read a third time and do pass.

And debate continuing;

Pursuant to Standing Order 43, on motion of Mr. Nowlan, seconded by Miss MacDonald (Kingston and the Islands), it was resolved,—That the Members of the House of Commons send best wishes to Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth the Second, on Her arrival in Nova Scotia and wish Her "Bienvenue au Canada".

Mr. Blaker, from the Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, presented the Twelfth Report of the Committee, which is as follows:

In accordance with its Order of Reference of Friday, October 4, 1974, your Committee has considered the subject-matter of Section 16 of the House of Commons Act, Chapter H-9, R.S.C. 1970, dealing with the nomination of the Commissioners of Internal Economy.

Your Committee is of the opinion that the Government should consider the advisability of amending the said Section in order to make the meaning of the expression "Privy Council" more precise.

A copy of the relevant Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence (Issues Nos. 24, 32 and 48) is tabled.

(The Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence accompanying the Report recorded as Appendix No. 197 to the Journals).

Mr. Allmand, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copies of Report dated September, 1975, of the Commission of Inquiry into events at the British Columbia Penitentiary June 9 to 11, 1975. (Hon. John L. Farris, Chairman). (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-7/58.

Mrs. Campagnolo for Mr. Buchanan, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid upon the Table,—Copies of an Agreement between: The Government of Quebec and The Société d'Énergie de la Baie James and The Société de Développement de la Baie James and The Commission Hydro-Électrique de Québec (Hydro-Québec) and: The Grand Council of the Crees (of Quebec) and The James Bay Crees and The Northern Quebec Inuit Association and The Inuit of Quebec and The Inuit of Port Burwell and: The Government of Canada, dated November 11, 1975 and amendments thereto dated December 12, 1975. (English and French).—Sessional Paper No. 301-5/180C.

Mr. MacDonald (Egmont), seconded by Mr. Baker (Grenville-Carleton), by leave of the House, introduced Bill C-444, An Act to amend the Motor Vehicle Safety Act (passive restraint crash protection devices), which was read the first time and ordered to be printed and ordered for a second reading at the next sitting of the House.

Mr. Kaplan, seconded by Miss Campbell (South Western Nova), by leave of the House, introduced Bill C-445, An Act to amend the Canadian and British Insurance Companies Act, which was read the first time and ordered to be printed and ordered for a second reading at the next sitting of the House.

Pursuant to Standing Order 39(4), the following three Questions were made Orders of the House for Returns:

PRAYERS

Mr. Speaker communicated to the House the following letter:

GOVERNMENT HOUSE
OTTAWA

September 29, 1976

Sir,

I have the honour to inform you that the Right Honourable Bora Laskin, P.C., Chief Justice of Canada, in his capacity as Deputy Governor General, will proceed to the Senate Chamber at 11.00 a.m. on Tuesday, October 12, for the purpose of proroguing the First Session of the Thirtieth Parliament of Canada.

I have the honour to be, Sir, your obedient servant,

EDMOND JOLY DE LOTBINIERE

Administrative Secretary to the Governor General.

The Honourable,

The Speaker of the House of Commons.

A Message was received from the Right Honourable Bora Laskin, P.C., Chief Justice of Canada, in his capacity as Deputy to His Excellency the Governor General, desiring the immediate attendance of the House in the Senate Chamber.

Accordingly, Mr. Speaker, with the House went to the Senate Chamber where the Honourable the Deputy to His Excellency the Governor General was pleased to close the First Session of the Thirtieth Parliament with the following speech:

Honourable Members of the Senate:

Members of the House of Commons:

The First Session of the Thirtieth Parliament was opened on September 30, 1974. In the 744 days since the opening, the Senate has met 216 times and the House, 343 times. Both in terms of the amount of elapsed time and the number of sittings of each House, this has been, by far, the longest session in the history of the Parliament of Canada. In terms of public legislation, this has been our most productive session, although, if examined on a yearly basis, the pace of legislation has been at the rate that has come to be normally expected in the last two decades.

The principal direction of the legislation enacted during this session has been toward the reasonable development and the just and equitable sharing of the great riches of our land. In addition to several important fiscal measures that have been passed, Parliament has put into place a program to combat inflation so that Canadians may indeed reap the benefits of their own productivity. As part of this program the Government has imposed upon itself a policy of restraint in the growth of its own expenditures and Parliament, as part of this program, has enacted alterations to such statutes as the Medical Care Act and the Unemployment Insurance Act.

At the same time, Parliament has not been unmindful of the need for continuing growth of the economy and has amended the Export Development Act and created the Federal Business Development Bank. The orderly development of business will be assisted by the enactment of the Canada Business Corporations Act and healthy competition in the free market will be stimulated by the amendments to the Combines Investigation Act.

In both economic and social terms, housing has been of great concern during this session and you have twice amended the National Housing Act and related statutes.

Energy resources are central to the development of the nation. This has led to the enactment of the Petroleum Administration Act and to the creation of Petro Canada.

Agriculture has been of major concern to you during this session. You have enacted a measure to provide for two price wheat and you have passed the Agricultural Stabilization Act and the Western Grain Stabilization Act. You have made important amendments to the Farm Credit Act and to the Canadian Wheat Board Act as well as to several other statutes of great importance to the farmers of this country.

Several measures have been enacted to strengthen our social security system. You have improved the benefits of the Canada Pension Plan and the Old Age Security Act. Amendments to the statute law with regard to superannuation have been enacted. The services of those who fought for our country have been remembered in amendments to the laws relating to veterans' and civilians' war allowances, veterans' and returned soldiers' insurance, and to the compensation for former prisoners of war.

The institutional framework of Government has been a significant concern in this session. Parliament has enacted statutes to create the office of Secretary to the Cabinet for Federal-Provincial Relations and to amend Federal-Provincial Fiscal Arrangements. Measures have been passed to protect the representation of all provinces in the House of Commons and to improve the representation of the northern territories in Parliament. You accepted your responsibilities by dealing with the financial arrangements for representatives of the Crown, for judges and for legislators. A number of measures relating to the structure of the courts were enacted, including important amendments to the Supreme Court Act. Committees of both Houses considered and made recommendations on the subject of members of Parliament and conflicts of interest. A special joint committee of both Houses considered and made recommendations on employer-employee relations in the public service. The Standing Joint Committee on Regulations and other Statutory Instruments has not only effectively taken up its responsibilities under the Statutory Instruments Act, but also has embarked on an important study of government policy on the release of information, the conclusions of which are eagerly anticipated. Both Houses have considered procedural reform and, while progress has been made, both are to be encouraged to continue the work in future sessions.

You have made several amendments to the criminal law, including the enactment of a permanent law with regard to the punishment for murder and certain other offences.

Several of the statutes enacted have been designed to protect the equality of men and women in the letter and administration of the law.

During this session, a new Citizenship Act was passed and a measure to regulate the import and export of articles of cultural value was enacted. The Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission was created and a measure was enacted to assist the development of Canadian publications and broadcasting.

Almost all of the legislation that was forecast in the Speech from the Throne opening this session on September 30, 1974 has been enacted. This, however, constitutes merely half of the legislation that Parliament has adopted in the session. Parliament has indeed produced a remarkably great amount of legislation. Nonetheless, the demand for even more continues and Parliament has little time to spare in its effort to meet the needs of the nation.

Members of the House of Commons:

I thank you for the provisions you have made for the service of Canada during the present and the two previous fiscal years.

Honourable Members of the Senate:

Members of the House of Commons:

May Divine Providence continue to bless our country.

---

After which Her Honour the Speaker of the Senate said:

Honourable Members of the Senate:

Members of the House of Commons:

It is the will and pleasure of the Right Honourable the Deputy of His Excellency the Governor General that this Parliament be prorogued until two o'clock in the afternoon this day, Tuesday, the 12th day of October, 1976, to be here holden; and this Parliament is accordingly prorogued until two o'clock in the afternoon this day, Tuesday, the 12th day of October, 1976.

Changes in Committee Membership

Notice having been filed with the Clerk of the House pursuant to Standing Order 65(4)(b), membership of Committees was amended as follows:

Messrs. Blais and MacGuigan for Messrs. Maine and Francis on the Standing Committee on Procedure and Organization.

Mr. Lachance for Mr. Blais on the Standing Committee on Procedure and Organization.

Speaker's Rulings and Statements:Bills, Government; Royal Recommendation:*

Mr. Sharp having sought leave to introduce "An Act to amend the Senate and House of Commons Act, the Salaries Act and the Parliamentary Secretaries Act" a point of order was raised concerning the Royal Recommendation. Mr. Speaker ruled the error concerned the lower limit of Senators' expense allowances, which the bill did not seek to amend, and as the principle of the bill was not under consideration at this point, it should be introduced and read a first time so that members might study it, 212-3.

Bills, Government; Second Reading:

On a point of order raised by Mr. Lambert (Edmonton West) that Bill C-66 (Excise Tax Act amendment) was not in conformity with Ways and Means Motion, Mr. Speaker deferred his decision, 692. Mr. Speaker ruled there was a fundamental variation and that bill and Ways and Means Motion be brought into closer conformity with amendments or alterations to either, before 3 p.m. next day, 706-7. He further ruled that as agreement could not be reached concerning conformity of bill and Ways and Means Motion the offending words must be deleted and bill reprinted prior to further debate, 709-11.

Bills, Government; Second Reading Amendments:

Mr. Fraser during debate on motion for second reading of Bill C-25 (Environmental Contaminants Act), proposed amendment to defer and refer subject-matter to Fisheries and Forestry Committee to consider a more appropriate legislative mechanism. Mr. Acting Speaker ruled amendment out of order in that it contained substantive proposals beyond scope of bill, 195.

Mr. Broadbent during debate on motion for second reading of Bill C-44 (Senate and House of Commons, Salaries and Parliamentary Secretaries Acts amendment), proposed amendment to defer and refer subject-matter to independent commission. Mr. Speaker ruled amendment out of order on grounds that language was not according to practice, establishment of a non-existent commission would require additional financing and it introduced a new proposition, 232-3.

Mr. Lambert (Edmonton West) during debate on motion for second reading of Bill C-49 (Income Tax Act amendment), proposed amendment to decline second reading as bill included provisions eliminating deductibility of royalties paid to provinces, Mr. Speaker deferred his decision, 273. Mr. Speaker ruled amendment out of order in that as a declaration of principle on a second reading amendment it opposed only a portion of the provisions of the bill rather than all the principles or provisions, 275-6.

Mr. Lawrence during debate on motion for second reading of Bill C-49 (Income Tax Act amendment), proposed amendment to decline second reading because of failure to provide a 5% reduction in personal income tax. Mr. Deputy Speaker ruled amendment in order in that it opposed passage of bill and basic principle within bill, 276-7.

Mr. Broadbent during debate on motion for second reading of Bill C-49 (Income Tax Act amendment), proposed subamendment to substitute "a $400 tax credit". Mr. Acting Speaker ruled subamendment in order in that it was relevant to amendment, 286-7.

Mr. Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre) during debate on motion for second reading of Bill C-47 (Judges Act amendment), proposed amendment to decline second reading as bill failed to limit salary increases within restraint limits proposed by government. Mr. Speaker ruled amendment out of order in that it was not a declaration of principle and opposed the principle of bill only conditionally or up to a certain point, 551.

Bills, Government; Report Stage:

On a point of order raised concerning validity of certain amendments made in Standing Committee and whether House should proceed with Bill C-44 (Senate and House of Commons, Salaries and Parliamentary Secretaries Acts amendment), Mr. Speaker deferred his decision, 465. He ruled committee amendment out of order in that it was beyond scope of Royal Recommendation and ordered it struck from the bill and bill reprinted as otherwise amended by committee. He further ruled that notices of report stage motions be removed from Order Paper until reprinted bill was filed and suggested that Procedure and Organization Committee study relationship between report stage and committee stage, 467-9.

Speaker's Rulings and Statements – (Continued)Bills, Government; Report Stage Motions:*

- During debate on Bill C-14 (Federal Business Development Act), Mr. Dick proposed motion defining "business corporation". Mr. Speaker ruled motion would add new clause to definition section in turn adding new principle beyond scope of bill but motion might be put in form of substantive amendment to basic principle of bill, accordingly the motion was dropped, 154-5.
- Statement re grouping of proposed motions, 155, 618-9, 936, 1385.
- During debate on Bill C-13 (Northern Canada Power Commission Act), Mr. Neil proposed amendment to motion of Mr. Nielsen. Mr. Deputy Speaker ruled amendment out of order as it was a substantive proposition requiring notice, 429-30.
- During debate on Bill C-13 (Northern Canada Power Commission Act), Mr. Dinsdale proposed amendment to motion of Mr. Nielsen. Mr. Deputy Speaker ruled amendment out of order as it was a substantive proposition requiring notice, 430.
- During debate on Bill C-13 (Northern Canada Power Commission Act), Mr. Nielsen proposed motion adding to definition of the role of Northern Canada Power Commission. Mr. Acting Speaker ruled motion out of order in that it was beyond scope of bill, 431.
- Statement re tabling of reprinted Bill C-44 (Senate and House of Commons, Salaries and Parliamentary Secretaries Acts amendment) and filing of motions on Order Paper, 487.
- During debate on Bill C-50 (Agricultural Stabilization Act amendment), Mr. Acting Speaker ruled motions of Messrs. Horner and Towers out of order in that they were beyond scope of Royal Recommendation, 597.
- During debate on Bill C-2 (Combines Investigation Act amendment), Mr. Rodriguez proposed motion to add "parliamentary committee" to definition section. Mr. Speaker ruled that motion was substantive but because of restricted nature of the section gave member the benefit of the doubt, 618.
- During debate on Bill C-2 (Combines Investigation Act amendment), Mr. Rodriguez proposed motion amending penalty provisions. Mr. Speaker ruled that motion sought to amend Act rather than bill but noted that bill redefined offences therefore there was a connection with the penalties and member might be given benefit of the doubt, but deferred his decision, 618-20. Mr. Speaker ruled motion out of order in that it was beyond scope of clause, 773.
- During debate on Bill C-2 (Combines Investigation Act amendment), Mr. Speaker stated that he had certain reservations as to motion proposed by Mr. Stevens to refer parts of bill to Supreme Court and deferred his decision, 619. Mr. Speaker confirmed his reservations and ruled the motion out of order in that it was beyond the scope of bill, 772-3.
- During debate on Bill C-8 (Petro-Canada Act), Mr. Andre (Calgary Centre) proposed two motions re sale of common shares. Mr. Speaker ruled motions out of order in that they altered basic principle of bill, 677-8.
- During debate on Bill C-63 (Olympic (1976) Act amendment), Mr. Jelinek proposed a motion to redefine the words "due process of law" in the Canadian Bill of Rights with regards to provisions of bill. Mr. Speaker ruled motion out of order in that it was beyond scope of bill, 700-1.
- During debate on Bill C-73 (Anti-Inflation Act), Mr. Stevens proposed motion to add a new concept to Anti-Inflation Board functions. Mr. Speaker ruled motion out of order in that it was beyond scope of bill, 881.
- During debate on Bill C-69 (Unemployment Insurance Act amendment), Mr. Orlikow proposed a motion to delete a section not proposed to be deleted by the bill. Mr. Speaker deferred his decision, 935. Mr. Speaker ruled motion out of order, 943.
- During debate on Bill C-69 (Unemployment Insurance Act amendment), Mr. Rodriguez proposed two motions to increase benefits by extending period of qualification. Mr. Speaker ruled motions out of order as they were beyond scope of Royal Recommendation, 935-7.
- During debate on Bill C-52 (Statute Law (Superannuation) Amendment Act), Mr. Speaker ruled motions in name of Mr. Lambert (Bellechasse) out of order in that they sought to amend the Act rather than the bill and that they infringed upon the financial initiative of the Crown, 972.
- During debate on Bill C-61 (Maritime Code Act), Mr. Forrestall proposed a motion that sought to amend the Arctic Waters Pollution Prevention Act. Mr. Acting Speaker ruled motion out of order in that it was beyond scope of bill, 1090.
- During debate on Bill C-84 (Criminal Law Amendment Act), Mr. Speaker ruled a number of amendments to reintroduce death penalty out of order in that they opposed principle of the bill as agreed to at second reading. He further ruled that motions to delete were in order as they were covered by Standing Orders and any uncertainty in this regard might be examined by Procedure and Organization Committee, 1384-5.

During debate on Bill C-84 (Criminal Law Amendment Act), Mr. Halliday proposed an amendment to motion of Mr. Fortin. Mr. Speaker ruled amendment out of order as it was a substantive proposition requiring notice, 1418.

During debate on Bill C-84 (Criminal Law Amendment Act), Mr. Speaker ruled motions of Messrs. Fortin, Halliday and Lawrence were unacceptable as they controvened principle of bill, 1418.

Bills, Government; Ways and Means Motion Preceding:

Mr. Lambert (Edmonton West) having raised a point of order to the effect that provisions in Bill C-40 (Excise Tax and Excise Acts amendment) were not in conformity with provisions of Ways and Means Motion, Mr. Speaker deferred his decision, 188. Mr. Speaker ruled that the difference in this instance related only to degree of exclusion of tax, the tax and rate of tax remaining the same, and that bill need not be identical to Ways and Means Motion, 224-5.

Bills, Private; Report Stage:

During debate on Bill S-30 (Continental Bank of Canada Act), Mr. Lambert (Edmonton West) raised a point of order re validity of having report stage on private bills. Mr. Speaker citing S.O. 116 ruled that S.O. 75 covering report stage applies to both public and private bills, 1070.

During debate on Bill S-30 (Continental Bank of Canada Act), Mr. Reid raised a point of order that report stage motions be ruled out of order as they would alter basic principle of bill. Mr. Speaker ruled that all motions would be considered unless they were procedurally unacceptable. He further ruled that objections to the acceptability of bill should not be raised at report stage, 1086.

Bills, Public (Private Members); Introduction or First Reading:

On 11th sitting day of Session when first list of Private Members Public Bills appeared for Introduction on Order Paper, Mr. Speaker stated that all such bills would be scrutinized for defects prior to second reading because Chair was not yet in a position to review them as to their acceptability under the rules and that all bills would be deemed to have been introduced and given first reading, 59.

Mr. Leggatt having sought leave to introduce an "Act for the Parole of Dr. Henry Morgentaler", Mr. Speaker declined to accept bill as subject-matter was that of a private bill as it was not an alteration of the general law but an exception of one person from application of the law, 795-6.

Bills, Public (Private Members); Second Reading:

Order having been read for second reading of Bill C-234 (British North America Act amendment), Mr. Deputy Speaker ruled that bill required Royal Recommendation but that debate might proceed without coming to a vote, 420-1.

On a point of order raised by Miss Campbell as to acceptability of Bill C-235 (Old Age Security Act amendment), Mr. Deputy Speaker ruled bill out of order in that it was a money bill, 488.

Order having been read for second reading of Bill C-272 (Alaska and Maine Corridors Authority Act), Mr. Deputy Speaker stated that bill infringed upon financial initiative of Crown, but without setting a precedent, allowed debate to proceed, 1080-1.

Committees, Standing; Proceedings:

On a point of order raised by Mr. McGrath re parliamentary secretaries asking questions in committees, Mr. Speaker ruled procedural matters arising in a committee should be resolved in that committee as Chair does not have authority to hear appeals from decisions of committee chairmen. He further ruled that once committee proceedings are reported to the House both the Chair and the House could be seized of them, 1183-4.

Committees, Standing; Reports:

Mr. Campbell having proposed to move concurrence in second report of Transport and Communications Committee, and a point of order having been raised as to its acceptability, Mr. Speaker deferred his decision, 168. Mr. Speaker cited numerous precedents and ruled committee recommendation to hold in abeyance fees for private bill pending passage of another bill was beyond provisions of bill, therefore beyond scope of committee's Order of Reference and motion for concurrence could not be put, 179-81.

Committees, Special; Reports:

During debate on motion for concurrence in Egg Marketing (Special) Committee first report, Mr. Murta proposed amendment to defer and refer to Agriculture Committee for consideration. Mr. Deputy Speaker questioned acceptability of amendment but hesitated to invite procedural argument because of time and indicated his ruling, if made, would reject the amendment and left the matter to the House, 301-2.

Estimates:

On a point of order raised by Mr. Lambert (Edmonton West) concerning motion for concurrence in an item in supplementary estimates, Mr. Speaker ruled the motion was not one to restore an item in the estimates but a motion for concurrence made necessary by the notice of objection filed by Mr. Kempling which in itself was not a question and therefore could not be voted upon, 1144-5.

On a point of order raised by Mr. Mazankowski concerning motion for concurrence in an item in estimates to establish Loto-Canada, Mr. Speaker ruled the item need not be in form of a bill as it was money to support legislative action independent from the estimates, 1368.

Ministerial Statements:

Statement by Mr. Speaker concerning Ministerial statements under provisional Standing Order, to the effect, that they should be brief followed by brief comments or questions from Opposition spokesmen, 459.

Oral Questions:

Statement by Mr. Speaker expressing certain principles to be followed so as to improve proceedings and participation, 439-41.

Statement by Mr. Speaker acknowledging that there had been a relaxation of the rule whereby questions re the budget are not usually asked during question period if they anticipate orders of the day, but allowed questions on a restricted basis, 665.

Order Paper:

See statement under heading Questions on Notice.

Parliamentary Secretaries:

See Committees, Standing; Proceedings.

Petitions, Public:

Mr. Roberts having sought leave to have a petition re support for Israel read to the House, Mr. Speaker questioned it's content and language and deferred his decision, 187. He ruled the petition, while acceptable, could not be read as it cast a reflection and expressed an opinion upon a stand taken by the government which could only be done by elected Members of the House, 211-2.

Ruling by Mr. Speaker that petition re abortion could not be read as it was read the previous day. He further ruled that it was a matter of general concern rather than a personal grievance and that recommendations for legislation should be carried by the elected members, not outsiders, by way of petitions therefore there could be no debate, 588-9.

Private Members Motions:

Mr. Symes during debate proposed to move, that subject-matter be referred to standing committee and Mr. Acting Speaker deferred his decision, 267. Mr. Acting Speaker ruled amendment out of order as it was a new proposition requiring notice, 1278.

Speaker's Rulings and Statements – (Continued)Privilege, Question of:*

- Question of privilege raised by Mr. La Salle regarding allegations by Mr. Caouette (Temiscamingue) of members bribing Press Gallery reporters and motion referring matter to Privileges and Elections Committee. Mr. Speaker ruled matter had twice been deferred to allow Mr. Caouette to comment on motion and under the circumstances the motion should be put to the House, 228.
- Question of privilege raised by Mr. Watson re Air Canada's request that employees not communicate with Members of Parliament. Mr. Speaker ruled that the matter was a legitimate grievance of a serious nature but precedent had established that a member's privilege did not extend beyond the precincts of the House. He further ruled that this type of matter should be brought before the Minister responsible and that House might explore means of doing this not included in present procedure, 307-9.
- Question of privilege raised by Mr. Trudel re Unemployment Insurance Office refusal to provide service in both official languages. Mr. Speaker ruled that matter was a legitimate grievance of a serious nature but precedent had established that a member's privilege did not extend beyond precincts of the House. He further ruled that this type of matter should be brought before Minister responsible, 308-9.
- Question of privilege having been raised by Mr. Reid concerning attendance of members before Senate Committees, Mr. Speaker deferred his decision, 313. Mr. Speaker ruled that there was no precedent restricting members from attending Senate Committees but that the practice could lead to a breach of S.O. 35 prohibiting reflection upon a decision of the House and should not be encouraged, 321-2.
- Question of privilege raised by Mr. Stevens concerning conduct of Committee Chairman in allegedly obstructing a vote and subsequent question of privilege raised by Mr. Kaplan concerning remarks as to his conduct as Chairman. Mr. Speaker ruled matter should be resolved in committee as neither Chair nor another committee should sit in appeal of decisions taken in standing committee, 569-70.
- Question of privilege raised by Mr. Diefenbaker concerning alleged slanderous and libellous remarks of Prime Minister. Mr. Speaker defined parliamentary privilege and ruled that the complaint was not in the form of a specific charge and that the remarks in question could not be interpreted as casting aspersions, therefore, there existed a dispute as to facts which constituted a matter for debate rather than a question of privilege, 599-601.
- Question of privilege raised by Mr. Cossitt to effect, that statements made by senior government official interfered with his rights and duties as a Member of Parliament. Mr. Speaker ruled that no distinction could be made between the official's statement re conduct and performance and member's right to speak, therefore this was not a question of privilege, 645.
- Questions of privilege raised by Messrs. Reid, Stevens and Broadbent re Montreal Gazette allegations against Mr. Reid concerning budget leak; Mr. Speaker ruled that motions of Messrs. Stevens and Broadbent were not in order as a motion concerning a member's conduct must contain a specific charge. He further ruled that Mr. Reid's motion sought to examine a national newspaper in falsely accusing him of abusing his privileges as a member, therefore there was a prima facie breach of privilege, 742.
- Question of privilege having been raised by Mr. O'Connell re unauthorized publication of draft report of Immigration Policy Committee, Mr. Speaker deferred his decision, 787. Mr. Speaker ruled that the motion sought the investigation of a prima facie case of privilege without a specific accusation, and therefore there was no breach of privilege. He also stated that proceedings of the committee should be settled in the committee and not by another committee, 791-2.
- Question of privilege having been raised by Mr. Sharp that certain words spoken by Mr. Stevens in reference to cabinet ministers were unparliamentary, Mr. Speaker deferred his decision, 1133. Mr. Speaker citing precedents ruled that the word "illegal" as used in the narrow context by Mr. Stevens was unparliamentary and the statement should be withdrawn or qualified, 1135-7.
- Question of privilege raised by Mr. Yewchuk re remarks of Mrs. Holt and journalist Eric Malling. Mr. Speaker stated that questions of privilege involving committee proceedings should be resolved in committee without investigation by another committee. With respect to language used by journalists and citizens, the right to criticize should be resolved in favour of the public and the protection afforded every citizen ought to be sufficient for members. He ruled there was no obstruction of members rights and privileges therefore there was no prima facie breach of privilege, 1207-9.
- Question of privilege having been raised by Mr. Baker (Grenville-Carleton) re alleged accusation outside House that members had received bribes, Mr. Speaker ruled a prima facie case of privilege had been established, 1275.
